And by ability and experience as much as by home-town sentiment, King is favored to put a dent in Savoie's good record.

Matchmaker Deacon Allan on Thursday stopped counting the big advance sale of tickets long enough to disclose that Toronto fighters Alan McFater and Solly Cantor both have challenged the victor to do battle for the vacant Canadian title.

No Stir

But that didn't create a stir it would have a few weeks ago when King's stablemate, Williams, still held the world crown and King was fighting as an also-ran under Frank (Blinky) Palermo from Philadelphia.

Savoie, at 21, has had 52 starts and four losses with Cantor a one-time victim and McFater losing twice. Since he departed the Canadian scene two years ago, King has had 31 bouts and two losses.

His experience and the fact that he must be a hungry fighter now, Toronto backers should give him the edge.

The Savoie camp have marched their man into Toronto rings before in the rank of underdog. They ask who King has beaten of importance.

But in any case, the ground is laid for the take to exceed the Maple Leaf Gardens fight-card record of $23,000. King was in on that four years ago.

Savoie is a cool, wedge-shouldered boy who takes a punch well and hits with terrific power. King is a boxer with a fair poke and a lot of heart. And he's waited a long time.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Quite a scramble on these days by various OLA senior clubs for players. Toronto West Yorks, who play the Petes here tonight, have come out of the tangle probably better off than any—having bolstered considerably. They've been doing so well that just the other day they swapped four players for one, giving Mimico Hal Downer, Harold Venner, Frank Allwell and a junior for Jack Kapasky. Not only did the Torontos get rights on most of the disbanded Weston team, but they're after some of the defunct Owen Sounders, too. As who isn't? OLA recently told Bill Allum and Don Campbell to play for Brampton, and Harry Kazarian and Don McWhirter to join Fergus. The four all want to go with Brampton.

* * * * * * *

At the moment, the Petes appear to be the only club satisfied with its roster. They were busy before the season opened lining up a strong squad, and they're pretty well standing pat on it. But the Petes are well aware of the fact that all the other clubs are frantically building up, and that most of them will be plenty strong, too, in a short time. Fergus Thistles appear weakest at present, but are busy bolstering. St. Catharines are hard to figure just yet, but they always come up with a contender. Tonight's tilt between Toronto and the Petes here promises to be a hot one as both are potent, and it's their first meeting of the season.

But Stand Well Back

Stock car racing comes to Peterborough tomorrow eve at seven in the Exhibition Gronds. Two hours and a half of thrills and spills at a fast clip, they advertise, featuring dare-devil drivers from Indianapolis, Newark, New Jersey, Buffalo and one or two Canuck racers. They got at around 135 miles an hour on the dirt track and bump each other high, wide and handsome. This sport—if such it is—has been sweeping the east for the past few months, and the midget auto racers are packing 'em in at every centre they show. Spectators would be well advised to sit up in the concrete grandstand and give the dashers and bashers lots of elbow room. Yes, indeed

Senior baseball returns to Riverside Park on Saturday night at 8.30 under the floodlights. It's Toronto Croftons vs. the Petes in a Viaduct Major League fixture. Gunner Ed Whitehill's crew got off to a good start this semester to keep up around the top of the heap, but the going may be much tougher from here in, as the clubs add players to their rosters. Haven't heard at this writing what pitcher will get the call, but may learn later today. More work has been done on the park—the diamond has been swung around a bit—and the place is in fine shape. If the weather is okay, this game ought to draw a goodly gallery of ball fans.

Plato At The Platter

Fred Plato, Petes' lean second-sacker, who hails from Fort Erie—he's a district school teacher and played basketball here last winter—was a potent factor in the Petes' ball win last night. They doused the Staffs in Toronto 5-2, Fred hitting safely twice in four to drive in three runs, and also being pivot man with George Denofrio and Joe Stewart in a sparkling double-play. Denofrio and George Brabin were other solid belters for Ed Whitehill's undefeated top-place crew. Nobby Clarke pitched neat four-hit ball but ran into a wild streak in the fifth and gave way to Bill Edger. Latter came up with nice relief tossing. Team played errorless again to deserve the decision in a good game.

Revoy's perch atop the young schedule of the men's City Softball League after turning back Lakefield 14-4 last eve at the Bowl. They had to come from behind with timely thumping in the later stages. Don Bigford, though a bit wild, spread five hits around and had a little better backing than Heffernan. Buck Legrow hit a two-run homer. UEW pulled out an 8-5 victory o'er Orphans in a neat number with John Hinton giving but seven hits and whiffing seven. Terry Woods took over from Fraser Wade in the sixth but UE finished strong, too. Jack White hit two hard homers to total four runs for the winners. Games next Tuesday: UEW vs. Lakefield, and Orphans vs. Revoy's.

Suspend Canadian At Race Track

BUFFALO, N. Y., June 1 (AP) —Bill Harvey, Canadian harness horse driver, was under suspension today at Buffalo Raceway in connection with a report that a horse he drove to victory Saturday at Hamburg showed a positive saliva test.

Dr. J. Dwight Pierce, supervising steward representing the New York State Harness Racing Commission, said suspension action is automatic in such cases.

Pierce said the State laboratory at Jamaica reported a positive saliva test upon Czarita, which won the third race.

Horses under Harvey's supervision and training will be under suspension, Pierce said, pending a hearing by the commission. No date was set for the hearing.

Out At The Kawartha

The Business Girls' Section had a fine turnout of members on Thursday and the winner of the spoon was Doris Ackford for the low score on a hidden hole.

The low net winner in the first round for the Spring Trophy was Roma Brindle.

As all members know who have been playing recently, the mosquitoes are most annoying but we hope it won't be long until their day is done.

Local Athletes Competing At COSSA Meet

Collegiate track and field artists from Central Ontario will meet for the first time in 10 years Saturday, in Oshawa, for the COSSA track and field championships. A week ago collegiates, PCVS, St. Peter's, Oshawa and Uxbridge competed in the Lakeshore round at the Peterborough and district meet.

This year only three groups of the COSSA district will be competing. Schools from the Bay of Quinte area, Trenton, Belleville and Tweed, are expected to send competition while the Georgian Bay district will have representatives from Orillia, Barrie, Collingwood and Owen Sound.

From the Lakeshore district will be contestannts from Oshawa CVI, PCVS, St. Peter's High and Uxbridge.

The Niagara Falls district of the COSSA has been excused from competition this year but will enter directly into the all-Ontario championships on June 9 at the Ontario Athletic Commission's camp near Orillia.

During the next week Toronto district, WOSSA, EOSSA, and NOSSA districts as well as COSSA will be holding track and field competitions. Then on June 9 all the first and second place winners from each group will compete for the Ontario secondary schools championships.

More Experience

On Saturday, Oshawa CVI athletes, who showed more experience than other contestants in Peterborough on May 24, are expected to sweep the slate. B. Harris, who took the mile here but in slow time is once more likely to win the senior mile.

PCVS is relying heavily upon the efforts of Jim Galoska in the senior events. The husky athlete placed first in the discus and edged Bruce Meredith, of OCVI, in the pole vault. Besides these he had second in the high jump and shot put. Dave Fortner may not attempt the 220-yard event due to a lame leg. Other seniors from PCVS will be D. Sisson in the broad jump, and Paul Frise in the shot put.

St. Peter's high has its hopes resting with seniors Jack Richardson, Harry O'Neill, John Armstrong and John Jones. These boys placed well in the Peterborough or lakeshore meet and accounted for a number of points which placed St. Peter's on points ahead of PCVS.

The junior competition will be keenly divided between the four collegiates. From PCVS will be Bryan Young, Hugh Outram, Murray Grafstein, while from St. Peter's will be Bob Fitzgerald and Dick Foley. Uxbridge is expected to have L. Gleason and J. Blackburn back in the running.

But Oshawa dominates this group. In the 75, 100 and 220 yards events, Williams was strongest at the Peterborough meet and is expected to repeat on Saturday. Sutherland and Hart are expected to win the broad jump and hop, step and jump, respectively, also. Besides, they have a dark threat in McEachran in the mile event.

Revoy's On Top With Win Over Lakefield

Revoy Motors trimmed Lakefield 14-4 in the nightcap of last night's men's softball bill at the Bowl to gain undisputed possession of first place in the league standing with two victories and no defeats.

Ken Guilfoyle's boys had to come from behind to defeat Cam Wasson's fighting crew who enjoyed a 4-1 lead going into the bottom of the sixth by dint of good fielding and timely stick work. Revoys rallied strongly to their half of that frame, led by Buck Legrow, who homered to right scoring Mackness to start the ball, and Williams, Bigford and Shortt came through with the latter scoring after Wyatt walked and Taylor drove a hard one off Dean Wasson's leg to give Revoys a two-run advantage.

This proved sufficient as Don Bigford held complete command in a neat pitching effort. Don scattered five hits and was effective in the pinches. He fanned three and had good support afield with Bruce Taylor at short outstanding with four sparkling putouts and three assists. Two smart double - plays featured in this game both on fly balls started by Legrow and Taylor.

Orphans Beaten By UEW In Men's Loop

UEW took the opener of last night's men's senior softball double-header at the Bowl, defeating Orphans 8-5 in a hard-fought thriller.

John Hinton went the route for the Dalton gang, limiting Harold Dormer's boys to seven hits in a sound display while fanning seven.

Jack White's big bat proved a decisive factor in victory as he hit successive homers in the fifth and sixth to account for four runs and enable UEW to take the lead which they held, after an uphill battle against the slants of Fraser Wade. Woods relieved Fraser in the sixth but was unable to salvage victory despite a good effort, as Hinton and his mates were not to be denied and finished strong, too. Thompson and Robson each hit safely twice for UE, also while catcher McGrath led Orphans' attack with four safeties in five trips to the plate.

Brooklyn Scores 4-3 Win Over Philadelphia Phillies

By JACK HAND,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

The pre-season prediction of the experts that Brooklyn was the class of the National League is running true to form.

With Gil Hodges and Duke Snider booming homers, and Jackie Robinson leading the majors at .407 they figure tough to catch. The Doder pitching could be better but their mainstays still can be counted on in the pinch.

Preacher Roe (6-0) has done as expected and big Don Newcombe seems to be picking up steam.

In the only game in the majors, Brooklyn moved two full games in front of second-place St. Louis Thursday night with a 4-3 victory over Philadelphia's Phillies.

The nip-and-tuck contest was marred by a flare-up when pitcher Russ Meyer bumped Robinson in a home-plate mix-up in the eighth inning.

Robinson, caught in a rundown after Carl Furillo missed a squeeze bunt, scored when Meyer dropped the ball. Russ tried to block the plate from Robinson but Jackie got past him. Meyer then bumped the Negro star with his chest. Only quick action by his teammates prevented blows.

Challenges Robinson

Taken from the game by manager Eddie Sawyer, Meyer challenged Robinson to meet him under the stands. Jackie accepted the challenge but was stopped by Roy Campanella and other Brooks.

After the game Meyer admitted "it was my fault" and apologized to Robinson who shouldered part of the blame.

The Brooks left 15 on base but won the game on the run Robinson scored. Campanella's homer in the second gave them an early lead but Willie Jones sent the Phils to top 2-1 with a two-run homer in the third. Brooklyn tied it in the seventh when Meyer walked a man with the bases full. Pee Wee Reese drove in the tie-breaking score in the seventh with a fly ball. They needed Robinson's run to win for the Phils came back with one on three singles off reliefer Carl Erskine in the ninth.

It was the same old story for the Phils, failure to hit in the pinches and ineffective pitching. Although Jim Konstanty, their fabulous ace of 1950, got them out Thursday night he has been way off last year's effectiveness.

Cornwall Citizens Take Over Team

CORNWALL, June 1 (CP) — The citizens of Cornwall at a meeting Thursday night drew up plans—and dug up $2,000—to take over the Cornwall Canadians of the Border Baseball League.

Mayor Aaron Horovitz presided at the meeting which was attended by league president John G. Ward of Ogdensburg, N. Y.

A citizens' committee will be formed to canvass laborers, industries, professional people and business men with a view to raising around $8,000. It was decided to sell stock in the club at $10 a share.

The team was formerly operated by Tommy Gorman of Ottawa but he withdrew his support earlier this month.

NELLIE KNOWS HIS NUMBERS — Nelson Fox, the Chicago White Sox' diminutive second baseman, demonstrates with the aid of 10 fingers and two cigars the Pale Hose winning streak. OHA Series Not Settled

TORONTO, June 1 (CP).—The future of the Ontario Hockey Association's major series hinges on whether Kitchener and Niagara Falls will send teams into action next season.

At a meeting of the major council Thursday night delegates from both cities said they would talk over with their sponsors the question of going into a four-team loop with Hamilton and a team from Toronto sponsored by the Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League.

However, both Bobby Bauer of Kitchener and Jay MacDonald of Niagara Falls expressed reluctance to enter a four-team loop. Percy Thompson of Hamilton, considered a doubtful entry, finally announced he would have a team.

The possibility of an entry from Sudbury fell through when Max Silverman rejected a proposal for fewer games in his city than in the others. "We're happy now with our five-team league in the Northern Ontario Hockey Association," he said. "We won't come down here unless we're given a square deal."

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Ezzard Charles, world's heavyweight boxing champion, has agreed to meet venerable Jersey Joe Walcott in a 15-round title match July 18 at Pittsburgh.

It will be their third engagement.

Charles first defeated Jersey Joe in Chicago two years ago to win the National Boxing Association version of the world title. He repeated at New York last March in a defence of that title.

Walcott was a ringside spectator Wednesday night as Charles took Joey Maxim over the 15-round route. He left immediately for his Camden, N. J., home to train.

Lew Hayman, managing director-coach of Montreal Alouettes, announced Thursday that signed contracts have been received from two American footballers, Ray Cicia and Gene Brito.

Cica made his debut with the Alouettes of the Big Four Union last season and was voted an inside wing position on the Canadian all-star team.

Brito is a newcomer and was a star at end with Loyola University of Los Angeles.

Willie Mays, who came up a week ago to New York Giants of the National League from Minneapolis where he was hitting .477 can't figure how the decimal point became misplaced.

He's hitting .0477 for the Giants, with one safety in 21 times at bat.

"I must be in a slump," Mays said thoughtfully.

"They're throwing me the same pitches I was hitting in triple A, only I'm not hitting 'em here. Not too many curves, either. It can't be that because I'm getting all the fast balls I want."

Proximity, harness racing's greatest money-winner, is being pointed for its 1951 debut in the $10,000 Titan free-for-all trot at Goshen, N. Y., July 6.

Lee Wallard, winner of the 1951 Indianapolis speedway 500-mile auto race, has received a record cash purse of $63,612.12.

The total cash prizes to the 33 drivers and car owners also set a record. This year's total was $207,650, compared with last year's previous high of $201,135.

Bill Harvey, Canadian harness horse driver, is under suspension at Buffalo Raceway in connection with a report that a horse he drove to victory Saturday at Hamburg showed a positive saliva test.

Dr. J. Dwight Pierce, supervising steward representing the New York State Harness Racing Commission, said suspension action is automatic in such cases.

Pierce said the State laboratory at Jamaica reported a positive saliva test upon Czarita, which won the third race.

Horses under Harvey's supervision and training will be under suspension, Pierce said, pending a hearing by the Commission. No date was set for the hearing.

When the Canadian open starts July 4 at Toronto Mississauga, Vancouver's two top professional golfers will be shooting for a chunk of the $15,000 prize money.

Fred Wood, pro at Shaughnessy, said Thursday he will join Stan Leonard, Canadian professional champion, in the open.

Leonard will later defend his Canadian PGA title at Hamilton. He will leave for Niagara Falls, Ont., June 27.

The men's schedule got away to a good start last evening. Out of the 14 games that were called to play, only one default, and that on account of sickness. And right off the bat, Howard Clegg scores a big seven-end against Doug Callan, but loses the game—and that was the highlight of the first night's schedule.

The winning skips of the ladies tournament were: Mrs. J. Arnold, Mrs. Bearne and Mrs. Cameron.

Plan To Make War Film About Germany

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 1—(AP)—Film producer Frank McCarthy has just come through his greatest test: Getting approval for a feature film from 17 government agencies on two continents.

McCarthy is the producer of "Decision Before Dawn," a film of the Second World War as seen through German eyes. Among the agencies from which he had to get approval or co-operation: the US State Department, Department of Defence, the German Federal Republic, the Allied High Commission, the Bavarian Government and many others.

The project, which was to be filmed in actual German locales, at first got a turn-down by High Commissioner John M. McCloy in Germany. He reasoned: 1. Photographs of German troops in the film might fall into Russian hands and be used as propaganda; 2. Appearance of Germans in army uniforms might alarm the population.

McCarthy answered with these arguments 1. The Russains could easily make their own propaganda photos of German troops if they wanted to; 2. There would be wide publicity that the troops would be used for a movie only. He won approval.

Orderly Awe

"Usually when you take a movies on locations, you try to keep it secret," Producer McCarthy related. "But we had to print in all the papers the news of our plans. Wherever we went, there were huge crowds.

"But they weren't like crowds in Italy or France or even our own country. They were amazingly orderly. All you had to do was tell them where to stand and they would remain there. The German respect for authority is still deeply rooted."

Extras Work

"Decision Before Dawn" proved a boon to the German film industry, which han been in poor condition. Only 20 workers were taken from Hollywood; the rest were recruited from the German movie business.

"The German film industry is still in bad shape," McCarthy reported. "They make a great many pictures and make them as cheaply as possible, but they have loving money. However, the German government is now granting some loans that may put the movie makers on their feet."

School Loop Tilts

In intermediate school softball games yesterday, Prince of Wales downed Central 23-6 while Queen Mary beat King George 11-2. The latter team got a run each in the second and fourth, as Queen Mary scored four each in the first and third, and three more in the fifth. Central shoved over one apiece in the first and third, two in the second and three in the fourth. Prince of Wales ran wild at the start to shove across no less than 17 runs in the first inning, adding two in the second and four next time up. Teams:

Prince of Wales—Jay, Faulkner, Aulbrook, Foster, Morley, Scharfe, Ashby, Fuller, Francis, Varga.

Central—Kelly, D. Lustic, McInroy, Naish, Dinsdale, Simpson, Lloyd, Ellis, J. Lustic.

Rays Take Quakers

Halliday pitched a four-hitter last evening as Raybestos waltzed to a 14-0 Industrial Fastball League win over Quakers. Only once did a rival reach second as he fanned nine and received excellent backing in the field. Meantime, his mates pounded two pitchers to roll up the count in the one-sided struggle. The Rays got a run in the first chapter, two in third, nine in a big fifth and two more in the seventh. Teams:

Juniors Get Legion

HASTINGS, June 1 (ENS).—The local juniors showed they've got what it takes, when after losing to Tanners 8-4 Monday night they bounced right back and handed the Legion squad a 16-4 shellacking. West went the route for Juniors, and gave up but seven hits, while the Juniors jumped Crowley in the first inning for five runs and coasted in from there.

Bonds replaced Crowley in the sixth and did okay but lacked support. Legion were shy three of their regular players.

DOG-LEG—The topographical layout of most courses makes mastering a right to left hook shot a necessity.

Hook Or Slice Saves Stroke Shooting Dog-Leg Holes

By E. J. (DUTCH) HARRISON
Former Canadian Open Champion

The main difference between a good golfer and a poor one is that the more proficient performer can place his shots just where he wants them most of the time.

There are natural hazards, such as trees.

Dog-leg holes often prove to be a real headache, since they require the player to bend a shot.

A good player will play a hook or a slice, whereas the vast majority will have to sacrifice a shot to get around the obstacle, or try a lucky shot.

These lucky shots should have no place in the game, for more often than not fortune will not smile.

The most important consideration is the manner in which you set your feet when addressing the ball. The stance is closed.

The ball should be lined up almost opposite the right foot. It is imperative to have the ball in position to receive impact at the earliest possible moment and be in contact with the club face as long as possible.

The backswing involves an alteration of changing from an upright swing to a flatter plane. The deviation is accomplished by turning the right hip away from the ball as you start the backswing. Thus, you bring the club back more abruptly and in a flatter plane than normally is the case.

Take the club as far as you can to generate power.

The downswing is going to be changed, too. As you start the club down, turn the body around to face the ball. This will cause you to pull the clubhead through with the left side and arm. Keep the club out from the body and, as you come through the ball, let your wrists roll over.

Overcome By Fumes Boy 10 Suffocates

OSGOODE, Ont., June 1—(CP)—Joseph Ambrose Herbert, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ambrose Herbert, died of suffocation Thursday when overcome by gasoline fumes while playing near a large metal container which held a small amount of gas.

The child was found lying beside the container by his parents. Artificial respiration failed to revive him. Osgoode is about 20 miles south of Ottawa.

Plan Open House

OTTAWA, June 1. (CP) — Canadian flying clubs will hold open house June 10-16. National Flying Club Week, sponsored by the 34 clubs of the Royal Canadian Flying Clubs Association, will tie in with the RCAF celebration of Air Force Day June 9.

Boxing Champ UC Minister

MOOSE JAW, Sask., June 1—(CP)—A former Dominion flyweight boxing champion was accepted as a minister of the United Church of Canada Thursday.

The Rev. Greg P. Gregersen, 39, took vows before the Rev. Homer R. Lane, president of the church's Saskatchewan conference which now is meeting here.

Mr. Gregersen, a former Montreal boxer, already was ordained a Baptist minister. He said he switched his allegiance because he "believes in a United church."

He now weighs about 35 pounds more than the 112 pounds he scaled in 1936 when he won the Canadian flyweight title. He gave up the ring when he "met with the Lord," and after studying in Toronto and Hamilton, became a Baptist minister in northern Ontario.

Weekly Newspaper Editors To Visit City

Weekly newspaper editors from 25 American states will visit Peterborough June 11. This visit to Peterborough is on the agenda of the eighth annual U.S. Editors' Goodwill Tour of Ontario sponsored by the Department of Travel and Publicity.

The program to take place during the editors' three-hour stay—12 a.m. to 3 p.m.—will be arranged by the local Chamber of Commerce. The editors visited this city in 1948 and James Fraser, manager of the local chamber said that the resultant publicity for the Kawarthas was "little short of terrific."

Started In 1940

These goodwill tours were started in 1940 and have continued ever since except for a period between 1942 and 1946 when they interrupted because of the war.

Their purpose is primarily to sell Ontario as a tourist playground to U.S. citizens. The Department of Travel and Publicity considers them as one of the most successful publicity undertakings in which it engages.

The mechanics of this publicity is very simple. The editors representing all 48 states are introduced to the best Ontario has to offer in tourist attractions. This information is taken back with them and is disseminated through their newspapers to the American public.

Provide Information

No publicity booster is overlooked by the department. Each editor is provided with a press-book with a day-by-day story of the tour, together with photographs of the places to be visited for immediate use in their newspapers while the tour is in progress. Another important publicity feature of the tour is the making of a motion picture in color which is provided to all participants for showing at such organizations as service clubs and lodges.

An additional form of promotion is that each participant becomes a member of the "K.O.B. Club" whose membership consists entirely of United States editors and publishers who have been guests of the Ontario government. The club meets once a year in Chicago in conjunction with the National Editorial Association, and through this means continuous contact is maintained with the large body of publishers who have visited Ontario.

34 Visitors

This year, the party will consist of 34 persons including the guest editors, host party—representatives of the department, the Hotel Association of Ontario and class A weeklies of Canada—and the bus driver.

The greater part of the 10-day tour will be made by chartered bus with an itinerary ranging from Kirkland Lake to Ottawa, Brockville, Trenton and Niagara Falls. The entire cost is borne by the Department of Travel and Publicity.

Chiang Said Biding Time Before Strike At Mainland

By FRANK H. KING and FRED HAMPSON

TAIPEH, Formosa, June 1. — (AP)—Sooner or later waves of Chinese Nationalist soldiers intend to assault the Communist-held mainland of China, but Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek is not prepared to strike yet.

Chiang and his Nationalists — they number perhaps 500,000 — now are stronger than at any time since they fled the mainland in December, 1949.

Then the future of Chiang's China seemed hopeless. But in-international events changed the outlook. The war in Korea brought American neutralization of Formosa. This meant guarding it from invasion or from conducting mainland sorties. Today the Nationalists are anxious to strike back to China proper—the sooner the better. But Chiang admits he is not able to strike right now.

"Six months after we have supplies and equipment, a large-scale counter-offensive can be launched," Chiang told The Associated Press recently.

Estimates called conservative here say there are at least 400,000 Nationalist soldiers with weapons enough for a defensive force but not for an invasion of the mainland.

Good Impression

Maj.-Gen William C. Chase, head of the newly-arrived American military msision to Formosa, after a quick look at Chiang's forces, told The Associated Press:

"Potentially they are a formidable fighting force. Iam much encouraged—more so than I expected to be. Properly equipped, trained and employed—also properly led—they will be highly effective."

But Chase, veteran of Pacific warfare, was not speaking with reference to Chiang's proposed attack on the China mainland. The case mission is here solely to maintain Formosa as a neutralized island.

A year ago it would have been doubftul if the mainland people would welcomed Chiang's Nationalists back. But since the war in Korea, the purges have come. Thousands have been executed and reports tell of millions living in fear under a regime that, instead of a better life, has brought its version of a Communist state police.

County Farm Notes

By HARRY THEOBALD

District Shorthorn Breeders' Field Day Saturday, June 9....Millbrook Livestock Show Wednesday, June 6....Craig Nelson of Campbellford Sells Cow for $1,700....Junior Farmers Plan For Visiting Scots.

Shorthorn Breeders of Peterborough and Victoria counties are being invited to the joint field day at Louada Manor Farms on the shore of Harvey township overlooking Pigeon Lake, Saturday, June 9.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Cadesky will be hosts to the members of these associations. Some of the breeders in Durham are also making up a party to attend.

The Louada Manor herd of Shorthorns has been strengthened during the winter by importations from Scotland, and breeders will find a variety of attractions for this event.

The property is set in typical Kawartha scenery. Substantial improvements include new barns and open sheds, and the house occupied by Ken Hunt, the young manager at Louada Manor. Briefly, it is a beautiful summer place, spacious, parklike, and with a grand view far down the lake and up to Bobcaygeon.

The program for the field d opens at 10 o'clo or inspect on of the herd and accommodation.

Lunch is from 11.15 to 12.30, and is being supplied by Mr. Cadesky.

Greeting of welcome at 1 o'clock will be followed by a parade of the Louada Shorthorns.

Demonstration of the breed type and commentary by Prof. R. G. Knox of OAC is an early feature in the program.

A judging competition is hopefully set down for 1.30. There will be three classes, each of four animals, heifers, cows and bulls, open to women, men and juniors from 12 to 20 years.

Prof. Knox will then place the animals and give reasons for his rating.

At 3.15, Dr. R. A. McIntosh of the Ontario Veterinary College, will address the crowd.

Harold White will close the afternoon with presentation of prizes. He is secretary of the Canadian Shorthorn Breeders Association.

Road signs will indicate the route in the Lakehurst country of Harvey.

Mr. Cadesky has arranged for games for children, and is offering prizes for the winners. The program says children are to be supervised by attendants.

Lou Shaw of Otonabee is president of the Peterborough Association and J. A. Bent of Omemee heads the Victoria breeders.

Dr. Harold Worton is program chairman. Among those expected are: Russell Parker, president of the Ontario Shorthorn Breeders and David Gove of Guelph, secretary; and J. A. Henderson of Ontario Veterinary College, Guelph.

Representatives of breed associations in Victoria and Peterborough have been invited. It should be mentioned that a local committee has been preparing the program, and that in the day's planning Mr. Cadesky is the host to the Association.

Members of the committee are: Lou Shaw, Lorne Pimmett, E. Dunsford, Percy Donaldson, Ken Hunt and Dr. Worton; and from Victoria: John A. Bent, R. Flett and C. Lee of Omemee.

Marshall C. McPhail, principal of the Kemptville Agricultural School since 1938, died suddenly May 25 at his home in the College. His experience years ago included extension work as agricultural representative in York, Perth and Durham Counties. His age was 58. He was assistant director of the agricultural representatives branch of the Ontario Department prior to his appointment to Kemptville.

HOLSTEIN AVERAGE $529

A total of $36,550 was realized in the sale of 69 Holsteins at an average of $529 in the dispersal of the Roselawn herd of Richmond Hill, Ont. Six bulls averaged $432; 36 milking females, $584; 9 bred heifers, $474; 8 open heifers, $361, and 10 heifer calves $361. Top price was $1,025 paid by David Martin of Elmira and Abner B. Martin, West Montrose, for 11-year-old cow, Kenevelyn Rag Apple Clara.

These Holsteins went to Ontario, Quebec, Mexico, Virginia, Pennsylvania, New York, Massachusetts, Michigan and Wisconsin.

J. Granavia of Warren, O., paid the second highest price at $925 for an 11-year-old cow; and it was equalled by M. J. Tamblyn of Orono for a five-year-old.

MILLBROOK SHOW JUNE 6

Millbrook's spring livestock show, Wednesday, June 6, is inviting farmers and townspeople of the district to join with them, especially for the afternoon program, in making it an attendance success.

The prize list is distributed chiefly through heavy and light horse classes, beef and dairy cattle and swine.

There will be a tractor driving contest for junior farmers within the age brackets of 16 to 30 years. A merry-go-round is being provided for interest to the children.

President J. Whittington said his directors hope to welcome a large number of visitors from the district.

They are also holding a dance in the evening at Millbrook Town Hall.

SALE OF HEREFORDS

Grey-Bruce Hereford breeders grossed $11,475 at their spring sale. Ten sires brought an average of $585, and 12 females $468.75.

PLAN RECEPTION

Arrangements for the visit to Peterborough of the four junior farmers of Scotland who are making an extended tour of Ontario will be discussed at a meeting of the directors of the local Juniors Wednesday, June 6, at 8.30 p.m. The young Scots are scheduled to spend four days in this area, June 18 to 22.

[illegible] IN MEXICO CITY

President Herb H. Hannam of Ottawa, told delegates that military supremacy alone would not bring peace to the world. The democracies, the more fortunate people, had to meet the challenge of poverty, hunger, exploitation and insecurity for hundreds of millions of people. It was becoming evident, he said, that there was a vast awakening by people in the under-developed countries.

Mr. Hannam represents the 400,000-member Canadian Federation. He is accompanied by a strong delegation from this country.

$1,700 FOR HOLSTEIN COW

Craig Nelson of Campbellford received $1,700 for Jessie Rag Apple Supreme from S. B. Roman of King, Ont., at the national Holstein sale recently at Oakville. She was the only cow sold that was graded Excellent, the top classification for type. It was rumored recently that Mr. Roman also made an interesting purchase from a herd closer to Peterborough.

GOVERNMENT'S HOLSTEINS

Overlooked sometimes is the fact that the government of Ontario is in the dairy cattle breeding business. Eighty-seven Holsteins brought a total of $38,775 for a general average of $446 at the annual sale of young stock offered by the Department of Health. They were from various hospital farms throughout the province. Highest price was $685 paid by Harold E. May of Canandaigua, N.Y., for a bred heifer.

COMMENDS DAIRY FARMERS

Hon. T. L. Kennedy heartily commends the publicity and advertising enterprise of the Dairy Farmers of Canada. Financing for the first time last June is being carried on again this month.

Ontario Minister of Agriculture said he liked most the responsibility assumed by the dairy farmers themselves through their own organization. They did not look to the government or anyone else to do the job.

Cost of promoting the use of dairy products was substantial, but it was spread over a large number of dairy farmers, and the cost to any one individual was relatively small.

Col. Kennedy said Ontario's dairymen had always constituted one of the most progressive groups of farmers. He felt sure that they would demonstrate this progressiveness again by authorizing the set-aside from their returns, as requested by the Dairy Farmers of Canada, to finance their promotional work.

VISITORS ON THE WAY

The census class will now come to order. What is the total area of all the land you operate? How many bushels of fall wheat did you harvest in 1950? How many bushel of oats? How many tons of alfalfa did you harvest? How many tons of corn for ensilage or fodder? What is the area of your improved land for pasture or grazing? What is the total number of swine on this farm, June 1? What is the total number of sheep and lambs? What was the value of the cattle and calves you sold in 1950? And so on down to question 195. That's a decennial chore in civic duty.

GUERNSEYS GRAZING at Shadybrook Farm, the home of Mr. John Stewart, on the south side of No. 7 Highway east of Burnham's Woods. The cattle were only recently turned out to pasture after a long winter in the barn. Growth has been luxuriant along the creek that winds its placid and picturesque way through the Shadybrook fields. The same lushness of early forage is reported from all sections of Ontario. Mr. Stewart estimates that he has sold around 200 head among farmers of this district, some of whom were concerned about maintaining the butter fat content of the milk from their dairy herds.

Young Langvalley Bull Joins Stewart Guernseys

John Stewart of Shadybrook Farm, east of the city on No. 7 Highway, has strengthened his herd of Guernsey cattle by purchase of a well bred young bull, Langvalley Actorine's Valiant, from Adam Calder of Glanford Station.

"Valiant" was imported by Mr. Calder from Langvalley Farms, Maryland. His sire, Fairlawn Actorine's Peerless, is by Fairlaw Memoir's Performer which has many outstanding individuals to his credit.

The dam is Caumsett Ocean Suntan, 11,364 pounds of milk and 591 pounds of butterfat as a two-year old. She was obtained by Langvalley Farms for $3,500. She was by "Caumsett Dynamo" (who has 61 record daughters and 13 record sons) out of Caumsett Country Sunspot.

A full sister of Suntan, as a senior yearling, sold in 1944 for $3,300. Incidentally a son of Sunspot is herd sire at Greystone Farms, Auburn, N.Y.

Caumsett Dynamo is sire of Caumsett Northerner and Caumsett Canadian, whose daughters have proved to be notable producers for Ontario breeders.

Mr. Stewart has framed the extended pedigree of his young bull and displays it prominently on a wall in a new section of his barn. He says there is blue blood of the Guernsey breed on both sides of its parentage.

A letter received from Mrs. Calder says the youngster's sire, Fairlawn Actorine's Peerless, was leased to Longvalley Farms for six months, and was used with daughters of "Curtis Franchester Levity Ace", which sold for $37,000. Peerless' sire is "Fairlawn Memoirs Performer" whose get averaged the highest of any animals of any breed of all time, "and his sons are being used in some of the leading herds."

Mr. Stewart wintered around 120 head, of which 70 were comfortably housed at Shadybrok. At present he has 156 head in four separate places, 55 of them at the home farm.

To Keep Two Bulls

Purchase of the young Langvalley bull gives him five males, but he is planning to reduce them to two, as Valiant comes into service in the early fall.

In a rough estimate, Mr. Stewart says he has sold approximately 500 Guernseys in the four years since he became interested in these dairy cattle. They have been dispersed all the way from Fergus to Cornwall, and probably 200 have been bought by farmers in this immediate district.

Production recently enables him to deliver eleven cans of milk daily to Campbell's Dairy, averaging 4.4 butter fat.

Shadybrook Farm is an attractive property on the south side of No. 7 Highway, east of the Mark Burnham woods. It is watered by a creek that meanders in a wide sweep through several of the fields, broadening into a pond near the barn, that could be exploited if desired. The stream runs dry only at midsummer of unusual lack of rain.

For increase of silage, Mr. Stewart is expanding his planting of corn to eighteen acres, half the seeding of a hybrid variety for stock support.

One of his comments was to the effect that some of the buyers of Shadybrook Guernseys were particularly interested in building up their average of butterfat to meet the standard requirement of the Peterborough fluid trade.

Some owners of another breed, for example, high in milk volume but down in fat content, had to reinforce the fat percentage to maintain their marketing position.

"It's a good practical idea at that," Mr. Stewart remarked.

Family Groups In Two Juniors Clubs

Bruce Sargent's three sons in west side dairy calf club are matched in number by the Bolton trio, two boys and their sister, in the east side club. The Otonabee River is the dividing line between these two groups of rural young people.

There are four Boltons in the east side club, but they are not all of the the one family. Audrey Bolton is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Bolton of Douro. Their cousins Gwelda, Gerald and Allan, are of the family of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bolton, also of Douro township.

The members of the east side dairy calf club, of whom there are 27, are:

Barbara and Doris Brown of Asphodel; the four Boltons; Gerald Coughlin, Douro; Margaret and Walter Clark, Asphodel; Archie Davidson, Keene, RR 1; Francis and James Doris, Otonabee; Harry English, Asphodel; George Green, Indian River, RR 3; Gordon Hope, Keene. Norma and Caroline McConkey, Peterborough; Kathryn Thorn, Otonabee; Eldon Van Volkenburg, Asphodel; Mary and Gerald Wood, Douro; Anna and Barbara Whitred, Asphodel; Don Kindred, Otonabee; Alan Stewart, Indian River; Dorothy Chambers, Otonabee.

Archie Davidson is president of this club; Norma McConkey is vice-president; and Jim Doris secretary. The club leader is Keith McIntyre, of Otonabee.

West Side Club

The members of the west side dairy calf club are Barbara Bulmer, Don and Ken Boyce, Smith township; G. Clark Douglas, Nancy Hancock, Donald Irwin, Doug Irwin, Smith; Dorothy Jackson of Emily township. Paul Jopling, Lakefield RR 3; James McMullen and Barbara Mann, Smith; Carl, John and Don Sargent of Cavan township; John Sanderson, Peterborough RR 1; Lila M. Seymour and James C. Seymour, Cavan; Nola Wilson, Smith.

Club president is Jack Sargent; vice-president, Barbara Mann; secretary, Lila Seymour; and the club leader is John Edmison of Smith.

IMPORTED FROM LONGVALLEY FARM, Maryland, is this young Guernsey bull which John Stewart of Otonabee bought from Adam Calder of Glanford Station, Ontario. He was sired by Fairlawn Memoir's Peerless and Caumsett Ocean Suntan (11,364 lbs. milk, and 591 lbs. fat) as a two-year-old. Mr. Stewart has hung the extended pedigree of the junior, which is to join his herd sires, on the wall of his barn and "points with pride" to its ancestry on both sides. It is quite evident, he says, that there is a lot of butter fat in the records of the matrons in Valiant's family tree. He intends to sell three of his five bulls, and keep the two others.

Massey Report

One member, Arthur Surveyer, Montreal civil engineer, suggested that an independent board be given jurisdiction over radio and television as requested by Canada's private radio stations.

The main body, however, recommended, instead, that permanent control be retained by the CBC under an enlarged board of governors. However, private broadcasters would be granted the right to appeal to the federal courts against miscarriage of justice through CBC decisions.

The commission urged, too, that the CBC trim commercial advertising and step out of the field in local cases where a private station was available to carry the commercial. It might consider eliminating some "less desirable" commercials carried on a national level. A second French-speaking CBC network should be set up, and a CBC French-speaking station established for the Maritimes.

Boost Film Board

The commission suggested that the National Film Board receive more funds, though this was opposed by Mr. Surveyer, who said that strict economy be observed by this organization. More money also should be made available to help the National Gallery buy more pictures and to help the Canadian artist.

A campaign should be undertaken to preserve and restore Canadian historic sites under a more comprehensive program undertaken by the Historic Sites and Monuments Board.

To help overcome the "ignorance" in foreign countries of Canada's cultural growth, more press officers should be posted abroad by the External Affairs Department, the CBC international services expanded and the Film Board given more money to boost distributions of films abroad.

Aid Artists

Other aid should be available on a lesser scale to help artists, musicians and men of letters. Money also should be granted to Canadian voluntary organizations helping in Canada's cultural expansion.

All these schemes might be co-ordinated under a new national organization—a Canadian Council—established by the government, but not staffed by government officials.

The organization would be manned by "distinguished and public-spirited citizens" other than federal government officials. The chairman and vice-chairman would be permanent. The others would be paid daily including travelling expenses.

Armed by funds voted by parliament, this council would steer Canada's national cultural growth, distributing funds to worthwhile organizations, planning scholarship schemes, organizing and directing a national commission for United Nations educational, scientific and cultural organization work in Canada and in the main watching over Canada's spiritual welfare.

FALLEN COMRADE—Marines march past the body of an American soldier, apparently caught in his sleep by a Red attack on the east central front. The Marines found a battalion command post which had been surprised in the night. Only six wounded GIs were found; the others were dead.

New TB Treatment

STOCKHOLM— (CP) — A chemico-therapeutical method for treatment of tuberculosis of the bones and joints, developed at a hospital here, is said to cut in half the period of treatment. The frequency of relapse has also been greatly reduced.

Newspaper Contribution To Culture Discussed

OTTAWA, June 1 (CP)— The Massey Commission, in its report made public today, approached cautiously the question of how much the newspapers of Canada contribute to the development of Canadian arts and letters.

The question, the commission noted carefully, "is a matter of opinion."

It added:

"Although many of our leading newspapers over the years have devoted generous space to book reviews and to commentaries on music and the arts, and although we have in Canada many editors who write thoughtfully and with distinction, we should hesitate to assess these influences upon our cultural life.

"If our critical literature is slight in volume, this may be a natural consequence of our tenuous creative abilities in the arts."

The commission said it had been informed that many editors would gladly engage competent writers in musical, dramatic or literary criticism or in the sciences, but Canada did not seem to "produce enough people interested in writing for the press with the qualifications essential to able criticism."

Better in French Canada

"Things are much better, apparently, with the press in French Canada where the old world traditions of criticism have been more carefully preserved and cherished."

The commission observed that Canada's daily and weekly newspapers and periodicals, with their circulations running into the millions, indicated a "vigorous press."

"The opinions, attitudes, tastes, beliefs and prejudices of Canadian citizens must be enormously affected whether for good or ill, by this vast quantity of reading matter which so readily comes their way."

But the commission could not venture even to speculate on the importance of the newspaper press as an agency contributing "to our national unity and our common understanding." That in itself would be a formidable inquiry.

Remarkable Role

The commission noted the "remarkable" role which The Canadian Press, Canada's co-operative news-gathering agency, plays in gathering and distributing news in Canada.

"We are not aware that The Canadian Press has been seriously criticized for any lack of thoroughness or objectivity.

"The Canadian Press, however, reflects both the virtues and the defects of good newspapermen throughout North America, and no doubt throughout the world. The news which it selects, the emphasis and the priority which it gives, its sense of news values are those which prevail in any competent daily newspaper in North America.

"The limited prominence which it gives to matters of educational, scientific, and cultural matters is no doubt a reflection of the attitudes of the reading public of Canada."

As for periodicals, they made a successful appeal to the country as a whole, though faced with stiff competition from American magazines, and gave encouragement to Canadians writing about Canada. They not infrequently had the "dubious pleasure" of nurturing Canadian writers to the point where they could sell their wares to more affluent American periodicals.

Separate School Issue Discussed By Anglicans

TORONTO, June 1—The Hope Commission's recommendation cutting off a year's religious education for pupils in separate schools was endorsed Thursday by the Angican Synod of Toronto in session at St. James' Cathedral. But the issue created considerable debate and brought out both criticism and praise for the separate school system.

Canon F. H. Wilkinson, chairman of the committee which recommended adoption of the Hope report as it referred to separate schools, said: "Every concession to separate schools has been made by pressure on political parties and I resent very much this insult to a majority of a democratic country because they ask for fair recognition of majority interests but are rebuffed and stigmatized as being intolerant and unjust." If this is the concept of democratic government, then this country has lost its power and dignity."

Dr. E. R Fairweather, who said he taught in the faculty of arts in the University of Toronto, said he wondered if the synod should "rubber stamp" the Hope Commission's findings on education since the findings were those of a secular commission. He suggested that there was a moral as well as a legal issue involved.

Dr. Fairweather said that if the Hope report were carried out, it would reduce religious education in the schools by 25 per cent. "I think," he said, "that we should look to balancing educational and religious values." He did not think the extra year of religious education in separate schools should be done away with "simply for expediency" and added that the public school could hardly avoid being a secular influence. He concluded by saying: "I don't think we should allow our political differences to influence us in making a public statement that may put us in a false position."

Hazy Methods

He said further: "In effect, the divorcing of th eChristian faith from education in the public schools has left us in a hazy, hit-and-miss sort of way."

Presenting the report, Canon Wilkinson said: "The time has now come when we should say that the Hope report should be implemented. A good deal of money has been spent on it and although only 5,000 copies have been printed, you should read it. I predict that the Hope report on education will be one of the great educational landmarks in this province."

R. H. Soward, chancellor of the diocese and secretary of the general Synod committee on Protestant and Roman Catholic relations, urged that the fact that 25 per cent of those affected were opposed was not reason for implementing the Hope report. He said the church always had upheld the power of the state and the public school system. The difference between the Anglican and Catholic churches as to education, he said, had come to the point where it was necessary to state that there should be no special privileges "as the Roman church has had over other denominations."

Biased Treatment

The discussion and passing of the committee recommendation for implementing of the Hope report was followed by a report by the Rev. H. L. Puxley, of Streetsville, missionary to India, who said famine would be serious in India unless wheat were sent from Canada within the next six weeks.

Newspapers were criticized for what was termed biased treatment of church news. Speakers also criticized the federal and provincial governments and the press for alleged "shilly-shallying" on rents.

The Rev. John Frank, of Holy Trinity Church, Toronto, said it was high time the two governments did some realistic rent freezing. "We find today," he said, "that the aged are spending their life savings on either hospital bills or exorbitant rents." Mr. Frank also declared that the $40 a month old-age pension should be increased. "You can't live on $40 a month in these days," he said.

Canon H. R. Hunt handed the press its share of criticism when the press and public relations report came before the synod. He claimed the press "just seemed to pick items of news derogatory to the church and is only too slow to publish items favorable to the church."

Church Frowns On Drinks At Receptions

KINGSTON, June 1—Occasional drinks, including those taken at wedding receptions, drew a frown Thursday from the Bay of Quinte Conference of the United Church of Canada.

The conference, meeting in its 29th annual session here, passed a resolution opposing occasional social drinking by church members, and asked members to banish alcohol from all social functions. Ministers were urged "to make this clear to persons arranging wedding receptions."

Another resolution urged that church members refrain from gambling, which is a dangerous mended that "the churches make thing. The conference recommendclear to clubs and lodges that a charitable end never justifies an evil means. Let us fight that evil, where it exists."

Resolutions were presented by the committee on evangelism. Another resolution asked that ministers in industrial areas seek closer contact with both management and labor to the end that there may be "better established, greater mutual understanding and that such minister be called upon by the Presbytery to share the results of such effort."

Would Halt Alterations

Rev. James Mutchmore of Toronot, secretary of the Board of Evangelism and Social Service, urged that all brewery and distillery construction and alterations be halted, and that the tax on liquor be increased by $3 per gallon.

Dr. Mutchmore urged a "holiday" in beverage alcohol production and asked church people "to stand firm against every effort to extend the gamblin evil, including the licensing of booklies.'

Such action should be taken, Dr. Mutchmore said, "even if it may result in some places in ministers and local church members contending against some members of official church boards who, as service club leaders, promote gambling."

The state should be urged to do a better job of enforcing its laws, he said, and it was the duty of the state to protect its citizens from the evil does and "from the efforts of those who would make money out of the weaknesses of their fellows."

Joyrider Given One-Year Term

James Nicholson, 30, Townsend St., Thursday was sentenced to a year in reformatory on each of two charges: joyriding and being in possession of stolen goods. The sentences will run concurrently.

Nicholson pleaded guilty to both charges and elected speedy trial before Judge S. L. Smoke.

An original charge of theft of a car from Earl McNabb, Burnham St., was reduced in court to joyriding by Crown Attorney John Bradsnaw. McNabb's car was taken from his laneway on the night of April 28, and it was found next day abandoned on Albert St., minus vacuum cleaner equipment, blankets and a suit case.

Nicholson was committed for trial at a preliminary hearing held in city police court May 21. The same day his brother, William Nicholson, 26, was convicted of receiving the stolen vacuum cleaner equipment and sentenced to four months in reformatory.

Thursday the older brother pleaded guilty to taking the blankets and suitcase from the McNabb car.

"In view of the imposing record there doesn't seem very much else for me to do but impose the maximum penalty," commented the judge in passing sentence.

Nicholson was not represented by a solicitor.

C. W. Bennett, president of the Fire Fighters Association, reported that the members had accepted the offer of Club Aragon for a dance in aid of the fund Friday, June 8. Mr. J. Wineberg told him that the club, the services of the orchestra, without cost would be a contribution to the fund.

The annual elections were held at a regular meeting of the Kinsmen in the Kawartha club.

Bill Roche reported that the 11-year-old Peterborough girl, who needed special eye treatment, is now at the Mayo clinic, Minnesota. Sending the girl to the Mayo clinic was undertaken as a club project.

Walker Jones reminded the Kinsmen that the plans are underway for the annual Kinsmen carnival, to be held at Riverside park June 22-23.

BANDS, CROWDS AND LAST-MINUTE ticket-buyers, even a "hold-up man," heralded the last run of the CNR Train 95, Port Hope to Millbrook on Thursday afternoon. The ABOVE pictures, where most excitement was evident, were taken at Millbrook. Peter Stuart, 8, LEFT, buys the last ticket at the station wicket. Some members of the Millbrook High School band, CENTRE, (left to right) are Jean Kinsman, Dan Kent, Paul Sanders and Nancy Richards. In the milling crowd on the Millbrook station a young fellow, with toy pistol (arrow) appears to be staging "The Great Train Robbery"; he can at least boast of having "held up" the last train.—(Examiner Staff Photos)

Note Of Unity Sounded By Bishop Berry

Mayor Max Swanston has received a letter from Bishop Gerald Berry, enclosing a contribution to the Mayor's Fire Fund, which he recommended for publication.

"I don't think Bishop Berry would have any objections, and there is a note of unity within the community which I would like to bring out again because it is a wonderful asset to any city," Mayor Swanston said.

The text of this letter from the Bishop of Peterborough follows:

Dear Mayor Swanston: We deem it a duty and also a privilege to join with our fellow citizens in making a contribution to the fund which you have started for the survivors of those lost in the sad fire of two weeks ago. It is greatly to be regretted that fathers of families should have been trapped in such circumstances, but it seems also that the spontaneous offer of really substantial help on the part of so many citizens and their organizations will serve to knit the people together and assuage the sorrow of families so afflicted. Our donation of $200 is sent gladly in this spirit.

There may be some who would wish that tax money should be made available to meet such emergency, but we believe that the outpouring of generosity from the families of the city to other families has merits that would not be brought out by a tax imposed over a period in some allegedly painless way. Catastrophic events have a place in our lives and are not meant to be painless.

We extend to the firemen and their helpers the tribute of our sympathy and respect, through your good offices."

Another letter which Mayor Swanston received enclosing $25 was from the Toronto Police War Veterans' Association: "The officers and members extend through you their deepest sympathy to the families of the three members of the Peterborough Fire Department, and the civilian helper, who gave their lives in the call of duty, at the recent disastrous fire in your city. Please accept the enclosed cheque to be placed in the fund being subscribed by your loyal citizens for the families of the four gallant men of your city." — Hugh A. Jackson, secretary.

Last Passenger Train Pulls In From Port Hope

It was all over. Engineer Ernest Rainbow of Lindsay eased the last Port Hope-Peterborough passenger train into the CNR's Charlotte St. station Thursday afternoon at 6:30. It was the end of the district's great debate of a few months ago. The line, which has been losing money for the past few years, had almost been closed at the start of World War Two.

Only wartime emergency allowed it to remain open as long as it did, and on Thursday, the last run from Port Hope to Peterborough was made.

Tearing Up Tracks

On Monday, a section gang will start tearing up the tracks between Millbrook and Port Hope. The Millbrook-Peterborough section will remain open for freight traffic.

Thursday's was the last round trip for a veteran passenger of the run, Hilliard Strong, of Peterborough. For 66 years, Mr. Strong has been making the trip between points on the line, and this city.

"I'm sorry in a way to see this line go," he said, "but it's been losing money for too many years."

Hired Hand

Mr. Strong is 77, a tall, spare man who was born near Carmel, and later farmed north of Millbrook. On the train too, was his former hired hand, Fred McMahon. Both of them were there "just for the ride."

By Mr. Strong's chronology, the line has been in operation 94 years, just 17 more than he. The first sections of track were laid in 1857 and the line completed late that year.

Along for the last ride, too, was James Marks, a retired CNR conductor, who spent four years on the run during World War Two He had spent 42 years with the railway.

Shopping Trips

For others in the coach, it was the last of a number of rail-born shopping trips to Port Hope. Many of them were clutching bags and baskets of groceries.

At the main line station in Port Hope, Engineer Rainbow pulled the last train away smoothly. She was about 20 minutes late starting; photographers, newspapermen and the general confusion of a last trip slowed the getaway.

As she stopped at the downtown Port Hope station, crowds lined the tracks, waving and shouting goodbye to her on her last run.

Away again in the hot, sunbright weather, she gathered speed. Passengers were laughing, and Conductor E. P. Daniel joked with them. Mr. Daniel has been on the run only a short time

"The E is for a Bible name; don't mention it," he smiled. He said it wasn't for Ezekiel. After this run, he figures he will have about 13 more years to put in with the railway before retiring. He's been with the CNR 32 years.

Unconcerned

The passengers weren't concerned about this being the last trip. They laughed and talked, and smoked in the couch. At either end of the coach, in modest gold lettering, were the words "NO SMOKING".

"Quay's Crossing next." Trainstations. Only one car waited at Quay's to feed passengers onto the already crowded coach. The green plush chairs were filled.

Harry Elstone has been on the run three years. Soon, he expects, he will be transferred to either the Toronto-Montreal or the Toronto-Peterborough run.

"I wouldn't mind the short one," he said. "Peterborough's a nice place."

Then came Parrytown, and there, as at Quay's, a single car waited to see the last train on its way. At Campbellcroft, J. A. Waddell, express agent there for 12 years, waved the train off.

Band Welcome

There was a band playing at Millbrook station to welcome the last train. It was the Millbrook high school cadet band, and it was almost surrounded by Millbrook people who wanted to see friends on and off the train.

Then there was the dash to Peterborough, with only a brief stop at Fraserville.

"If he's trying to set a record, he might as well," one passenger observed. "Nobody'll ever beat it."

She pulled into the Peterborough station at 6:30, 18 minutes late.

12 Guest Units In New Motel

The Hayward-Reilly motel, Lansdowne St. west, will consist of 12 guest units with provision for doubling that number. There will also be manager's quarters.

The company applied to the Utilities Commission Thursday for a two-inch water line connection. The motel site is west of the city boundary and Western Ave. in an area that is rapidly changing.

Ross L. Dobbin, Utilities manager told the Commission that 380 feet of main would have to be laid in the city, and then beyond that 33 feet. He recommended an 8-inch main at an estimated cost of $2,400. The proposed two-inch line would eventually have to be replaced as demand in that quarter increased.

Mr. Dobbin was authorized to inform Hayward-Reilly that they will be required to pay all costs outside the city limits plus 10 per cent. And the water rate will be the usual charge to city consumers plus 50 per cent. He reported the probability of four connections to houses in the vicinity.

Mr. O. J. Hayward informed the Commission by letter that the motel is not being built for sale.

Girl 18 Months Killed By Truck

An 18-months-old girl was killed Thursday by an oil truck as she played in the laneway of her Verulam township farm home.

Neither the driver nor her father, a passenger in the truck, were aware of the fatal accident until the body of the child was found shortly afterwards.

The child was Sandra Flett, infant daughter of Grenville Flett, whose farm is five miles east of Fenelon Falls.

Rode Back

An oil truck, driven by Walter Outram, Lindsay, had delivered some oil to the barn at the Flett farm. Mr. Flett, who had been working in a field by the road, rode the 100 yards or so into the property to show Outram where to put the oil. Then he rode back with the driver to the field.

Neither of the men noticed Sandra playing in the laneway.

Fifteen minutes later Mr. Flett and his father, Casey Flett, started down the laneway for lunch. Mr. Flett, Sr., found the body of the tot.

OPP Constable Fred Rawlings of Fenelon Falls investigated.

2 Cars Crashed Head-on Driver Fined $50

Irvin Yateman, 19, of RR 9, Peterborough was fined $50 and $2.50 costs Thursday when he was found guilty of careless driving by Magistrate W. R. Philp. A charge of reckless driving against him was dismissed.

Yateman was charged after an accident, May 22 on Park Hill Rd. east of Aylmer St. He and his wife were injured in the crash, and the owner of the car he was driving, Frank Hall, suffered a broken nose.

The other car in the accident was driven by Derek House, and it was damaged to the extent of $700. Hall's car was damaged beyond repair.

Constable Dennis Traynor testified that Yateman's breath smelled of alcohol and that he was unsteady on his feet. He admitted under cross examination that Yateman was suffering shock.

A statement given by Yateman to Constable Traynor was ruled inadmissible by Magistrate W. R. Philp when some doubt arose as to whether the proper warning was given.

Derek House, operator of a restaurant, testified that he was driving west on Park Hill Rd. He said he saw an eastbound car "on my side of the road", and he thought it was either going to turn north or south.

He said he paid no attention to it for a few moments until it was almost on top of him. "I pulled to the south, to let him go by on my right side, and I suppose he pulled back into his own lane," House said.

Yateman, who admitted having two beers and two drinks of liquor, said he was blinded by the bright lights of the other car. He said he was driving on the south side of the road, but testified under cross-examination that he might have crossed the centre line when the car lights were in his face.

T. J. Carley acted for Yateman and Walter Howell appeared for the Crown.

Mayor's Fund $500 Short Of $25,000

Out of City Gifts Boosting Fund As City Rallies

The Mayor's Fire Fund today lacked only $500 of the rounded sum of $25,000, as totalled by W. R. Wallace, Bank of Montreal accountant, who is assistant treasurer.

One of the contributions is $25 from the Key Club of Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School. The appeal of the fund and its background of young families bereaved by the George St. fire of May 19 is touching the sympathies of the citizens at many facets. The Ladies' Bowling Club of All Saints' Church sent a cheque for $10.

No. 16 Trinity Cub Pack subscribed $5. From out of the city there were cheques from Zeller's Limited, Montreal, for $500; Savage Shoe Co., Preston, $35; and Toronto Police War Veterans' Association $25.

Some of the industrial lists are not yet completed, and, with other cheques which have been received through the channels set up by the committee, have not yet reached the custody of the treasurer.

Moviemaker In Peterborough To Show Films

Mr. and Mrs. William (Bill) Lang of Toronto drove into a cabin park with their trailer on Wednesday. Their visit is two-fold. Bill Lang, expert fisherman and for 25 years a maker of outdoor life movies, will lecture in the PCVS auditorium on Friday and Saturday evenings. He is being sponsored by the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association.

The second reason for their visit is to look up many old friends in the city and district and to absorb the charm of the Kawarthas at this particular season. Their association with the district goes back many years. In 1934 Mr. Lang made a movie "The Life of the Muskie" on Pigeon and Stony Lakes. Being a much sought after speaker, his film has promoted the Kawarthas to thousands of lecture-goers in the ensuing years.

Having travelled 60,000 miles by car and trailer, the highways and byways of the continent are very familiar to them. They have driven and filmed nature and wildlife from Mexico City to the Yukon and from British Columbia to Labrador, in all, about 30 major feature pictures.

Mrs. Lang is an important partner to this business. Being a graduate of the Toronto Conservatory of Music, it is her part to arrange musical scores for the talking movies as well as the speech scripts that go with them. Though one would never know it from his accent, Bill Lang is a Scotsman, who moved to Hamilton at a tender age and was engaged for some years in the insurance business. Being an expert fisherman, he thought it would be easier to show others the skill of rod handling by movies; it has launched him on pleasing career for the past 25 years.

He showed his movies here last year about this time for the Fish and Game people and on Friday and Saturday nights will, by popular request, show one of his originals again. Besides this repeater will be a new one, "The Story of Gaspe," "Trout by the Tubfull" and the fabulous fishing for large-mouth bass in the man-made reservoirs of Arizona.

Stanley Lang, their son, will graduate in medicine from Queen's University in Kingston. Of course, they will be there for that important occasion before Saturday night's lecture.

NIGHT RAID—After tracking down a fleet of nemy junks and sampans attempting to run the naval blockade on the west coast of Korea, H.M.C.S. Nootka captured seven of the vessels and their crews in a night raid. Here Able Seaman Charles Milks of Windsor, Ont., stands guard over some of the prisoners taken aboard the Nootka.

Canadian Supplies

OTTAWA, June 1. (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton said on Thursday the government is trying to see that Canadian troops in Korea get the chance to buy Canadian cigarettes and other Canadian amenities in the field. He told the Commons the Canadians have no separate supply link in Korea and arrangements are being made through stores of the British or American authorities. If necessary, Canada will set up her own special Canadian agencies.

Narrow Escape

MEAFORD, June 1. (CP)—It pays to keep your head down — particularly when there are large quantities of loose electricity around. Thomas Malcolm had his hat, trouser legs and socks burned Thursday when his hat touched a high-tension wire snagged on a house being moved into Meaford. Bob Gillesby, owner of the house, had his chest badly burned when he knocked Malcolm away from the wire. Both are in satisfactory condition.

Union Obeys Reuther Order

DETROIT, June 1 — (AP) — Bowing to Walter Reuther's "sit-tight" command, local union leaders Thursday backed down on their threat to strike at Ford's Dearborn Rouge plant next Monday.

The executive board of the United Auto Workers Local 600 (CIO) had said it would call a walkout of its 65,000 members at the plant unless the wage stabilization board approves a 4-cent-an-hour wage increase for them by then.

Reuther, UAW president, has ordered the local leaders to "take no action" at least until the board approves or disapproves the raise.

Made Offer In Good Faith

KINGSTON, June 1 — (CP) — External Affairs Minister Pearson said Thursday night Canada's recent offer of a gift of low-grade wheat to meet starvation conditions in India was made "in good faith."

Speaking at a banquet during the Bay of Quinte Conference meeting of the United Church of Canada, Mr. Pearson said, "We knew it was not the best, but we thought it might help them."

India had replied that she preferred to wait for the new crop.

"I wonder if the starving Indians worry about the doctrine of Communism," he said. "Our system can do more than any other system. That is what we have to prove to them."

High Commissioner Named To Canada

NEW YORK, June 1—(CP)—R. R. Saksena, India's consul-general to New York, has been appointed high commissioner to Canada, the Indian consulate in New York announced Thursday.

An official source said Saksena is expected to leave in a few weeks.

The consulate denied a Copenhagen report that Rathan K. Nehru, India's minister to Sweden and Denmark, was being transferred to Ottawa.

Likes Trains

HARRISBURG, Ill., June 1—(AP)—Mrs. Nancy Robinson, who always wanted to take a train ride, received her wish on her 100th birthday Wednesday. A daughter drove her to Carmi where she boarded a train for the 32-mile trip back to Harrisburg. Said Mrs. Robinson when she returned home: "It didn't last long enough."

THE EXPERTS SAY:

Men Hand Out Few Tips To Give Menus Variety

By KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

For a few tips on what men like to eat—let them cook dinner themselves once in a while. You'd be surprised at the fluffy fare they can concoct.

Here's proof that men often prefer a fancy dish—food, that is—to a meat-and-a-boiled-potato menu.

The following recipes were the inspiration of males who like to be alone—once in a while—with a kitchen-stove and a measuring-cup.

Ingredients: One-half tin tuna fish; one medium size onion (chopped fine); three cups cooked macaroni; one cucumber (diced); two hard-boiled eggs.

Cook macaroni in salt water; drain and pour cold water over; drain again and mix with above ingredients. Serve on lettuce with salad-dressing and dash of paprika.

Maybe Wifey Cooks This

The same man suggests the following exotic dinner menu—we suggest however that his wife probably handles the cooking here.

The menu: Wild duck stuffed with mushrooms and wild rice. Baste with orange-juice and serve with wild cranberry jelly, riced "spuds," mashed buttered turnips.

As dessert, lemon-pie is recommended.

For a fast lunch "when your wife's out gadding" a practical Toronto type suggests this:

"Grab that can of salmon she's been saving for lunch sandwiches and put as much of it as you think you can eat into a casserole. . ."

From there he recommends adding as many leftover potatoes (mashed) as happen to be in the refrigerator. Beat an egg or two and spread over the whole. Season with salt and pepper. Pop it into a moderate oven and leave for 20 minutes or so.

Our friend says it's "excellent" with either milk or lager.

An Ottawa Newspaperman likes his steak thick "burnt outside and raw inside" plus boiled potatoes either with carrots or green beans and coffee.

Next to steak he likes meat-balls, small ones just big enough "to be wrapped in one strip of bacon which I fasten by shoving toothpicks through."

Salt and pepper is added to taste and then the meat-balls are grilled.

Says the Ottawa man: "I like this meat course spotted lightly with a meat sauce that is slightly sweetish to the taste."

Next to steak he likes roast-beef and Chinese food "about once a month." The latter usually takes the form of chicken soo guy done crisply with boiled rice and a side-dish of sweet and sour sauce "to slather" over the rice.

Steaks and roasts seem to get the preference when it comes to the dishes men like most. And most of them like a Montrealer "prefer green type vegetables to heavying on the potato side."

Polished Cotton Dresses Have Wide Fashion Use

By GAILE DUGAS

NEW YORK —(NEA)— The term "polished cottons" has been used widely in fashion to describe practically anything made of cotton. It's surprising, then, that it actually does describe a group of summer cottons that, because of design and fabric, shine as brightly as any newly-polished silver.

Fine cotton broadcloth is the fabric chosen by designer Paul Parnes for a navy blue dress brightened by a bubble print motif in white. The skirt is wrapped and it has a side closing. Navy velvet coin fringe on the wide bertha type collar and the skirt pocket picks up and reverses the bubble print. This is a sophisticated cotton for wear in town or at late-afternoon gatherings.

The lustrous look appears again in a costume suit by this same designer. A white snowflake print on navy background is picked up by white linen collar and cuffs with red. The jackets is cinched that are touched in at the waist with arched hips for emphasis. The simple underdress is straight and narrow. The bodice has a white cuffed decolletage and fine red linen straps.

Pima cloth, in nylon-and-cotton is cut by Eisenberg into a straight, cuffed sheath and full, matching coat. In gray, this ensemble is lighted by snowy white soutache embroidery in an all-over pattern. The coat has a mandarin collar.

MIGHTY WATERWAY

Venezuela's most important river is the Orinoco, which, with its tributaries, is the third largest river system in South America.

"WEAK" BACK?

Many say they get "cold" in the back—or the kidneys—so easily! That's why thousands keep Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills always on hand. For this reliable remedy is like two treatments in one—works faster to relieve painful backaches due to faulty kidneys. Dr. Chase—a name you can depend on. 51

Furore Subsides Duchess Did Wear Hat

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK, June 1—(AP)—US milliners may relax. The $400,000,000 industry is, for the time being, safe.

It seems the Duchess of Windsor did, too, wear a hat when she sailed for France last week.

News pictures of the Duchess, apparently wearing only a wisp of veiling over her eyes in lieu of a hat, had the country's milliners, manufacturers and department store buyers in a state bordering on hysteria.

After all, if the Duchess wore no hat, what if the country's 50,000,000 hat-wearing women followed suit?

It took the millinery industry years to recover from the debutante no-hat vogue launched 10 years ago by the then No. 1 deb, Brenda Frazier.

The vision of another such catastrophe thrust upon them by the Duchess of Windsor resulted in repercussions across the country.

New York's big-name milliners were "shocked". Never, they said, had the Duchess been seen without a hat in daylight, especially in the city when wearing a suit.

Track Down Truth

After hours of sleuthing, this department tracked down the milliner who makes the minute beanies preferred by the Duchess. He is the head of the firm of Braagaard, in New York. Said he:

"But of course the Duchess was wearing a hat when she sailed. It is the little calot type she almost always wears, only smaller. It simply fits across the back of the head, with a little point and is held in place by the small nose veil."

So don't ever say a woman isn't wearing a hat until you look twice. And then be careful that you know the answer to the moot question:

"When is a hat not a hat?"

1,000 Ticket Holders Enjoy Gym Pageant And Ballet On First of Two-Night Run

Tribute must again be paid to Miss Caroline Littlefield, physical director of the YWCA, for giving to Peterborough audiences another evening's entertainment of inspiring and wholesome quality.

Character of her annual gymnasium pageant and novelty ballet is such that interest and applause are keen throughout a two-hour program. This was demonstrated Thursday evening at the Brock Ballroom by a capacity crowd and will no doubt be repeated tonight when the second and final performance is given.

Because there are hundreds of performers and their ages vary from two to two score years there were at times variations in the precision movements and choreography intended by Miss Littlefield. But these minor happenings and rather penings add rather than detract from the entertainment in this case. Tiny tots in confusion are perhaps more delightful than when in order and they are exhibiting a bit of their own personalities and charm.

The costuming, also by Miss Littlefield, is extremely well done and conveys the story of the ballet without variation. The story is titled "Topsy Turvy Beautyland" and the stage setting for Milady (Doris Simmonds) is a lovely mirrored dressing table and chaise lounge. As Miss Debutante returning from the ball, in filmy silver and white gown, she falls asleep and dreams of her conquests and elegant Prince Charming (Mary Dodds) while the luxuries of her boudoir carry out her dream in their dances.

Black spots on white and white spots on black make pretty Beauty Patches of the junior ballet girls and the teen age ballet becomes Rouge and Lipstick in brilliant red ballet dresses with cleverly designed "lipstick" hats. Babies' ballet comes in as tiny, many-colored love birds, led in their dance by the Love Letter (Isabel Crary).

The senior ballet portrayed lanquid Perfumes in subtle gowns of fuschia and then became Dream Waltz Maidens as the story drew to conclusion and Milady awakened. This class also did a snappy "Gay Nineties" chorus number in recognition of the YWCA 60th anniversary and were costumed accordingly with colorful skirts, held high in the dance to show the inevitable garter.

Senior gym girls also took a major part in the program and demonstrated wand routine, gymnastics, relaxation routine, and medau eurhythmics, as well as participating in the circle routine with cadets and juniors and the grand march. "Silver Reeds" was a new routine of the cadets. Junior gym girls had a lovely playtime with balls and skipping ropes and the tiny tots did some fancy "gymnastics" to nursery rhyme tunes.

Seven senior girls were in the special class that did expert club swinging, and some very tricky baton twirling was demonstrated by some of the high-stepping "Majorettes" who looked very trim in regulation costumes made up in black and white.

Popular and classical music was molded by the special orchestra for both the gym pageant and ballet. Pianists were Mrs. Mildred McBride, and Mrs. Lilliam Rawson, violinists Mrs. Evelyn Foster and Walter Farr and Walter Dyer was at the drums.

Mr. Douglas Anderson of the Lion's Club formally opened the performance and members of his club were ushers, seating more than 1,000 persons. Evidence is that ticket sales for this evening are higher but extra seating accommodation is being arranged.

WMS Asks Tests For Drunkenness, Opposes Raffles

TORONTO, June 1.—Amendment of the criminal code, and the Canada Evidence Act, to legalize the use by police of recently developed scientific methods of recording percentages of alcohol in the blood, also to admit results of such tests as evidence in all courts of law, was asked by the resolution passed at yesterday's sessions of the annual meeting of the Dominion Board WMS, United Church, in Emmanuel College.

Use of such methods would enable police not only to obtain more convictions of drunk drivers, but would also establish the innocence of non-drinking drivers involved, it was stated.

The meeting also recorded its opposition to "all forms of liquor advertising, direct or indirect, particularly that in magazines which, because of their otherwise good educational value, are placed in our schools as supplementary reading."

Commercialized Sunday sports and gambling in its many forms, some of which "is even carried on by church and service groups under the name of raffles," were also opposed by resolutions passed. Members were urged "to take no part in games of chance nor lend their names as patrons to organizations which carry on gambling in any form."

The meeting also asked the federal government to donate further amounts wheat to India just as soon as the new crop is available, and that the price of this not be deducted from India's share in the Colombo plan. (Canada has already sold and delivered 300,000 tons of wheat to India this year.)

Library Has New Addition For Children

TORONTO — (CP)— The increased demand for books by children of pre-high school age in Toronto has resulted in building an extension to Boys and Girls House of the Toronto Public Libraries which was opened here recently.

"Here, children may enjoy themselves in a free unregimented manner," said Dr. C. C. Goldring, director of education for the city.

The three-room cream brick addition to the library, especially scaled for children, is colorful and spacious. The 70 by 40 foot building is designed to accommodate boys and girls who have run up the circulation from 24,000 to 120,000 books in some 25 years.

Theatre, circulation room and workroom are all designed to be on one floor. There is neither plaster nor paint in the childrens' rooms. Instead brick, acoustictile, and stained birch reduce soil and cleaning to a minimum.

Always Crowded.

The 125-seat theatre has red brick walls and a [illegible] concrete floor. Attendance at the theatre is so crowded that a roomy hallway has been planned just outside to accommodate lineups.

The librarians' workroom is just like a modern streamlined kitchen, except that the cutlery drawers are for book posters and the grocery shelves for new books.

"We believe that such libraries contribute enormously to education in its widest and most importance sense," said C. R. Sanderson, Toronto's chief librarian.

The original house will now be the administration centre for public library work with boys and girls throughout the city. Under Miss Lillian H. Smith, city circulation has reached 1,500,000 yearly. The Osborne collection of 1,800 children's books of by gone years is kept in the old building.

Havelock Club Honors Mrs. Sisco

HAVELOCK, June 1 (ENS)—Mrs Bruce A. Curtis entertained the bridge club on Wednesday evening, when the members bade farewell to Mrs. George Sisco who is leaving to take up residence in Shelburne where Mr Sisco is a member of the Bank of Toronto staff.

Mrs. Sisco was presented with a set of four bottles of cologne in an attractive case. Mrs. R. Sayers made the presentation and Mrs. G. Kennedy read the address.

Those present were: Mesdames H. J. McNeely, James Wilde, G. Crook, W. M. Judd, W. Nobes Jr., R. Sayers, G. Hubbel Russell Williams, D. McMillan, G. Kennedy, E. D. Chiles, F. Rutherford, D. Scott, F. McKenzie, G. W. McNabb.

Mrs. Gray's Home Again Setting For Chapter Tea

A delightful yearly event is the Lilac Tea of the Otonabee Chapter, IODE, for which Mrs. F. A. Gray provides the setting, at her home, 218 Aylmer St. Situated on a tree-shaded part of the street it was an ideal location on Thursday when the sun gave the last day of May a temperature of 83 degrees.

Chapter regent Mrs. A. R. McWilliams assisted Mrs. Gray in receiving the crowd of friends who attended. They were ushered to the tea room by Mrs. W. Comstock.

Lovely golden-colored tulips flecked with red studded the bouquet of lilacs and lily of the valley whicth centred the tea table and they were complemented with golden yellow tapers. The hostess had gathered the flowers from her own garden and also those for the bouquets in the living room and on the verandah.

The table setting was completed with a lace cloth and a handsome silver tray and matching tea service.

Mrs. F. D. Kerr and Mrs. B Jackson poured tea in turn and Mrs. S A. Archibald and Mrs. F. Mowry served.

Mrs. A. E. Dryland convened the tea and was assisted by Mrs. W. Jackson who replenished plates and Mrs. N. Andrews in the kitchen.

There was a drawn on a chiffon angel cake which Mrs. F. J. A. Hall donated for the tea and Mrs R. J. Martin sold tickets. The winner was Mrs W. A. Davern.

Mrs. D. E. Bell was at the door to welcome the guests and Mrs. I. Rattenbury was taking the admission.

Proceeds of the tea will be used to further the welfare work of this Chapter.

3 Of Study Group Heard On Radio

The pension plan covering all permanent employees of the City of Peterborough was explained in general terms by Miss Margaret McCulloch at the meeting of the Study Group on Civic Affairs held Thursday evening at the YWCA. Miss McCulloch also told of the benefits available through the Group Life Insurance Scheme and the plan for sick leave.

Interesting reports on the May meetings of the Board of Education and of the city council were presented.

At ten o'clock the group listened over CHEX to a panel discussion on the Rights of Women in which three members of the study group were taking part, Mrs. C. K. Hurst, Mrs. T. J. Carley and Mrs. Blake Bell.

Mrs. W. E Eanning presided at the meeting.

London Woman Asks Brotherhood

LONDON— (CP)— A campaign for a one-world brotherhood has been launched by Mrs. Violet Van der Elst, Britain's militant foe of capital punishment.

After inserting an advertisement in the personal columns of a London paper, Mrs. Van der Elst reported that she had been deluged wtih telephone calls and letters from people interested in her campaign.

She plans to forsake temporarily her activities for abolition of the death penalty and concentrate on the world brotherhood drive.

"I have already had the details of 1,000,000 of them and hope to find 1,000,000 of them and my experience as an occulist tells me that now is the right time."

Weaving Club Forced To Disband

MELFORT, Sask.,—(CP)—Melfort Weaving Club, noted in the west for its handicraft work, is being disbanded after eight years of operation. Dwindling membership was cited.

The Melfort group won innumerable prizes across the country and was responsible for bringing 64 similar clubs into operation in Saskatchewan.

The group's first venture— the weaving of five yards of brown material— was selected to be displayed in Montreal. In 1946 articles were sent to the Canadian Handicraft display in Vancouver.

Eighteen women made up the first membership and between them they collected enough money to buy a loom. This was loaned to each member for a month at a time.

DOROTHY DIX

13-Year-Old Girl Too Young To Go Out With Boy Alone

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have a daughter (an only child) who is almost 13. On Monday nights she goes to Girl Scout meetings; on Wednesday nights she takes dancing lessons with my husband or me taking her into town and calling for her; on Friday nights she goes to the school dances with the gang. We have always encouraged her to bring her friends home and have tried to make them feel welcome and have some refreshments handy. We have never objected if some boy walked her home from the dances and have let her go out at night with the gang as long as there were chaperones along, or to go anywhere in the daytime without chaperones.

Dorothy Dix

Now she has met a boy at dancing school who seems to be very nice and is well-mannered. He wants to take her to the movies, which is about six blocks from our home, on Saturday night. Her father objects, saying she is too young to start going out with the boy in the afternoon. I told her to ask the boy over Saturday night to play records and dance, or watch television, but she says that would be boring, and that we are treating her like a baby. Do you think we are wrong, and are being a little old-fashioned? At what age should a girl be allowed to have dates at night? I will appreciate any help you can give me.

MRS. H. E. M.

ANSWER: Your daughter is a very lucky girl to be allowed the freedom she has, and to have such understanding parents.

Others Worse Off

If she could see the pile of mail I get from girls 17, 18 and even 20, whose parents never permit them out at night, she would cease to bemoan her fate and settle down to enjoying the blessings with which Heaven has showered her.

The problem of the age at which a girl should be permitted to go out alone with boys at night is not one with an arbitrary solution.

The right age for one girl would not be the right age for another. In some communities where a group of boys and girls have grown up together from babyhood, were their families are all intimate friends and where the places of amusement frequented are known to all families, the problem is usually settled without too much fuss. However, where the boy is a stranger to the girl's family, the parents naturally feel that they must exercise more caution, and the problem becomes involved. Another very important factor is the character of the girl. Is she close enough to her parents to confide in them, and to ask questions that she knows will be frankly answered? Does she have enough judgment to keep away from places which will do her reputation no good?

To my mind, a girl under 14 does not have the judgment or the sense of responsibility to warrant her dating at night. Your daughter is too young to go to the movies with a boy alone at night. Let her wait another year. In the meantime, the social program she is now following is certainly a generous one, and should keep her well occupied.

Probably the boy's parents aren't too keen on the idea of the youngsters going out at night, either, and they'll welcome the cooperation you are extending to keep them both from growing up too fast.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My husband works all day long and is so tired when he comes home at night that he does not feel like going out. I am tired, too, from my day's work in the home, and taking care of my baby, and I would like to stay at home, but he insists on my going out and plans out a program for me. He believes that husbands and wives should have affairs with other men and women and tell each other about them. He says that I have no sense because I cannot see that for husbands and wives to philander is the way to enjoy life. Says he is going to quit me unless I stop being so puritanical. I know I have to do as he wishes if I continue to live with him, and it almost crushes my life to do it. Yet I love him and would do anything in the world for him that would please him. Do you think this kind of life will work and bring us happiness. MARIE

ANSWER: I certainly don't. No marriage in the world will stand the strain of a philandering husband and wife, each having their little extra-marital affairs. You cannot be both bond and free, and marriage is bondage. It is two people binding themselves together of their own will and accord. It is giving themselves to each other. It is belonging to each other. And when you break that tie the whole thing goes to pieces.

Also, there is human nature to be considered and it is not possible for any man who loves his wife, or even has any decency of feeling regarding her, to want her to have love affairs with other men.

No woman is under any obligation to continue to live with a husband who insists upon her degrading herself and doing things that violate her conscience and smirch her honor.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Hawaiian Pineapple Rice Topped By Whipped Cream

QUESTION: After reading your articles I would like to know if you would give me a few recipes on cooking rice to bring each kernel out separately. Please send calorie chart. J. C. P.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Would you please see tomorrow night's column for my method of cooking rice so that grains do not mat together?

Hawaiian Pineapple Rice

One cup washed but uncooked rice, 1 No. 2 can crushed pineapple, 1 cup brown sugar, 1 cup water, ¼ cup butter, ¼ teaspoon salt. Mix all ingredients together and bake in greased baking dish at 325 deg. Fahr. for 2 hours or until rice is tender. It requires stirring twice or three times, and may need a little extra liquid, such as water, or pineapple juice. Serve with unsweetened whipped cream piled in sherbet glasses for dessert.

I'll send the calorie chart when my new supply arrives.

QUESTION: Thanks for the good class of recipes and advice you are giving us every day.

I am writing to you with a problem. I enclose my recipe for cocoanut macaroons which seems a normal enough recipe. My trouble is that, though the macaroons are perfectly baked, the cocoanut inside has turned the color of a tired old mushroom, brown as mahogany. What causes this? And why can't I make macaroons like other people do? Please understand that the cookies are not at all burned or even dark on the outside, its all in the cocoanut. I have used both the dessicated and the other kind of cocoanut. Mrs. H. J. B.

ANSWER: I do not claim to be psychic but I am wondering if you are baking those macaroons on an aluminum cookie sheet and the long period in the oven with the heat turned off could be causing discoloration? Try the same recipe baked on a tin or glass dish. If they still discolor try my recipe:

✧ ✧ ✧

Cocoanut Macaroons

Three egg whites, ¾ cup fruit sugar, 1½ cups shredded cocoanut (try the kind in tins and the kind you buy in a paper bag at two different batches), 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat whites until stiff and gradually beat in ½ cup of the sugar; continue beating until mixture holds its shape. Sift remaining sugar over top and fold in lightly, then fold in cocoanut and flavoring. Drop from teaspoon onto buttered tin or glass baking sheet and bake at 250 deg. Fahr. for 30 minutes and remove from oven. They should not collapse when removed. If they do, bake longer.

If my suggestions do not work try very dry cocoanut. Let me know how you make out.

QUESTION: I really enjoy your daily column and have learned a good deal from it. Would you please send calorie chart? I would also like recipes for Dream Cake, Cabbage Rolls, and any tips you might have on summer salads.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: I will forward Calorie Chart when my new supply comes.

Walnut Dream Cakes

One cup butter, 1¼ cups sifted cake flour, 1¼ cups brown sugar, 2 eggs, ½ teaspoon baking powder, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1½ cups moist shredded cocoanut, 1 cup chopped walnuts. Mix the butter with 1 cup of the flour and ¼ cup of the sugar until it is a fine blend then press into square pan. Bake 15 minutes at 325 deg. Fahr. Beat egg until light and add remaining sugar. Fold in remaining flour sifted with the baking powder. Add remaining ingredients and spread over baked mixture. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 20 minutes. Cut into squares while warm.

See last night's paper for summer salads and next week's Saturday column for cabbage rolls.

95 Nurses Get Their Diplomas

TORONTO, June 1— (CP) — Ninety-five nurses Thursday night received graduation diplomas at commencement exercises of the Toronto General Hospital School of Nursing.

Speaking of recent changes in nursing service, Mary E. Macfarland, superintendent of nurses, said nurses now spend less time with patients than in the past.

"Yet the sense of importance of the tasks, the pride of performing duties as well as is humanly possible remains."

Margaret Wood, of Stratford, was awarded a scholarship for post-graduate study in nursing.

DURBAN, South Africa (CP)— A new type of soya bean that may be successfully grown in South Africa has been produced by Dr. A. R. Saunders, director of the Agricultural Research Institute. The new plant has a three-inch stem and may be mechanically harvested without harming the pods.

Exclusive Club Fits Debs For Important Careers

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON—(CP)—The debutante of 1951 makes her curtsy to the king and queen and hurries back to school to catch-up on training she has missed.

That, at least, is the opinion of Miss Marian Ellison, founder of London's exclusive "Club of the Three Wise Monkeys."

The Monkey Club, as it is commonly known, is a school that teaches debutantes how to earn their own living and how to play a useful part in world affairs. Scholars are taught everything from languages, literature, philosophy and the arts to domestic science, dress-making and secretarial work. There are also such things as a court curtsy and deportment.

Determined Students

Started in 1923 at a club to encourage cultural studies, the school quickly overcame parental opposition to "over-schooling" young women of that day. Now students start with determination to fit themselves for a useful and happy life as far removed from that of their predecessors as life today is from that of 100 years ago.

Those taking life-membership in the club can return ot school anytime. Doing just that is Mrs. Peggy McCulloch Jacobson, of Montreal. Keenly interested in literature, Mrs. Jacobson returns yearly for lectures on this subject. Her 1951 visit was made in May.

Canadian Members

"We have had many Canadian members throughout the years," Miss Ellison said in an interview. "We always find them good and eager students."

The only Canadian resident at the moment is 17-year-old Susan

Taxi Fares Up

LONDON, June 1. (Reuters) — Taxi fares in London are to go up again by one-third from next Monday—the second increase of 33⅓ per cent since last June. But before then taxi fares had been the same for 17 years. The minimum fare now will be one shilling, two pence. It will cost one shilling 10 pence to go a mile, three shillings for two miles and four shillings for three miles.

Drunk Drivers Can Have Blood Tests

WINDSOR, June 1 (CP). — An opporunity to have a blood test will be offered all drivers arrested here on drunk driving charges, Crown Attorney MacDonald announced Thursday.

He said Dr. W. H. Asseltine of Windsor has been commissioned to take the tests.

Mr. MacDonald made the announcement during the trial of Neville Lancaster, who complained he had not had an opportunity to have a blood test to prove his innocence. He was acquitted by Magistrate MacMillan, as was Joseph Baker, 21, a similar charge.

Mr. MacDonald pointed out that there would be no compulsion in connection with the blood tests.

The use of the tests, he said, has been approved by higher courts and although they cannot be considered conclusive evidence they form the best scientific evidence available.

Some courts are opposed to the use of tests in evidence. Their reliability and admissability is likely to be contested.

City Hobbyists Win 12 Awards

Twelve special awards were presented to work of Peterborough handcraft guilds this week at the Oshawa Hobby Fair.

By invitation the four guilds pottery, leather, metal and weaving, sent exhibits similar to those which have been appearing in Peterborough.

Prizes were presented for only the Oshawa and district work. For those exhibits on display from other centres, special awards, ribbons, were presented.

The metal craft group whose work included trays, lantern, candy dish, fork, silver cream jug, and a cigarette box received seven awards. These went to Mrs. James Wharry, three, Mrs. S. W. Downs, two, and Mrs. Cyril Crowe and Mrs. J. H. Miles, one each.

The other five awards went to the weaving guild for its bags, scarfs and other work. They were presented to Mrs. H. Steggles, Mrs. H. Walker and Mrs. H. Niven for their work.

Exclusive Club

Harvey of St. John's Nfld. (Bel Air). Susan shares a room with 18-year-old Lavinia Leighton, eldest daughter of Sir Richard and Lady Leighton of Shrewsbury. Both have attended presentation parties and often discuss invitations open to debutantes during London's festival year.

Susan hopes to return to St. John's in October, a full-fledged secretary, speaking both French and Spanish. She will then work wtih her father, a prominent Newfoundland businessman.

Although fees are fairly high—about £94 for a 26-week secretarial course, not including club membership and other outlays—applications for membershpi greatly exceed available accommodation. All applications must be recommended by two accepted members with at least two years' standing.

After a 10 weeks probationary membership, new scholars are either accepted or asked to leave. "All members who cannot live to our standards must go," said Miss Ellison. "This, however, rarely happens and all we ask is self-discipline, honor and a will to work."

Pistol Unregistered Youth Is Fined $10

Sidney Franski, 18, of Birch Creek, paid a $10 and $2.50 fine in police court today after pleading guilty to possessing an unregistered pistol.

He told Magistrate W. R. Philp that the pistol's former owner told him he needed no registration papers for the gun. "I think it's common knowledge that these pistols must be registered," remarked the magistrate.

OPP Constable Bert Howden, who laid the charge, said the pistol was sold to Franski a short time ago, and the former owner had not registered it either.

Queen Plants Trees Sent By Canadian

MANCHESTER, England, June 1—(Reuters)—The Queen Thursday planted a maple tree from Canada in the grounds of Ashburne Hall, the biggest residential college for women students at Manchester University.

The Queen was taking part in the university's centenary celebrations, and received an honorary degree of doctor of law.

The sapling tree was sent to Manchester by F. S. Newman, regional forester of Erie district St. Williams, Ont.

J. Burns Heads Theatre Group

PORT HOPE, June 1 — John Burns, a teacher at Trinity College School, was elected president of the new community theatre of Port Hope at the organizational meeting in the town hall.

William Hutt, well-known Canadian actor, and a guest speaker for the evening congratulated the 50 enthusiastic supporters of the new theatre group who attended.

He contended that something novel is what creates an audience and he suggested that the new group keep "new faces and new plays" continually before the public.

Touching on the problem of finding actors and actresses, he said, "Don't worry about that. That is the least of our worries. Deep, down, everyone has the urge to get on the stage and act."

C. A. Weir, community programs branch representative of the Department of Education also congratulated the group and pledged the support of his department.

Edgar Stone, head of community programs drama department outlined the services the new theatrical group can obtain in Toronto such as book-loans. He also mentioned the possibility of leadership training courses, once the local theatre is underway.

The other members of the executive are vice-presidents John Hill, John Black; secretary, Mrs. Gwen Berry; treasurer, J. B. Hawken; executive committee, Sam Riesler, Al Gooderham, Mrs. Alex Murray, Mrs. Greta Whitton, Mrs. John Garland and Mrs. R. C. Wilson.

Youth, 18, Fined Having Liquor

An 18-year-old Apsley youth, William Scott, was today fined $100 and $2.50 costs when he pleaded guilty to possessing liquor not bought on his permit.

The alternative Magistrate W. R. Philp gave him was three months in jail. Scott said he didn't have enough for the fine.

Police believe Scott got his liquor through a Peterborough bootlegger. He was arrested in Anstruther township by OPP Constable Bert Howden.

The fine imposed on Scott was the minimum for the charge. Persons convicted of the charge can be fined as much as $1000. Scott also pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and $2.50 costs or 10 days on a charge of illegally obtaining liquor when he was under 21.

Hope To Balance Wool Supply Next Season

By FORBES RHUDE
Canadian Press Business Editor

The textile experts and executives of tomorrow are coming out of their classrooms, and the way is being made easier for new classes to go in.

At St. Hyacinthe, Que., Thursday, the St. Hyacinthe Textile School held its third annual convocation, with 27 graduates receiving their diplomas after four years of training. All have jobs waiting for them.

At Hamilton, a revolving loan fund designed to help deserving students over rough financial spots is being set up by the provincial Institute of Textiles, which will hold its second annual graduation tomorrow.

Eleven graduates of the day school, and four of the night school, will receive diplomas, and they, too, have jobs awaiting them.

Wool For Defence

Military needs in the next wool season will take about 275,000,000 pounds (clean) of virgin wool, or about 12 per cent of the world's supply, for current requirements and normal reserves, but excluding stockpiling.

This estimate was given by F. S. Arthur, general manger of the United Kingdom Wool Disposals, Ltd., at the recent annual conference of the International Wool Textile Organization in Barcelona.

He described military needs as "large but not overwhelming." To some extent they would not displace civilian orders, but would take the place of civilian orders not forthcoming because of consumer resistance to high prices. He added, however:

"The quantity is sufficiently large to place an obligation upon governments to judge the effects of their announcements and operations, if we are to avoid further fluctuations as violent as this season's There is a great need for careful timing of the placing of contracts to coincide with availability of supplies of the right types on the wool markets."

Mr. Arthur estimated world wool supplies in the 1951-1952 season at 2,300,000,000 pounds (clean), about the same as this season.

World consumption of wool had exceeded current production over the four years 1947-1950 by 17 per cent, but consumption fell sharply in the first quarter of this year.

"Given moderation in the rearmament requirements of governments and a planned spreading of military contracts, it was not unreasonable to expect that demand and supply would come into approximate balance during the approaching season...."

Thinks Canada's Duty To Stand By Pact

OTAWA, June 1 — (CP). — Agriculture Minister Gardiner told the Commons Thursday night he thinks Canada should stand by undertakings under the international wheat agreement.

Rejecting Opposition suggestions that this country initiate a move to boost the price paid under the four-year pact, he said he does not think Canada should try to interfere with the provision of an agreement which she signed.

The maximum price under the agreement is $1.80 a bushel in US funds.

Those who helped to draft the agreement never had expected a signatory would seek a price change during the term of the pact. If that was allowed to happen, "you have no agreement."

Declare Martial Law

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, June 1 —Martial law was declared Thursday in Managua and Granada after a strike of students in Granada and an attempt by agitators to persaude those in Managua to do the same. The strikers objected to President Anastascio Somoza's order closing the University of Granada and merging it with the University of Leon.

Draft-Dodging

NEW YORK, June 1. (AP)—Roosevelt Ward, Jr., 21-year-old national administrative secretary of the Labor Youth League was arrested by the Federal Bureau of Investigation Thursday on a draft-dodging charge. The league is on the attorney-general's list of subversive organizations.

Charge Butchering

TAIPEH, Formorsa, June 1 (AP) —Chinese Nationalists said today they will charge Chinese Communists with butchering large masses of people in mainland China. Delegate Cheng Hien-fang will make the charge to the United Nations educational, scientific and cultural organization in Paris June 18.

UN Army To Shift Tactics In Korea, Stop Chasing Reds

TOKYO, June 2. (AP)—Lt.-Gen. James A. Van Fleet said today the Eighth Army has quit chasing Communists in North Korea but will continue to block Communist agression. The United Nations ground commander gave no clue to possible future Allied operations. He left unanswered the question: Will the UN Allies stand where they are now, just a few miles north of the Red Korea border, or will they strike out for specific targets? When the new censorship rules were announced United Nations forward elements had run up against a bristling Chinese and Korean Communist defence line a short distance inside North Korea. This line had been strongly reinforced overnight.

There were two possible reasons for Van Fleet's announcements:

1—The Red reinforcements.

2—The Allies might be running out of steam after hurling back the biggest force the Reds ever had thrown against them.

Halt Aggression

Van Fleet told a press conference the Eighth Army has ended its "pursuit phase" of operations, but "will continue, however, to stop the enemy's unwarranted aggression against South Korea, and will, when necessary and profitable, meet such threats within North Korea.

He said the Reds were "crippled severely" but are not exhausted and have reserves for "still another round"

The Eighth Army Commander said the UN Allies inflicted more than 100,000 casualties, including 10,000 captured, on the Communists in the Reds' second spring drive, from May 16 through May 31.

The Defence Department in Washington listed Red casualties for the period at 162,000.

"We can whip that Chinese army—any place, anywhere," Van Fleet said. "As I've said many times before, the Chinese army in Korea has not got a chance, and the best thing for them to do is to go home."

He said the United Nations counter-offensive that pushed the Reds back into North Korea had surprised the Communist high command as well as the individual Red soldier.

Terrible Toll

"It inflicted a terrible toll in killed and wounded," he said.

"The toll taken of some units is exemplified by the prisoner report which shows 80 to 90 per cent ineffectiveness of certain Communist divisions."

United Nations airmen loosed a napalm and rocket attack Saturday on busy enemy rail yards north of Pyongyang, the North Korean capital, and pilots reported that flames from at least 20 burning boxcars shot more than 100 feet into the air.

The attacking jet pilots said the cars were loaded with supplies.

Living Costs Slowed By Food Drop

OTTAWA, June 2 — (CP) — Prices of butter, pork, oranges and cabbage dropped in April, slowing the cost-of-living index to its smallest advance in six months.

The Bureau of Stastistics reported Friday that the index went up 0.2 points in April, bringing it to a record 182.0 from 181.8.

The food sub-group which has climbed 20 points since last November finally back-pedalled 3.0 points to 235.4 from a peak of 238.4.

All foods did not go down in price—eggs and beef, for instance went up—but those that dropped went down enough to be the main factor in halting the breakneck advances of the index in previous months.

In March the index — which is based on 1935-1939 prices equalling 100—went up 2.1 points and in February it went up 4.5—the highest index jump in history.

Fuel Down

Besides food the only significant drop in April was in the fuel and light sub-group. The first drop in this group in seven months, the sub-index went down 0.5 points to 146.2 from a record 146.7. Lower prices for anthracite coal in Eastern Canada pulled the group down, but higher electricity rates in British Columbia prevented a substantial decline.

Ever upward was the story of the index in all other fields—home furnishings, floor coverings, electrical equipment, cigarettes, tobacco, tires, men's clothing and footwear.

Rents were not surveyed and the index remained unchanged at its peak of 137.6. The next sur-

King's Health Causing Worry

LONDON June 2—(CP)—Diplomats attached to the Court of St. James said Friday the health of King George is causing his physicians and family considerable anxiety.

Buckingham Palace doctors announced the ailing King is suffering from a small catarrhal inflammation of a lung — which chest specialists said is a slight form of pneumonia.

The King, who is confined to his room at Buckingham Palace, was seen again by his doctors Friday night, but no bulletin was issued.

The 55-eyar-old monarch seems strained, tired and aged, said one envoy who saw him recently after an interval of several months.

The Kings' advisers have suggested that Princess Elizabeth, the heir presumptive, and her husband, Prince Philip, should take over more of the King's public duties. This would enable him to have more rest.

Church Group Lodges Protest With Council

MONTREAL, June 2 (CP) — The Rev. E. L. Lassegues of Central Pentecostal Church, Montreal, and a group of members Friday night lodged a protest with Mayor E. Pratt and city council of nearby Longueuil against a demonstration which followed a meeting Thursday night.

Mr. Lassegues said after the meeting that an investigation was promised and the delegation would hear from the council "shortly."

Mr. Lassegues, a speaker at the meeting in the home of A. Lincourt, denied first reports that the group was made up of members of the Jehovah's Witnesses sect. He said they were members of various churches of Pentecostal assemblies of Canada and numbered about 25.

Of Police Chief Jules Brossard's statement that the crowd outside was dispersed when a fire hose was put into play, Mr. Lassegues said: "I believe some of the crowd were cooled off a bit temporarily but the fact that the rioting, which started about 10.30, continued to 2.30 a.m. is proof that the crowd was not quelled. There must have been between 300 and 400 in the mob."

Price-Warring Stores Mobilize For Rush

NEW YORK, June 2 —(AP)—Price-warring department stores —their supply lines threatened by some manufacturers — mobilized today for a big Saturday buyers' rush.

The battle of the price tag entered its fourth day with a weekend influx of out-of-towners expected to swell the crowds.

Only a few stores showed signs of retreating in the selling fever while the main antagonists continued to trade blows.

Meanwhile, Memphis, Tenn., became the first big city outside New York to react to a Supreme Court limitation on fair-trade price-fixing agreements. At least two Memphis stores reported

Butter Price Controlled By Provinces

Not Up To Ottawa Gardiner Tells Complaining MP's

OTTAWA, June 2. (CP) — Power to control butter prices —which shot as high as 84 cents a pound last spring — rests with the provinces, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said on Friday.

He told the Commons that any province could have stepped in and controlled the price of butter when it began a phenomenal spring rise from a wartime level of 62 to 64 cents a pound. The Federal Government did not have the authority.

The butter discussion arose during study of Mr. Gardiner's departmental estimates, with opposition members asking why the price went so high and why the government didn't stop it.

He explained that the butter price held at the 62-to-64 cent rate while the government had butter in storage. After government supplies were exhausted the week of March 24, the price jumped to as high as 84 cents, even though there was butter still in storage in private hands in the country.

Mr. Gardiner disclosed that the government has not yet purchased any butter at its floor price of 58 cents a pound for this year.

If it is found necessary to import butter this year, it will be done by the government, not by the trade.

The slow-moving agricultural debate was enlivened by a minor tiff between eastern and western members, with John Blackmore (SC-Lethbridge) telling Maritimers not to "everlastingly whine and complain" because others were getting something they wanted.

The exchange was touched off after he asked Mr. Gardiner to show that all farmers were getting an equal share of federal assistance, and A. J. Brooks (PC-Royal) interjected that the east didn't share in the west's $65,000,000 wheat payment.

The Maritimers, said Mr. Blackmore, should speak for their own welfare instead of criticizing others.

"The sooner we all do that, instead of acting like a lot of silly crabs, the better we will get along," he suggested.

Dan Riley (L-St. John-Albert) took exception to the description of Maritimers as "whiners" and "crabs," and Mr. Blackmore withdrew his remarks.

Conference Report Given To Morrison

LONDON, June 2 (Reuters)—The British spokesman at the Big Four Deputies talks in Paris, Ernest Davies, reported to Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison today on the chances of Russia agreeing to a foreign ministers' conference in Washington in July.

Davies flew home from Paris Friday night for a weekend break in the deadlocked 13-week Paris talks. He will go back Monday when the talks continue.

DOUGLAS BROOKS, 20, 346 Aylmer St. was hurt when his motorcycle, seen lying in a pool of spilled gasoline, and a car driven by Mrs. Mary Edwards, 7 Engleburn Ave., crashed at McDonnel and George Sts. Friday afternoon. Brooks, who suffered a broken nose and concussion, was released from hospital an hour and a half later. Constable Donald Mackay, who investigated, is shown pointing down the street as he talks with driver Mrs. Edwards, who is hidden in her car by reflections on the windshield.—Examiner Staff Photo.

Britain Leading Discussion Of Korean Plans

LONDON, June 2 (Reuters)—Britain has taken the lead in discussing with other interested powers what new steps are advisable for ending the Korean struggle by negotiation with Communist China, a Foreign Office spokesman said today.

The British government had been in touch with American, Commonwealth, French and other interested governments over a long period on the problem, the spokesman said.

He had been asked to comment on a report that Foreign Secretary Herbert Morrison had approached the United Nations with a proposal to prepare negotiation machinery.

In Touch With Others

The spokesman said this was a subject about which Britain had been in touch with the other governments.

It was undertood that in the light of the military developments in Korea the discussions had recently been intensified.

Morrison has said he is in favor of seizing the psychological moment for negotiations with China.

Today's report about negotiation machinery said it would consist of:

1. A revised statement of United Nations policy aims in Korea.

2. An approach to China to obtain a cease-fire followed by a peace conference.

Stinging Defeat For Italy Reds

ROME, June 2 (AP). —The full scope of the stinging defeat handed the Communists in local elections in Northern Italy was revealed today in final figures published by the Ministry of the Interior.

Christian Democrats won 34 of the 53 cities of more than 30,000 population. They formerly controlled 19.

2. Christian Democrats won 109 of 152 cities with populations between 10,000 and 30,000. They formerly controlled 64.

3. The Christian Democrats took 1,570 of the towns under 10,000 with the Communists winning 689. The anti-Reds formerly had 1,112.

De Gasperi has just concluded a campaign tour of Sicily where he spoke in three major cities.

The campaign ended Friday night in accordance with Italian law which prescribes a 24-hour cooling off before the polls open.

About 2,500,000 Sicilians will vote Sunday for 90 deputies to the regional parliament.

Camp Destroyed

TIMMINS, June 2—(CP)—A tractor driven into a lake was the only piece of equipment not destroyed when flames from a bush fire south of here swept through a mining town. The fire was so intense that aircraft could not venture on the lake until one day later.

Phone Operator Attacked In Elizabeth's Residence

LONDON, June 2. (Reuters)—Police today were still trying to get a clear picture of what happened Friday night when an unidentified man attacked a telephone operator in Clarence House, Princess Elizabeth's London home. They said the switchboard operator, Joan Miles, 40, who started work there only two weeks ago, was unable to give them a coherent account of the incident. She said the man, after punching her on the nose and knocking her out, escaped by fleeing through a door.

A clearer story of the encounter is expected by the authorities later today, when they question the switchboard operator again.

Miss Miles, after treatment at a hospital for scratches on an arm, was returned to Clarence House on Friday night. Police had cordoned off the building with squad cars and motorcycle patrols.

Princess At Home

The encounter took place in the ground-floor switchboard room, the operator said. Princess Elizabeth had just returned from a day at the Epsom races, and her children Prince Charles and Princess Anne, were in their rooms at the time.

Police said Friday that "preliminary investigations have indicated that no unauthorized person entered Clarence House during the evening."

Sentries, with fixed bayonets, regularly patrol outside the residence. Two are on duty inside, one of whom, the London Star reported, was stationed outside the switchboard room.

John Erskine Author Dies

NEW YORK, June 2 — (AP). —Author John Erskine, 71, died at his Park Avenue home early today.

With him at the time of his death was his wife Helen.

Novelist Fulton Oursler, who was summoned after Erskine died, said that Erskine had been suffering from a heart ailment for about 18 months.

Erskine wrote 45 books — the latest of them "Venus the Lovely Goddess," published in 1949.

Ireland Gets Coalition Gov't

DUBLIN, June 2 —(AP)—Irish voters found today their ballots produced one clear conclusion—several parties, rather than a single one, will have to form a new government. Prime Minister John A. Costello appears to have the best chance to head the new combine, already under study.

Costello led the coalition that governed Republic of Ireland for the past three years. He put up a stiff fight against former Premier Eamon de Valera's Fianna Fail (Soldiers of Destiny) in Wednesday's general election.

Fianna Fail had hoped to win a clearcut majority and gain control of the Dail, the influential lower house of parliament. The party won more votes than any other, but fell short of its goal, winning only 69 of the 147 seats. Its members held 67 in the old Dail.

Final standings were Fianna Fail, 69 seats; the four coalition parties centred in Costello's Fine Gael (United Ireland), 64 seats; Independents, 14.

Fine Gael provided most of the coalition's strength, winning 40 seats. Labor won 16, Farmers, 6, and Republicans, 2.

The 14 Independents were in a strong balancing position. Independent support kept Costello's cabinet in the saddle in the old Dail.

Got Radar Faster

MONTREAL, June 2—(CP) — English scientists developed the possibilities of radar faster than United States scientists Sir Henry Tizard, scientific adviser to the United Kingdom Minister of Defence, said Friday night. Addressing the Canadian Association of Physicists, he said that although the invention came simultaneously from both countries, the English developed radar fas-

Five Companions Injured When Strewn Along Road For Distance Of 75 Feet

Toronto Youths On Way To Scout Camp For Weekend Holiday, Driver Said Blinded By Lights Of Other Car

A 17-year-old Toronto Boy Scout, Ian Ritchie, is dead and five of his companions are in Lindsay hospital with injuries received late Friday night when the convertible in which they were riding rolled over twice on a county road, three miles north of Kinmount. Here is the casualty list: Dead is Ian Ritchie, 52 West Ave., Toronto. Injured are: William Gordon, 19, driver of the convertible; Robert Nash, 11, and Harry Nash, 13, both of 115 Pape Ave.; Robert Holt, 14, 169 McCaul St., and Robert Oakley, 14, First, Ave., all of Toronto.

The driver, William Gordon, told police that he became temporarily blinded by the headlights of an approaching car. His own car with the five passengers went out of control, and went into the ditch rolling over twice.

The boys were tossed out of the open-topped car at intervals for a distance of 75 feet.

Suffering From Shock

Hospital authorities said today that the five are all suffering from severe shock and have not yet been X-rayed and given a thorough examination.

Of those admitted Oakley is believed to be in the most serious condition, but one of the Nash brothers has a broken leg and chest injuries.

All have severe cuts on their arms, face and bodies.

Gordon has a compound fracture of the right arm in two places.

On Way To Camp

The Toronto Scouts were on their way to a camp, just north of Kinmount, where they intended to stay for the weekend.

The scoutmaster, Henry Patterson, 25, was also on the trip but was about a mile ahead of the convertible in a truck. It contained the bulk of the camping equipment and seven or eight other Scouts.

Wilbert Bowron, Snowdon township farmer, was one of the first to arrive at the scene of the accident. He had seen the lights of Gordon's car go out and investigated.

He found the youths spilled along the roadside in a bloody 75-foot trail.

The first two Scouts to be removed were young Ritchie, who died before reaching hospital, and

Iranian Premier Holds Secret Session

TEHRAN, Iran, June 2 (AP)—Fever-ridden Premier Mohammed Mossadegh was reported to have left his sickbed today to address a secret session of the Iranian Senate. Informants said he read the text of a letter from President Truman urging negotiation of the explosive oil crisis.

Truman also wrote a personal letter to Prime Minister Attlee of Britain.

(London reports said the message urged Britain to satisfy some of Iran's demands.)

The United States is reported to be worried that Russia may take advantage of the unrest and confusion to extend its influence in the Middle East. This could take the form of direct intervention in northern Iran or perhaps a substitute of Russian technicians for British in the southern oil concessions.

To Receive Mission

Unless Truman's letter has some effect on Iranian officials, the oil company's holdings are scheduled to be formally taken over Monday. Company officials have not responded to the government's request that they participate in the technicalities of this switch-over. The government has indicated that British employees will be retained.

(The London Daily Telegraph said in a dispatch from Tehran today the Iranian government had agreed to receive a British diplomatic mission to talk over Iran's intention to nationalize the British-owned oil industry).

Conducts Own Funeral To Get Service Right

BURLINGTON, Colo., June 2—(AP)—J. W. Gernhardt will conduct his own funeral Sunday.

Gernhardt, 75, is doing it to make sure he'll have the kind of service he wants after he dies, and so he won't "be a lot of trouble" to others then.

He will serve lunch first to the press and others. Then he'll preside over services in the local armory.

The services will be recorded,

New Division Strong Outfit

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA, June 2 — (Reuters) — Canadian troops have joined the British 28th and 29th brigades to create the first Commonwealth division—in fact if not in theory.

With the addition of the powerful Canadian 25th brigade to British formations which include Australian, New Zealand and British troops, the Commonwealth force now is one of the strongest fighting units in Korea.

When Maj.-Gen. J. H. Cassell assumes command of the division and final organization is established, it will have a greater strk-

By simplified organization and by combining unusually-strong brigade groups, the Commonwealth force will bring to the Eighth Army an increase in strength far greater than can be indicated by bare statistics of additional troop reinforcements.

Jack Hughes Organizing National Film Library

OTTAWA, June 2 (CP)—Canada's commercial photographers today were asked to join forces with the National Film Board in setting up what amounts to a National Film Library.

The Film Board, in a circular letter to some 1,600 commercial photographers across the country, notes that it has 90,000 negatives on file, "but even if we had 90,000,000 we still wouldn't have enough."

It invites the commercial men to send it contact proofs of their work, to be placed on file in a central clearing office here.

Suppose you want a picture of Rocky Mountain goats fighting, or of a hydro development in northern Quebec.

Take Your Choice

Instead of beating a path to a dozen or more sources throughout the country and winding up, possibly, with an inferior set of photos, you simply go to the NFB Library.

Attendants check through files and come up with copies of anything that has been taken of Rocky Mountain goats or hydro developments. And you take your choice.

To build up a national library, the Film Board is interested in buying photo stories, or the rights to them—if the photographer wants to sell. If it buys, it would distribute the photos in Canada and perhaps abroad, crediting the photographer.

The library is the brain-child of Jack Hughes, formerly of Peterborough, executive producer of the NFB's still photo division. He hopes, in four or five years, to have 1,000,000 or so prints in the fireproof basement of the board's Sparks Street division.

The Film Board has only three staff photographers to cover all of Canada. Its policy is to use commercial men whenever possible. The library or central clearing house would mean the NFB wouldn't take pictures of something already adequately covered.

Boat Stuck On Reef Find It's A Whale

SANTA BARBARA, Calif., June 2—(AP)—Two fishermen had a whale of a scare Friday but came out of it with only a soaking and a battered boat.

Fred Suhr said he and his partner thought they'd hit a reef, three-fourths of a mile off Santa Barbara breakwater, until the "reef" moved under the boat. It was a whale.

The whale reared up, he said, tipped the boat on its nose and whirled it around, then disappeared with the flash of a big tail. The fishermen managed to bring the 14-foot skiff to shore, shipping water with a couple of ribs stove in.

Strict Censorship Changes Ordered For Korean Stories

US EIGHTH ARMY HEADQUARTERS, Korea, June 2 (AP) —The Eighth Army today clamped down the most restrictive news regulations since censorship was introduced last December.

Until further notice, war correspondents can not identify allied units except as United Nations forces. They can not be identified by unit number or even nationality.

Areas of action may not be identified by commonly accepted front names. No stories may refer to the western, west-central, central, east-central or eastern fronts.

However, correspondents may use such general terms such as "the Imjin river area," for the western front, "the Yonchon area" for the west-central front, "the Hwachon area" for the central front, "the Inje area," for the east-central front, and "the Yangyang area" for the eastern front.

The new rules were issued by Lt.-Col. Philip W. Hutton, chief censor, shortly after Lt.-Gen. James A. Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, told correspondents stringent new rules of censorship would be required by "the new phase the war has entered"

Other restrictions:

No mention can be made of patrol bases or outpost line, or of the establishment of a defensive position or line.

No mention can be made of small towns as reference points from which to measure distance or indicate direction.

UN troops will not be identified precisely with any place name. Towns indicating general areas will be passed.

The use of fronts in datelines will not be passed.

Chief Inspector Heads Mine Disaster Inquiry

LONDON, June 2—(Reuters)—A public inquiry into the mine explosion that killed 80 miners and a rescue worker at Easington colliery Tuesday is to be headed by Sir Andrew Meikle Bryan, the ministry of fuel and power announced Friday night. Bryan is chief inspector of mines.

By Friday, rescue teams had located 38 bodies. They worked in dangerous fumes amidst clouds of dust that slowed progress.

Friday rescue worker Henry Burdness collapsed and died while searching for entombed miners. He was overcome by gas fumes.

Burdness was the second rescue worker to die in the search.

John Erskine Author Dies

NEW YORK, June 2 — (AP). —Author John Erskine, 71, died at his Park Avenue home early today.

With him at the time of his death was his wife Helen.

Novelist Fulton Oursler, who was summoned after Erskine died, said that Erskine had been suffering from a heart ailment for about 18 months.

Erskine wrote 45 books — the latest of them "Venus the Lovely Goddess," published in 1949.

Private Life of Helen of Troy, that brought him popular acclaim. This novel was published in 1925.

He was a co-editor of the Cambridge History of American Literature and the Outline of Literature. He helped plan the Dictionary of American Biography, and his name appears in the first pages:

Muddy City Streets Keep Lady Cyclists Off Wheels

"The young man who stepped off the sidewalk into a mud puddle last night will probably watch where he is going in future and some one on the opposite side of the street. . ." "Muddy streets kept lady cyclists off their wheels yesterday. . "

Those are flashback news squibs of main street in the Peterborough Morning Times of 55 years ago. Brief and ingenuous as they are, they afford reflection of George St. in its dusty macadam surface of "the good old days."

Fred Adlam of Sherbrooke St. brought in several copies of the daily of February, May and June 1896.

Horse Killed

These main street items are almost photographic of street conditions when the taxpayers were a long way from the traffii refinement of asphaltic top on a concrete base. An electric storm with heavy rain that did minor damage around town made nearly half a column in the morning paper. Lightning killed a horse on Aylmer St., but significant in the story and the two news briefs quoted above was the mud puddle, and the suspended cycling.

When the sun dried the streets and the summer wind blew, board of works men brought out sprinkling carts to lay the dust.

The news page indicates acceptance of things as they were, not only in Peterborough but elsewhere in towns of approximately 10,000 people, and even larger, throughout the country.

As to the women's bicycles, temporarily tied up at home, the main street column commented: "It is estimated that there are 800 bicycles in Peterborough. They represent $75,000. This large sum is taken from other branches of business. Who is it that is suffering the loss?"

If that reporter were on the main street scene today and made some reckoning of the number of Peterborough's automobiles and their monetary equivalent, he might be inclined to accept things as they are, and lump the motor vehicles into the current business, possibly with some amazement as to whence comes all the money

Federal Election

There was a federal election that winter, and in Peterborough the candidates were James Kendry, Conservative, and Adam Hall, Liberal.

Mr. Kendry was head of the Auburn Woollen Mills whose site is now occupied by the wool storage building of G. Whitaker & Co. Mr. Hall was proprietor of a stove and tinsmithing business in the present location of the Yeotes poolroom, north of the Royal Bank.

Conservative ward chairmen were: No. 1 ward; Richard Sheehy and T. Frank Matthews; No. 2, Joseph Mills; No. 3, W. S. Robinson; proprietor and publisher of The Morning Times; and No. 4, William Langford.

Ashburnham

Ashburnham was a separate municipality, associated with the county council whose Warden that year was James Middleton, Reeve of Smith, and father of Mr. J. A. Middleton, Park St. north, himself a former reeve of the township and Warden of the county.

The news reported in the Times 55 years ago was much the same record of life and events that it is today. Tension was sharpening between Russia and Japan. Cubans were resenting the severe suzerainty of Spain, whose rule was brewing trouble in the West Indies. The sinking of the US battleship Maine one night in the harbor of Havana flamed into the Spanish-American war, which spread to the Philippines.

Walter Phelan

Walter Phelan, star in local hockey and lacrosse was guest of a dinner on the eve of leaving for a job as traveller for a Winnipeg hardware firm. Senator W. A. Buchanan, now of Lethbridge, was listed in the program as responding to a toast "To the Press." He was reporter for the Daily Review and Alf. Terrill was the Examiner man. H. S. Greenwood, president of the hockey club, was dinner chairman. W. G. Montgomery was captain of the team.

Peterborough curlers trimmed Toronto Granites at the old Charlotte St. rink. The local skips were: George Hatton, KC, for years Crown Attorney; Judge C. A. Weller Dr. R. P. Boucher and W. G. Ferguson. They had dinner afterwards at the Oriental Hotel of which George N. Graham was proprietor.

Most of that building is now occupied by Yolles furniture store Hunter St.

Derby Winner

Lord Derby's Canterbury Pilgrim won the famous Oaks race for three year old fillies at Epsom Downs for 4,500 sovereigns. The entry of the Prince of Wales, afterwards King Edward VII, was second.

Small boys of the day were as mischievous, perhaps, as their successors today. Some farmers were complaining that boys catching on to bobsleighs for a ride were suspected of lifting parcels bought for the farm homes.

The farm teams' speed of five or six miles an hour was the counterpart in 1896 of the automobiles that lure the youngsters of today.

Butter was 16 to 20 cents a pound; potatoes 20 to 25c a bag; dressed pork 4½ to 5c a lb.; hind quarter of lamb 5 to 6c a lb.; cord wood $3.50 to $4 a cord.

Union Meeting

On June 8 plasterers were calling a meeting to organize a union. The Rathbun drive of logs was reported below Young's Point.

Seagram's string of runners were leaving (Berlin) Kitchener for the Woodbine.

Father Scollard

Tickets for the hockey club trip to Toronto, CPR, were $1.75 return. Roman Catholics bade farewell to Rev. Father Scollard, native of Ennismore, who was appointed parish priest at North Bal. He afterwards became first bishop of the northern diocese.

Meetings of the Daughters of England and Knights of the Macabees were advertised.

Here is a note that points to some forgotten location: "Teams looking for available grounds had better apply to the proper authorities for control of the big exposed space of ground in the middle of the Otonabee river. It lies just opposite Riverside Park."

THE REV. ALAN L. BORLAND, BA, BD, who was ordained on Wednesday at Sydenham United Church, Kingston, was appointed Friday to a charge in the circuits of Elinton, Cloyn and Kaladar. Mr. Borland graduated from the Norwood High School in 1944 and from Victoria College, University of Toronto, in 1948. Since then he had completed his theological course at Emmanuel College. His marriage to the former Muriel M. Hearse, of Toronto, took place in Toronto May 19.

Separate School Holds Field Day

COBOURG, June 2 (ENS)—Annual field day events of St. Michael's Seaparte School were held in the park with a large attendance of parents on hand to see their children perform. Ann Bulger was champion of the senior girls with 19 points and Judy Primeau with 13 points headed the under 12 section.

Champions for under 12 years were Joe Delanty and Peter McCaig, who were tied with nine points. Dave Stuart was senior champion with a total of 13 points. Judges and starters of the boys' events were Bill Fowler, Hubert Cavanaugh, Jimmy Tracey, Jim Oulahen, Paul Leonard and Mrs. James Dillion. Officials of the girls' events were Mrs. Joe Butler, Mrs. Stephen Niles, Mrs. Dave McElhenney and Miss Louise Bulger.

The stiffened Red stand in North Korea indicated to frontline officers that the Communists had pulled back as far north as they intended to go willingly.

They appeared determined to stop United Nations armored columns short of an "iron triangle" formed by the towns of Kumhwa, Chorwon and Pyongyang. Allied troops were only 12 miles from the western end of the triangle.

The Reds marched reinforcements into the western sector and put hundreds of trucks on the road to carry supplies south. The traffic provided choice targets for Allied aircraft Friday night.

"The greatest number of vehicles destroyed during night operations was reported when 110 were permanently put out of action by Fifth Air Force planes," Far East air forces announced. "Heavy damage was inflicted on about 40 others."

Fight For Triangle

The Reds showed determination to fight for the triangle area. From it, roads fan out in every direction. The base of the triangle is 15 miles north of the parallel and the apex 29 miles north.

Allied probings in this area in April lighted the fuse to the unsuccessful Chinese Communist spring offensive.

Toughest fighting today was in the Yonchon area, 12 miles southwest of Chorwon, the western corner of the Red triangle. AP correspondent Nat Polowetzky reported from US Eighth Army Headquarters that dug-in Reds threw small arms, automatic weapons, mortar and artillery fire at American forces in this area.

The Reds withstood a tremendous air and artillery barrage east of Yonchon and halted all Allied efforts to advance. Some 1,800 Communist reinforcements were reported massing northeast of Yonchon.

Contractor Wins $800 From City In Court Fight

Murney Howe, Picton contractor, Friday afternoon was awarded $800 damages against the city of Peterborough for illegally disposing of a quantity of brick on the city hall site.

The award was made at the adjourned non-jury sittings of the Supreme Court by Justice R. I. Ferguson.

Howe signed a contract with the city on May 12, 1950, paying $2,000 for the purchase of the buildings on the city hall site that were to be demolished. The agreement was that the demolition would be completed a month after the last building was made available to him.

Howe was to not only demolish the buildings, but also with the exception of the Imperial Oil property, strip foundation walls to a foot below ground level. Basements were to be filled in with non-inflammable material and the whole covered with earth.

Started June 7

The last house made available to Howe was the one formerly owned by Mrs. Mabel MacPherson, at Water and Murray Streets on June 7.

Howe did not have the bricks and rubble cleared up by July 7, and on July 10 the city instructed Curtis Bros. to move in and cart it away.

Howe, through his solicitor, R. E Nourse, Picton, sued the city for breach of contract and conversion. The city filed a counter-claim for damages on the grounds that they were put to extra expense paying Curtis Bros. to do Howe's work.

Had City Right

Justice Ferguson said that, stripped of its frills, the case boiled down to this: whether or not on July 10, 1950, the city had the right to put their man Curtis to work clearing the site.

And the crux of it was whether time was of the essence of the contract.

Justice Ferguson found that it was not. According to the evidence, he said, no city official had impressed on Howe the urgency of getting the job done on time. And there was no date set for the Eastwood Construction Co. to begin ntheir work.

The city claimed that Alderman Hugh Waddell informed Howe on July 7 that unless his work was completed within three days they would step in. Alderman Waddell was not a witness, being absent in the United States.

Backhand Hearsay

This sort of evidence was described as "backhand hearsay" by the Justice who doubted its admissibility. And it was an "unreasonably short time in view of the circumstances."

By finding that the time element was not stressed in the agreement the Justice demolished the city's case.

"It was not open to the city to step in and take the proyerty away from Howe," he said.

Howe estimate that 50,000 brick, valued at $800 were removed, as well as a quantity of rubble, and light fixtures valued at $400 in the MacPherson house.

The Justice awarded the $800 but no additional damages. Court costs on the Supreme Court scale went to Howe, and the city counter-claim was dismissed.

W. F. Huycke, KC, represented the city. Among the witnesses called were Mayor Max Swanston and City Clerk E. A. Outram.

Acheson Says US Not Worried About Formosa

By DON WHITEHEAD.

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP).—Senators forced into the open Friday a secret 1949 State Department document which said the island of Formosa had no special military significance and its loss to Red China was expected.

The Senate MacArthur Inquiry Committee overrode by a 15-0 vote State Secretary Dean Acheson's protests that the disclosure would provide Russia with propaganda material.

Gen. MacArthur and other top-ranking military leaders have testified the Chinese Nationalist stronghold has great value in the strategic defences of the US, and must not be permitted to fall to Red China.

Acheson argued that US policy toward Formosa has not changed from October, 1948, to June, 1950, despite the document. He said the policy in that period was to try to keep Formosa out of Red hands by diplomatic means rather than by military action.

He challenged the strategy of Gen. MacArthur, who wants to carry the Korean war directly against Red China. He argued that an attack on China might bring counteraction by the Russians in Korea.

"They could turn over to the Chinese large numbers of planes with 'volunteer' crews for retaliatory action in Korea and outside," he said. "They might participate with the Soviet Air Force and the submarine fleet.

Avoid Dangers

"The Kremlin could elect to parallel the action taken by Peiping and intervene with a half million or more ground force 'volunteers'; or it could go the whole way and launch an all-out war."

He said the Truman administration wants to avoid these dangers if possible.

Acheson told the lawmakers that at the time the document was written the US was not in any position to commit armed forces to defend Formosa.

The memorandum said the Communists were trying "to get us involved in a risky and unpromising venture," in Formosa. Then it went on to say there is "a mistaken popular conception of its strategic importance to US defence in the Pacific."

"Loss of the island is widely anticipated," it said "and the manner in which civil and military conditions there have deteriorated under the Nationalists adds weight to the expectation."

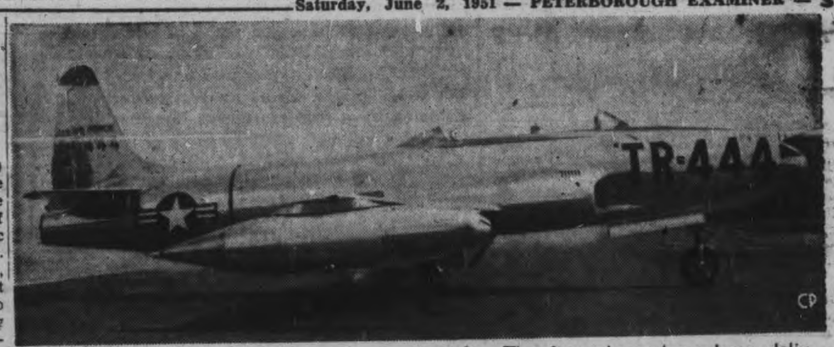
Court Decides Staking Race

PORT ARTHUR, June 2 (CP)—A mining court will decide the result of a 120-mile staking race Friday in which ownership of mineral rights to an old zinc mine near Schreiber is the prize.

Lorne Anderson, of Port Arthur, flying in a chartered plane, beat Bob Laird, of Toronto, who also flew from Schreiber, to the mining recorder's office here by 15 minutes. Both recorded claims to the mine itself.

Laird said battery trouble delayed his plane.

After Anderson and Laird filed their papers, three other members of Laird's party—Bert Strachan of Port Arthur, Fred Austin of Haileybury and Robert Leslie of Englehart—recorded claims to the three other quarters of the 160-acre property.



Thirty other prospectors who staked claims when the property became open for staking Thursday midnight are expected to record the claims within the next few days.

Oil Bonanza Aids Indians In Developing Economically

CALGARY—(CP)—It is doubtful if Alberta's mushrooming oil industry has meant more to anyone than the province's 14,000 Indians.

Sale and lease of lands on Indian reserves to oil companies have provided the Indians with sufficient capital to undertake on their own initiative extensive development programs aimed at eventual economic independence and social maturity.

Funds accumulated by tribes through land leases and sales have removed from the federal government much of the financial burden which the care and administration of treaty Indians once made necessary.

Today the government's financial obligation to the Indians is limited to educational, medical and administration costs.

This year the Alberta tribes are budgeting for expenditures totalling about $750,000—all of it their own money. This is administered by the government, which approves spending recommended by the tribes' councillors.

Most of the amount is derived from interest on capital held in a reserve trust for the tribes by the government.

A small portion of the money is distributed directly among tribal members, in much the same manner as treaty money.

The rest is spent on improvements for farms, medical care, relief for aged Indians and a number of other items which bring a degree of independence to the Indians.

Blackfoot Tribe's Budget

What this new source of income means for the tribes is best learned by examining the budget of the Blackfoot tribe, largest in Alberta.

In the budet, the tribe estimated $11,870 for staff and general expenses; $4,400 for operating costs; $36,800 for health and welfare; $6,420 for relief; $33,815 for direct distribution; $12,100 for development (new stock, road repairs, irrigation); $14,100 for fencing, building maintenance, light, fuel and telephone bills, and water wells.

Another $122,277 was budgetted in lieu of beef rations, which the government gave until recently. This final item will be used for purchase of food staples.

Such a broad budget was impossible when the government carried the whole load. Now, the Department of Indian Affairs seeks to educate the Indians to use this money wisely.

With the sustained financial stability of the tribes becoming a definite possibility, the department hopes now to inculcate in the Indians a desire to become responsible individual citizens capable of operating independent of one another.

Denies Any Action

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson denied Friday that he started the movement for recall of Gen. Douglas MacArthur or that the Pacific commander's dismissal was urged by United States allies. Acheson told senatorial investigators he "never had the pleasure of meeting" MacArthur. His first intimation that the General was to be fired came in a telephone call from President Truman, he said.

The Doctors Set Up Grievance Committees

The Ontario Medical Association has announced its intention of setting up grievance committees throughout the province, which will hear complaints from the public about medical service; we have not yet found out whether these bodies will be temporary, collecting information for some revisions of professional procedure, or whether they will be permanent bodies meeting from time to time, to which grievances may be referred for settlement. But in either case we congratulate the O.M.A. on its action. A great profession must be self-regulating, and this action shows that the physicians and surgeons of Ontario want to know what the public thinks about them, and how they can best meet the public's wishes. We think that the people of Ontario, upon the whole, have a very high regard for their medical men; however, causes of grievance can appear in the best relationships between a profession and the public, and it is wise to hear these grievances and to weigh them and, where necessary and possible, remove them.

* * *

The establishment of such committees shows, among other things, that the Ontario Medical Association recognizes the striking change which has taken place in the relationship between doctor and patient during the past twenty-five years. General practitioners are fewer than they used to be, and those who continue in general practice make generous use of specialist advice. Consequently the family doctor as a counsellor and friend is far less common than formerly. There are advantages, as well as disadvantages, in this. Too often the family physician of an earlier day failed to keep up with medical developments, relying upon psychology and a few good tonics to pull his patients through; he was capable of being a firm friend without being a very good doctor. His knowledge of the history and circumstances of his patients was invaluable to him, but it was not always backed up by expert knowledge of medicine. And family doctors were too often overworked and ill-paid.

* * *

The modern system of specialists and co-operative clinics assures patients of much expert medical treatment, but it sometimes robs them of a medical advisor capable of treating the whole man. It also involves thorough but costly diagnostic methods which many patients do not understand, and do not want to pay for; they cannot see that it is almost as important to find out what is not wrong with them as it is to find out what is wrong with them. And with the advance of psychiatry among the healing arts, physicians in general have become less tolerant of those long tales of money trouble, marital trouble, disappointment and frustration which used to be poured into the ear of the family doctor—often a man who suffered all these troubles himself, in his own life. We cannot blame the doctors, but we can understand that many patients have not kept themselves informed about what a modern doctor may be expected to do.

* * *

Therefore it will be a good thing to have committees listening to grievances about the medical profession, whether these grievances are genuine or illusory. It will clear the air, and be good for doctors and patients alike. That the first movement toward such a discussion should have been set on foot by the profession.

A Tattooed Monarch

The picture which has appeared widely during the past fortnight of King Frederik of Denmark, stripped to the waist and liberally tattooed, may set a new vogue for this sort of decoration. Not that tattooing has ever been in any danger of passing out of use. Originating in the East, it has long been a favourite hobby among sailors. But plenty of landsmen are tattooed, as well, and not a few women. A note in an English paper recently told the world that a peer's wife had had a snake tattooed on her chest; another woman had had a snake tattooed around one ankle so that it would show through her stockings. During the war British tattoo-artists did a heavy trade in putting the names of the loved one on men and women alike.

Although we feel no urge to be tattooed, we can understand those who do. It lends interest to the body; it may even call attention to one part of the human frame, and distract attention from a less pleasing area. What could be more flattering than to have the name of one's lover, and some warm sentiment, stabbed indelibly into one's skin? And whatever may be said about its barbarism, tattooing by a fine craftsman has undoubted beauty.

The chief thing against it, of course, is its irrevocability. It is painful to have the pattern put on the skin; it is much more painful to have it removed. The snake which so charmingly sets off a slim ankle on a woman of twenty-five may look quite different when the woman is sixty, and has put on weight. The joke about the sailor who wants Bessy's name taken off his chest because he is engaged to Polly is one of the chestnuts of the professional funnyman. There is a great field open to the cosmetician who can devise a method of tattoo which can be easily removed in emergencies, but which is ingrained as long as you want it.

A Curious Canadian Export

Canada's principal exports are well known, but like every country worth its salt Canada sends to other parts of the world curious and unusual things—things which would not immediately be associated with the land of iron ore, newsprint and wheat. In about a month, for instance, Canada will send a production of Thornton Wilder's play Our Town to England, and the actors will all be boys of less than eighteen years old.

They are boys from Upper Canada College in Toronto, who have been invited to perform this play—which they do with remarkable skill—in a number of famous boys' schools in England. They will appear at Rugby, Harrow, Wellington and several other schools before audiences of boys of their own age.

Before the Reformation all actors were male, and the women's parts in Shakespeare's plays were invariably played by boys. We have reason to believe that they were played very well indeed. There were also companies of juvenile actors whose performances of the great plays of the day were widely admired. It is curious that Canada should develop such a company of young players four centuries later, and send it abroad.

The Wings Of A Dove

Twenty years ago an extremely popular gramophone record was that on which an English boy soprano, named Ernest Lough, was heard singing the solo part in an anthem of Mendelssohn's —Hear My Prayer; the solo began, "Oh, for the wings, for the wings of a dove." Young Lough sang it with beauty of voice and perfection of art; he was the outstanding pupil of Dr. E. Thalben-Ball, and Head Boy of the Temple Church Choir.

People with unusual voices are frequently idolized by the public; such beauty of utterance suggests unusual qualities in the possessor of a fine voice, and when a remarkable voice proceeds from a nice-looking little boy in cassock and surplice, sentiment and sentimentality run riot. Young Lough was quite a lion in his day. A rumour even began that he had died (presumably in religious ecstacy) while singing the anthem which he recorded so successfully, expiring on the phrase "fly away" and be at rest."

The truth, happily, is quite otherwise. Ernest Lough is now the father of two boys of his own. He has a baritone voice. But sentimentalists still think of him as a beautiful little boy, and not long ago an old lady sent him a parcel of comic papers. Probably he passed them on to his son Peter, who is now a member of the choir of the Chapel Royal.

The charm of a boy's voice is powerful; it lacks the warmth and allurement of a female soprano, but it has qualities of purity which the female voice cannot match. We hear many good boy sopranos in our musical festivals, but it is only once in a long time that a boy appears who has the exquisite voice of Ernest Lough.

Diary Of a Fox-Trainer

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Passed some time again with my friends who are keen horsemen, and who continue the English sport of hunting the fox on horseback in Canada. What luck had they with foxes, I enquired. They told me with regret that the Canadian fox does not seem to have heard of the English foxhunt, and does not know how to play the game. Not long ago, they said, they had found a fox which seemed willing to run, but which turned about, after a quarter of a mile, and headed right back into the pack of hounds; the dogs were so disgusted by this lack of spirit that they refused to have anything to do with it. Hounds are creatures of strong principle. What was the attitude of Canadian farmers, I asked. Favourable, said they; farmers don't care how foxes are kept down so long as it is done....I think I shall start a fox-school, dragging a few of the beasts behind my car on a rope, with a few hounds in a following car, baying. In time the foxes will get the idea, and a sporting problem will be solved.

✧ ✧ ✧

MONDAY: Every Monday morning my desk is heaped high with matter which people of all sorts want me to read; it ranges from the works of amateur poets, through government propaganda handouts, business propaganda handouts, labour propaganda handouts, charity propaganda handouts, to magazines, pamphlets, and bulletins from religious groups. But I can't possibly read all this stuff. Reading is a form of nourishment, and to read this mass of twaddle would be like making a gigantic banquet of soggy cardboard. I am increasingly sure that the only way to preserve one's sanity and one's literary taste in the modern world is to read a few first-rate books, slowly and reflectively, and then to read them over again. They may be old or they may be new, but they must be good. During the past month four books about Shakespeare have arrived on my desk; instead of reading them I shall re-read some Shakespeare, for he could write rings around any of his commentators. I have, for review, three books telling me how to relax and live a long time; I shall simply relax and throw away the books, thereby stretching my lifespan incalculably. My mind is a club for me and a few congenial writers, not a Union Station through which thousands of ignoble scribblers may rush, fouling the air and littering the floor.

TUESDAY: Was in a hotel where a group of veterans of the first Great War were rejoicing. About a hundred of them wanted to use the elevators, and were annoyed with the young fellow whose job it was to limit the load on these. "No more till the next car," he cried. "Whatsa matter with you?" shouted an Old Comrade, who had been refreshing himself liberally. "My job not to overload the cars," said the young man. "Whatsit ta you?" roared another Old Comrade; "they're not your cars." "If they break down they won't be anybody's cars," said the starter. "That's not what I said," shouted the second Old Comrade, who seemed to have legal blood in his veins; "I said are they your cars?" "No," said the starter. "Well, then —?" said the Old Comrade, menacingly. "Now let's take it easy," said the starter. "Who you tellin' to take it easy?" shouted a third Old Comrade, "lookit here, son; when you wasn't even born I was over in the trenches, see, and...." I pitied the young man, but left him to bear his cross alone. As I walked up seven flights of stairs to my room I pondered upon the number of insoluble problems of this sort which life poses, and reflected that nothing in the world would induce me to engage in the hotel business.

✧ ✧ ✧

WEDNESDAY: Was involved in a seasonable argument today about which is Victoria Day and which Empire Day. Frankly, I do not care, so long as one of them is a holiday. I have always been a great upholder of patriotic holidays ever since, at the age of thirteen, I was chosen to represent Sir John A. Macdonald in a Confederation Day pageant. Why this was done I never knew. Neither the political complexion of my family nor the cast of my own features gave me any claim upon such a role. A makeup man wrought mightily upon my boyish countenance, but when he had done his worst the only discernible change was that my mouse-coloured hair was gray, and that I had unconvincing furrows upon my youthful brow. However, I wore a grey frock coat, which gave me a certain eminence among the other youthful Fathers of Confederation, who wore black. We marched into the middle of an arena, struck a pose—rather spoiled by the fact that we were trying to face two ways at once in order to let everybody see us—were wildly applauded, and retired. I have also played another Father in another pageant—Georges Etienne Cartier. I was no more successful with Cartier, as a resemblance. But like dogs and babies, Fathers of Confederation always get applause from an audience, however bad they are.

✧ ✧ ✧

THURSDAY: To a concert, where some very small children played the piano. Some were so minute that they could scarcely clamber upon the bench. But they played well, and heated up within me an ancient shame. Prelude at a similar affair, and lost the final chord so utterly that after several despairing stabs at the keyboard I retired ignominiously. Probably it was the same chord that Sir Arthur Sullivan lost, when he wrote that famous song. But so far as I am concerned, anybody who finds it now may keep it.

FRIDAY: Have been looking over the questions the census-taker will ask me this summer. One of them is an enquiry as to how much money I earned last year. The answer to this will be, "about $125". Of course I had more money than this, but I didn't earn it. The Government itself says that I didn't. For I get my living as a writer, and the Government makes it very clear in its Income Tax forms that what a writer gets is Unearned Income, comparable to the guilty gold which the Idle Rich derive from their holdings in Stocks and Shares. The census taker will stare about him in amazement, his eye straying from the rich tapestries upon my walls to the priceless products of old Persian looms beneath his feet; as I scratch a match upon a rare piece of cloisonne, and scissor a chunk out of an early Picasso in order to mend a hole in my shoe, he will scratch his head and wonder how I came by such Byzantine luxury without earning it. But if my Government says that I do not earn my money, I am not the kind of saucy fellow who will suggest that they do my job, and see if it feels like work. No, no! I am behind my Government one hundred per cent., and when it says my labour is idleness, I knock my head upon the floor and cry Selah!

SATURDAY: Agreed with a man with whom I fell into conversation that it is, upon the whole, a bad thing to keep your temper at all times. Psychologists talk a good deal nowadays about something which they call "repressed hostility", but which an old psychologist who used to do washing for my mother called "bottled-up mad". She had a great deal of mad herself, which she rarely troubled to bottle, but when she did make the effort the vile substance could be seen mounting inside her, like mercury in a thermometer. It was said of Mary, Queen of Scots, that when she drank wine it could be seen bubbling down her lovely, transparent throat, like suds in a sink; the washerwoman's mad worked the other way, rising from her bosom, up her neck, and rushing to the top of her head. Then she would unbottle some of it, at the top of her voice. But my friend and I decided that repressed hostility created tension, which led on to ugly illnesses. It is better to beat your wife, or strike your little ones with a chair, than run such a risk. Bottled-up mad is probably at the root of many of the world's baffling diseases.

OK. THE FIREWORKS ARE OVER!

Shakespeare For The Festival

By STEPHEN THOMAS

THE chief event of the last few weeks in the English theatre has been the re-opening of the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre at Stratford-upon-Avon. For the Festival of Britain Anthony Quayle, its director, presents a considerable slice of the History of Britain; a programme that more or less dictates the purchase of season tickets by serious-minded playgoers, for the Company will perform the four historical plays, Richard II, Henry IV, Part I, Henry IV, Part II and Henry V in sequence, recognizing the contention that they form "a tetralogy and were planned by Shakespeare as one great play". Of this I have only seen what I suppose we should regard as one great play". Of this I have only seen what I suppose we should regard as the first act, Richard II, and though as I write Henry IV, part I has been produced, I have decided to wait until the whole immense piece is in being before journeying to Stratford again—season ticket in hand.

For his setting of the great play, regardless of ambiguity, I am tempted to call "The Three Kings"; Quayle has gone back to the Elizabethans. His forestage and "inner-stage with gallery over" is a cleverly devised structure, and as many as four stairways lead to the upper part of what amounts to a crude but highly efficient and surprisingly decorative scaffold, upon which no curtain rises or falls. Swagged drapes divide the worlds of audience and play, or perhaps one should say rather, define the boundaries of those realms. The coloured emphasis of Tanya Moiseiwitsch's scenery is only more subdued than that of her costumes; it is certainly no less rich, and what has been saved on the Act-drop has been lavishly expended on its understudy. We have our money's worth, and a distinguished critic has observed that the purists who have long cried for "the wooden O" have it at last at Stratford. I cannot agree. The curtainless stage of the Elizabethans comprised indeed a large part of a wooden O, but the curtainless Elizabethan stage at Stratford occupies one end of a particularly modern theatre. Cantilever'd concrete and wooden scaffold consort uncomfortably when the auditorium is lit. I think a curtain would have helped, and shall we not become a little tired of this structure, which we see before and after the play and during the intervals, before the end of the cycle?

Having expressed that doubt, I will hastily concede that this Richard II is a very fine and exciting production of this extremely difficult play. Has the sharp tragedy of the arrogant, uncharitable, self-pitying voluptuary, graced with Hamlet's poetry in his decline and a swift glint of gallantry in his dying by his creative chronicler, ever been so effectively presented? Maybe, but not for me who, as a small boy, saw Tree lording it over the armed horsemen in the lists of Coventry. Many Richards have made their ways from those emblazoned pavilions to the proud encounter with rude death on the squalid floor of the dungeon at Pomfret before my by no means always approving eyes, during nearly forty years. Time-cloud obscured poetry spouters, most of them, though Guinness clears the wrack and Gielgud holds the light of the unrisen or sunken sun. Has Redgrave climbed higher towards Shakespeare's Richard than Gielgud? I rather think he has, and I daresay he would be the last to resent a suggestion that his great contemporary gave him a leg up. We have no space for argument, so let me put it like this: Gielgud's Richard was a poet in whose rich music was drowned a self-sorrowful victim of high birth and abandoned indulgence; Redgrave's rides the poetry over Richard's uneasy way from pleasure to purgatory. In this man's dying we may remember something of a gallant boy facing Wat Tyler's mob and a little less of the silky, perfumed friend of Bushy and Green. A sensitive and thought-provoking performance.

HARRY Andrews seems to have every quality demanded for the part of Bolingbroke. The strong and handsome features and heroic physique lend a rightful kingship to the usurper; the decisive voice and flashing eye—to threaten and command. This actor is a notable Shakespearean of our day. I found myself particularly interested and amused by Michael Gwynn's rendering of the discomforts of the Duke of York, with greatness and responsibility thrust upon his unwilling shoulders; greatly moved by Heather Stannard's gentle portrait of the sad young Queen, and if, for reasons too complicated to define here, I was a little disappointed with Hugh Griffiths' Gaunt, I must record that his handling of the speech which is so famous that no actor may approach it without trepidation, is well done—words from a great man's heart at his ending and not, as can too easily happen, a surprising feat of memory by a dying man. It would be easy to write a dozen paragraphs on the playing of this large company, and most of them would contain words of praise, for Mr. Quayle has assembled a worthy band.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

My soul shall make her boast in the Lord: the humble shall hear thereof, and be glad. O magnify the Lord with me, and let us exalt his name together....

O taste and see that the Lord is good: blessed is the man that trusteth in him....

What man is he that desireth life, and loveth many days, that he may see good?....

The Lord redeemeth the soul of his servants: and none of them that trust in him shall be desolate. (Ps. 34: 2, 3, 8, 12, 22.)

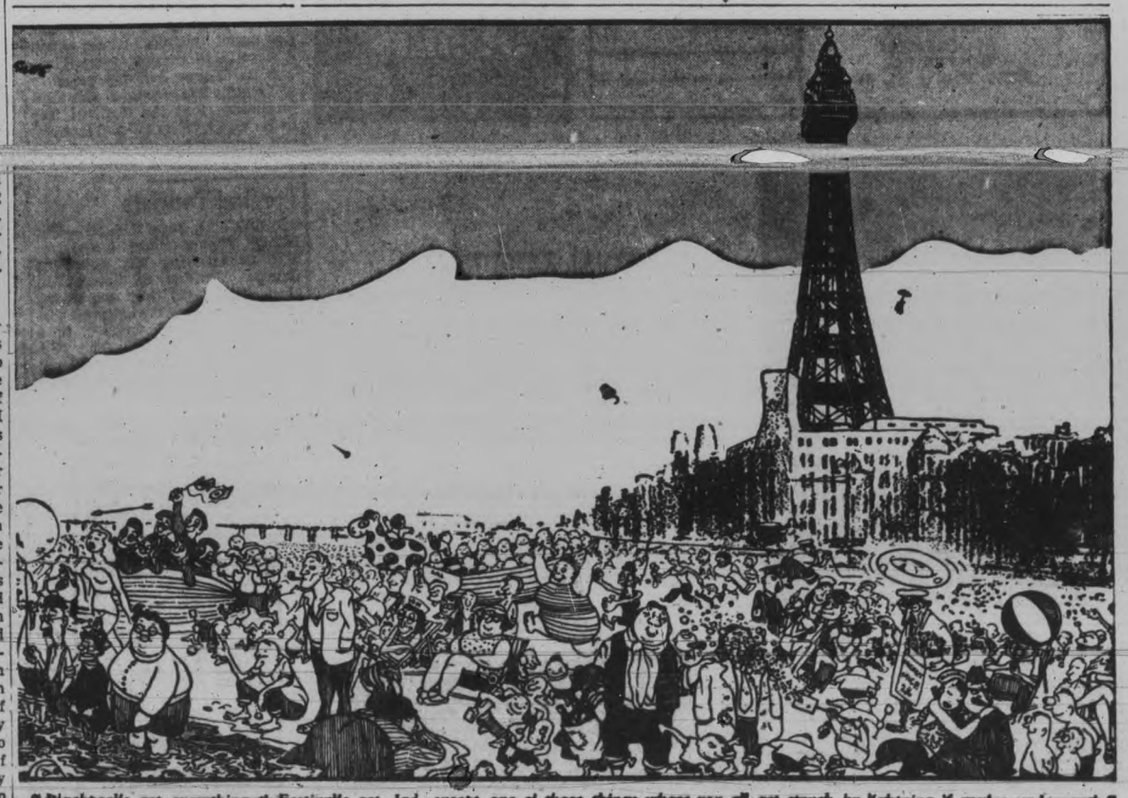
Letter To The Editor

ANNOYED BY NOISE

Sir: I agree with Mr. Faryon that Warren Paving Co. should be moved. I live on the other side of the river across from where this work is going on. The machinery started this morning at 10 past 6 o'clock and is still going. When a person has their doors and windows open the continual hum sends me nuts. It is such a relief when night comes and the noise stops.



Also I would like to ask why the George St. bus does not stop at Hunter St. I think Hunter St. stop is the most important stop in the city with the Post Office and the telephone office. Every one has to pay a telephone bill and everyone visits the Post Office. I am referring to older people and women with children. I bet the men that passed this, that the bus should not stop at Hunter St. all have cars. There are still people that would like to get off at Hunter St.

Thanks,
A MOTHER.

REVERSE

"Do you think I should put more fire into my editorials?" the writer asked.

"No," said his editor. "Vice versa."

"Blackheath's not exporting it, Excelsior's not, and—except one of those things whose use all are unsure by lightning if you're underneath."

It's like a shot in the arm to a seldom listened-to district booster like myself when a complete stranger slaps me on the back and says, without any needling on my part, that the Kawarthas are just about the finest on the continent.

This salesman is Bill Lang. And who hasn't heard of him?

Just thousands and thousands each year for the past 25 that Bill has been lecturing and showing his super outdoor life movies. He and his wife rolled into town on Wednesday and, sponsored by the Peterborough Fish and Game boys, showed four fine films at the PCVS auditorium on Friday and again tonight. Of course they travel by car and trailer and are the greatest boosters of that type of travel we have ever had in our city. They know whereof they speak.

The Langs have travelled 60,000 trailer miles from Mexico City to Dawson City, Yukon, and from Vancouver to Gaspe, and many thousands of side-trip miles by boat, canoe, dog team, barge and air.

"A new class of people are being formed on this continent", says Bill. A class of middle-aged pensioners who follow the sun from Florida to the Northern States. There are three million trailers on highways today and when they ask him at what season they should visit Canada, he tells them of our attractive five months. They can hardly credit this.

In the first place, where are OUR (Ontario) trailer parks to accommodate them? There are few if any at all. You would think that we in Peterborough, that has the largest trailer-making industry in Canada, would be trailer conscious. But not us.

With my pen on a paper serviette, Bill Lang traced the possibility of a splendid trailer park within our municipality, a park where trailerites can travel a few miles in every direction for all sort of vacation fun. Thousands of additional tourist dollars to make our cash registers jingle merrily. Unfortunately, we have never seen the light and may not until it is too late, until some other districts beat us to it.

Although Bill Lang is always ready with an answer, he was stuck when I asked him how many thousands of feet (or was it miles) of movie film he had used up in the last quarter century. It was impossible to estimate, he said, but such quibbling on my part was unnecessary. His shows are tops, his wife's running scripts fit perfectly into each presentation. It is a perfect example of a smooth-running man-wife team and their efforts—they call it play—delight everyone who sees their shows. Would that we had these two Kawartha boosters in our midst more often.

There is something more to having a summer camp in the Kawarthas than mere ownership. It offers a challenge to the individual to be different in designing the necessary buildings that go with it. The very nature of the rocky benches calls for a flair in landscaping, something different to the Jones next door. And, of course, unless you have the money to buy the hard labor that goes into making rock steps, rockeries and fireplaces, it means a lot of back-breaking work.

• • • •

From the time Peterburians took to the lakes in summer—and were able to avail themselves of choice sites—they have shown abandon in their planning schemes. Where else will you find such wild color schemes, wooden gingerbread adornments? Beside present-day ranch-style buildings, the garish oldtimers look corny. But as long as one member of the ancestral place lives, no changes except running repairs are allowed. And why should they be? Four or five generations have enjoyed the old place. Some have been born in it, some even died there. Let the old places stand as long as they will. There are too few landmarks left these days.

Lake trout fishing is making headlines in Haliburton. Game wardens report fish as large as 28 pounds being taken; Charles Laferie of Toronto was the lucky man. An unknown tourist took a 24-pounder and Lance Eastman of Minden landed a 10½-pound lake speckled.

Pickerel fishing is going well throughout the Kawarthas. Although minnows are still good bait, an old-time guide tells me that he is having great luck with a bucktail made of white dog hair. It does not bunch up in the water when wet and makes a lively action when reeled slowly. Heard of another man who is using four-inch baby water snakes; he catches them out around Jackson's Park.

Deer hunting is to be permitted this year for the first time in many throughout southern Ontario from Nov. 5-17 inclusive. Lands Minister Harold Scott announced this decision because southern Ontario is becoming over-populated with deer and farmers say they are a nuisance in some parts. Peat Moss Aids Growing Green Lawns

By HENRY PREE

Garden Notes: The increased use of peat moss is an indication that gardeners are learning to appreciate its many advantages. Peat acts as a soil improver, as a source of additional plant nutrients, as a water holder and also serves as a medium for the propagation of roots.

If you have had trouble with the growth of grass in your lawn, use peat after thoroughly raking the surface of the lawn to loosen the soil. Then evenly spread a quarter-inch layer of peat over the entire lawn and sow your seed. A second raking to mix the seed and peat is the next operation. Water well and keep moist for a week.

Germination of the nurse grasses will start almost at once and in a week a green carpet will be your reward.

Newly set-out shrubs require special attention the first year. These shrubs should have the soil cultivated at least 2 inches deep in a 2-foot circle about each plant.

The cultivation will get rid of the weeds and grass which, if allowed to remain, will rob the soil of the moisture and plant nutrients necessary for the well-being of the plants.

Do not fertilize until late summer. To do so now may overstimulate the plants. It is assumed that the soil was thoroughly prepared in advance of planting thus providing sufficient food for the summer's growth.

Early, regular and repeated cultivation is the only answer to the weed problem in flower and vegetable gardens. This is especially true in new gardens where the soil is infested with the seeds of the pernicious weeds. Catch them young and treat them rough is the advice of the old gardener.

The word "exotic," which garden writers and catalog authors love to apply to some plants, really means that the plant is native to some other country than our own. It does not necessarily imply that the plant came from the tropics. One would be correct to write that our apples and pears are "exotic" because this country owes all her fruit trees to Europe and Asia.

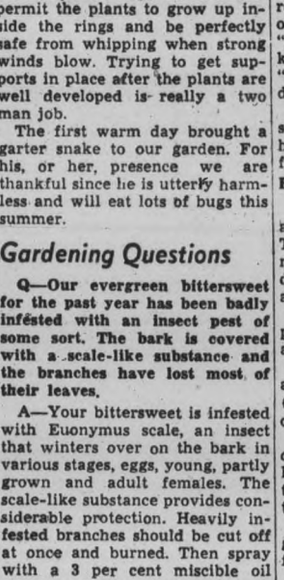
If any of your plants have Euonymus scale, watch closely and get busy with a good spray. You may need to put your glasses on to spot the scale.

Be sure to follow the manufacturer's directions on the label. A common mistake is to make a spray solution stronger than recommended. To do so may cause injury to the foliage and young buds.

Watching the splendid new growth of the peonies and delphiniums brings to mind the need of getting supports about these and similar perennials.

To place the supports now will permit the plants to grow up inside the rings and be perfectly safe from whipping when strong winds blow. Trying to get supports in place after the plants are well developed is really a two man job.

The first warm day brought a garter snake to our garden. For his, or her, presence we are thankful since he is utterly harmless and will eat lots of bugs this summer.



Gardening Questions

Q—Our evergreen bittersweet for the past year has been badly infested with an insect pest of some sort. The bark is covered with a scale-like substance and the branches have lost most of their leaves.

A—Your bittersweet is infested with Euonymus scale, an insect that winters over on the bark in various stages, eggs, young, partly grown and adult females. The scale-like substance provides considerable protection. Heavily infested branches should be cut off at once and burned. Then spray with a 3 per cent miscible oil solution. Spray again in early June when the young are hatching using the application at summer strength 1 per cent, plus 40 per cent nicotine sulfate. This second spray is to be repleated in 10 days.

Q—Last year some insect caused brownish spots on the leaves of the rhododendrons and mountain laurel. How can we prevent a reoccurance?

A—The disfiguring is probably due to Lacebugs that winter over as eggs inserted in the lower leaf tissue. The eggs hatch in late May [illegible] June. The usual spray June with 2 teaspoons nicotine sulfate and an ounce of soap per gallon of water. A second treatment 10 to 14 days later to catch late-hatching bugs and a third spray in July for the second brood.

King George When In Health Works 70 Hours a Week

By JAMES DOW

It will probably astonish you to know that the King when in health works 70 hours a week; that he is seldom in bed before 1 a.m. and always up again at 7.30.

But there are many things about the King that astonish those close to him, many things that you ought to know.

There is, for example, a recent week. It was hectic by any standards. It had the more athletic and younger King of Denmark smilingly describing himself as wilting—as he changed his clothes for the tenth time.

And for King George VI it came after a week-end of Festival opening ceremonies and processions

Most of us, watching from the royal touchlines, have turned to our neighbours with the question: "How would you like to be a king?" The answer is usually "not on you life!"—and yet we don't know half the story.

A king's duties—as our King sees them — mean more sheer hard work than is generally fashionable today.

Early Breakfast Family Affair

They mean, behind the pomp and glitter, long hours at a desk. They mean reading and assessing masses of documents, hearing and deciding on hundreds of reports and proposals.

They mean working at high pressure like any business chief—and out in the glare as well.

The King lives beside his work and cannot get away from it. (Nor can he retire when he grows old.)

Breakfast, shortly after eight o'clock begins the long day. The Royal Family invariably take it together. It may be the only time they have together all day.

They also happen to like a good old-fashioned British breakfast before the rush begins.

By ten o'clock the King has read the morning newspapers thoroughly.

He has such a quick appreciation of the news that he occasionally astonished officials over the internal phone with some urgent point before the sessions begin with secretaries in his study.

All forenoon, if there is no public function, he is closeted with his secretaries (three) equerries and comptrollers. "In conference" at the Palace doesn't meant pleasant conversation over a cup of tea.

The King follows his father in every household account with a sharp perception.

No request to the Crown is answered without his knowledge or previous decision—not even the kind that asks whether the King wears woollen underwear. Believe it or not, there are plenty of queries like that.

Between tea and dinner, after afternoon audiences or functions, the speeches for next week's events have to be read. These, written first by others, are frequently torn up and rewritten with a purposeful pen.

He writes copiously every day in his own hand.

Out of all that reading—and thinking—has come an astonishing grasp of everyday and worldly affairs. Some reckon the King the best informed man in Britain.

It is a fact that his advisers often go to him for advice. Cabinet ministers have on several occasions consulted him on points on which the monarch's views are not constitutionally sought.

He is, of course, alone with the prime minister for an hour or two at least once a week. And I am convinced that future historians will discover with some amazement that the part played in the affairs of this country by George VI has been more influential than is generally believed.

Music hath charms to soothe a savage beast,
To soften rocks, or bend a knotted oak.

The Mourning Bride,
I, 1697

After all his office work, the King goes out to face the television, film and press cameras, the cheering (and peering) throngs.

It all looks so easy and relaxed. The crowds do not know the exertions that lie behind the pomp.

He has often to change clothes seven or eight times a day. He has to choose and be fitted for new clothes 20 times more than the ordinary man. He must shave twice a day.

Real relaxation may come in the late evening if there are no functions. But that is seldom.

If, however, he is free, the King can then enjoy a television programme, or, if his family have no engagements, a game of cards, generally Canasta. And then Princess Elizabeth will come over from [illegible] to play a hand.

It is plain to all who look at the King throughout one of these arduous days that only love for his work and for his country carry him through. And only a very fit man could stand the strain so well.

Apart from having to give up, since his operation, strenuous exercise such as riding, he has no limitations upon his tremendous energy. The long-legged King of Denmark would find it hard to keep up with him across the moors.

Austere habits and abstemiousness have paid him dividends. (He smokes, for instance, only when there is a break in the whirl.)

Thoroughness and Drive

He is fitter than most men of his age, less troubled by digestive disabilities.

Aubrey, the palace chef, does not have to consider any diet peculiarities. When the King visits other cities, no warning is sent out. His Majesty takes what is offered. Perhaps he has done so all along—ever since he acceded to the kingship he never expected but to which he has brought a thoroughness and drive without precedent in our history.

Iron Fences, Hitching Posts and Hedges Marked Coming of Age of Taste In City

By HOWARD PAMMETT, M.A.

Peterborough by 1875 was entering "The Age of Taste" (whether good or bad taste depends on one's outlook). Houses were being enclosed with iron scroll fences, wooden picket fences, or formal hedges; even Victoria Park was fenced in at this time. Near front gates appeared hitching-posts and carriage-steps. Houses were ornamented with vine-covered verandahs, bay windows, front balconies, fretwork decorations, and steeples. On front lawns there blossomed Grecian stone or marble urns, moss-covered statues, and iron deer and dogs. Formal gardens surrounded the house, and walks leading to belvedere, pergola and arbour. On back lawns the elite had tennis courts, or at least a spot for croquet, where a quiet game on Sunday afternoon would not incur public disapproval; hammocks and lawn-chairs under the trees added a note of comfort.

Discreetly concealed were the stables and carriage-house(opening on a back alley), the pump-house and other conveniences; Charles Perry before 1870 had the first ice-house, but ten years later they were quite general. Many located their sanitary conveniences, the drinking-water pump, and the soft-water pump (leading from a rainwater reservoir below) in a shed attached to the "summer kitchen." Numerous families kept their own cows, and the cellars were lined with cans of fresh milk and cream, a butter-churn, preserves-shelves, and sometimes a (locked) liquor cupboard.

A few people had furnaces in their cellars, but most still relied on fireplaces, and stoves in kitchen and parlor, with an intricate network of stovepipes leading to the chimney; coal was replacing wood as the preferred fuel, among those who could pay $7 a ton for it.

Stained Glass and Parlors

Front doors were crowned with spindled fan-shaped transoms, and stained-glass windows in hallways and stairways were de rigueur. Wooden floors were waxed to a high polish. In the parlors, where blinds and drapes were kept drawn six days a week unless company came, factory-made furnishings were appearing: crystal chandeliers and lamps of many colors, bright rugs and tapestries, plush ottoman couches and "love-seats", what-nots laden with bric-a-brac, stuffed birds under glass belljars, and on the walls engraved or embroidered mottos ("God Bless Our Home" being the most popular) and Chromo pictures, mostly of solemn ancestors and bloody battlefields.

Some few "highbrows" found room for bookcases full of leather-bound volumes, but the average parlor had little room for books except the Family Bible and a few moral volumes. Parlor organs and pianos were in many homes, together with violins, cornets and other musical instruments, but the younger generation continued to prefer the harmonica and the jews-harp. For courting couples, an evening on ottoman or "love-seat" with the stereoscope was something to look forward to all week.

In these surroundings, on regular visiting days, ladies in crinoline gathered to drink tea and chat, or to compare the clothes made for them by their dress-makers, using mail-order patterns from Mme. Demorest's Emporium of Fashion in New York. Occasionally they were joined for a social evening or family duty-visit by the men-folk in buttoned shoes, tight trousers, flowered waistcoats, coats buttoned up to the neck, flowing cravats and long sideburns, uncomfortably fashionable and no doubt wishing they could relax at home in shirt-sleeves, or with one foot on the brass rail of their favorite saloon with some cronies, criticizing the Town Council or the Government.

Lamp-Lighter's Rounds

Mr. T. H. Hooper, who died two years ago at age 87, recalled the days when gas lamps lit the streets. "The lamp-lighter made his rounds when dark was coming on. He carried a short ladder and a sort of lantern torch. He would place his ladder against the iron gas-lamp standards, climb up and turn on the gas valve, and thrust in the torch to light it. About midnight he would start over the same route, and turn off the lamps, leaving the whole town in darkness. Most people in those days thought after midnight was a terrible hour to be out. Stores were lit with coal-oil lamps . . ." John Theobald, who died recently at age 91, remembered that the last gas light on Aylmer St. was at the corner of Dalhousie St. Beyond that southward were neither lights nor sidewalks and he reached his home at Park and Albert Sts. by the Midland Railway tracks and across a stumpy field; the land now covered by the Canadian General Electric plant was a cedar swamp.

People who owned cows often hired boys to drive them down Park St. to pasture in the fields below the present Chamberlain St., and then bring them home at night for milking. Small boys walked out the Gravel Road (now Highway 28) to meet the circus, which usually came in files of brightly-painted wagons drawn by elephants or horses; the usual circus grounds were on the market square or the southeast corner of Rubidge and Charlotte streets, but those that came by rail settled on the Raybestos site (as mentioned earlier). A pasture field that is now Morrow Park was used for scrub baseball and other games.

Music is a higher revelation than philosophy.

—LUDWIG VAN BEETHOVEN:
Letter to Bettina von Arnim,
1810

In a picture of the north side of Hunter between George and Water streets about 1870 (destroyed by fire a few years later) we observe broad wooden sidelwalks, and plaster or roughcast 1½ storey buildings with windows of small panes 6" x 6". At the west end was Dr. McCullough's office, and eastward Meyette's Barber Shop, then Cavanagh's Hotel; beside the hotel was a lane leading north to the hotel yard, and St. Paul's Church can be dimly seen up Water St. James Corkery, who left Peterborough in 1875, recalled later that George St. then had "a lot of old shacks and roughcast houses where little huckster shops were set up, in place of the substantial brick buildings of today". The Denne Historical Collection has a picture of George St. about that time, showing the gas lamps, the wooden sidewalks, and Morgan's Commercial House. Another DHC picture showed Water St. South in 1877, with Adam Scott's original house, Denne's Flourmill, Peter Hamilton's Foundry, and Romaine's Brickyard. Brick blocks replaced the old wooden and plaster buildings destroyed by fire, and about 1880 the first plateglass came to town; twenty firms on George, Water and other business streets put in large show windows at this time.

Many stores in the 1870s advertised by signs showing their goods, reminiscent of pioneer days when many prospective customers could not read. Every tobacco store had its wooden Indian brandishing a cigar. On George St. the following signs might be noted: Millar-& Bertram Hardware "At the Sign of the Golden Anvil"; Robt. Hamilton Hardware "At the Sign of the Golden Circular Saw"; Geo. Stethem Hardware "At the Sign of the Crosscut Saw"; Shortly & Haselhurst Harness Store "At the Sign of the Golden Collar", and also had a horse statue by the door; Robt. Fair Drygoods Store for some reason had a lion statue by the door; Larmur Boot & Shoe Store "At the Sign of the Red Boot"; MacDonald & Elder Drygoods Store "At the Sign of the Giant Elephant"; T. Lannin Tin & Stove Shop "At the Sign of the Giant T"; F. Lane Drugs, Liquor &c "At the Sign of the Two Mortars". About the only remaining relics are the striped poles of the barbers and the neon eyeglasses advertising the optometrists.

Business Changes

As usual, depression years increased business failures and changes of ownership, but there was a brighter side. Many bright young men were able to use their savings to buy into partnership or take over businesses when their employers were persuaded by falling profits to retire. The formula for business success in mid-Victorian Peterborough had a few simple steps: (1) Learn the business as an apprentice or clerk; (2) Become a junior partner, or lease the business; (3) Buy the business; to quicken the process, which usually took from 20 to 40 years, marrying the boss's daughter was sure to succeed.

1870: H. T. Strickland gave up storekeeping and went into real estate and mine-promoting. G. Davey began making fanning mills near Dublin St. Dr. W. H. Burritt came to Peterborough. Wm. Fairweather started a drygoods store on George St. David Breeze began making and selling tinware and stoves on Simcoe St. James Byrne set up a marble and stone monument business at George and McDonnel Sts. Wm. Croft opened the Union Hotel on Hunter St. The Examiner complained that high freight rates were driving firms such as Ludgate and McDougall and Campbell and Huston to Harwood.

1871: David Stratton, prominent Mason and Orangeman, became police magistrate. Robt. McKee and Robt. Davidson bought out Hamilton's Hardware. John McDonald and son Alfred came to Peterborough and started their Point St. Charles Steam Sawmill. F. Mason began his Floral Emporium on George St., and across from him J. Tully started a drug-store.

1872: W. H. Robertson commenced publishing the Times weekly with partner W. Walsh, whom he bought out three years later. Dr. Joseph Fife came to Peterborough. Ab. Clegg began making furniture near Smith St., and Dan Belleghem after six years' apprenticeship set up his own furniture shop. Wm. Cluxton sold his pioneer store to his sons, but retained control of his grain business and other properties and companies. The Town Trust Act was amended in March 1872 to permit the town "to aid by way of bonus the promotion of manufacturers in and about the town" up to a total of $40,000; part of this was apparently given to Messrs. Paton and Moir to keep the Auburn Mills operating, but the details are obscure. The next year Council authorized Mayor Cox to publish advertisements in leading papers and periodicals to draw industries to the town, offering bonuses totalling $30,000.

Petes Finish Up Stronger To Beat West Yorks, 10-8

Russ Slater, new addition from Owen Sound to the Petes, aided in the tying goal and scored the winning one here last night as the homesters defeated West Yorks of Toronto 10-8 before more than 2,000 fans. They had to come from behind in the late stages to gain their third OLA senior win in as many starts in a fast, fairly close-checking and clean contest. The Petes drew six of the nine penalties passed out, three goals being scored when they were short.

IN ON FIVE — Don Ashbee scored one and aided on four goals to help considerably in the Petes' 10-8 OLA win over Toronto West Yorks here last night in a neat tussle before a big crowd.

West Yorks drove hard from the start, as well as erecting a stiff defence in front of the fine netminding by Gord Johnson. They led 3-1 in the first quarter and had a 7-3 deserved margin at halftime. The Petes' passing finally clicked as they rushed in repeatedly in the third chukker to outscore their rivals 4-0 and tie it up at 7-all. Despite some determined attacks by the visitors, the Petes had a 3-1 edge in the fourth to tuck away another victory.

Goalies Good

Both goalies made some grand saves, and both had plenty to do. The Petes played indifferent lacrosse in the first half, though they were tangling with tough opponents, but the Crowe crew clicked well the last two periods. Jerry Fitzgerald, Ross Powless and Nit O'Hearn looked good defensively over the route, but Dootch Vitarelli and Don Ashbee were the main drivers up front for them up till the half. After that, the squad settled away to earn the narrow margin. The Yorks fough hard from start to finish. Bob Thorpe and Don Crowe were not in local livery this tilt.

Don Ashbee was the chief local point-getter with a goal and four assists, as three points went to Dootch Vitarelli (all goals) and Russ Slater. Two each were tallied by Nit O'Hearn, Arn Dugan and Jerry Fitzgerald. Singles were counted by Curley Mason, Mick Magee, Ross Powless and Harry Wipper. For Toronto, Frank Facto got three goals, Jim McNulty two and Steve Kapasky, Bill Timpson and Leo Teatro one each. Bruce Webster aided on a pair, with single assists going to Jim McNulty, Jack Howes, Steve Kapasky, Bill Timpson and Tommy Banks. The teams:

West York: Goal, Johnson; defence, Banks and J. Ashbee; centre, Teatro; wings, Timpson and DePippo; rover, Facto; alternates, J. Kapasky, Howes, S. Kapasky, Webster, McNulty, Chard and Thomas.

Petes: Goal, Wootton; defence, Fitzgerald and O'Hearn; centre, Creighton; wings, Dugan and D. Ashbee; rover, Vitarelli; alternates, Wipper, Magee, Mason, Slater, Powless, Lalonde and Hildebrand.

Referees—J. Murphy and L. Vipond.

Colborne Defeats Pt. Hope Ontarios 5-4

PORT HOPE, June 2.—Despite eight errors, Colborne Dodgers managed to win 5-4 over Port Hope Ontarios in a Lakeshore Baseball League intermediate contest here Friday night. Masterful one-hit pitching by Jerry Lawless for six innings was a contributing factor. He was relieved in the seventh by Jack Higgenbottom, Colborne's recently acquired Negro hurler, who gave up one single.

Colborne hitters touched Port Hope's Harold Woods for seven hits and bunched two of them with one Port Hope error in the sixth to score three runs.

Jack Ball was the individual hitting star as he rapped out three safeties for Colborne. Jim Gilmer and pinch-hitter Jim Phillips were Port Hope's hitters with Gilmer driving in three runs.

Ashby's Beat Pavs

Ashby's downed Cobourg Pavs 3-1 in the lakeshore town last evening to open Girls' Softball League play here, Cobourg being a new addition to the Peterborough lasses' circuit. It turned out to be a fine fixture with each side limited to six hits, while Cobourg has six miscues to four for the visiting squad. Brown and Jordan made up the Ashby battery, the former whiffing six, as she and Manley proved best for the winners. Sixteen-year-old Slater of Cobourg sent 11 down swinging as the ball plunked into Cain's glove for a third strike. Hall went good hitting and fielding for the losers.

Eugene Crigui, of France, knocked out Johnny Kilbane in the sixth round at New York 28 years ago tonight to win the world's featherweight boxing championship. In those days the class weight limit was 122 pounds, but now the weight is 126.

THAT MAN'S BACK—After a slow start, Ted Williams' big bat again is bending under the force of his beautiful swing. The Red Sox slugger raised his batting average 46 points in one four-game series, once more tops the American League in home runs and runs-batted-in.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Toronto Croftons come here tonight for a Viaduct Major League ball game with the Petes at 8.30 of the clock in Riverside. Weather permitting, of course. Second under-the-arcs diamond tilt here of the young season the Petes presently nestling nicely in top sport with four wins and no losses. Oshawa has dropped two, though they're expecting their U.S.A. imports today — and the Petes may have two on deck from colleges o'er the line at the some time. Infielder and pitcher expected any day now. The Petes are playing practically errorless ball and hitting in timely fashion to lead the parade, and they hope to make it No. 5 this e'en.

To date, newcomers to Ed Whitehill's squad have proven their worth. Nobby Clarke has won a pair on the mound, the tall Ottawa youth showing a lot of promise as he gets more experience. Fred Plato has fitted in fine at second, and Johnny Denofrio of Ottawa shows his Border League training with some swell work at third and hard hitting at the plate. Bill huntley is a solid citizen at bat and defensively either catching or in the outfield. George Brabin and Andy Milne are okay outfielders along with Joe Lowrey, so that are no worries there. Bun Maeson hasn't been used yet but is available for first or pitching. He and Brabin are missed by Oshawa juniors, and the Merchants also were quite interested in the pair.

Merchants Short-Changed?

Speaking of Oshawa, the Merchants are mighty mad about southpaw Jerry Creasey jumping the club to go with Kitchener. An official in the Motor City the other night told us they'd fight it through the OBA and the courts, if necessary, as he had signed a special contract with Oshawa and taken money. Kitchener officials claim he didn't sign an OBA contract, that the OBA doesn't recognize financial agreements between players and clubs, and that anyway he paid back the money received. Scribe Campbell takes the loss of last year's 15-game winner hard, too, and feels the OBA should recognize players' monetary deals. How come? It is supposedly an amateur body, so it ignores all money agreements by players—and has been doing so for many years. As in the days of Heckman, Dainty, Williams, et al.

Occupational hazards, indeed? If there's anyone in sports nuttier than a racing car driver, we don't know him. These guys go out regularly and take more chances on motor mayhem than a drunken driver, and they seem to enjoy it. That's what packs Indianapolis Speedway—many folks have a secret and morbid hope that there'll be some auto crashes. And there usually are. The drivers cash in on this odd trait in folks, and they certainly provide the thrills, spills and chills as the yroar around a dirt track at 135 m.p.h., bumping rivals en route. They show here for the first time in a couple of hours of races tonight, starting at seven, in Morrow Park, with a flock of American racers going.

They Came From Behind

For more than half the lacrosse game here last eve things looked rather grim. West Yorks of Toronto were outplaying the Petes by a fair margin and they led 7-3 at halftime. Coach Don Crowe—who sat this one out, along with injured Bob Thorpe—really gave 'em a pep talk in the intermission, and they played up to form from there on in. Even then it wasn't a cake-walk by any means, as the Torontos are plenty tough now. Russ Slater proved a big help in his debut with the locals, the Owen Sounder figuring in on three goals—two of 'em quite important ones in the final frame. Looks like the Petes' newcomers have been well chosen.

* * * * * *

Both net-minders drew applause at times for swell saves in speedy but clean going. The checking was close often, especially by the Yorks, but the boys kept their tempers pretty well. Dootch Vitarelli with three goals, and Don Ashbee with one and four assists, really hustled in every quarter, and we liked the all-around work of Jerry Fitzgerald, Nit O'Hearn and Ross Powless. Arn Dugan finally got untracked in the last half and had two scoring points, last year's OLA top scorer being a bit slow starting this semester. But it's a long season and he'll be up there soon. It was a good game and drew another crowd over the 2,000 mark. Third win in three starts for the Crowe crowd, all of them at home. They go to Brampton tonight and have St. Kitts here Wednesday.

Bisons Down Orioles In 5-3 Defeat

By The Associated Press.

Buffalo Bisons, who finished a sad last in 1950, are one of the most improved teams in the International League.

Buffalo got off to a poor start in the current race but of late the Bisons have been moving at a healthy gait.

The Bisons scored their ninth victory in their last 14 starts on Friday night, beating the Baltimore Orioles 5-3. The victory enabled the Bisons to take over fourth place from Ottawa Giants. The Giants dropped a 4-0 decision to Rochester Red Wings.

Tom Acker and Leo Simpson teamed up and held the Orioles to four hits. The Bisons, trailing 3-1 going into the sixth inning, scored four times to route Steve Ridzik and pull the game out of the fire. Coaker Triplett's pinch-hit triple with the bases loaded was the big blow.

Third Shutout

Kurt Krieger turned in his fifth victory and third shutout in beating Ottawa. Krieger allowed the Giants four hits. The Red Wings scored all of their runs in the fourth inning on an error, wild pitch, passed ball and a single by Jim Bucha and double by Charley Kress.

Bill Miller pitched Syracuse Chiefs to a 5-3 victory over the league-leading Montreal Royals. The Chiefs scored all of their runs in the fourth inning. Miller featured the uprising with a two-run single.

The tail-end Springfield Cubs defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 4-1 behind the eight-hit pitching of Allan Ihde. The Cubs clouted three Toronto pitchers for 11 hits including a 360-foot home run by Carm Mauro.

NORWOOD, June 2 (ENS). — Norwood defeated Dominion Woollens of Peterborough here last night by a score of 9-8. The winners counted three runs in the first, two each in the fourth and eighth, and one each in the second and seventh. The losers counted four in the fifth and two each in the first and ninth.

The teams:

Dominion Woollens — Weichorek, Manbeck, Nokes, Leonard, Borland, Revoy, E Leonard, Doughty, Brooks, Doris .

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

The attendance at the men's rink tournament last evening was somewhat disappointing. Less than eight rinks were out. Maybe it is too early in the season. It could be that there are too many counter-attractions.

Several members from the Hillcrest Club, Toronto, will be here on Saturday, June 23 for a friendly game. Local bowlers who would like to play are asked to hand their names in to Joe Adams.

SPEED DEMON—Lee Wallard, 40, of Altamont, N.Y., waves happily after setting a new record of 126.244 miles an hour in capturing the speediest Memorial Day 500-mile auto race in history. It was his fourth start in the annual Indianapolis event.

Ned Garver Gives Browns 4-0 Shutout Over Red Sox

By JACK HAND,
Associated Press Sports Writer,

Now is the time to hang a "for sale" sign on the St. Louis Browns' Ned Garver.

Only 13 shopping days remain for Boston, New York, Cleveland and Detroit before the June 15 trade deadline arrives. If the Dewitts say the word, the sky's the limit.

The new surge of enthusiasm for Garver follows his 4-0 shutout of the Red Sox Friday night, ending Boston's 10-game win streak. It doesn't take any deep thinking to see Garver's value. The Browns, a few percentage points removed from the cellar, have won only 12 games. Garver has won seven.

Just to make it stick, Garver drove home two runs with a fourth-inning single to embarrass Mickey McDermott. It was the first time anybody blanked Boston since Vic Raschi did it opening day. It was their first loss since May 20.

Even in defeat, McDermott struck out nine to take the league lead from Raschi with 50 for the season.

The Chicago White Sox were rained out of their try for a 15th straight against Philadelphia to the dismay of some 30,000 at Comiskey Park. They'll try again against the A's today with Joe Dobson scheduled to carry the heavy burden.

Evens Up

They say everything evens up in the long run. The New York Yankees know it's true. Ten days ago they were losing to Detroit when rain saved them. Friday night they were ahead of Detroit, 4-1, in the fifth inning when the game was washed out. The Tigers would have had to bat in the fifth to make it official.

Cleveland, awakened after a sorry eastern trip, reeled off its fourth straight win behind Early Wynn who tamed Washington 2-1, with three hits. Blanked by Julio Moreno, 1-0, until the eighth, the Tribe rallied to win on Harry Simpson's single, a single, a sacrifice, walk, Dale Mitch's pinch single and a fly ball.

Edge Pittsburgh

Sal Maglie moved out front as the National League's most winning pitcher as he coasted to his eighth straight, an 8-2 New York victory over Pittsburgh. While Maglie allowed only five hits, the Giants ripped into Pirate throwers for 13 including homers by Bobby Thomson and Whitey Lockman. Cliff (no hit) Chambers was knocked out in the fifth. Danny Murtaugh homered for Pittsburgh.

It was Maglie's ninth win over the Pirates in 10 starts in his career. He has beaten them eight in a row.

Brooklyn had pitching trouble, losing to Cincinnati, 6-5, as Don Newcombe failed in relief. Joe Adcock's two-run single in the ninth climaxed a three-run rally for the decision. Adcock was rough all night, hitting a homer in the second.

The Dodger hitters had few problems. Gill Hodges bashed his 16th homer and Pee Wee Reese hit one with two on in the eighth, Jackie Robinson continued his streak with three hits, boosting his average to .416, tops in both leagues.

Boston Braves clipped Chicago 3-2, for Johnny Sain's third victory. The Braves eased past Chicago into third place.

St. Louis muffed a chance to gain on Brooklyn when they bowed to the Phillies 7-3. The loss left the Cards two full games back of the Dodgers.

Jews Have Wandered Earth Since Jacob Fled Famine

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

Since Jacob, driven by famine, went down into Egypt to share food and prosperity with his famous son, Joseph, the Jews have been wanderers.

Today countless thousands of Jews wander across the face of the earth seeking homes, lost loved ones and above all, peace. With heavy burdens on their back and anxious prayers in their hearts, many are the counterparts of those who fled or were captured after the fall of the Southern Kingdom of Judah.

Other Parallels

There are other parallels between the modernday Jews and their ancient ancestors. The restoration of Jerusalem, described in the glowing pages of Ezra and Nehemiah, is being duplicated today in Palestine.

When Jerusalem was completed, there were many well-to-do Jews who had established themselves in Babylon and preferred to remain there. We have evidence of a similar situation in various lands today where Jews are doing much to encourage and support the new Israeli state but are reluctant to leave newly-found friends.

Among those held prisoner today by despotic rulers or desperate circumstances, there exists the same inexorable sadness described in the 137th Psalm which captures the despondency of imprisonment and exile.

Culture Flourished

Still another parallel: after the Babylonians seized the Southern Kingdom of Judah, they gradually grew more kindly disposed toward their captives. As a result, Jewish culture had a chance to flourish, developing such hardiness that it lasted until the eleventh century of the Christian era, AD. Among Jews in Western Europe, a revitalized art movement has been noted.

The story of the return from Babylon, and the restoration, is told, as is well known, in the Biblical books of Ezra and Nehemiah. Though the story in its main events and ultimate issues can be easily apprehended, the consecutive order of events is not so easy to see; and if the general reader has difficulty, he may take comfort from the fact that the acute scholars have had similar difficulty.

I think the explanation lies in the fact that there were two attempts at restoration, the first of which failed, leaving a lapse of some years.

But the chief point is that the restoration was achieved, and the climax of power and inspiration is in the faith, genius, and triumph of Nehemiah, a great leader.

HIGHEST AWARD—Gold letters were presented on Friday to nine PCVS students in recognition of service to the school. The award is the highest attainable in PCVS. John C. Rutherford, teacher-advisor to the Student Council, in making the presentations, said that the letters are for extra-curricular activities in the school, scholarships, scholastic and character records. Above Mr. Rutherford (extreme left congratulates the group, (back row) Ronald Strickland, Peter Turner, Marleigh Snowden, Mary Craw, Joan Lang; front row) Kay Grier, Martha Aitken, Jane Gregson and Marion Jones.—(Examiner Staff Photo).

Train Service Little Affected By 40-Hour Week

Few changes in railway services will be noticed as the 40-hour week for both railways, CPR and CNR, become effective today.

Both Peterborough uptown ticket offices will be closed on Saturday and Sunday. At the CNR the depot office will be open until after train times to service customers. The CPR depot will be open round-the-clock, sleeping car reservations and tickets available there on the weekends.

Daily service except Sunday at both telegraph offices will be shortened by two hours. The new schedule calls for the offices to be open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m. instead of 8 a.m. until 8 p.m. The Sunday hours will now be 9 a.m. until 10 a.m. and 5 p.m. until 6 p.m.

No change will be noticed at the CNR depot office. There the office will be open from 7:30 a.m. until 11:30 p.m. The staff will work a six-day week for five weeks and then have a week's holiday. At the CPR depot, there will be the same 24-hour service, but the staff will be working an eight-hour five-day week, having an extra day off.

Both freight offices will be closed with the exception of one clerk who will be handling the carload service for perishable goods only. The daily week hours will remain the same.

Freight yards will be in full operation as usual and carload services, including switching of team tracks, private sidings and gantry cranes, will be continued.

The express service will be modified on Saturday. Perishable goods and packages for the downtown area will be delivered.

Nine Collegiate Students Presented Gold Letters

PCVS bestowed upon nine students Friday the highest award attainable in PCVS, the gold school letters. J. C. Rutherford, teacher-advisor for the council, told the students that the award is made for meritorious service above and beyond the faithful performance of duties in any field of extracurricular activity, for the winning of a provincial scholarship, and to students in Grades 12 or 13 whose scholastic record is satisfactory to C. S. Browne, the principal.

"The fulfilment of these necessary requirements calls for personal characteristics which seem to be lacking in this present day world of ours," Mr. Rutherford said.

Unselfish

He added that selfishness is on the rampage and the philosophy "get what you can for nothing and let the other fellow take care of himself" is freely accepted. He said that the students who won the letters, Mary Craw, Martha Aiken, Marion Jones, Marleigh Snowden, Joan Lang, Jane Gregson, Kay Grier, Ronald Strickland, and Peter Turner, have proven by their actions that "they have not been taken in by this false doctrine."

"They have that 'something' (school spirit) which spurs their efforts not solely for personal gratification but rather for the benefit of society as a whole."

Mr. Rutherford added, "In giving freely of their time and energy the whole school has benefited and I feel sure their future activities out in the world will be a boon to our democratic way of life and a source of contentment to themselves."

Qualifications

The students and their qualifications were: Mary Craw, president of Student Council, head girl, holder of athletic letter, winner of Morrow and Nicholls scholarships; Martha Aiken, school dramatics, library work, secretary of social functions; Marion Jones, two years dramatics, finance committee and format committee of the Echoes.

Marleigh Snowden, three years with the Echoes, rising from assistant manager of circulation in 1950 to editor for 1951; Jane Gregson, joined literary staff of the Echoes in 1950 and was typing manager, won two Morrow scholarships, record of efficiency; Joan Lang, three years business department of Echoes, reorganized advertising of Echoes.

Kay Grier, executive of Student Council, chairman of the At Home, assisted social functions, worked with school spirit committee; Ronald Strickland, Student Council executive, chairman of the Social Functions committee, twice winner of Morrow scholarships; Peter Turner, head scorer for basketball games for 1950 and 1951; Echoes staff, head boy.

Mining Town At Stony Lake Named Nephton

A new community name has come into being in Peterborough county within the last few days. It is "Nephton." Officials of the American Nepheline Company who are developing a site at their Blue Mountain property at the head of Stony Lake, received notification from Ottawa that the new name had been officially granted by the Post Office Department.

The name Blue Mountain has not been unknown to shippers of freight and express. The Canadian Railway Guide lists it as being "not a Post Office, situated 26 miles from the CNR Station at Lakefield."

Mine officials have been having difficulty in arriving at a suitable name for the past several months. Names which would identify the community with its white ore product were the natural choice, such names as "Whiterock." Apparently there are other "Whiterocks" in Canada and this choice was ruled out to eliminate confusion. Shortened combinations of mining officials names was another attempt to have a community name that was outstanding and different. The final name, and it is now official, is "Nephton."

ARTHUR McCREA DEAD

Born in Omemee, Arthur McCrea, a former director of the T. Eaton Company and a brother of Lady Eaton, died Friday. He joined the T. Eaton Company in 1901 and prior to his retirement in 1937, was active in the mail order department and in organizing employee recreational activities.

Fire Coffee Fund Started Small Grew To Be Big

In the emergent circumstances of the Zacks fire May 19, and the taking of a collection among citizens on George St. that day, Ald. Norman Graham said today that he appears to have been credited with the idea.

"The suggestion was made by Police Constable Louis Rodreque, and I don't feel I should get any credit," Ald. Graham said.

"During that stage of the fire, PC Rodreque and I were having a cup of coffee in the Churchill restaurant. Coffee and other refreshments were being supplied by that time from the restaurant to the firemen and other workers around the fire. The constable said a collection would help defray the cost, and I thought it was a god idea, and that's the way it started."

John Mousmoules of Churchill emptied two boxes from the show case. People in the crowd contributed and that part of the financing has been reported by Major Cyril Everitt of the Salvation Army, including the balance of more than $100 which was contributed subsequently to the Mayor's Fire Fund.

Mr. Mousmoules explained that William Parsons, janitor of the buildings at the southwest corner of George and Hunter Streets, who is a member of the Salvation Army, was one of the first men he noticed around about 6:30 o'clock that morning.

Said Mr. Mousmoules today: "Mr. Parsons asked how would it be if we got some coffee for the firemen. I said it would be OK, and it was decided that the best thing was to telephone Major Everitt. That was done, and the Major was here in about 10 to 15 minutes. He said to supply coffee and soft drinks and sandwiches and everything would be paid for. I wasn't thinking much about the pay with a fire like that just across from us.

"There were several donations that should be mentioned. Mr. Arnold Deyell brought in two cases of paper cups as a gift, which were used with our own in sending out coffee. Mr. J. W. Davidson of Quality Cake Shop, down the street from us, sent in something like 70 dozen dough-

Unemployed Only Half May Year Ago

Local Plants Off Shortened Days, Fewer Seek Work

Unemployment insurance claims for Peterborough and district at the end of May were half last year's total of 1,001. National Employment office manager William Mellis said that only 583 persons were recorded drawing funds on Thursday.

Employment conditions in the city, he said are much better than last year. A year ago a number of plants which included the Western Clock, the Dominion Woollens and the Brinton-Peterborough companies, were on short-time work. This accounted for a large number of unemployment insurance claims.

This year only one factory, the Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co., is slack due to shortage of materials. The foreign and home markets have provided orders for the other companies and short time weeks have been eliminated.

274 Men

In Peterborough this year only 274 men and 194 women were recorded as drawing money as compared with 360 men and 420 women last year. The postal claims also decreased sharply in May this year to 94 men from 152 last year and to 21 women from 69 in 1950.

Total men on claim this May as compared with last is 368 to 512 while the women on insurance are 360 to 241.

Applicants for work during May also dropped from a year ago with only 492 men looking for jobs as compared with 678 last year. The number of women job-hunting also declined but not as much—from 241 to 360.

This year the number of jobs open to men nearly tripled the number in May last year but the women's opportunities for work decreased nearly four times.

Mr. Mellis said that the 158 jobs now open are mostly for experienced workers such as mechanics and toolmakers. The 37 positions for women are open for experienced typists and stenographers. Last year there were 60 jobs for men and 117 for women.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

SCHOOLS CLOSED

Schools will be closed on Monday for the King's birthday, as in other years.

$100 FOR FUND

An afghan knitted by an elderly woman at Anson House was raffled off Friday night at the Legion bingo, and brought in $30.85 for the Mayor's Fire Fund. With the proceeds from the bingo, more than $100 will be turned in to the fund.

PARKING SOLUTION

"After trying to find parking space near a hardware store, I finally gave up and drove down to Frank Jobbitt on Park St. south," said a visitor, years ago of Peterborough, who spent the week here. His comment was that maybe on his next trip the city may have done something about its parking problem.

She has one daughter, Mrs. C. D. Mathias, Peterborough; five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren. Another daughter, Mrs. Hamilton Crawford, of Marmora, died several years ago.

Peterboro' Engraver Designs CNE Medals

Stanley Hayman, 569 George St., N., has been commissioned to draw the design for the 1951 Canadian National Exhibition Medal to be presented to all medal winners.

The Peterborough engraver has designed the CNE medals every year since the exhibition reopened following World War II. At present, Mr. Hayman is still working on this year's design and expects to submit it for approval in approximately two weeks time.

COUNCIL MEETS TUESDAY

City council is postponing its Monday meeting to Tuesday, in respect to the birthday of His Majesty the King, which is celebrated as a legal holiday.

Marble Co. Fires 23 Strikers

Unpopular Promotion Blamed For Wildcat Strike

Twenty-three striking production workers of the Ontario Marble Co. Ltd. have been fired because of their refusal to abandon a sitdown strike caused by the appointment of an unpopular man to the position of assistant to the superintendent.

The firings were effective Friday morning, said Ernest Young, manager of the company. He claimed a violation of contract.

"The contract has an established grievance procedure but so far the men, despite the fact they have been on strike since May 22, have not filed any grievance on this matter," said Mr. Young.

"So far as we are concerned they are discharged."

He said that two men in the shop were exceptions, being either on time Friday morning or sick.

Mr. Young said it was the right of the company to hire, fire, promote, or demote workers as they saw fit. And this was according to the contract.

The workers laid down their tools after it was announced May 21 that a man from the plant was to be promoted to the office of assistant to the superintendent, The superintendent is George Eggerdon.

Mr. Eggerdon said that the promoted man had been with the company for about four years and previously there had been no objection to him.

There has been no trouble at the plant. The men played cards, chatted, and whiled their time away in a sitdown strike.

Friday the men didn't go into the plant but sat outside in their cars.

Thursday a notice was posted in the shop warning the men that unless they returned to work by 1 p.m. they would be fired. The notice said the men had violated their contract and pointed out that no grievance had been filed.

Mr. Young said the men were given three chances they were given the 1 p.m. deadline Thursday, later postponed to 2:45 p.m. and still later postponed to 7 a.m. Friday

During the morning, however, the company met with a committee of the strikers who filed a grievance over the wholesale firings. There was little progress and another meeting is scheduled for Monday morning.

On the committee are stewards Tom Ross, Cecil Black and Roger Varieur, and UE representative Leonard Velleman.

The company refused to discuss the issue of the promotion because there had been no union grievance filed on it.

Meanwhile production is at a standstill. And company officials will make no predictions about the immediate future.

You Get Used To It

Yes, We Have Daylight Saving Time But What Difference Does It Make?

Five weeks of daylight saving. Yes five weeks ago, at this time, the Examiner, along with the great majority of daily newspapers in Canada, was full of reminders about daylight saving time.

You left notes all around the house to remind yourself about setting the clock ahead, going to bed an hour earlier and making church on time the next morning.

Although fast time arrives year after year, you still could not quite get over the feeling that some fiend was snatching an hour away from you that you'd never get back. Where does that hour go anyway?

You figured it would take several days before you would quit saying to yourself: "After all it is really not two o'clock. It's only one o'clock." And then of course you expected to forget about the railway clocks that stay the same, and though you cooled your heels for an hour maybe, you did it only once.

But most Peterborough people, as they do year after year, find it doesn't make the slightest bit of difference, and what were those old time birds yelling about?

Disaster Predicted

Before anyone decided to plunge in and try daylight saving time they predicted everything from an upheaval of the stock market to huge masses of juvenile delinquents running riot in the pool halls. Then the late Sir Robert Borden, the prime minister of Canada, said we would have it. This was during the First World War and we had daylight saving. But what did they call it, Borden's Time.

Actually the change-over every year causes hardly a ripple. You have been on fast time for a month and you could stay that way forever, without even noticing it. You go to bed earlier, not because you figure you should, but it just seems to work out that way.

The only time you ever remember about daylight saving is when you have to meet your Great Aunt Matilda at the station, or your country cousin comes to town and tells you the dire things it does to the cows and chickens.

Now Inevitable

It doesn't matter much whether you were for or against when it first came up. Now you accept it as inevitable. When it means you can get an extra nine holes of golf, the most disgruntled diehard decides it isn't too bad.

It's just like cigarettes. When you first heard about the price going up you ranted and raved and vowed you'd quit smoking, take snuff, chew gum—anything but tobacco.

Somehow, there seems to be just as many people smoking cigarettes as before.

Neatly Done Landscaping Enhances Value of Property

The impression your home makes from the street is of great importance. It affects the value of you property, your neighborhood and, most of all, your family pride. Quite naturally the idea should be carried over the entire site since a good backdoor impression is equally as important as the frontdoor reputation.

One of the most successful ways of creating this impression is in the correct use of landscaping. The best of architectural designs needs, and is enhanced by, nature. Landscaping, however, can be overdone; the side-show appearance of some landscaping scheme soon becomes monotonous.

An intelligent use of the site and the landscaping, and coordinating it with the house itself, is one of the most neglected phases of planning the new home. This is one of the reasons why so many homes look like boxes on a platter. Emphasis should be placed on a program of development based on what the homeowner can afford.

Yearly Development

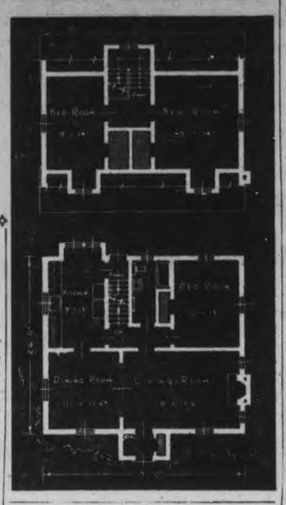
The best way to produce a good final result in the landscaping scheme is to lay out a program of yearly development. In such a plan the work can be carried out as finances permit, and quite probably the major portion of the actual labor will be carried out by you. Most people enjoy working around their own homes to improve the comfort and beauty, and there is little doubt that their appreciation of the completed job is much greater than it would be if they could simply say: "Go ahead with the job and send me the bill."

Landscaping of a new home can be accomplished gradually under the yearly development plan, and for the man who enjoys outdoor work the landscaping of his home will provide exercise and relaxation.

Unfortunately, we can't all have the "perfect site" with beautiful views, a brook, natural woods and all of the other natural advantages that people dream about when seeking a site for a house. However, such a setting may not be the perfect solution to your living needs, no matter how lovely they may sound. As in the house, the land must fit your personal needs.

Trees best frame the house if they are set slightly forward and to the side of the corners. If the site is naturally wooded, try to place the house in correct relation to the trees. Too many trees around the house can be a disadvantage, so don't be afraid to cut a few. The advantages of sunshine and natural light for the house is too important for the home builder to become sentimental over thinning out excessive growth.

Sloping Sites



Sloping sites are usually quite interesting, but in the planning of the new home, where convenience is best obtained on one floor, they are not a factor in the plans. Landscaping effects can be beautiful when they are located on different levels, but are sometimes quite costly to produce, especially when retaining walls are needed. Also, a highly-involved landscaping scheme may be very difficult to keep up without hiring extra help for this alone. If the grounds are to be maintained by the owner, bear in mind that landscaping neglected because "there isn't time" may make you entire site look shabby and run-down.

A characteristic of new home planning is to place the house so that as many rooms as possible face toward the south. Since the heat of the sun is to be used to heat the house on sunny winter days, this orientation, combined with the use of sealed double-glass windows and overhanging eaves or "sun visors," is the basic "solar house."

Landscaping is fundamentally important in any solar house to create privacy for the broad expanse of glass walls and picture windows. Proper landscaping of the solar house also provides a part of the protection from the sun in summer, when the rays are at a lower angle and might tend to stream in under the sun visor. While landscaping can provide an interesting hobby for the owner, it is well to consult an expert in solar houses before going ahead with any landscaping plan for this type of house.

HOUSE NO. 401—The outside walls of this little six-room home are sparkling white clapboards, and the roof is red composition shingle. All rooms have good proportions and window openings—in fact, there isn't one without two exposures! On entering the house one is impressed at once by its apparent spaciousness, since the only division between living room and dining room is a broad arch. Many will like the first-floor bedroom and the stairs rising from the back hall rather than close to the front entrance. For working drawings write Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto.

Year In Reformatory For Stealing Car

BROCKVILLE, June 2 (CP)—Convicted on a charge of automobile theft, Hoger Joseph Cassey 18, of Camp Borden, was sentenced Friday to a year in reformatory.

A native of New Brunswick, Cassey is alleged to have stolen the car, a 1940 model, in Gananoque May 18. He wass topped by Quebec Provincial Police for having poor lights after crossing the bridge at St. Anne de Bellevue.

Cassey denied the theft. He claimed he had been picked up by an unknown man who was driving the car. Some distance from Brockville, he said, this man stepped from the car and asked him to drive it to Montreal. The car was to be left at a one-minute car wash in that city, Cassey said.

He said he was following instructions when stopped by the police.

Prices Unchanged

WASHINGTON, June 2 (AP)—Wholesale prices remained unchanged in the week ended May 29, the Bureau of Labor Statistics reported Friday. The prices have virtually levelled off since May 1. The bureau's wholesale price index was 182.4 per cent of the 1926 average May 29. That was 1.3 per cent above the level prevailing Jan. 23—two days before the price-wage freeze—and 16.3 per cent above the pre-Korean average.

Ask Co-Operation

OTTAWA, June 2 — (CP) — Defence Minister Claxton asked Canada's employers Friday to again co-operate with the forces and extend leave of absence to employees in taking annual summer training with navy, army and air force reserves. In a letter to all major employers, Mr. Claxton noted such leave had been granted in past years and asked it again be given on the ground annual summer training of reserves is a work of national importance.

To Tour World

LONDON, June 2 (Reuters)—A British sports car left here early Friday on a 30-day, 30,000-mile round the world trip. The car, with a team of drivers and mechanics, will travel in a series of road and air hops through Europe, the Middle East, India, Thailand, the Philippines and across the Pacific, to return here by way of the United States and Canada.

Royal Salute

OTTAWA, June 2 — (CP) — Royal 21-gun salutes will be fired at saluting stations across Canada at noon June 4 to mark the official celebration of the King's birthday, Army headquarters announced Friday. All military personnel, if and where they can be spared, will be given the day off.

Gilmour President

MONTREAL, June 2—(CP)—Dr. George Gilmour, pjresident of McMaster University, Hamilton, Friday was elected president of the National Conference of Canadian Universities at closing sessions of their annual conference. Other officers elected include: W. A. Macintosh, principal of Queen's University, vice-president.

Cantor Improving

NEW YORK, June 2—(AP)—Comedian Eddie Cantor was reported improved Friday at doctor's hospital. He entered the hospital last Monday for treatment for a ruptured blood vessel in his throat.

Fined For Driving

ST. CATHARINES, June 2 (CP).—William F. Gray, 24, of Toronto, was fined $117 Friday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of dangerous driving. Mrs. Margaret Wallace of Toronto was fatally injured in the cab of a truck driven by Gray after it overshot a turn and crashed into a hydro pole. Gray and another passenger escaped with minor injuries.

No New Method

OTTAWA, June 2 — (CP) — Agriculture Minister Gardiner told the Commons Friday he knows of no new methods of fighting caterpillars of the type now invading some sections of Ontario. DDT is the most effective weapon.

NEXT WITNESS—Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, US Air Force Chief of Staff, testifies in the MacArthur probe. Vandenberg was the fifth witness in the continuing investigation by the joint Senate Armed Services-Foreign Relations committee.

Refinishing Walls Is Simpler Nowadays

By MR. FIX
Distributed by NEA Service

Once people start such ambitious projects as re-doing floors and woodwork, there's no telling where it will stop.

The woodwork will look so nice, for instance, that the ceiling and walls will look shabby by contrast, and you might just as well finish the job right.

These days it's a lot easier than it used to be, what with new kinds of paints and gadgets that just about put the handyman around the house in the decorating business.

Get the whole room ready for the job before you start putting on anything new.

Tackle the ceiling first. If it was calcimined previously, wash off the old finish with warm water whether you plan to re-calcimine or use paint. If it was painted before and isn't too dirty, use a dust brush to get off all loose particles of paint.

Dust the walls, too, and wash any bad smudges. Then mix up some patching plaster, and fix up all the cracks on the ceiling and walls, covering these with a size after the plaster dries.

Some people paint right over old wallpaper, but we don't go along with the idea, even if it saves work. You'll want to take the old paper off some day, anyway; painting over it makes it much tougher. You can rent a steamer from your hardware man, and as the steam softens the glue, scrape off the paper with a broad-bladed putty knife, being careful not to dig into the plaster.

Previously painted walls need no further preparation before painting, but if you've removed paper before switching to paint, you'll have to size the whole thing.

One way to save a lot of time and muscle in your home redecorating is to use a roller. They come in a lot of styles—some you dip into the paint in a shallow metal trough that fits on your stepladder; some hold the paint in a reservoir inside the roller, and others are fed by a portable hand-pump pressure tank.

With a roller, you'll need a brush only for the trim and to touch up the corners. If you have rough-finished walls or ceiling, however, you'll have to stick to a brush for the whole job.

There's no need anymore to fool around trying to mix your own colors. Most paint stores now have color books showing more shades than you thought were in the spectrum, and after you've picked the one you want by number, they'll mix it for you and then shake up the can on an electric machine. That means you can always be sure of matching your choice, too.

FIX-IT FORUM

Q—Where can I buy the fabric wall covering described in a recent Mr. Fix Column?

A—Fabric wall covering, which is coated cloth, is made by several manufacturers and can be bought at most good-sized paint and wallpaper dealers or from one of the large mail order houses.

Successful Home Owning Based on Sound Financing

When you plan to build or buy a house, there are two things you must take into consideration at the outset, the down payment you can afford and the expenses of month-to-month ownership.

The savings you have in cash, bonds or other securities will, of course, govern the amount you can spend as a down payment. To find out just how much you can afford in the monthly upkeep of the house make out a family budget. In the first column, total your gross monthly income. In column two, list all your living expenses other than present costs such as rent, heating, maintenance and repair, and any special municipal taxes such as water tax. Subtract the total in column two from column one and you will have the monthly amount available for heated home-ownership. Then inquire into the appropriate monthly costs of taxes and fire insurance in the area in which you intend to build and estimate the cost of maintenance and repair, and heating. Maintenance and repair of the house should be considered as one of the monthly costs of home-ownership from the beginning.

With these estimates you will be able to determine the amount available for principal and interest payments on a mortgage loan, remembering that payments, plus taxes and insurance, should not exceed 23 per cent of your monthly income.

The advice often given to prospective home-owners intending to build is to set aside a sum equal to twice your monthly income as an emergency fund. This will help defray any additional costs which may be incurred during construction.

In most new houses, there are expenses related to the actual "settling down." Some pieces of furniture or equipment, such as a stove or refrigerator, may be required immediately. New drapes and floor coverings may also be necessary. Funds kept in reserve may mean the difference between getting off on the right foot or facing possible financial difficulty.

Temperament Said Necessary For Real Actor

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 2 (AP)—"What's the matter with temperament?" asked Charles Laughton.

I couldn't think of a likely answer, so he continued: "Temperament and acting go hand in hand. All real actors have it. Those who don't might as well give up while they're still young and can go into a trade where it isn't required—such as plumbing."

Laughton came to the stout defence of Shelley Winters, the battling blonde who is often criticized in the Hollywood press.

"Of course she's got temperament," he argued. "That's why the little lady in two years' time has become a top screen personality.

"Temperamental stars may be lambasted in the press, but you notice they're the ones who are working."

The Mailbags

Arthur Bremer of Saginaw, Mich., reports a theatre there that advertises "no confections sold." It's nice to know there is some haven in this land for non-munching movie-goers.

Wayne Allen of Illinois Journal and Register, Springfield, suggests the title for the Jane Froman biography should be "Accentuate the Positive." It sounds a lot better than the present handle, "You and the Night and the Music," which will make any movie marquee groan.

Art Rhodes of the Albany, Ga., Herald inquires: "Why—since you yourself have written there are very few actual stars in Hollywood—do you insist on referring to most players as stars?"

Oops! I have since spanked my typewriter and will write on the blackboard 100 times: "I will not call a star a star unless he really is a star."

Don't Make Ru'ing

ROME, June 2 (A.)—Rome's Superior Court refrained Friday from ruling on the validity of actress Ingrid Bergman's marriage to director Roberto Rossellini. The Gergman-Rossellini marriage came to the attention of the Superior Court in a test case to set a precedent buttressing Italy's new law against validation of foreign annulments. Rossellini's former marriage was annulled late in 1949 in Vienna. This cleared the way for the marriage of Rossellini to Miss Bergman.

Saves Non-Swimmer

WELLAND, June 2 (CP). — George Shook Jr., 12, Friday night swam across the Welland Ship Canal at one of its widest points to rescue Diana Cutler, 11, a non-swimmer who had tumbled into the water. The same boy last winter rescued John Calver, 5, who fell through canal ice.

Poultry Disease Said Arrested

OTTAWA, June 2 (CP)—The Federal Agriculture Department considers that the outbreak of Newcastle disease, a poultry affliction which plagued British Columbia last year, has been arrested, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said Friday night.

He told the Commons that the department paid BC poultrymen $842,846 in 1950 as compensation for flocks slaughtered to stem the spread of the disease. Seventy-five premises producing poultry were quarantined.

Other Firms Boost Newsprint

TORONTO, June 2 — (CP) — Newsprint price increases have been announced by two big Canadian producers, effective July 1.

Harold S. Foley, president of the West Coast's Powell River Co. Ltd., said Friday in Vancouver that the amount has not been decided but that he considered $10 a ton would be "a very modest advance."

Earlier, Abitibi Power and Paper Co. Ltd., a major eastern producer, said its increase will be $10 a ton, making its New York price $116 and the Canadian price $112.

Canadian newspapers will pay about $122 a ton, including a 10-per-cent federal sales tax and about $10 freight charges.

Spokesmen for two other Canadian newsprint companies indicated that they are considering an increase.

Abitibi told its customers that rising costs had made the step necessary. Production Minister Howe said that, considering all factors including production costs, the government had decided against intervening in the price boost.

Reaction from across the border came from Senator Edwin C. Johnson, Democrat, of Colorado, who urged Michael V. Disalle, United States price administrator, to resist "with everything we have" the new increase.

Pay $2,700 Fines

MONTREAL, June 2 (CP). — Fines totalling $2,700 were levied Friday on four men who pleaded guilty of conspiracy to smuggle electric refrigerators into this country from the United States. Carl Sinray and William Carriere of Valleyfield, Que., were fined $1,000 each, while Romeo Carriere, also of Valleyfield, was fined $500 and Gregoire Ferland, of Montreal, $200.

Defence Course

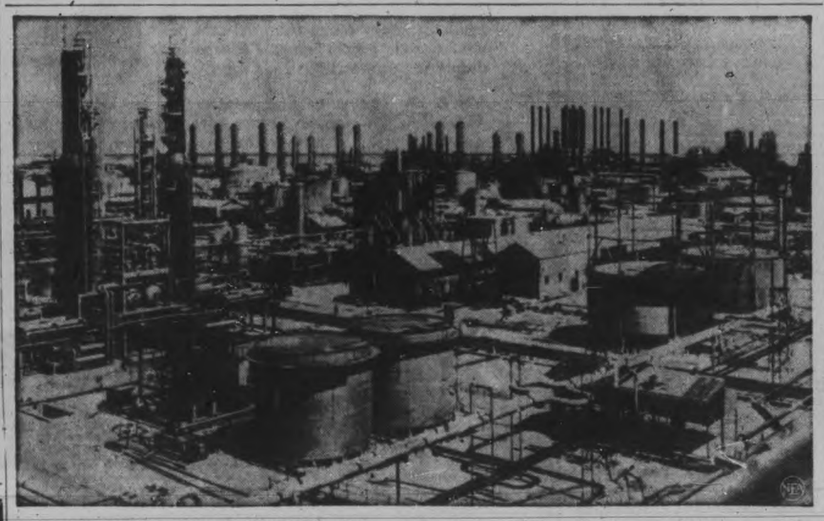
TORONTO, June 2 (CP).—The first civil defence instructors' course will open in Toronto June 12, Col. Arthur Welsh, defence co-ordinator for Ontario, announced Friday. Col. Welsh said that the school is the beginning of a province-wide training program which it was hoped would develop trained men to lead various sections of the province in the event of attack.

Court Quashes Certification Of Toronto Guild

TORONTO, June 2 (CP). — A court ruling Friday quashed the Ontario Labor Board's certification of the Toronto Newspaper Guild (CIO-CCL) as bargaining agent for 80 circulation employees of The Toronto Globe and Mail.

Mr. Justice G. A. Gale of the Ontario High Court of Justice ruled:

"It is my view that the company did not receive a proper hearing in that it was not allowed to see the documents filed by the union or to cross-examine the person who made statements as to their effect and was thus denied reasonable opportunity of meeting the case made against it."



John Osler, counsel for the Guild, said Mr. Justice Gale's ruling will be appealed.

The judgment was the first by a senior court in Ontario to overrule a Labor Board decision. Statutes establishing the board specify that there should be no appeal to the courts from a board decision, and in this connection Mr. Justice Gale said:

"A clause like section 5 (the no-appeal reference) does not expel the right of the court to review and set aside proceedings in an inferior tribunal where there has been such a failure to follow the dictates of essential justice."

"ROUTINE" 665 MPH—Pilot Michael Cooper-Slipper smiles from the cockpit of the F-86A Sabre which he flew from Toronto to Montreal at a record 665 miles an hour. This Sabre is powered by the Avro Oranda turbo-jet engine, which is rated more powerful than the engine with which an F-86 established a world speed mark of 670.981 mph. Pilot Cooper-Slipper described the flight as "routine."

HEART OF GREAT DISPUTE—Primary outlet of the British oil industry in southern Iran, and object of threatened seizure by the Iranian government, is the big Abadan refinery, above. Largest refinery in the world, Abadan produces 25 million tons of oil annually. Its loss would be a serious blow to Britain's oil supply, would force drastic rationing of gasoline. International squabbling over Iran's oil now takes top billing in the hot-and-cold war with communism.

Market Shows Best Advance In Three Months

By BILL DANIELS
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Prices rolled higher on stock markets this week in their best advance in three months. It was the greatest increase since the week of January 28, when the 20-month bull market was still in progress.

The sharp price climb was much different than that of three months ago, however. Then there was great strength and interest in the market. That week chalked up one of the biggest weekly shares-traded totals in many years. Sales for Monday, January 27 were more than 5,000,000 shares.

This week was one of the quietest in years. It indicated the spring trading slump that began in mid-February was still continuing. And it looked as if it might continue for some time.

The upturn simply could not gain investors' enthusiasm. What accounted for the fact that the Exchange's averages and indices were up sharply for the week was that the carrier issues—the high-priced, fairly-reliable issues that are mostly used in averages—were the busiest ones in what trading there was. Speculators were extremely cautious with the issues that involved some risk.

Talk of Week

Papers, incidentally, were the talk of the week in Canadian circles. Reports early in the week that Canada will increase newsprint exports to the United Kingdom this year by four or five times, and annonucement yesterday by Abitibi of a $10-a-ton increase for the price of newsprint gave the industry a bullish outlook.

For the week from Friday to Friday, the Toronto Stock Exchange indices showed industrials up 13.52 at 328.16, golds up 1.81 at 76.72, base metals up 9.78 at 177.57, and western oils up 5.32 at 106.00.

In the Montreal averages banks were off 0.40 at 29.16, utilities up 9.7 at 85.2, industrials up 11.9 at 223, combined up 8.2 at 177.1, papers up 75.6 at 832.95, and golds up 1.78 at 60.53.

In New York the Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up $1.60 at $92.40.

Find Ontario's Twin Cities Kitchener-Waterloo Among Most Progressive

By DAN ODETTE of Kitchener-Waterloo Record

KITCHENER, June 2. (CP)—They love and admire one another but at times they fight like two waspy neighbors over the backyard fence. That's the brief story of Kitchener and Waterloo, the Siamese twin cities in the only Ontario county that boasts three cities. The progressive twin community comprises 55,000 people with another 10,000 in the immediate environs, principally in Bridgeport and Waterloo Township. Kitchener has 44,000 and Waterloo 11,000. Waterloo county's third city is Galt, 13 miles southeast of here.

The many people of German descent in this area have long been noted for their capacity for work and for frugality. The former attribute has built up many large businesses from small beginnings, the latter has utilized every bit of the pig — head, body and tail — except the squeal.

Everything

If it were not for Waterloo's fear of losing its identity, the two municipalities might have amalgamated years ago. The result, in a few cases, is two of everything.

There are two city councils, fire departments, police departments, public and separate school boards and public utilities commisisons. Each city has its own baseball and hockey teams.

Jointly, they built a $3,000,000 municipal hospital in Kitchener and have just concluded construction of a $1,000,000 addition to the Kitchener-Waterloo Collegiate and Vocational Institute—also in Kitchener.

On the other hand, each has its own arena. The Waterloo Memorial Arena was built at a cost of $160,000 five years ago. Kitchener has just completed a $1,200,000 Memorial Auditorium that is a copy of Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens on a smaller scale.

Same Main Street

A unique feature is that both cities have the same main street, named alike (King St.) and along it operates the first trolley bus system in Ontario.

This main thoroughfare carries signs designating each city's limits, but they are usually missed. Visitors always seem to show a trace of disappointment when the "border" is pointed out, probably expecting something more obvious. It follows no street or stream and often runs through a row of houses.

Since Waterloo has no cemetery or hospital within its borders, residents of the smaller city swallow hard when someone says nobody is born or buried there.

Waterloo has retained its name since it came into being But Kitchener has had its name changed twice.

Changed Name

Kitchener was first known as Ebytown, but in 1833 it was changed to Berlin. In 1916, 200 business men petitioned City Council to change the name again. The request was met and "Kitchener" was selected in respect to Lord Kitchener, First World War hero.

Progress of the two cities has been amazing considering neither is on a main rail line, river or lake.

The CPR made its mistake in running its main Toronto-Detroit line through Galt, believing Galt would outstrip Kitchener. To make up for that lapse, the railway connects the two cities with buses and an electric line.

The CNR Toronto-Stratford branch runs through iKtchener.

You can buy a ticket to Waterloo on either line, but you never arrive there on rails since you are "bumped" off in Kitchener.

Deeply Religious

Twin City people are deeply religious. The leading denominations are Lutheran and Roman Catholic, but practically every faith in Canada has a church in the 50 here including Swedenborgian, Mennonite and Evangelical United Brethren.

Mennonite women with their little bonnets and men of the Amish sect with their black hats, beards and buttonless clothes (they use eyes and hooks) are common sights on the streets of both cities.

The Twin Cities love their own peculiar food and drink and the hospitality that goes with it. The food is rich and plentiful and the fame of its farmers' market for clean and varied products has been given wide publicity.

Pork is a big meat favorite with pig tails being a delicacy when eaten freshly roasted. Spicy, German smoked meats are also in heavy demand.

Special Treat

Cheese, of peculiar German brands, is relished. A special treat here, which also meets with strong favor by epicures elsewhere, is small pickled corn.

Beer is the most popular drink and each city has a brewery. Waterloo is also the home of a distillery, while Kitchener tries to counter with a winery.

Furniture, rubber tires, shoes, shirts and leather are manufactured in quantities and shipped all over the world. The Twin Cities have 160 manufacturing plants, producing $110,000,000 worth of goods annually.

Both cities are headquarters of several large insurance companies, such as the Mutual Life, Dominion Life, Equitable Life and Economical Mutual Fire.

Two Colleges

Each city has a college. Waterloo College in Waterloo is affiliated with the University of Western Ontario, St. Jerome's College in Kitchener is an affiliate of Ottawa University

The two cities get an abundant supply of water from underground springs, always cool, clear and free of any chemical taste. Each has its own swimming pool, too

Kitchener and Waterloo are noted for the fact that 81.5 per cent of the people own their own homes, one good reason why the surroundings are neat and crisp.

While the Twin Cities have had many famous sons, two have helped shape the destinies of the country.

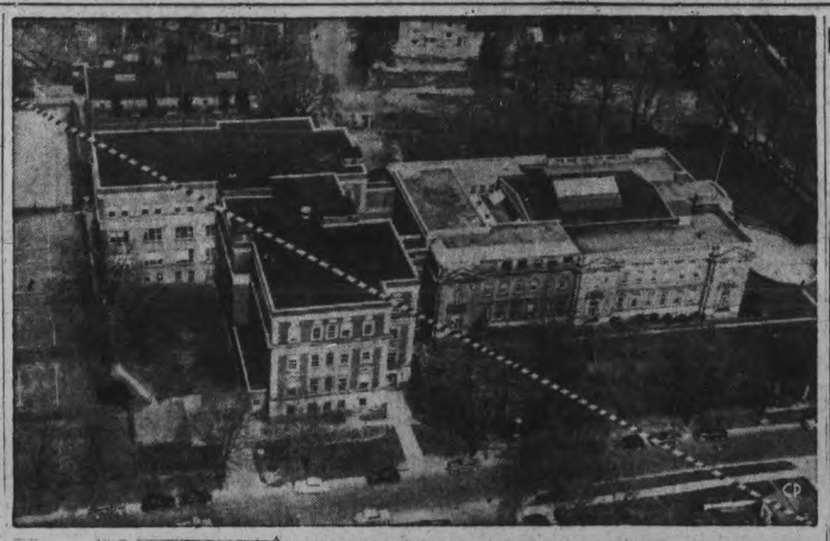
One was William Lyon Mackenzie King, prime minister of Canada longer than any other man, whose home in Kitchener is being turned into a national museum.

The other was Sir Adam Beck, father of Ontario hydro, who was born at Baden, just outside of Kitchener. The first hydro power in the province was turned on in Kitchener in 1910 by Sir James Whitney, then premier of Ontario, and Sir Adam.

Sports Important

Sports play a great part in community life of both cities, particularly hockey, baseball and golf.

Several hockey players who got their start on Kitchener's outdoor ward rinks have performed and are performing in the National Hockey League Among the best known were Boston's famous forward line of Milt Schmidt, Woody Dumart and Bobby Bauer.



Golf is booming on three courses with the favorite son being Jerry Kesselring, former Canadian junior champion.

First to Have Course

The Kitchener-Waterloo Collegiate was first in Ontario to have an automobile driving school, now being copied by a large number of other cities.

An indication of Kitchener's courtesy is the action of Police Chief John Patrick who ordered his men to hand out warning tags instead of tickets when an out-of-town motorist commits a parking offence.

This has resulted in a flood of leters to the chief thanking him for his consideration and praising Kitchener for its thoughtfulness

Church Membership Reported Higher

KINGSTON, June 2—(CP)—United church membership in the Bay of Quinte conference continued to grow during the last year.

Figures presented Friday in the closing sessions of the conference showed an increase of one per cent in the number of families and six per cent in the number of persons under pastoral care.

The number of young persons attending Sunday school increased by four percent. The church building program increased 20 per cent during the year.

500 Delegates At Conference

MACKINAC ISLAND, Mich., June 2 (AP)—Men and women from many parts of the world and many stations in life began a conference here Friday to determine how to best tell the world:

"Strengthen your spiritual as well as your physical resources."

The 500 delegates from 15 countries are part of the "moral rearmament" movement. They believe that a literal re-arming of moral values can provide democracy's best answer to the Communist ideology.

Government heads and common laborers will take part in an exchange of ideas on this peaceful island between Michigan's two peninsulas.

On hand for opening sessions were many foreign visitors, including August Savstrom, speaker of the Lower House in the Swedish Legislature, and Otto G. Cadegg, secretary of the Swiss railway workers.

Several members of the United States Congress, who invited the foreign leaders to attend as "a demonstration of united strength in the field of inspired moral leadership," planned to fly from Washington for some of the meetings.

Prime Minister Sophocles Venizelos of Greece also is expected to attend the gathering.

THE R.C.A.F. TRAINING COMMAND BAND will appear at the Civic Arena in Peterborough, Friday evening, June 15. This is the first time that this outstanding band has been in this city. The band is being brought here by the No. 428 Peterborough Wing, R.C.A.F. Association. Silver collection will be taken and the money received will be applied to the organization of the new Aid Cadet squadron in this city

Howe Refuses To Halt Price

OTTAWA, June 2 (CP)— Production Minister Howe said in an interview Friday that the government has been notified of the intent by a manufacturer to increase the price of newsprint and has decided not to intervene.

Mr. Howe was commenting on an announcement by Abitibi Power and Paper Co., Ltd., made in Toronto today, that its newsprint would be increased by $10 a ton. This brings the New York price to $116 a ton and the Canadian price to $112.

Under emergency powers vested in Mr. Howe as Minister of Defence Production, the government could have blocked or cut the increase.

Blueprints For a Sitter

By NANCY CLEAVER

Pinch-hitting for mother is no easy task. A sitter needs a dependable compass and a reliable chart by which to steer her course in a strange home.

The sitter, especially a new one, should be asked to arrive at least a quarter of an hour before mother leaves the house. This gives the child in the home the chance to get used to the appearance of this strange grown-up or almost grown-up. It also gives the mother the opportunity to explain the sitter's duties and show her where things are kept which she will need.

Written instructions form a vastly superior blueprint for a sitter than verbal directions. Take time to go over the child's routine. Explain your general method of child training and ask your sitter to try to act as you would about any particular problem which may arise. If her memory is not too good, or if she is excited in a new situation, the written directions will reassure the sitter after you go.

Write down the phone number where you can be reached, and if you think wise, that of a friendly nearby neighbor. Advise the sitter to phone the doctor immediately, if a medical emergency should arise. Let him judge whether or not he should make a house call. Under the doctor's phone number, on a small card at the phone, list the police and the fire departments.

Have a pencil and pad beside the phone and tell the sitter to write down any phone or door messages when she receives them. Have her repeat any name or number if she is uncertain of it. Jot down the time you expect to return—and be as prompt about your appearance as you expect your sitter to be when she first arrives.

Be business-like about your financial arrangement with your sitter and pay her promptly at the conclusion of each work period. Be frank with her—discover if she is willing to do light household tasks for additional money. If you wish this, make it clear that looking after your child is of first importance, and that other jobs are extras when the child does not need the sitter's attention.

Some mothers like to trust their sitters to behave in a well-bred fashion, taking care of furniture and being considerate in the use of the phone and radio. Others have found from experience, that in the long run it is better from the very start to make it clear that certain things such as monopolizing the phone, are just "not done."

The sitter who is careless with possessions, who breaks china, leaves articles on the floor, raids the refrigerator or pries into drawers, just doesn't know her place. Having more than one friend in to keep her company doesn't work out in most cases. A mother has little or no control over a sitter's acquaintances whom she does not know and is not employing. Many mothers insist that two girls, even if they are company for each other, do not give their undivided attention to baby sitting. These mothers prefer the lone sitter.

A homemaker with a child or children is very dependent on the good character of her sitter and it behooves her to use a little extra tact and understanding in her arrangements. Be sure your sitter is comfortable, has a good light by which to read and some interesting magazines or books handy.

Permission to use the radio is a help in passing the time, providing it is left on low so a child's cry or the phone or door bell can be heard. If some unexpected happening delays your arrival back home, phone the sitter, and let her know. A tasty "snack" makes a pleasant break for your sitter—and adolescents do get very hungry! Make satisfactory provision for her safe return to her home.

In this parent-sitter relationship, as in any other, the Golden Rule "pays off!" Any experienced parent or sitter will testify to the value of being considerate of the "other fellow." A little imagination plus consideration, rather than rigid rules, spells success with those who "pinch hit" for mother.

HEADS ARMY PERSONNEL —Maj.-Gen. Anthony C. McAuliffe, above, famed hero of Bastogne, will become chief of Army personnel. He succeeds Lt.-Gen. E. H. Brooks, who is taking command of the Second Army at Fort Meade, Md. McAuliffe became famous in World War II for his reply of "nuts" to a German surrender demand at besieged Bastogne.

Tee-off Dance Opens Schedule

New president Mrs. Frank Jobbitt drew for the door prize and winner was Miss Joan Gardiner. Miss Barbara Johnston was winner of the ladies' spot dance and Mr. Stu. Welfare League Holding Tea

Reviving a custom dropped during the first years of War II the Welfare League of Peterborough will hold a Garden Tea next Wednesday at the home of Mrs. R. R. Faryon, River Rd. North. It is found necessary for the League to increase its financial balance because of the increased price of milk. A number of needy families in the city are supplied with milk throughout the year and the sum of monthly bills is now well over $75. The number of Christmas parcels needed last year was increased to 75 which drew considerably harder on their funds. League members also provide clothes and treats to the children under care of the Children's Aid Society as well as doing their mending work at meetings and their services are given at each of the Well Baby Clinics. Mrs. W. R. L. Blackwell and Mrs. John Stuart Jr. are joint conveners of the tea and there will be a home cooking table in charge of Mrs. J. D. Anderson and Mrs. H. Eastwood.

Garden Party on Church Lawn

A colorful affair to take place next Wednesday afternoon is the garden party and bazaar on the lawn of Murray St. Baptist Church being arranged by the Young Married Couples Group of the church. Mrs. O. J. Hayward is general convener. Her decorating committee is busy planning an outdoor setting that will be out of the ordinary from their former teas. Proceeds will go toward purchasing furnishings for the church, Sunday school and church parlors.

Trinidadian Bookkeeper Touring Canada Alone Spends 10 Days At YWCA

Fulfilling a desire that has increased since childhood is a lovely Trinidadian girl now on a three month visit in Canada.

Miss Joan McComie of Port of Spain went on holiday from her civil service job as bookkeeper on April 7th, boarded a plane at nine o'clock that morning and less than 30 hours later she was in Montreal. Then began an unplanned tour which she hopes will extend to Vancouver, BC.

May 25th she came to Peterborough—to spend two days. On arrival she went to the YWCA office and introduced herself. That began a chain of meetings and entertainments that has resulted in her staying for 10 days instead.

It is an example of the value of a Y membership for Miss McComie is a member of the small Y in Port of Spain. She left home with the names of a few Canadian girls who had been on last year's YWCA tour of Europe and the World Fellowship Conference at Oshawa, given her by the Trinidad delegates and that was her only link to anyone in Canada.

Now she has friends in Montreal, Ottawa, Toronto and Peterborough, the list to be added to as she continues. She has taken part in various Y functions going on at the time of her visits, fitting in without any difficulty whatever. The Y in each city is her residence, though in Peterborough she has been guest at the home of Miss Marion Pogue for several days.

A treat this weekend for the visitor will be cottage life at McCracken's Landing, Stony Lake, to be spent with Miss Pogue and several of her new friends from the Toronto Y.

Miss McComie tells how different we would find Trinidad where many nationalities mingle and few of the people are white-skinned. Discovered by Columbus in 1492, the islands were in possession of the Spanish and the French until about 300 years ago. As a result the predominant religion is Catholic, taking up about half the population. The non-Catholics are divided, a great many being Moslems who have a large temple in the centre of Port of Spain, and there are a number of Jews. Though they live, work and play together, there is little inter-marrying between the races.

A British Colony, Trinidad has a governor general sent from England for a five year term, and native councillors also appointed for five years, with each city having its own government, similar to Peterborough's. Education follows a schedule made out in England and examiners are sent out to give the students examinations on their secondary school work. On receiving an HC (High Certificate) they are qualified to enter university and there is a University of the West Indies in Jamaica, but usually the students prefer to take their training in another country.

Miss McComie worked for three years without holidays in order to have three months to spend in Canada, her job offering one months holiday per year. A promotion given her just before leaving extends her vacation to 45 days per year so she is due back on July 20th, but there is expectation her leave may be extended until September in which event she will also visit United States.

"I'm spendng my money this way instead of on a university course," she advises. "My next trip will be to the UK, when I have saved up enough holiday time."

Wife Claims Life Of Party Seldom Talks, Bore At Home

DEAR MISS DIX: Six years ago I married a man who had a perfectly wonderful personality, and he still has it. He has a gift for entertaining, and as a consequence is invited everywhere and has loads of friends. In fact, his sole interest in life seems to be making new friends and exuding his charm and personality for their benefit.

Dorothy Dix

At home, he is entirely different. He seldom talks to me and when we are out I get little of his attention. He is too busy fascinating everyone else. I really don't believe that I am too dull for him to bother with me. I read, keep up with current events, and am well informed on the issues of the day. I am active in church work, and am a good dancer. When I was single I had my share of dates. I try hard to be a good wife and mother, but I'm disgusted with my husband's attitude. What can I do?

JUDY

ANSWER: About the best thing you can do, Judy, is to face the fact that you're married to a show-off and that any pleasure or amusement you get out of him will be in public.

Sign Of Immaturity

Your husband's attitude is one of the most pathetic signs of immaturity a man can exhibit. This complete dependence on the adulation of the mob, the craving to be the center of attention, are childish traits that are more to be pitied than censured.

Having exerted his powerful personality on you to the extent of winning you for his wife, your husband naturally feels that there's no further necessity for turning his charm in your direction. All you can do now is bask in reflected glory.

Of course, the sad time for these Personality Petes comes when the galaxy of friends gets a little tired of the same entertainment, and when middle-aged charm doesn't scintillate quite as brilliantly as the youthful variety did. Papa himself will soon slow down, finding the continual round of gaiety just a little too much after a hard day's work. Then he'll begin to find the comforts of home more alluring than a night out with the boys.

For you, the situation just sums up into the one word that is the keynote to a wife's stand in so many marital situations—patience!

DEAR MISS DIX: I was married to a good man and had a nice home and a car, but because we argued and quarreled I was fool enough to leave him. Since then I have had to earn my own living. I realize now what a man has to go through to keep up a home and I don't wonder that he was sometimes cross and irritable. Believe me, if my husband would take me back, I would be willing to overlook a lot of his shortcomings that I made such a fuss about. I have had my lesson. Would you tell him so, and ask for another trial?

BELLE

ANSWER: I certainly would, Belle. Perhaps he has had his lesson, too. You both will have learned the folly of arguing over things and know how to make concessions and you will put as much thought and work into trying to make your marriage a success as you would into trying to make a success of any other job you tackle.

It can be done, you know. There would be mighty few divorces if the husband would try to sell himself to his wife as he does to his best customer, and if the wife would handle her husband as tactfully and put up with as much nerves and crankiness in him as she would from her boss in an office or store.

I often think that the old proverb, "One-half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives," is truer in matrimony than anywhere else. If husbands and wives could only change places now and then and know the trials and difficulties of each other's lot, they would have much more sympathy and patience with each other. The exchange would correct many of the abuses of matrimony.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am married to a man much older than I. We live with his family, which is a large one, and everyone in it is older than I. My husband always goes to them with all his business troubles. He never discusses them with me. Am I being childish about this?

LORNA

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You undoubtedly do seem childish to all your relatives-in-law, who are so much older than you, and your husband seems to regard you more as a pet than a wife. By continuing to show him that you really are interested in his affairs, you'll soon make him realize that you are a woman with brains and he'll seek your counsel as readily as his family's.

Dancing Schools Do Big Business Across Dominion

By VIC MORRIS

MONTREAL—(CP)—Canadians learning to dance shuffled to the tune of $6,000,000 last year as the waltz, fox-trot and samba held sway in dance studios across the land.

A professional dancer here, Jack Dell, says there are no age limits in this business. Teen-agers and elderly folk alike receive the same instruction and enjoy it.

It is estimated the 250 schools in Canada, employing about 4,500 dance teachers, collected $3,000,000 from ordinary citizens wanting to improve their dance floor abilities. The other $3,000,000 came from persons aiming at professional careers, mostly specializing in ballet or tap dancing.

Men In Majority

Men are in the majority in the ballroom classes and are favored by the operators "because men are more liberal with their money," according to Dell. But the average man is shy when it comes to lessons.

"We only get him when his wife or girl friend goads him into taking lessons," said Dell. "Then he will come to us. But generally only on the promise that we keep the fact confidential."

Most women on the other hand are eager to tell their friends they are taking lessons.

Big Dividends

The business pays out big dividends to the operators while teachers can earn salaries ranging from $40 to $75 weekly, depending on experience.

Schools maintain strict discipline between teacher and student with a definite ban on off-school fraternization. However, Cupid finds a way and it is not uncommon for a pupil to marry his teacher.

Many prominent business executives enrol for lessons. These, however, generally appear shortly before an important social event and disappear soon after.

Readers' Saturday Column Conducted by Mary Moore

QUESTION: I have heard a great deal about the use of saffron in bread and cakes. Would you please send me a recipe for either or both. I have never used it before but would like to experiment.

E. J. P.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: You are going to have fun.

Saffron Coffee Cake

One teaspoon Spanish saffron, ¼ cup boiling water, 1 cake or envelope granular yeast, ¾ cup sugar, 1½ cups milk, ½ cup butter or margarine, ¼ teaspoon salt, 3 egg yolks, 6¼ cups bread flour. Chop the saffron as finely as it is possible for you to do on your chopping board and pour the boiling water over, cover and let steep for 20 minutes. Crumble the yeast into a large bowl or put granular yeast in bowl, add 1 tablespoon of the sugar and all of the milk which has been scalded, then cooled to lukewarm. Let stand 10 minutes. Beat in 3 cups of the flour. Add butter which should be soft, remaining sugar, egg yolks, saffron infusion (if desired saffron may be strained out—but saffron lovers never do this) remaining flour, reserving a little of it for the pastry board. Turn dough out on floured board and kneed until smooth and elastic and squeaky. Place in greased bowl and grease top. Cover carefully and let rise until doubled in bulk—about 1 hour. Cut dough in halves. Shape into coffee cakes, either flat or braided. To braid cake, cut half of dough into 3 pieces. Roll each piece to 16-inch length. Pinch rolls together at one end, braid. Pinch other ends together. Cover and let rise until doubled in bulk. Brush with milk; sprinkle generously with sugar. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. about 30 minutes.

Genuine saffron is the stamens of a Mediterranean flower, and is $60.00 a pound; 40 cents a scruple, but a scruple goes a long way. It imparts a deep yellow colour and gives a slightly medicinal flavor.

My best saffron dish is rice. I buy a scruple worth of Spanish saffron at our largest drug store and use about one-fourth of it in a pot of rice. Boil the rice like I have been telling you to do for the past two years—as the Chinese do: measure 1 cup rice and wash it under running cold water for 2 minutes. In aluminum or stainless steel pot put 2 cups boiling water and add 1 teaspoon salt and 2 or 3 tablespoons butter. When boiling hard add the washed rice, cover tightly, reduce heat as low as possible and let cook without lifting lid for 25 minutes. Test it for doneness. Brown rice takes longer, and morte water but is nicer. Add saffron, for saffron rice, when you add the butter, and stir for half a minute before putting on cover. Wonderful with chicken dishes especially stewed chicken. This causes a sensation among your guests.

QUESTION: I have a rather peculiar diet problem, and thought that maybe you would be able to help me.

My husband has a duodenal ulcer and, of coure has to be on a diet. As you probably know this diet is so rich in milk, cream and eggs, etc., that it naturally puts on weight—and there it is in a nutshell. If he doesn't follow the diet his stomach bothers him and if he does he's getting fatter and fatter. His job as a railroad clerk gives him a walk of about 4 miles a day to start with and then he spends about 4 hours in the office. Do you think you could give me a diet that would suit both purposes? I'll admit that to me this question is practically unanswerable. I do enjoy your column and have tried several of your recipes. I have noticed that you are one of the very few (very few) food experts who do not give recipes that call for a lot of expensive things. On a salary of $50 per week and four children to feed you can see how I would appreciate this.

HELEN C.

ANSWER: Don't despair. Your question is answerable.

I am not a doctor so any suggestions that I make must be passed on by your husband's physician.

Weight retention or weight gain depend on calorie intake in the great majority of cases.

From your letter I cannot decide whether your husband would come under "moderately active" category or not but I think so and I believe he should have 2,400 calories per day. Let him try that amount for one week and see if he loses any weight. If not adjust the diet down to 2,200 calories or lower, until he reaches the desired weight.

Get these 2,400 calories from the bland food his ulcer diet and his doctor permit—but please be sure the doctor acquiesces.

I will send you a calorie chart as soon as my supply is delivered.

6—In Memoriams

BROWN—In loving memory of Mrs. Frank Brown, who passed away three years ago, June 3.
Three years have passed since that sad day,
When one we loved was called away,
God took her home, it was His will,
Within our hearts she liveth still.
—Lovingly remembered by husband.

BROWN—In loving memory of a dear friend, Marie Brown, who passed away two years ago, June 3, 1949.
We think of her in silence,
Her name we often recall,
But her picture on the wall.
—Sadly missed by Stella, Tom and Gladys.

TRIPP—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Mrs. John Tripp, who passed away two years ago, June 3, 1949.
How we miss the welcome footsteps,
Of the one we loved so dear,
Oft we listen for her coming,
Fully sure that she is near,
Thou art gone but not forgotten,
Fresh our love will always be,
For as long as there is memory
We will always think of thee.
—Lovingly remembered by husband and all the family.

TYSON—In loving memory of dear Philip, who passed away June 3, 1947.
I will always remember the way he looked,
The way he spoke and smiled,
The little things he said and did
Are with me all the while.
—Sadly missed and ever remembered by Myra.

Fire Coffee

"Vernon Donoghue of Red Rose Tea brought us twelve pounds of coffee. Then there was the work done by the Salvation Army and the Red Cross.

"Major Everitt left the bill to us. We supplied sandwiches at 15 cents that sell for 20 cents on our bill of fare. We did not charge coffee at price per cup, but by the urn or gallon. We weren't counting cups. When we were settling up, we took off from the total the sum of $12 for the gift of coffee, and finally we took off $40 which we wanted to be our own contribution, and that's how it worked out.

Everything was very pleasant with Major Everitt. The cost included coffee, soft drinks, cigarettes, gum, and meals."

Major Everitt supplied another little detail of the hasty arrangements.

"I told Mr. Parsons early Saturday morning that we could get our own kitchen going, but the Churchill was so handy and they were willing to help that we decided to get everything from the restaurant. So we were ready at once, but the firemen did not want anything until after 8 a.m., besides they were mighty busy. Everything worked out most agreeably in our relations with the Churchill. They did not ask any questions about the quantities of coffee and sandwiches and so on.

"We felt very grateful to the Churchill people for the way they co-operated, and supplies that must have been at cost; and also to the public who made up the fund that paid for everything and left over a nice contribution to the Mayor's Fire Fund. That goes for the several business men who made practical contributions, and enabled us to be of service."

MAIN ST. TOPICS

BANDAGES OFF

Injured in the May 12 explosion that destroyed a kitchen in a vacant Dublin St. house, Leonard Wall, 27, 197 Division St., is still in hospital. However, bandages have been removed from his burns and he is able to walk around. Wall was critically burned in the propane gas explosion.

CARS DAMAGED

Cars driven by Ivan Crabtree of Georgetown and Gerald O'Shaughnessy of Brancroft were slightly damaged Friday afternoon when they collided at Aylmer and King Sts. Crabtree was driving south on Aylmer St., and O'Shaughnessy west on King. O'Shaughnessy said he had stopped for the stop sign at Aylmer St.

FLORAL NOTE

The flowering crabs at King Edward Park have been claiming their annual share of attention. They were a gift of Walter Stocker, when he was chairman of the parks committee, out of his knowledge and planning something out of the ordinary. Imagine a well-spaced row of them along Crescent St. to Little Lake cemetery.

TENDER FEMALES?

Word is getting around among housewives that the female pineapple is more tender than the male. The result is a falling off in the sale of the males. Some people claim the female may be readily recognized as the stalk is surrounded at the base by buds, these being absent in the case of the sterner sex.

Honor Dr. Harrington Former Lindsay Man

For 50 years of service to his community, Dr. Richard Harrington of Williamsville, N.Y., was recently honored by the Medical Society of New York State. The certificate commemorating that half-century of professional duty was presented to Dr. Harrington at the 145th annual meeting of the society in the Hotel Statler, Buffalo.

Now 78, he was born at Linsay in 1873, and was graduated from the University of Toronto July 1, 1901. His sisters, Mrs. John Scully and Mrs. Vincent O'Connell live at Downeyville. A brother, Patrick, lives at Lindsay.

Bootlegging Charge Dismissed By Court

COBOURG, June 2 (ENS)—A charge of keeping liquor for sale against Lyle Hie of Murray Township was dismissed by Magistrate R. B. Baxter yesterday because of insufficient evidence. Malcolm Robb of Belleville was defence counsel.

Magistrate Baxter said that, while the evidence was that two bottles had been purchased at a place purported to be that of the accused, the continuity of possession was not proven sufficiently from the time they were taken from the accused until they were produced in court.

Edward Burpenchaw of Toronto, charged with theft of aluminum cable from the local HEPC, who had elected trial by the next court, along with Orville Hannon, was remanded out of custody for a week. Defence counsel J. C. M. German asked that Burpenchaw be released on his own recognizance as he had been about a month in jail without the preliminary trial proceedings.

"This is an instance almost without precedent and I think the officers should be rapped over the knuckles for it," said Mr. German.

"I admit there has been a long delay," said Crown Attorney Harry Deyman, "but it is not the fault of the police. It just couldn't be helped. Certain exhibits were sent to the RCMP (Ottawa) for examination and they haven't given us their findings yet. The acused has never applied for bail and as he has no resources it would be foolish to execute a bail bond. However I would be agreeable to remanding him out of custody to appear on June 8, or if it is deferred until June 15 he is to appear on that date."

Motorcycle, Car Hit, Rider Hurt

Douglas Brooks, 20, 346 Aylmer St., was rushed to St. Joseph's hospital by ambulance shortly before 5 p.m. Friday after his motorcycle collided with a car at George and McDonnel Sts.

He received a broken nose, concussion and other head injuries, and cuts and bruises on his face, arms and legs.

An hour and a half later he had signed himself out of hospital and was making enquiries at the police station. He also told a much-surprised constable that he intended to go to work.

Sent Home

However, when he got to the Empress Hotel, where he is employed as a porter, he was told to go home for the night and take it easy.

Brooks was riding his English-model motorcycle south on George St. in the rush-hour traffic. He crashed head-on into the right front fender of the 1941-model coupe, driven by Mrs. Mary Edwards, 7 Engleburn Ave., who was making a left turn, west onto McDonnel St.

The impact threw him over the handlebars of the motorcycle and he landed partly on top of the hod and with his head against the right panel of the windshield.

Jim Martin, 12, of 166 McDonnel St., was an eyewitness to the accident. He had just crossed George St. on his bicycle, going east on McDonnel, when he looked around half-anticipating an accident.

Car Stopped

"The motorcycle ran smack into the right headlight of the car," he said. "The lady in the car was stopped or just about stopped. And the fellow on the cycle flew through the air and hit his face on the windshield. You can see the windshield is all cracked. Then he fell onto the road. He was up."

Other eyewitnesses said Mrs. Edwards had her hand out, signalling the turn, when the accident occurred.

The car received a broken right headlight and a fender that was smashed in so far it had to be partly pulle dout to give the front wheel free play. The motorcycle had the front wheel crumpled, front forks bent, gas tank split, and headlight broken.

Dr. J. M. O'Brien attended Brooks at hospital. Constables Don MacKay and Jack Wilson investigated.

Funeral Service Held For Minister's Wife

BETHANY, June 2—(ENS)—The large attendance at the funeral service held for the late Mrs. James Hampson in the United church on Thursday evening was a tribute to her work in the community. The church was crowded beyond seating capacity and flowers banked the entire front of the church. She died suddenly in Peterborough Civic hospital on Tuesday after only a few hours illness.

The Rev. B. Heywood of Bailieboro had charge of the service, taking his text from the Book of Ezekiel with this peculiarly fitting words: "So I spake unto the people in the morning . . and at Eventide, my Wife died . . and in the morning I arose and did as I was commanded." Assisting in the service was the Rev. M. J. Aiken of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, who expressed the sympathy of the Peterborough Presbytery to Mr. Hampson; also the Rev. T. G. Husser of Millbrook and the Rev. T. S. Gault of St. Paul's Anglican church, Bethany.

Pallbearers were all stewards of the United church, Mervyn Porteous, Clarence Rowan, Earl Weatherilt, Donald Lowes, Mansel Wright and George Waddel.

Burial service was held Friday at Ridgeville cemetery in

DIAGRAM—Lay a club on the ground parallel to you. Assume your stance with the toes of both feet touching the club. This is the closed stance needed to play a hook. The ball is played off the right foot with a flattened swing. (NEA)

Control In Hooking Ball Comes From Long Practice

By E. J. (DUTCH) HARRISON
Former Canadian Open Champion

Playing a hook shot, keep the left arm straight at all times.

You have to pull the club through with the left side of the body, so if your arm is other than straight the desired results cannot be achieved.

The player must keep his head down, with the eyes focused on the rear portion of the ball at all times.

Lay a club on the ground parallel to you. Assume your stance with the toes of both feet just touching the club. This is the closed stance you need.

The ball is played off the right foot, farther to the rear than normally.

Once contact has been made, execute a complete follow through in the normal manner by having the club follow the ball until the arms are extended. Then bring it up and around behind the head.

Alter the degree of the bend in flight by adjusting your stance and swing.

If only a slight hook is desired open the stance slightly.

Deviate only a little from the normal backswing.

A more pronounced hook can be obtained by closing the stance and flattening the swing.

Even those of us playing the tour consult one another in an effort to correct defects in our game, because we realize that a competent observer can spot things we never would know about our own swing.

I advise a weekend player to seek such advice rather than jeopardize his basic game by trying to learn the things which could ruin his scoring if they appeared at any other time than exactly when needed.

Here And There In Sports . . .

By The Canadian Press

The British racing public got excited Friday at the news that a saliva test was made on Marcel Boussac's Nyangal after the Epsom Derby Wednesday.

Nyangal, 100 to 9 second choice in the betting, finished seventh after cutting up at the post. The odds were steady throughout the pre-racing betting.

Saliva tests rarely are made at English race courses. This was the first time a horse belonging to the French textile magnate had been tested. None of the other 32 Derby runners were tested.

The Comte de Brignac, Boussac's racing manager, said he is not worried about the results of the test, which won't be made known for several days.

Some 560 boys representing 50 schools in Quebec and Ontario will take part in seventh annual provincial and Canadian interscholastic track and field meet here today.

Sponsored by the greater Montreal Interscholastic Athletic Association, the meet will see 58 tracks and 32 field events disputed.

At Chantilly, France, Bob Knowles of Brookline, Mass., saw his lead in the French amateur golf final cut in half during the last seven holes Friday but hung on grimly to defeat Henri de la Maze, 3 and 2, for the title.

It was the fifth time de la Maze had gained the final since the Second World War and the first time he had been beaten.

Eleven members of the Horsemen's Benevolent Protective Association were elected directors of the Ontario division for 1951 at a meeting Friday night. The president will be elected today.

Those elected are: Vince Sheridan, Art Halliwell, Harold Mezen, Charlie Hemstead, James Cowan, ris Fishman, Harry Addison, Frank Merrill and Gordon McMacken.

Jimmy Carter, newly-crowned world lightweight champion, may meet Armand Savoie, ranking Canadian 135-pounder, in a non-title fight at Montreal the first Leo Grogan, Dave Garrity, Morweek of July.

Willie Ketchum, Carter's manager, said Friday night the bout is contingent of Savoie's showing against L'il Arthur King of Toronto Monday night. King is defending his Canadian title against Savoie.

The winners of the Kentucky Derby and Preakness, Count Turf and Bold, are expected to meet for the first time Tuesday at Belmont Park in a tuneup race for the $100,000 Belmont stakes June 16.

Count Turf, owned by Jack Amiel, hasn't raced since the Derby May 5, due to a coughing spell. The Brookmeade Stable's Bold hasn't raced since he took the Preakness May 19.

Russ Meyer, hot-tempered Philadelphia pitcher, Friday was fined $50 for his rhubarb with Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson Thursday night.

The penalty was assessed for Meyer's "challenging action," and for "inciting trouble."

No action was taken against Robinson.

Meyer was lifted from the game but he challenged the Dodger to meet him under the stands. Robinson started to go but was restrained by teammates. Meyer later apologized to Robinson and Brooklyn manager Chuck Dressen.

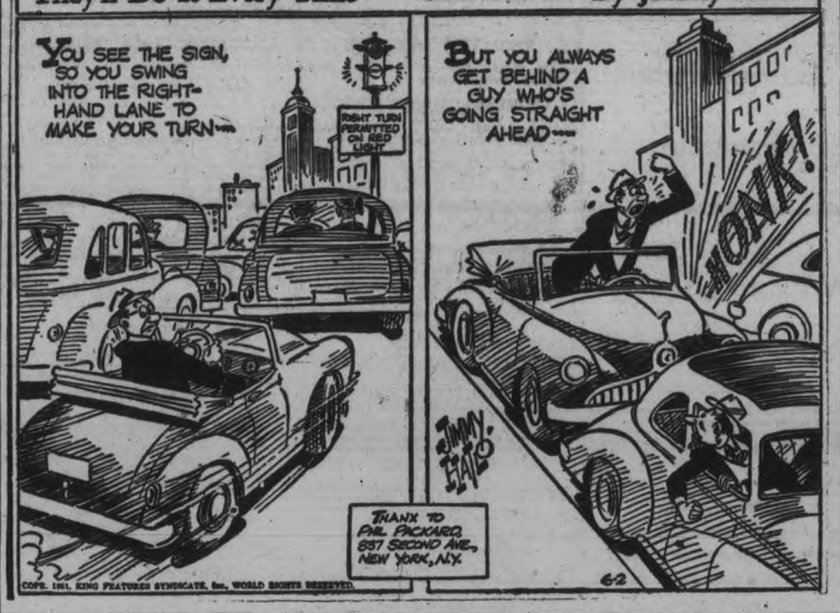
A five-team circuit with two new members is in prospect for the United States Hockey League president Ron Cook said Friday

Sioux City, Ia., and Wichita, Kas., are the prospective new clubs, Cook said, listing Wichita as a strong possibility.

Canada-US Friendship Said Badly Strained

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 2 (CP)—Canadian-United States friendship—often held up as an example to other nations—has never been more strained than it is today, it was concluded Friday at a round-table discussion at an international conference on foreign relations.

Sponsored by the World Peace Foundation, the Carnegie endowment for international peace and the Canadian Istitute of Foreign Affairs, the six-day conference—which opened Thursday—is being attended by representatives of business, labor, law, education, agriculture, government and the press.



The meetings are closed. Summaries of talks are issued after each day's sessions.

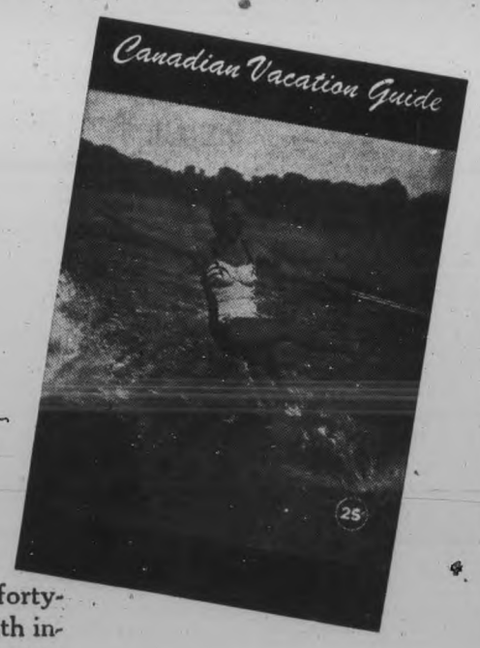
Bowmanville Edges Lindsay

LINDSAY, June 2— Shortstop Lloyd Hamilton's circus catch climaxed a no-hit pitching bid by young fireballer Cec Hall as the leading Bowmanville Roses edged Lindsay Merchants, 2-1, in a Lake Shore Intermediate Baseball game here Friday night.

Young Hall, last year with Colborne Dodgers, allowed only one Merchant to get on base for six innings, before Dean Tompkins spoiled his dream game with a single over third. Junior West doubled to right to cash in Tompkins to cut the Roses' lead to one.

With two out and runners on second and third veteran Vic Jewell drove a liner to deep short. As the potential tying and winning runs crossed the plate Hamilton came from nowhere to make a running catch and end the game.



Lindsay's Doug Loucks, who hooked up in the seven-inning hurling duel was almost as hot as Hall, but walks proved his downfall. Two passes in the third set the stage for the winning runs as Ted Bagnell, who collected two of the three hits from Loucks, doubled to left. Hall used a good assortment in fanning five and also beat out a hit to the box. Loucks ran his season total of strikeouts to 20 in 17 innings.

Tom Gard's Note Book

The cottage season is officially open. My son and I have just returned from our first weekend at the cottage for 1951. As it was a straight work weekend, there was no difficulty in dissuading the rest of the family from going. Things appear to have come through the winter in tip-top shape. The porcupines had sampled a corner of one of the supporting beams for the floor but evidently didn't like the flavor of the wood preservative used and quit after the first few bites.

One of the main tasks completed was building a good supply of book cases and newspaper shelves. I used packing box material left over from the picket fence built earlier this spring. After persuading the local lumber dealer to put the pieces through his planer, they made up into very attractive cases.

I don't know what I'd do without those metal crossbars that fasten to the roof of the car! They certainly make it easy to truck stuff to the cottage.

Use Your Coconut!

If hanging baskets interest you, try making a few novel containers out of coconut shells. I have 12 all planted and developing nicely for this summer. They are still adorning the bay window of the living room but one of these warm days they will be shifted to the veranda. They will be an interesting change to the conventional ones I have been using.

I saw my first good homemade stool last week. A young couple down the street had made a joint project of the venture. A cheese box lid was securely bolted to legs made from old car springs, fashioned by a blacksmith. The seat was padded and attractively covered with a plastic material. The legs had been well braced and looked quite sturdy. It wasn't a thing of beauty, but it certainly looked serviceable.

Allies Beat Off Counter-Attack By Chinese Troops

TOKYO, June 4. (AP)—Allied troops fighting through driving rain toward the main Communist redoubt in North Korea beat off Communist counter-attacks today. Artillery thundered over the sound of hand grenades as United Nations forces threw back the thrusts. Reds attacked all threatening UN spearheads. They fought stubbornly everywhere against the Allied advance. UN officers said the offensive appeared to be reaching the main Red defence line.

On the eastern front, Chinese fought from heavily-constructed fortifications built by North Koreans in pre-war days. Foliage had grown over them in natural camouflage. Chinese waited until advancing Americans came unknowingly within a few yards. Then they opened up.

Infantrymen burned them out with flame throwers.

"You can't call this a delaying action any more," one high officer said. "The way the enemy is set and dug in and shooting from well prepared bunkers and the determination of his defences shows we are really hitting a main line."

Small but sharp battles flared all along the saw-tooth front from newly-captured Yonchon in the west to Kansong in the east where Reds attacked the Allies' deepest penetration of North Korea.

Tank-led UN forces hacked out gains of one to three miles—in spots. In other places they stood still.

Allied gains were chipped out slowly in tough, often hand-to-hand fighting.

Peace Feelers

In Washington the United States, Britain and their Korean Allies are due to start a new inquiry this week into the possibilities for an early negotiated peace in Korea.

American officials said Sunday there appears to be little that the UN allies, whose representatives meet twice weekly at the State Department, can do for peace which they have not already done.

The real barrier, these authorities said, is the declared purpose of the Chinese Communists to gain a total victory by throwing the UN Army off the peninsula.

Nevertheless, top officials here and in London realize that the war has reached a point—with the belligerent forces disposed once more in the 38th parallel region—at which military and political conditions combine to make a settlement practicable if the Reds are ready for it.

State Secretary Dean Acheson told senators Saturday that the US is willing to halt the fighting along the 38th parallel if the aggression would end and there can be reasonable assurance that it would not be resumed.

Such a statement coming from the Communist side at this time would have been regarded as a peace feeler of the first importance. There is no reason to believe that Acheson did not so regard his own words. They threw open the door to approaches from either the Chinese Communists or the Russians. However, Ache-

Sweepstakes Causes Uproar At Mayors' Meet

OWEN SOUND, June 4 (CP)—A resolution asking that the federal government legalize hospital sweepstakes blew up a small storm as the Association of Ontario Mayors and Reeves wound up their three-day conference Saturday.

"Don't touch this packet," said Mayor Rush of London. "These things only lead to gangsters."

Some disorder followed remarks of Councillor C. P. Cashman of York county. "I'm utterly opposed to sweepstakes," he said, adding—"although I do buy tickets."

The resolution was voted down.

Four on Commission

A Fort William suggestion that an elected member of councils be appointed to police commissions was passed. Under the present Police Act, a police commission includes a mayor or reeve, a county judge and a magistrate.

It was felt such a step would give a municipal council a stronger hand in dealing with the financial operations of the police departments.

The convention's resolutions committee recommended against approving the lakehead resolution. Mayor W. S. Baton, committee chairman, said the committee felt municipal heads should have faith in their police commissions and should not petition for the change.

Oppose Suggestion

But Mayor Hubert Badanai of Fort William and Mayor William Donovan of Chatham spoke out against the committee's recommendation.

Mayor Allan Rush of London said his own council opposed the suggested change but he was going to vote for it. He said all the London commission knew about members of its force was what it learned from the chief constable.

The sweepstakes proposal, which came from Welland county, won support from Reeve Burns of Perth who said:

"They give race charters and let them gamble in Toronto. We'd like to get some of that money, too."

The convention endorsed a resolution asking that the Ontario government pay all the cost of education.

Doctors Report King Improving

LONDON, June 4 (Reuters).—King George, who has a slight inflammation of the lung, will not be able to welcome King Haakon of Norway to London Tuesday, it was announced today.

His younger brother, the Duke of Gloucester, will deputize, sailing down the river Thames to greet the Norwegian King on his arrival aboard his yacht for a four-day visit.

King George's doctors visited him at Buckingham Palace again today but no bulletin was issued.

Saturday they announced that the King, who has been confined to his rooms for 11 days following a bout of influenza, was making satisfactory progress. They saw him twice Sunday.

Suggest Baring Succeed Alexander

LONDON, June 4 (CP). — A newspaper columnist suggested today that Sir Evelyn Baring might be a good choice to succeed Viscount Alexander as Governor-General of Canada.

If Canada wants an Englishman to succeed Lord Alexander when the latter retires, "we can think of no one better qualified than Sir Evelyn," the columnist wrote in The Financial Times, a Conservative paper.

Sir Evelyn, about to retire as British High Commissioner in South Africa, was described as the most successful diplomatic representative Britain has ever had there.

In addition, said the writer, "his family have played no small part in the development of Canada, and his wife, who has made as deep an impression on South Africa as her husband, is a member of the Grey Clan, one of whose members—Lord Durham — was the begetter of the Canadian Confederation.

Oil Company Willing Join Talks

Iran Refuses Give Time Extension To UK Delegates

TEHRAN, Iran, June 4. (AP)—The Anglo-Iranian Oil Company has offered to send representatives to Tehran for "full and frank" discussions of the explosive oil crisis with the Iranian government.

The United States ambassador, Henry F. Grady, who led conciliation efforts, hailed the move.

"I am more hopeful than I have been for some time that a solution equitable and satisfactory to both sides will be found," he said.

The company made its offer Sunday just 24 hours before expiration of the five-day period it had been given by the government to submit proposals on nationalization of the vast oil properties.

Deputy Minister Hussein Fatemi said Iran considered the company's offer as "an acceptance of Iran's taking over" of the company's holding. The company, on the other hand, said it was "reserving its legal rights" and did not specify the matters it was willing to negotiate.

(Diplomatic informants in London said the offer did not change the British government's bid two weeks ago for high-level negotiations with the Iranian government. They also said that Britain's appeal to the International Court of Justice to appoint an arbitrator still stood. The British government owns nearly 53 per cent of the company's stock.)

No Extra Time

Fatemi said, however, that the oil company representatives would have to arrive here today and if they do not, "the government cannot delay its enforcement of the laws." Other sources said the British representatives were not expected here for four or five days.

Tehran's largest newspaper, Etelaat, reported rioting Sunday in Abadan, chief oil port and site

Fly Casualties To Toronto

WINNIPEG, June 4. (CP)—An RCAF Dakota ambulance plane, carrying nine Canadian battle casualties from Korea, took off at 9:03 a.m. EDT today for Toronto. It is expected to arrive in Toronto around 12:43 EDT.

The plane, from Edmonton's 435 Squadron, left Vancouver Sunday.

The patients, first to be flown by air ambulance from the west coast, stayed overnight at Deer Lodge Military Hospital. Four will be left at Toronto, the plane then will continue to Ottawa and Montreal. Three will be deposited at Ottawa and the other two at Montreal. None of the patients have been identified.

Arrest Bullfighter For Killing Bull

LISBON, Portugal, June 4 — (Reuters) — Manuel Dos Santos, one of Portugal's greatest bullfighters, was arrested Sunday night for killing a bull..

The law here, unlike that in Spain and Mexico, forbids the killing of bulls. It provides penalties up to three yeras in jail and a lifetime ban from fighting.

Last night, Dos Santos, killed the bull before 80,000 fans when he was supposed only to simulate the kill.

Fears Buying Restrictions May Cause Unemployment

QUEBEC, June 4 — (CP) — Present restrictions on buying may cause unemployment, W. F. Holding, of Toronto, president of the Canadian Manuafcturers' Association, said today.

Addressing the association's annual meeting, Mr. Holding said that "credit restrictions, special excise taxes and other provisions of the last budget, prophesy an early contraction in consumer buying and, therefore, in production of consumer goods.

"Yet, except in a few selected industries, such as the manufacture of airplanes and railroad equipment, I have seen little evidence that re-armament production will take up the slack in the employment of labor, plant and equipment, which will be released by the curtailment in the production of consumer goods . . .

"Are we to assume, without more positive assurances than we have yet had, that our manufacturing facilities are to be used for the production of armaments? If so, what time lapse is to be between the cessation of consumer production and the commencement of armament production? . . .

"I have been wondering, too, whether the standardization of arms with the United States will be placing orders with Canadian manufacturers for its requirements of certain armaments. Past experience with trying to sell the US any manufactured goods which they are able to produce at home, with US labor, leaves me very skeptical as to the extent to which our Canadian workers will find employment in this direction . . ."

Speaking of inflation, Mr. Holding said the post-war economy has been "asked to provide far more in the way of civilian requirements than our present rate of productivity will permit.

"Industrialists are willing and anxious to improve the standard of living of industrial workers and of the Canadian people as a whole. They are also in favor of social services and state aid for the aged and needy — but they recognize that no individual, no company, no government, can give more than it has . . ."

Weatherman Plays Tricks Across US

Drought Menaces Tennessee Crop While Texas Tired of Rain

CHICAGO, June 4 (AP). — Variety was the keynote of the United States weather map today.

Tennessee was bone-dry. Like most of the Southern States it's in its seventh week of drought.

But in the tri-state area of Wyoming, Colorado and Montana you would need a woollen coat. Temperatures were in the 20's in many sections during the weekend, and in Colorado there was a 1-foot snowfall.

They had 6.1 inches of rain in San Antonio, Tex.. And in Nebraska three days of torrential rainfalls were over.

Still Hot

Along the Atlantic coast, it was still hot after four days and temperatures were forecast in the 90s.

The Mid-West got swept by winds, and on the Great Lakes small craft warnings were up.

In Tennessee, an agriculturalist said the state's $60,000,000 tobacco crop would be ruined unless it got a strong drenching within two weeks. Some farmers in western sections of the state plowed under doomed cotton crops and planted soybeans.

A-Bomb Power Unknown At Yalta Parley

WASHINGTON, June 4. (AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson said today the United State "did not know whether we had an atomic bomb or not" when it signed the 1945 Yalta Agreement to bring Russia into the war against Japan.

Acheson made the statement in a general discussion of American policy in the Orient for the last five years. He was testifying for the third day at Senate hearings on the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Far Eastern command.

Acheson also said:

1. Former VicePresident Henry A. Wallace won an agreement in 1944 from Chiang-Kai-shek, head of the Chinese Nationalists, not to oppose American military help to the Chinese Communists.

2. The US was not able to guarantee the survival of Chiang's government in the post-war revolution which swept China.

Republicans have attacked the Yalta agreements contending they let Russia into Manchuria and gave her territory from which she now can threaten Japan.

Power Unknown

These critics said that there was no reason to obtain a Russian agreement to enter the Far Eastern war, which was ended after two atomic bombs were dropped on Japan. The Russians came into the war only a week before Japan's surrender.

Acheson said it was not known at the time of Yalta whether the atomic bomb could be produced successfully.

"That was not provided until several months later—that we had one—and it was not used until considerably later," he declared.

It was the then military opinion —concurred in by everyone—that the reduction of Japan would have to be brought about by a large-scale landing on the islands of Japan, and the forecast of that fighting, which came from the fighting on the other islands in the Pacific, indicated that it would be a very bloody and terrible battle."

With State Secretary Dean Acheson returning to the stand there were indications however, a majority of the Senate Armed Services and Foreign Relations Committees may agree on some major military policy recommendations They include:

1. More vigorous action by the Truman administration to get a United Nations blockade of Communist China, to supplement present economic sanctions.

2. A step-up in home front mobilization efforts, which military leaders complained were going too slowly.

3. Faster expansion, if possible, of the Air Force and its long-range striking power.

4. Approval of the administration's present policy of defending Formosa against any Communist attempt to take it by force.

5. Re-enforcement of the administration's expressed determination not to let the Chinese Reds "shoot their way" into the United Nations.

Viscount Alexander's telegram, sent on the occasion of the official celebration today of the King's birthday, said:

"On behalf of the people of Canada I send to your majesty our most respectful greetings and best wishes on the occasion of the official celebration of your majesty's birthday. It is the earnest wish of every Canadian that your majesty's recovery will not be long delayed."

Million Dollar Blaze Damages Ordnance Depot

OTTAWA, June 4. (CP)—The Army's second largest ordnance depot in Eastern Canada suffered damage estimated unofficially in excess of $1,000,000 in an explosion-punctuated weekend fire. It was the third fire in huge Plouffe Park Central Ordnance Depot in Ottawa's west end in the last two years. The Army said an investigation of its cause, including possible sabotage, is under way. Col. W. G. Denney, depot commandant, convened a court-of-inquiry at the scene early Sunday.

Forty firemen and a considerable number of volunteers were overcome by the choking, black smoke but only one fireman required hospital treatment.

Thousands of persons flocked to the scene. One-tenth of the 1,500-foot long structure stretching from Somerset Street to Gladstone Avenue was destroyed.

Huge stocks of army equipment including oil, alcohol, paint, ammunition and ether were blown skyward in a series of explosions that rocked the district.

The fire broke out Saturday night in the northeast section of the sprawling, block-long building. It was partially under control when flames reached stocks of oil and paint and then the brick-and-wooden structure became a towering torch of fire.

Homes in the area were threatened by sheets of flame that scorched across Somerset Street, driving motorists and pedestrians to cover. The blaze raged out of control for five hours, until early Sunday.

Deputy Fire Chief Joseph Hurtubise, who called a general alarm after oil and paint stocks blew up, had a narrow escape when an explosion crumbled the west wall, crushing a fire truck. He and another fireman jumped clear in time.

"Closest shave I've had in 30 years," said the deputy chief.

Rebels Threaten Break-Through

HANOI, Indo-China, June 4 — (AP).—Vietminh forces attacked weak posts on the perimeter of the Hanoi sector and threatened a break-through Sunday into the rice delta.

The operation was not especially large but was potentially dangerous. The French sent a parachute battalion and several artillery units into the area.

The section is on the extreme southeast corner of the Hanoi sector, fronting on the sea. It had been inactive for four years and only weak garrisons of badly-armed Indo-Chinese Catholic militia manned the posts. Several of these were quickly taken by the better armed Vietminh troops.

Pressure was heightened by the Vietminh along the whole of this southeastern sector, with an estimated 30,000 rebel troops putting pressure on the defending French along the Day river.

See Showdown In Detroit Strike

DETROIT, June 4 (AP). — A possible showdown loomed today in Detroit's 45-day transit walkout with strikers hinting they might be ready to "fight it out in the street" if necessary.

The threat came from Walter Stanley, business manager of the Streetcar and Bus Operators' Union (AFL) after Mayor Albert E. Cobo asked six CIO maintenance supervisors to go into the strike-bound streetcar and bus terminals and check on the conditions of the vehicles. They have been out of operation since 3,750 drivers went on strike April 21.

Cobo and other city officials said they were worried about the tires and batteries of some of the buses and wanted the equipment in order in case a settlement is reached.

But Stanley branded the action a "strike-breaking" move. The city has filed a court petition asking that the strikers be restrained from interfering with any resumption of service. A decision still is pending.

UN May Order Further Curbs

SYRACUSE N. Y., June 4 (AP) —Warren Austin, chief United States delegate to the United Nations, said today that further embargoes against Communist China would be voted by the UN "if necessary."

In a speech prepared for delivery at commencement exercises at Syracuse University, Austin said "many considerations had to be balanced" before the UN last month asked its members to ban shipping of strategic materials to the Chinese Reds.

Such international collective action requires extensive consultation, "time-consuming but wise" Austin said, adding, "we must approach the problem of strengthening and improving collective action in the United Nations with the discipline of a skilled watchmaker dealing with a fine chronometer."

Austin firmly rejected General MacArthur's "go-it-alone" policy for the Far East. He asserted:

"We know that the United States cannot stand alone. We know that if our country is to act jointly with other nations, then our own security must be considered in world perspective."

Mother Finds Youngster Floating In Canal After Missing At Noon

Family Moved To New Home Friday Night Only 100 Feet From Spot, Neighbor, Firemen Try To Revive Child

A two-and-a-half-year-old girl drowned in the Trent canal, just south of Nassau, today. She was Catherine Jones, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Stanley Jones. Her body was found in two feet of water about 14 feet from the west bank of the canal. A neighbor, 50-year-old Percy McNaughton, waded into the water and pulled the child to shore. Her mother first missed Catherine at about 12:40 p.m., when she was preparing dinner. Twice within a half hour she walked up and down the canal bank looking for her daughter .

Finally she saw her, floating face down. She called to Mr. McNaughton, who pulled the child to shore. He immediately began applying artificial respiration.

Firemen Help

An inhalator crew, under Captain Frank Shearer, worked on the child for 28 minutes without success. Dr. Don Clarke declared her dead; he said he could not detect a single flicker of life.

The Jones family moved into their three-room home on Friday night. It is located only 100 feet from the spot where Catherine's body was found, and about a quarter of a mile south of the Nassau railway bridge.

Mrs. Jones believes the girl was playing by the canal bank and fell in about the time she was looking for her.

Mr. Jones works in the structural steel department at the CGE. Catherine is survived by a brother, Stanley, eight months, and a sister, Dorothy, 3.

Sailor Postpones Wedding To Cancer-Doomed Girl

NORFOLK, Va., June 4 (AP)—A 19-year-old sailor—his leave cancelled and his wedding to a cancer-doomed girl of 18 "postponed indefinitely" — was due back at his station here today.

Tom Amburn was granted a 30-day emergency leave last week from Norfolk Naval Air Station to marry Betty Thompson of Atlanta, Ga. He saw Betty. The story got in the papers. Then Amburn flew to see his parents in Sioux Falls, S.D.

At Sioux Falls, Tom's father, A. F. Amburn, protested the publicity the romance had been given, and said he planned to have a "long talk" with Tom.

Sunday the navy cancelled the sailor's leave. Sunday night at Omaha, Neb., between planes as he returned here, young Amburn told reporters he wanted a chance to be left alone.

"We want no more publicity," he said. "We'll work it out the best we can in the eyes of God. Betty's days are numbered and I would like to spend them happily."

His wedding plans, he acknowledged, were "postponed indefinitely." He said whatever he does would be "my own decision—I am not going to be influenced by anyone else."

Betty has lost one of her legs to cancer. Now a lung has been attacked, and physicians say she may die this fall.

In Atlanta Sunday night her mother said Betty was calm over developments.

"She's still got her chin up," her mother said.

Mob Of 2,000 Shoves Shoppers Through Window

NEW YORK, June 4 (AP). — Throngs of bargain hunters stampeded New York City's department stores today as the big town's first all-out price war in more than 14 years entered its second week

At one uptown store, two shoppers were pushed through a plate-glass window by a shoving, milling crowd of 2,000. They suffered arm and shoulder cuts.

Bargain - hungry customers queued up in front of department stores as early as 6 a.m.

In the big Manhattan stores, the fifth day of the jamboree saw prices of some fair-traded merchandise slashed as much as 50 per cent. Some favorites were out of stock.

Executives Unconcerned

Store executives appeared unconcerned by a State Legislature investigation into the price cutting. The public inquqiry was ordered Sunday by Irwin Steingut, chairman of the Legislature's Joint Committee on Unfair Trade Practices.

Even Sunday failed to bring a complete lull in the price war. Two stores, Gimbel's and Namm's in Brooklyn, took telegragh orders at rates that exceeded the Christmas rush orders.

The price war has brought reductions of more than 30 per cent on some items. Men's cotton cord suits, regularly $20.75, closed on Saturday at $12.63.

Meanwhile, the price war was reported spreading to stores in Memphis, Tenn., and San Francisco.

Good Weekend For Thieves

TORONTO, June 4 — (CP) — Thieves escaped with $50,000 in jewellery and $9,000 in cash in separate robberies here during the week-end.

Practically the entire stock of rings and watches was cleared from Lord's Jewellers in northeast Toronto by robbers who worked so quietly policemen on the beat didn't know what was happening.

Rings worth $1,200 were taken, Sam Shoot, owner of the shop, said the burglars cleaned out all the show-cases in the store but left the front windows undisturbed.

At the Canadian International Trade Fair $9,000 in cash was taken by burglars who smashed the safes in a frame storage building at the rear of the art gallery.

Safecrackers blew open one safe with nitro-glycerine and cracked another with sledge hammers. They got the cash receipts from K. B. Simpson Company, caterers.

Rationing of gasoline in Britain ended in May, 1950. When in force, it provided enough for about 300 miles' driving a month.

son said he knew of no peace moves from the Communists.

Infantrymen and armor pushed north trying to reach the break in the Reds' "iron triangle" tipped by Chorwon, Kumhwa and Pyonggang. They were thrusting up from Yonchon, 13 miles below Chorwon; from Yongpyong and Yongdong near the 38th parallel; and from Hwachon, 18 miles from Kumhwa.

Willing To Pay Cost

The Eighth Army was willing to pay the cost of taking the triangle of cities because:

1. The triangle dominates an important network of highways.

2. If masses of allied tanks could reach Chorwon, they would find flat country, excellent for their type of fighting. In the flat triangle, allied artillery would be more efficient than ever.

Lt.-Gen. James Van Fleet, UN ground commander, made it clear his forces have no intention of stopping although the "pursuit phase" of their counter-offensive ended when the Reds escaped beyond encirclement.

His men, Van Fleet said, "will continue to destroy military targets in North Korea before they can be used in an aggressive mission against the Eighth Army."

Triangle Key

Key to this is the "iron triangle" from which the Chinese launched their spring offensives and now the target of UN troops on the west and central fronts. Other allies hacked their way through the mountainous east-central front intent on seizing other road networks.

"From all sectors of the Korean battlefront came reports of furious, hours-long battles, some of them in hand grenade range, for each foot of ground," Associated Press correspondent Nate Polowetzky reported from Eighth Army headquarters.

UN warships, including the Canadian destroyer Nootka, supported the South Koreans.

On the west coast, the Huron, another of Canada's three-destroyer Korean naval force, battered enemy positions Saturday. A naval communique said the Huron scored the direct hits on troop-occupied buildings in Taedong Bay, west of Haeju. The Huron then moved northward to hit Red artillery positions north of Ullyul.

Reinforcements Being Sent To 25th Brigade

EDMONTON, June 4 (CP) — The first reinforcements for Canada's 25th Brigade in Korea passed through Edmonton Sunday on their way to an embarkation point on the United States west coast.

The troops—15 officers and 285 men—today are en route to Vancouver. They are expected in the coast city tonight and will stay there for about two hours before leaving for Seattle.

The reinforcements are the first sent from Canada since the brigade went to Korea about two months ago. Their troopship will also transport some 1,800 American troops across the Pacific.

The men are replacements for the 2nd Battalion of Princess Patricia's Canadian Light Infantry from Calgary, the Royal 22nd Regiment from Val Cartier, Que., and the Royal Canadian Regiment from Petawawa.

Ready To Fight

Capt. Alan Harbord-Harbord of Vancouver heads the replacement group.

"We want to get into this fight as soon as possible," the six-foot-two professional soldier said as the troops left their training grounds at the huge Wainwright camp, 135 miles southeast of Edmonton.

"We joined up to fight," he said, "a lot of my boys have been waiting quite a while for this chance to join their buddies in Korea." All the reinforcements said they couldn't get into action too soon.

One bullet had pierced the back of his head, three more his shoulders.

of the huge Anglo-Iranian refinery. The newspaper, quoting a cabinet minister, said fighting occurred after a mob tried to loot a Christian church.

Ttelaat attributed the rioting to unrest due to the impending arrival of Shamseddin Amir Alaie, Minister of National Economy who has been named Governor General and "extraordinary representative" in Khuzistan province, which indicates Abadan and the oil fields.

The company apeared to be grasping eagerly the opportunity for talks opened by Iran's invitation for Anglo-Iranian representatives to make suggestions and give the government the benefit of their experience in operating the giant enterprise.

The Word That Frightens Democrats

The United States Democratic Party is growing steadily more confident that what it regards as the major issue affecting its political fortunes in 1952 will be resolved in its favour. This issue is the Administration's strategy in Korea, and party leaders concede that the party could stand or fall on this, depending on its success or failure. They are understandably encouraged, therefore, by the favourable battlefront reports and the tentative Russian references to discussion of a cease-fire order for Korea.

* * *

The issue next in importance, however, is the price control struggle now developing in the United States, and in which there has been increasing use of one word that has never failed to frighten Democrats since 1946—"meat". The control program calls for rolling back beef prices, while the demand for beef continues to be greater than supplies of cattle. Some Democratic leaders fear that the packers' lobby and the livestock lobby might try to use these factors to build up a replica of the meat scare of 1946, which they regard as the major reason for the election of a Republican Congress in that year.

* * *

As for the other obvious issues, the Democrats appear convinced they may be dismissed as of little account. That may seem strange to Canadian readers, yet it is reliably reported that in all the territory from the Midwest to the Pacific, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation scandals have somehow become no more than a repertoire of stories about mink coats, usually good for laughs. If this is so, the Democrats may be right in concluding that the R.F.C. deals may be disregarded, along with General Harry Vaughan and the "five per centers" and the crime investigations commission's findings.

* * *

The Republican attack on the State Department, however, cannot be disregarded, but it is tightly linked to the Korean issue. The effectiveness of this attack, even when carried to the murky extremes employed by Senator McCarthy, was demonstrated in the off-year election of 1950, but Presidential elections often refuse to heed precedent. And there is also the unpredictable reaction to President Truman's candidacy, if he should decide to run again. That could well prove to be the deciding factor, as it did in 1948.

The Tent Caterpillar

Some scientific romances of the H. G. Wells-Jules Verne type have portrayed a "grave new world" in which man has been entirely exterminated by insects. The present incursion of tent caterpillars, while presenting no real threat to the existence of man on this planet, is apt to make one think of the amazing vitality of these teeming hordes of apparently defenceless squashy beings. If only their brains were equal to their fertility we would be in an awkward position indeed. They are on the march throughout the province, but fortunately for us their days are numbered.

The outbreaks occur at roughly ten-year intervals and last for about four seasons. Previous outbreaks have been recorded as follows in Ontario: 1867-70; 1875-77; 1887-89; 1897-98; 1910-14; 1923-24; 1933-38; 1948-? It is possible that 1951 may be the last season, but it might well continue next year. So far there has been no record of six bad seasons in a row, so that it is unlikely that it would continue on into 1953. However 75 years is not a very long period in which to estimate with any degree of certainty. Evidently the use of DDT has not made any definite improvement. Equally it is unlikely that it has done much harm by killing insects that feed on the caterpillar: the area covered is so enormous that measures taken so far only touch the fringe.

The vastness of the area of this province would make a systematic extermination of the insect a project of enormous difficulty and expense. Moreover it would have to be accomplished by spraying DDT from the air, a procedure which would exterminate all insects, whether beneficent, harmless or harmful, and might very well completely upset the delicate balance of nature. This wholesale project must therefore be ruled out.

It must be remembered that although the caterpillars do much damage to trees by stripping them of foliage they rarely kill them unless they are in a feeble state already. The trees that have been denuded are able to grow a second crop of leaves in the same season.

The caterpillars are kept down by five natural means. Parasites account for some. There are nine different kinds of flies and six kinds of wasps that lay their eggs in the body of the caterpillar. Epidemics of diseases similar in effect to the Black Death and other recorded epidemics in the history of man take their toll of the caterpillar. It is gratifying to note that these are on the increase.

Then there are insects and birds, such as ants, stinkbugs, crows and chickadees, which find the caterpillar a tasty morsel. Some even fall into the water and get eaten by fish. The life of a caterpillar is, like that of a policeman, "not a happy one," and eventually they lie doggo for a few seasons.

Sometimes their appetite is their undoing. When they have stripped a tree they move on elsewhere in search of a meal, and many fall by the wayside. Strangely enough our winters do not trouble them very much. Only if unseasonably warm weather in early spring is followed by a cold snap do they curl up and die.

It looks as though we shall have to endure them another season or two before the balance of nature is once again restored, unless some Pied Piper can be found to lure them to their doom.

Advice To Ambitious Writers

We have discovered what we believe to be a new way of getting your writings published and, furthermore, getting them seriously reviewed in all the best newspapers: contrive to have yourself sent to Kingston penitentiary.

Sam Carr, the former Communist organizer, Member of Parliament, and traitor, is in that cradle of literature at the moment. When Sam was at large it is doubtful if anyone would have published his opinions except to disapprove of them. But now he has written a piece in the prisoner's magazine, the K.P. Tele-Scope, sagely advising the people of Canada to pay their convicts something for the work they do while in prison; this would provide them with a little nest-egg when they were released, and in Sam's opinion, would lower the number of "repeaters" in our jails. Several Canadian papers have wagged their heads sagely over this advice, and we are sure that Sam is grateful to them.

At the risk of seeming crusty, cynical, hard-mouthed, and in the expressive Irish word "cornaptious," we suggest that it is foolish to circulate this penitentiary magazine outside the walls of the institution in which it originates. If the Addisons and Goldsmiths who languish in the Big House have any skill as writers, they will be able to make themselves heard upon their release. Meanwhile, let it not be overlooked that they were put in prison to be out of the way for a while, and we have no desire to hear from them, or to peruse their amateur essays on penal reform.

Cigarettes For The Troops

However thin-lipped moralists and health-addicts may deplore it the fact is that the modern army fights very largely on its cigarette ration. If the supply of cigarettes is cut off for any reason the morale of the troops is bound to suffer. During the last war the troops were entitled to a free issue of cigarettes. In addition to this it was possible to go into almost any tobacconist's store and despatch a duty-free consignment to individual soldiers.

Mr. Claxton stated in the House on Thursday that it is possible to ship by air duty-free cigarettes to troops in Korea. We have so far seen no notices to that effect in the local tobacconists', but we took the precaution of enquiring personally at retailers' and wholesalers'. In no case had they heard of any such arrangement as existed in the last war. They are in constant touch with the manufacturers, who keep them informed of developments. Under the arrangements that existed during the last war the customer filled in a form at the store. This was sent to the manufacturers, who mailed the consignment duty-free to the soldier. This machinery could very easily be set in motion again.

At present our troops are being supplied through the Commonwealth Division with unfamiliar brands. These brands are not specified, but it is apparent that they are not Canadian and they are not liked. A shipment of Canadian smokes is on the way, Mr. Claxton states. They should have been sent out at the beginning. The life of a soldier on active service has its good moments, but it is no picnic. It has been described as consisting of long periods of boredom punctuated by short periods of intense fear. It is our duty at home to see that they are well provided with the simple pleasure of a good smoke.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Perhaps it is well to remember that you can develop ulcers without also becoming a success.

"Teeth Are Blameless In Many Diseases" says a headline. Particularly the third, or detachable set.

Musical Notes

by PETER PIPER

MY erudite colleague, Martin Cooper, of the London Spectator, makes a penetrating comment about some trends in contemporary music. With reference to the Schoenberg school of atonalists (or, if you prefer it, pantonalists) he says: "No sounds are now in themselves unacceptable (a fact, which, like the abolition of sin in many minds, considerably weakens dramatic potentialities) but the listener still demands music whose logical or emotional sequence he can follow or, at least, 'sense'." I would qualify this remark only by the fact that in Bach, for example, there can be found almost every discord (if one dare use such a term) that one finds in Schoenberg. The difference lies in the fact that the discords are to be found as a result of suspension, passing note, pedal point, and so on in a context of implied or explicit euphony and founded firmly in tonality.

✧ ✧ ✧

TAKE any isolated chord from Schoenberg and it should not be unduly difficult for any student of moderate resource to prepare and resolve it in more or less academic fashion. If it were possible to introduce music type into this column I would choose a chord from Schoenberg at random in order to demonstrate what can be done. No, Schoenberg's originality lies in the fact that he threw overboard all the old progressions together with their more sophisticated variants (as used for example by Debussy and aped assiduously by the Yahoos of Tin Pan Alley) in favour of a new system based on the superiority of the discord and the rejection of tonality. His music teems with inversions, augmentations, cancrizans and other contrapuntal devices carried out with remorseless consistency except where the fortuitous combination of voices produces a common chord—in such cases of course a "wrong note" is obligatory in order to obliterate the feeling of tonality which would otherwise be created.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN Schoenberg's system every semitone in the chromatic scale is of equal importance. Instead of the old system, where King Tonic and Queen Dominant rule the roost with a descending hierachy of the rest of the diatonic scale over the dispossessed and unfranchised chromatic notes, every note is a free citizen with equal rights. It reminds one of the state of affairs satirized by Gilbert in the "Gondoliers", where everybody is somebody and nobody is anyone at all!

✧ ✧ ✧

ALTHOUGH Schoenberg was experimenting in the use of the twelve-note system as early as 1915 it took some time for his ideas to gain widespread acceptance in the period between the two wars. During this period his following was extremely small and his ideas were regarded as a passing fad. Since the war, however, his following has increased immensely, especially in America, where he has made his home. The general public still finds his music hard to take, and it is difficult to imagine that it will ever become popular even in the sense that Brahms is popular, but stranger things have happened. Nevertheless his influence is growing. Constant Lambert said, in 1933, "Atonalism, though plastic in minor details of texture, is in fact the least flexible and most montonous of media, and for that reason alone it is unlikely to play much part in the music of the future. It will always remain a thing apart, having smething of the hieratical solemnity and exclusiveness of a hereditary religious order; and the more we free ourselves from tonal prejudice and from the tyranny of textbook harmony the less appeal atonalism will have, because it is based on a direct reversal of academic method. Like blasphemy, it requires a background of belief for its full effect". It is hard to square this statement with that of Martin Cooper, quoted above. The truth of the matter is that Cooper and Lambert are both out of sympathy with Schoenberg's aims and dislike his music: what they actually say is no more than an attempt at rationalizing their dislikes.

✧ ✧ ✧

SCIENTISTS today are rediscovering in their own cautious and methodical way what the Ancients knew long ago about the healing power of music. Our own poets continually testify to its effects. Shakespeare says:

> "In sweet music is such art,
> Killing care and grief of heart
> Fall asleep or waking die".

Even Dryden, whose reactionary views helped to kill the early promise of English opera, said, "What passion cannot Music raise and quell?" A disputation was held in the medical school of the Sorbonne on the subject, "An Musica medio sit tenenda" (Is music to be borne in mind by the physician?).

✧ ✧ ✧

THE modern answer is certainly in the affirmative. Only recently at a dentists' convention in Toronto a practitioner described how he used recorded music to soothe nervous patients when under the drill. The use of music in mental therapy is usually considered to be of recent origin, yet it gave the young Elgar his first opportunity of testing his skill as an orchestrator. A progressive medical officer of a local lunatic asylum (as mental hospitals were called in those days), engaged Elgar, a self-taught musician, to form a band from among the inmates. In view of the very limited resources of his band Elgar had to write out special arrangements, and this discipline was an invaluable help to him. Although he was deprived of the advantages of formal instruction at one of the great musical institutions he had the advantage of being able to hear the results of his work at a much earlier age than most composers, who often have to wait for years for a performance.

✧ ✧ ✧

AN English psychiatrist writes amusingly about his experiences in organizing an orchestra from among the patients of the institution in which he works. 'Most patients", he says, "are unable to concentrate for long. Therefore the conductor brings in groups of instruments with a wave of one hand and dismisses them in a similar manner. With the other he beats time. Even with this method, one is sometimes quite unintentionally greeted by a solitary cuckoo after a climax!" This writer remarks how encouraging it is to see faces which are dull and lifeless at the beginning of a rehearsal become bright and animated as the music proceeds.

✧ ✧ ✧

EVEN the ticking of a clock is supposed to improve eyesight by as much as 25%. The rhythm of music stimulates the eye muscles. Lively major chords quicken the breathing; single notes make the heart beat quicker, and rousing melodies have an even more pronounced effect. In fact music can be so stimulating as to be a good substitute for physical exercise. At any rate it is a good argument to put forward when accused of laziness!

Mr. Noseworthy And Newspapers

(KINGSTON WHIG-STANDARD)

DURING debate in the House of Commons on Tuesday, Joseph Noseworthy, C.C.F. member of York South, said he thought there would be public support for increased postal rates for periodicals and newspapers since the increase would bring these publications "closer to a point of paying their own way". We cannot speak for periodicals, but as far as newspapers are concerned, the statement was most misleading. It reflects a misconception all too prevalent in this country, which is that the newspapers of this country are beneficiaries of the Federal Government because of special mailing rates for their product. This is perhaps true in a strictly limited sense, for any producer considers it advantageous when the consumers of his product are enabled to acquire it at a low distributing cost. In a more direct sense, however, the mail-served subscribers of Canadian newspapers are the beneficiaries of the Government's special mailing rates.

Mr. Noseworthy, and those who think as he does, apparently considers the increase in postal rates will be a direct levy on newspapers. It will be nothing of the sort. It will be a direct levy on newspaper readers who receive their newspapers through the mails, for we doubt that there is a newspaper in Canada that can afford to absorb the increase, which will be at least triple the cost of mailing. They will be forced to notify their mailing list subscribers that the Postmaster General has made it three times as expensive for them to have their newspapers delivered; the publishers will regret the increase, but they will be forced to pass it on to the consumer.

✧ ✧ ✧

The cost of the product itself will not be increased by the increase in postal rates. It may, at some future date, be increased due to increased cost of production, but it will not be affected by the increased postal rates. The price of the product itself at newspaper offices, at newsstands and from carriers, and to all mailing list subscribers, will remain the same. But—and it is a large and important "but"—mailing list subscribers will be asked to pay to the newspapers of their choice three times as much for delivering their newspaper, which the newspaper must pay out to the Post Office.

✧ ✧ ✧

The implication that newspapers are not paying their way is ludicrous. In actual fact, it is the mail subscribers who are not paying their way, in the sense that they are not paying the full production cost of the product purchased. If Mr. Noseworthy were well informed, he would know that the present cost of newsprint alone, plus the proposed postage rate, exceeds the present subscription rate of an average daily newspaper. When all other costs of production are added in, it becomes evident that newspapers are more than paying their own way.

✧ ✧ ✧

As we see it, the Post Office Department has made newspapers its agents for collecting increased postal rates. This creation of a non-government tax-collecting agency has happened so many times in so many ways to so many Canadian businesses that we feel it would be a waste of time to protest against it. The Federal Government unquestionably needs additional revenue, and obviously it has decided that some of it should be raised by the Post Office Department. It should be noted, however—and probably has been—that the increase is not a clear gain in revenue. What the Government gains on the postal swings must first be made to cover its losses on the roundabout of corporation profits taxes, which may prove a substantial sum. But that will mean little to the one group directly affected financially by the increased postal rates—the mailing list subscribers.

Garlic

(Brantford Expositor)

Garlic is a plant, formerly much favoured by "foreigners". But since so many of the latter have taken productive possession of so much of this unforeign country, garlic has become or is becoming more and more popular as a food seasoning. It is, indeed, a quite necessary and self-protective comestible for all who would venture forth of an evening in the company of those who have earlier partaken of the same fragrant bulb. For, like the onion, garlic is not enjoyable second-hand or, as one might say, second breath.

From ancient times this quaint vegetable has possessed properties of distinction, or, if one were disposed to contrive a pun, he might say that the emphasis should be on the "stink".

Seriously, garlic is the traditional wolfbane, calculated and guaranteed to protect a person from the onslaught of werewolves and other such obnoxious supernatural creatures of medieval superstition. A small bag containing garlic, strung about the neck, was supposed, until rather recent times, to keep off evil entities such as vampires and so forth. It has been remarked that, in this later and supposedly more enlightened age, it will still keep any non-garlic-eating creature at a respectful distance.

It has remained, however, for that eminent food specialist, Gayelord Hauser ("Look Younger, Live Longer": Farrar, Straus, New York) to elevate garlic to its proper high (no pun intended) place. "Whether you love or hate garlic," writes Mr. Hauser, "the fact remains: it is a very wonderful plant. Both onions and garlic contain one of nature's potent germicides, called acrolein. After onions or garlic are eaten the mouth becomes clean and sterile and halitosis is banished."

So are one's immediate companions, unless they, too, have partaken of the same weed. Thus the latter becomes not only a cleansing agent but also, should one so desire, a clearing force.

The recipe is herewith recommended for this dual and potentially useful purpose.

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Sanctify the Lord of hosts himself; and let him be your fear, and let him be your dread. And he shall be for a sanctuary; but for a stone of stumbling and for a rok of offence to both the houses of Israel, for a gin and for a snare to the inhabitants of Jerusalem. And many among them shall stumble, and fall, and be broken, and be snared, and be taken..

And when they shall say unto you, Seek unto them that have familiar spirits, and unto wizards that peep, and that mutter: should not a people seek unto their God? for the living to the dead? To the law and to the testimony: if they speak not according to this word, it is because there is no light in them. (Isa. 8: 13-15, 19, 20.)

Sanctify yourselves therefore, and be ye holy: for I am the Lord your God....

And ye shall not walk in the manners of the nation, which I cast out before you....

And ye shall be holy unto me: for I the Lord am holy, and have severed you from other people, that ye should be mine. (Lev. 20: 7, 23, 26.)

Unconsidered Trifles

A regiment of soldiers was making a long, dusty march across the rolling prairie. It was a hot, blistering day and the men, longing for water and rest, were impatient to reach the next town.

A rancher rode past.

"Say, friend," called out one of the men, "how far is it to the next town?"

"Oh, a matter of two miles or so, I reckon," called back the rancher. Another long hour dragged by, and another rancher was encountered.

"How far to the next town?" the men asked him eagerly.

"Oh, a good two miles."

A weary half-hour longer of marching, and then a third rancher.

"Hey, how far's the next town?"

"Not far," was the encouraging answer. "Only about two miles."

"Well," sighed an optimistic sergeant, "thank goodness, we're holdin' our own, anyhow!"

Russians Confused

(Winnipeg Tribune)

Things are not as cut and dried for Soviet citizens as some may think. A Russian citizen may not know, for example, from one day to the next the name of the town in which he lives.

Theodore Shabad in his work Geography in the U.S.S.R. comments that at present there is a Soviet city named Yelizavetgrad which was once known as Zinovyevsk, then as Kirovo and then as Kirovograd. Then there is the town of Katchina which became Trotsk and then Gatchina again. The city names change as Soviet leaders rise in favour or get themselves purged.

It is a good thing this chameleon civic nomenclature is strictly a Soviet product. The thought that Winnipeg might become Campbelltown, Willisburg or Hansfordville depending on the way the political winds blew is not an attractive one.

TORONTO, June 4—(CP)—D. Malcolm Neill, of Fredericton, chairman of the Canadian Association of Broadcasters, Sunday night said the Massey Commission "might have been a little more practical and realistic" in its report on Canadian cultural development.

In a prepared statement, Mr. Neill said:

"I fear that many of our member stations serving the far-flung regions of Canada will feel there is not very definite direction within the report."

The cultural views of the commissioners, if applied to daily broadcasting, might drive listeners to United States stations, he said.

Australia Facing Newsprint Shortage

NEW YORK, June 4 (CP). — Sir Keith Murdoch, one of Australia's leading publishers, said Sunday night his country faces a newsprint shortage this year of 60,000 to 70,000 tons.

Sir Keith said in an interview he is hopeful that as Canadian mills increase their newsprint production more paper will be available to Australia.

Because of the world-wide demand for newsprint, Australia will be lucky to get 110,000 to 120,000 tons in 1951. "We could easily use 60,000 to 70,000 tons more," he added.

Brampton Takes a 10-7 Win As Locals Drop First Game

Brampton Excelsiors gave an artistic display of lacrosse teamwork and opportunism Saturday night to hand Peterborough a 10-7 defeat before a good-sized crowd at the Rose Bowl in the flower town.

It was the first loss of the young season for the Crowe-Creighton senior "A" squad in four starts but on the play over the route the youthful Excelsior lads, minus nine of last year's team, fairly earned their third victory in five games after a thrilling tie - breaking fourth frame. Teams were deadlocked 6-6 at the three-quarter mark after three close frames. Petes were minus Bobby Thorpe, Ike Hildebrand, Ross Powless and Lally Lalonde for this contest and seemed slightly under par after Friday's hectic duel with Toronto and lacked their full measure of steam.

Referees Peart and Cleverly meted out 21 miscues in all, 13 to Peterborough, as play was pretty rugged throughout, particularly in the first half. Moon Wooton had the busier evening of the two custodians, facing 42 flying rubbers against 24 for Eatough. Many of Moon's stops were sensational with Eatough steady in the home end, too.

Drove Early

Brampton opened fast with a neat passing attack and Bob Hilson whistled one in at 1.10. Gus Chard made it two from Hilson but Wipper flailed a 25-footer past Eatough on a neat solo effort and Arn Dugan tied it up with Ashbee seconds later. Fitzgerald gave Petes the lead late on a solo effort but Cam Sheppard knotted the count as Excelsiors fought hard.

Fitzgerald's tally in the second forced the Kendall pack to rally strongly in the third to tie the struggle and Gord Steele, Bob Blakely and Ralph Gowland gave the spark with Wipper and Mason potting for Petes in a fine show.

The visitors stormed Eatough from all sides but luck frowned after Harry Wipper scored from Mason to give them the lead, and Excelsiors scored four to win a surprise victory. Gowland, Hilson, Ferri, Blakely, Chard, Steele, Beatty and Sutherland were the go-getters for Brampton, while for the Timber Structures Fitzgerald, Wipper, Dugan, Mason, Magee, Em. Creighton and Don Ashbee were most effective.

Peterborough—Goal, Wootton; defence, Fitzgerald, O'Hearn; centre, Creighton; wings, Dugan, Ashbee; rover, Vitarelli; alts., Wipper, Crowe, Mason, Slater, Magee, Pammett.

Brampton—Goal Eatough; defence, Sheppard, Chard; centre, Beatty; wings, Gowland, Steele; rover, Raine; alts., Garbutt, Ferri, Evans, Berney, Sutherland, Hilson, Blakely, Arthurs (sub goal).

Referees—Max Peart and George Cleverly.

SPINNING HINTS

Spinning is a science of fishing with light or heavy lures and a thread line on a fixed spool. In this series we will deal with equipment and techniques which we believe to be superior for fishing in fresh water inland waterways.

The rod, a prime factor in the ultimate enjoyment and use of the spinning technique. There are many that claim the superiority of the split bamboo and until fairly recently this was probably the case. However, there has been developed a tubular glass rod which is very sensitive and has good balance combined with lightness of weight.

A properly built spinning rod has a long cork grip of from 12 to 14 inches in length so that the reel may be placed at any point on the grip, as best suits the balance of the rod for the weight of lure used.

For ultra-light lures, with which the full action of the rod is essential, the reel may be placed near the base of the handles, as the butt section of the spinning rod runs the full length of the of the handle, as the butt for heavier lures, the reel should be placed correspondingly farther up on the grip, where its balance best suits the comfort of the angler, thereby shortening the rod and adding to its stiffness.

Spinning rods, in usual sizes are between seven feet and seven feet six inches in length and except for the long grip are similar to flyrods in appearance.

The weight of a spinning rod should run around 4½ and 5 ounces. This weight is good for casting lures of the lightest weight up to and including ⅜ of an ounce. If you wish to use heavier lures of ½ ounce and over a rod of 5½ ounces or heavier should be used.

Oshawa Leads In Points At Track Meet

OSHAWA, June 4. — Cloudy weather and a rain-dampened track greeted the contingents of track and field athletes from all over the COSSA district of Ontario when they gathered at Alexandra Park's cinder oval here Saturday.

Even so, some good marks were chalked up as the district champs worked for high points and a chance at the all-Ontario meet at Lake Couchiching next week.

Oshawa CVI led all the schools with 38 points and Peterborough CVI was a close second with 29 points. Uxbridge high school, another Lakeshore group winner, was third with 21 points.

Individual high went to Galoska of PCVS with 10 points. High junior was Ibey of Campbellford with eight points.

Some Stars Out

Examinations took their toll of the meet as quite a few of the senior track stars were studying for departmental tests and couldn't make the trials. This led to a lot of junior marks being superior to their senior counterparts.

This happened in the 100 yard sprint where Bill Williams of Oshawa clipped a 10.7 mark in the junior event and Fortner of Peterborough had an 11.1 mark in the senior. Again in the 220-yard event Williams was the winner, this time in 24.2 seconds, while the senior winner, Shier of Uxbridge, won in 25.3 seconds.

In the senior pole vault, Galoska of Peterborough earned top spot with a vault of 10 feet even. Lougheed of Collingwood won the junior vault with a height of 10 feet six inches.

This "junior-over-senior" business worked to Peterborough's advantage in the running broad jump where Young jumped 20 feet even for top placing in the junior trials, while Shier of Uxbridge won the senior jump with a mark of 19 feet, eight and one-half inches.

Galoska copped top honors in the open javelin toss, while Jones of St. Peter's took first place in the open discus throw.

The mile run was completed in very good time by Bill Taunton of Bradford high school. He moved at a 4:46.7 pace to outdistance all opposition. He won the two-mile event with equal ease

The 23 events all showed good marks and the COSSA champs should give a good account of themselves against NOSSA, WOSSA and EOSSA opposition next week at the Provincial Collegiate meet.

At North Bay, a master program to assist in the preservation of Ontario's wildlife and natural resources was approved Sunday at an executive meeting of the Ontario Federation of Anglers and Hunters.

The program, submitted by Frank Kortright, president of the Toronto Anglers and Hunters Association, calls for the co-ordination of conservation efforts to various groups in the province. These include the Ontario Federation of Naturalists, the Ontario Conservation and Reforestation Association and the Men of the Trees.

"The fundamental requirement of any wildlife conservation program is habitat improvement and restoration of cover," he said.

At Edmonton, a surprisingly-strong Alberta all-star soccer team was defeated 3-1 Saturday by a sometimes-misfiring touring Fulham English team. About 3,000 attended the exhibition match.

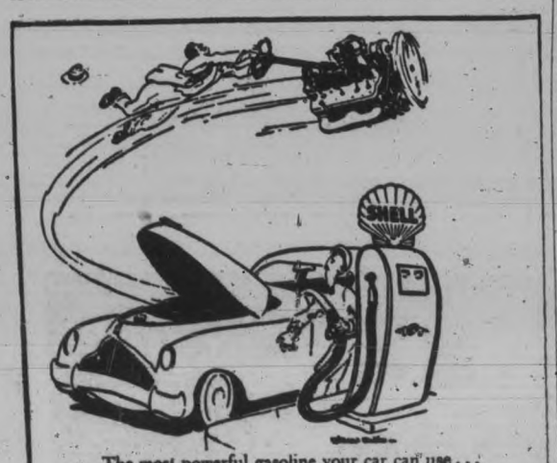
Fulham led 1-0 at the end of the first half and went ahead 2-0 before the all-stars scored their lone goal at the 30-minute mark of the second half. Fulham completed the scoring with only minutes remaining in the game.

The Canadian Equestrian Society has been disbanded due to lack of public interest, Maj.-Gen. C. C. Mann, president, said Sunday.

The society has been training Canadian riders during the last 18 months for international competition. Other groups may be set up if the Canadian Horseshow Society decides it advisable to train a Canadian for international competition, the president said.

All horses owned by the society will be offered for sale, he said.

Saving many lengths by driving to the rail at the top of the stretch, Eddie Arcaro piloted H. B. Delman's How to a galloping victory Saturday in the $50,000 Coaching Club American Oaks Saturday at Belmont Park, New York. It is the richest and longest race for three-year-old fillies in the United States.



How won by four lengths from Walter M. Jeffords' Kiss Me Kate, which defeated Apheim Stable's Jacodema by a length for place.

An attempt to organize professional baseball, football and basketball players into four labor unions is being considered by the American Federation of Labor.

Top officials said Saturday the matter is merely under consideration. They said the AFL's executive council will talk it over further at an Aug. 7 meeting in Montreal.

The move to organize professional athletes was launched with the AFL recently by Marty McManus of Chicago, a former American League baseball player who managed Boston Red Sox in 1932 and 1933.

But it was learned that AFL officials are proceeding with the plan cautiously, feeling the job may be too big a one to take over.

Sponsor Benny Swartz threw a dinner for the Petes' puckists and their wives and girl friends Saturday e'en in the Empress, an enjoyable "do", followed by some dancing. Prexy Reg Perks of the hockey club was master of ceremonies for the occasion, and Baz Phelan presented Mrs. Swartz with flowers, on behalf of the club. Ben also presented flowers to Mrs. Ralph Jopling and Mrs. Gus Leonard, wives of the team manager and captain, respectively. There was a good turnout of executive and players, though a few of the hockeyists were away playing lacrosse or ball. All indications pointed to the Petes operating an OHA club again next semester.

Petes Lead Ball Loop

The baseballic Petes came through nicely once more here Saturday to beat Toronto Croftons 9-7, their fifth Viaduct Loop win in a row as they hang firmly onto the top rung by themselves. Bill Dadson fanned 18 in a swell showing, though they were hitting him in the final two frames to creep up close. Bill also led his side at bat, he and Joe Lowrey (who swiped two more sacks) showing they are among the fastest runners in the circuit. Fred Garvey hit safely twice, as George Brabin and Al Menzies belted doubles. Dave Mustard led the losers at bat, and Tom Huntley pitched a fair game, too, the Torontos getting more hits, but giving up more walks. Neither side was too hot in the field. Petes go to Toronto tomorrow and have Oshawa here Thursday.

* * * * * *

Rather unexpected was the Petes' senior lacrosse reverse in Brampton on Saturday, but the scrappy Excelsiors rated the 10-7 victory. They had the legs in the fourth quarter to tie it up and go on and win. Petes were minus several regulars, penalties hurt their cause, and they didn't play up to top form—the hard grind 'gainst Toronto here Friday maybe wearing 'em down, too. Fortunately, they don't have to go to Fergus tonight ('twas postponed) but they've still got a flock of frays coming up in a bunch. St. Catharines come here Wednesday night. Oh, well, they'll lose games along the way in a stiff circuit, but they'll take their share, also.

UEW Soccerites Win

In soccer o'er the week-end, the UEW racked up another win at the expense of Batawa here, taking them 11-2, with R. Strong hitting the mark seven times. Just how good the UEW team is will be indicated next Saturday in Kingston when it meets Kingston United, Ontario Cup champs last season as well as winners of the Eastern Ontario League. UE draw prizes went to A. Lefley, S. Perry and F. Krouse. In Brockville on Saturday, the home side won a 4-1 loop fixture over O'Halloran's in a good game. A little more training and combination is indicated for O'Halloran's to hold their own in a stiff circuit. They play Belleville here next Saturday aft at three in King Edward Park.

* * * * * *

The COSSA district track and field meet in Oshawa on Saturday saw some good marks. However, the weather wasn't so good, and a number of senior stars didn't show up—hence juniors sometimes made better times than seniors in similar events. With 13 high school teams in, Oshawa took top honors with 38 points, as PCVS made a creditable showing in the runner-up position, Campbellford coming third, ahead of Uxbridge. Individual high title for the meet went to Jim Galoska of Peterborough Collegiate, while Johnny Jones of St. Peter's here took the open discus throw. A number of other local athletes were prominent throughout, but Oshawa as a whole proved a bit too good on the day.

UE Squad Wins In Soccer Against Batawa

UEW took an 11-2 soccer victory over Batawa here Saturday, their fourth Eastern Ontario League verdict in as many starts, as they scored 32 points with but two against them. They have also taken two exhibition tilts, beating Batawa and Oshawa City of the Toronto Major League.

Strong at centre for the locals scored seven goals, while Mundy was solid on defence. Batawa pressed hard at the start to bring out the defensive qualities of the homesters. Then Cotton placed a perfect centre on Strong's head and they made no mistake. Then A. Smith scored close in and Halroyd's deceptive shot from right drifted in for No. 3. On a desultory raid, a UE defenceman tackled illegally and Referee Tom Garland ruled a penalty, Batawa chalking up a goal. Strong got this one back and Smith scored a screened one from Halroyd's pass.

UEW took command in the second half with Cotton and G. Smith feeding their inside men perfect passes. Strong at centre scored two in a row, and then Batawa scored on a spot kick. Strong gave the goalie no chance on another and Smith headed in Halroyd's cross for No. 10. Batawa kept battling and, with a minute to go, Strong finished the scoring on a perfect pass from Halroyd.

The UEW lineup was: A. Jones, F. Mundy, W. Allen, E. Cotton, J. Craig, G. Smith, J. Holt, A. Smith, R. Strong, J. Ward, W. Halroyd and S. McGann.

Royals Trim Syracuse 9-4

By The Associated Press.

Big Bill Voiselle, who used to be a regular major-league starting pitcher, is one of the top relief pitchers in the International League.

The veteran righthander's work is one of the primary reasons Montreal Royals enjoy a commanding six-game lead today.

Voiselle, who hurled for New York, Boston and Chicago in the big time, saved a 9-4 victory over Syracuse Chiefs Sunday. He relieved starter and winner Joe Black in the seventh inning and held the Chiefs hitless the rest of the way.

It was his 11th relief stint of the season.

Bob Morgan and George Shuba supplied the batting punch with homers. Morgan drove in four runs and Shuba two.

Split Twin Bill

Rochester Red Wings divided a doubleheader with Ottawa Giants to pull to within three percentage points of the second-place Chiefs.

Alex Kinokowski stopped the Wings 6-1 on seven hits in the opener to win his fourth game without a loss. The Wings captured the nightcap, 3-2. Roland Leblanc smashed an inside-the-park homer with two out in the ninth to win the game.

Buffalo Bisons split a twin bill with Baltimore Orioles to remain in a fourth-place tie with the Giants. The Bisons took the opener 6-5 and the Orioles the nightcap 2-1. Fred Hancock, with three hits including a homer, starred for the Bisons. Russ Kerns homered in the fifth inning to provide the Orioles with their margin of victory in the nightcap.

Bill Padget pitched Springfield Cubs to a 4-0 four-hit victory over Toronto Maple Leafs. The Cubs sewed it up with three runs in the first inning.

Lefty Dadson Strikes Out 18 As Petes Win Fifth Straight

With Bill Dadson southpawing his slants by 18 Crofton batters here Saturday night, the Petes took a 9-7 Viaduct Baseball League win over the Toronto team for their fifth straight victory. It kept them atop the heap, with no reverses to date. Crofton's were getting to Bill the last two innings, clouting eight of their 13 safe blows then, but he racked up the best strikeout show so far in the league this season. Dadson walked but two and led his side at bat with a triple and two singles in four.

Tommy Huntley, brother to Bill of the Petes, threw eight-hit ball for the losers, fanning six, but he walked seven and had two wild pitches. These, coupled with two passed balls, and some timely thumping by Ed Whitehill's crew, accounted for the downfall of Jim Dean's squad in an interesting game. Neither team played too well defencively, though a number of neat fielding plays were shown

Two For Four

Besides Dadson's hitting, Fred Garvey clicked for two in four, Menzies and Brabin being good for a double each. Al drove in three runs, and Joe Lowrey stole his 10th base of the season, he and Garvey pilfering a pair each. Dave Mustard led the losers at bat with a three-bagger and two doubles in five. Tom Huntley hit a double, while Gord O'Hearn had two for four, and Jim Finlay three in five.

The Petes took a one-run lead in the first and, after Crofton's scored a brace in the third, tied it in their half, and racked up four more on a walk, two hits, two miscues and a wild pitch. One more in the sixth made it 7-2, but Toronto started to reach Dadson in the eighth to score a pair. The Petes got those back in the bottom of the eighth stanza, but Crofton's made it close enough as they banged out five safeties to score three more runs in the ninth. But Bill whiffed two to put out the fire Box score:

Indians Sweep Twin Bill From Yankees At Weekend

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Cleveland and Pittsburgh are the latest teams to take a whack at baseball's marathon winning and losing skeins as the big leagues continue their "streak-of-the-week" by-play.

New York Yankees began it with eight straight victories. Boston Red Sox went two better. Chicago White Sox topped both with 14. Now comes Cleveland with eight and 12 more to go to better the 19 straight American League victories piled up by the 1906 White Sox and 1947 Yankees.

The Indians made their biggest strides of the season Sunday, sweeping both ends of a double-header from the Yankees, 8-3 and 4-1. Bobby Feller and Bob Lemon pitched eight and four-hitters, respectively.

Pittsburgh is aiming for the National League losing string. The Pirates were whipped twice by Philadelphia Phils 11-2 and 8-3—their seventh and eighth straight defeats. The Boston Braves of 1906 and Cincinnati Reds of 1914 share the modern mark of 19 straight.

Brooklyn widened its National League lead to four games over St. Louis, sweeping both ends of a twin bill from Chicago's Cubs, 8-3 and 3-2 in 10 innings. The Giants took third place, splitting a pair with the Cards. Dave Koslo won a brilliant 1-0 hurling duel from Max Lanier of St. Louis, and the Cards edged out a 4-3 win in the second game.

Dump Braves

Cincinnati dumped the Braves into a fourth-place tie with Chicago, winning twice, 3-1 and 4-2.

Although held even in their two games with Boston, the White Sox improved their American League lead to two full lengths over the runner-up Yankees. The Red Sox won the opener, 7-5 and Chicago took the after-piece 11-2. The third place Red Sox trail by 2½ games.

Detroit snapped a seven-game losing streak, whipping Washington 10-2, after the Senators had won the opener 8-4. The Browns and Athletics divided a double-header. Philadelphia won the first 7-3 and St. Louis took the second 2-1.

The year's largest turnout—75,163 paid admissions—saw the Indians hammer six homers off Yankee pitchers, three by Luke Easter.

After Mel Parnell had pitched the Red Sox to their 12th win in 13 games, the Chisox pounded out 16 hits off five hurlers to even the score.

First Victory

Stubby Overmire registered his first victory of the season, winning a 2-1 hurling duel from Philadelphia A's Carl Scheib. Homers by Dave Philley and Joe Tipton helped Toronto-born Dick Fowler gain his second Philadelphia win.

Pat Mullin smashed a homer, triple and double to help Detroit snap its losing streak. Irv Noren hit a homer and two singles, scored three runs and drove in two in the opener for victorious Washington.

Don Newcombe won his sixth and Preacher Roe racked up his seventh win without a defeat for the Dodgers. In the opener Gil Hodges got his 17th homer of the season. A single by pinch-hitter Gene Hermanski scored Carl Furillo in the 10th inning of the nightcap.

A single by Billy Johnson scored Red Schoendienst in the eighth with the run that gave Harry Brecheen and the Cards a 4-3 win over the Giants after Koslo had handcuffed the Redbirds with two hits in his 1-0 opening win. An eight-inning single by Eddy Stanky scored Willie Mays with the only run off loser Max Lanier. Mays opened the inning with a double.

Gran Hamner smashed a grand-slam homer in the Phils' double win over the Pirates. Den Ennis, Andy Seminick and Willie Jones homered for the victors.

Kenny Raffensberger and Ewell Blackwell slapped the fifth and sixth straight setbacks on the Braves with six and five-hit performances.

King Favorite In Ring Fight

TORONTO, June 4 (CP). — Strong-armed Armand Savoie of Montreal was a 9 or 7 to 5 underdog today a few hours before his lightweight battle in Maple Leaf Gardens with the British Empire champion in his own hometown, Li'l Arthur King.

With a strong display of punching prowess, Savoie cleaned up his training in a fashion so impressive it left visible impressions. Friday he floored a sparring mate while King was tagged by his two sparring opponents.

And that helped shift the odds for the 10-round bout despite King's hometown backing and the edge he carries in weight and experience.

The fight threatened to break the indoor record of $23,000 established four years ago. Promoter Frank Tunney said Sunday night that $12,000 in tickets was sold by Saturday night. It was "definite" that the take would reach $30,000 he said.

Despite his catching two solid rights in the chops, King appeared in top condition for the 10-round affair. It will be his second following a six-month layoff to have scar tissue removed.

The fight should be one of his richest. His top purse on the United States circuit was against Tommy McGovern, reaping $6,000.

Lord Derby's great mud-running Sansovino plowed through to win the English Derby 27 years ago today for the first victory in 137 years for the family after whom the race was named. The English classic for the three-year-olds started in 1780 and an earlier Lord Derby won with Sir Peter Teazle in 1787. Hyperion in 1933 and Watling Street in 1942 were later winners for Lord Derby.

Toronto Boy Wins 5 Titles

MONTREAL, June 4 (CP). — Fifteen records were broken, another established, and one tied in Saturday's record-busting seventh annual Quebec Provincial and Dominion interscholastic track and field championship meet.

There were well over 500 entries, a record in itself, in the day-long competition of Quebc and Ontario contestants.

A smart, competent band of youngsters from Stamford Collegiate, down Niagara Falls way, ran wild in the senior division for recognized Dominion honors. They piled up 48 points against a three-way tie of only 11 points for second place.

There was no argument for individual honors. Norm Williams, a North Toronto unheralded specialist in field events, wound up the day with five provincial titles.

Williams made a show of the Class Four divisions, for boys under 17 years of age. He won the running high jump, running broad jump, eight-pound shot put and javelin throw. Then he moved over to the track and galloped off with a record-breaking win of 12.3 seconds in the 100-yard hurdles.

Ahead of Schedule

VICTORIA, B.C., June 4 (CP) —The Canadian cruiser Ontario, which picked up an injured merchant seaman while returning from a training cruise to the South Pacific, will reach her Esquimalt, B.C. base today, two days ahead of schedule. The Ontario picked up the unidentified man 1,400 miles southwest of Vancouver Island after he received a broken back and broken ribs in a fall aboard the British tanker Athelchief.

To Buy Newspaper

VANCOUVER, June 4 (CP) — An agreement for purchase of The News-Herald, Vancouver's morning daily newspaper, shares of D. A. Hamilton, president, and of some of the shares of C. B. Delbridge, publisher, has been negotiated by the Sun Publishing Company Limited. Although the purchase would constitute a controlling interest in The News-Herald, no changes in management or policy will be made, Mr. Delbridge said.

Truman Raps Bill

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)— President Truman Saturday signed a $365,000,000 deficiency appropriations bill but sharply criticized a section banning American economic aid to any nation which sends war potential goods to Communist nations. Truman, in a statement, urged Congress to replace what he called "this hasty rider with more workable legislation at the earliest possible moment."

Guilty of Murder

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C., June 4 (CP)—Francis Stephen Sykes, 17-year-old schoolboy, was sentenced Saturday to be hanged for murdering a girl he had known since early childhood. A 12-man Supreme Court jury convicted him of murder in the death of 13-year-old Laura Grant after deliberating two hours. Mr. Justice A. M. Manson set Sept. 11 as the date for the hanging.

Down Own Planes

TOKYO, June 4 — (Reuters). —Allied guns shot down two giant American "flying box-car" transport planes in a "tragic error" over Korea Sunday. US Air Force authorities announced today. Seven crew members of the two transports were killed. There were three survivors. The announcement said the planes were carrying supplies to be dropped to forward troops.

To Resume Sittings

HALIFAX, June 4 (CP)—Premier Macdonald announced Sunday that the Nova Scotia legislature will resume sittings June 12 to consider "taxation matters." He did not elaborate. At the last session which adjourned early in April, Premier Macdonald said the province was planning to impose a sales tax.

Station Wrecked

TILLSONBURG, June 4 (CP)— Four tail end cars and the caboose on a Wabash freight train left the rails Sunday and two of the cars crashed into the station building. No one was injured. The station was shifted several feet off its foundation and the front end which houses the office was reduced to splinters.

At Church Service

HILLSBOROUGH, Northern Ireland, June 4 (Reuters). — The Queen and Princess Margaret, on an official visit, attended morning service at the Parish Church on Sunday. Crowds had driven the 12 miles from Belfast to see them. Extra police were on duty to control the traffic.

Raise Export Tax

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, June 4 (Reuters)—The government Saturday decided to raise the export tax on newsprint from 200 to 260 crowns ($39.20 to $51.00) a ton from July 1.

Myrna Loy Weds

FORT MYER, Va., June 4 (AP) —Myrna Loy, the actress, and Howland Sargeant, deputy assistant state secretary for public affairs, were married Sunday.

Mayor's Fund To Close On Saturday

Turn Over Money To Trust Set Up To Handle Fund

The Mayor's Fire Fund committee has decided that its main activities should be wound up at the end of this week, Saturday, June 9.

A motion by Reg Reid and Harry Green was intended to prevent the eventual decline of the Fund to a protracted trickle. So far, it said, the response of the citizens has been both generous and prompt, but it is understood that in several of the industries collections were put over until this week or even next. Sentiment of the members was that the subscriptions should be closed without any delay that might be avoided.

Actually this is an appeal to the citizens to sustain the active spirit in which they themselves opened it immediately after the fatal fire of May 19. It was thought that, if indications at this weekend pointed to the passing of the main volume of giving, the fund might be transferred next week to the trust of which Judge S. L. Smoke is chairman.

Then, the subscription committee could be dispersed, and any further contributions might be made payable to the trust, or to a small committee, if its members preferred that plan of closing.

Firemen have placed 250 collection boxes around the city, and it was suggested that they be picked up on June 11.

Representatives of women's organizations have received more than $1,000 at the Jaycee booth on Charlotte St.

William R. Wallace, assistant treasurer of the fund, reported today a total of $27,270. The Ontario Provincial Police, Peterborough, contributed $25, the Medical Centre $200, Canada Packers Ltd. $250, employees of the Industrial Control Division of the CGE $387.50, Deyell's Books and Stationery $25, and Cherney Bros. $125.

RECENTLY A MISSIONARY in Nairobi, Africa, the Rev. Charles Richmond is now rector of Christ Anglican Church, Omemee. He is shown ABOVE with his wife and two sons. His wife was also a missionary and they met and were married in Africa. She took his place during World War Two while he served as a captain with a South African regiment.

St. Luke's Anglican Church Monument To Faith--Bishop

"This church today stands as a monument to the faith and fidelity, energy and devotion to all those who have found their spiritual home here in the past 75 years." This tribute was made by the Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverley, bishop of the Diocese of Toronto, at the Sunday morning service of the 75th anniversary of St. Luke's Anglican Church.

"The influence of these fine lives and their good work performed here reaches far beyond this church and diocese and is known only to God," he continued.

The bishop also paid tribute to the present rector, the Rev. Walter J. Gilling, and congregation in his words of greeting and congratulation, mentioning the recent decoration of the parish hall and the work done by lay readers of the congregation in neighboring parishes.

St. Paul

The Apostle's Paul's epistle to the Phillipians 4: 6 and 7—

"Be careful in nothing; but in everything by prayer and supplication with thanksgiving let your requests be made known unto God. And the peace of God, which passeth all understanding, shall keep your hearts and minds through Jesus Christ"—was the text chosen by Bishop Beverley for his episcopal visitation message to the congregation.

Outlining the circumstance of Paul in a Roman prison suffering personal sorrow and anxiety, when he sent this message, the bishop referred to these words as "a trumpet call, which strengthened and inspired the Phillipians" in this time of their own persecution.

From there he drew the parallel situation that exists in all generations — "anxiety about the future."

"Anxiety is the foe of prudence," Bishop Beverley stated. "Anxiety wastes energy and vitality and results in distinct lessening of effectiveness, not to mention the needless unhappiness suffered in worrying about the future.

Day By Day

"The secret of a happy life is to learn to live a day at a time; never add tomorrow's burden. Mind the present and leave the future to God."

The need for confidence in God was stressed by Bishop Beverley. He also emphasized words of thanksgiving should never be omitted from prayers.

"God will only give us what is good therefore all God sends us can be thought of as a reason for thanksgiving," he concluded. "The end of the all prayer is achieved when our human will is brought in harmony with the divine will and we can say, "Not my will but Thine be done O Lord."

Archdeacon Sawers

The lessons were read at the morning service by Ven. F. J. Sawers, Archdeacon of York, and former rector of St. Luke's from 1911 to 1915.

Spjecial music was provided by the choir who sang the "Hallelujah Chorus" from Mandel's Messiah.

The Apostolic rite of confirmation was conducted at the evening service by the Rt. Rev. G. A. Wells, CMG, DD. Archdeacon Sawers was the guest preacher.

Cars Hit On Hill Woman Hurt

A 46-year-old woman was treated in Apsley Hospital Sunday for head cuts and shock sustained in a two-car accident two miles north of Haultain on Highway 28.

The car, driven by her husband Walter J. Murden, Cottingham St., Toronto, struck an oncoming car, continued on out of control for another 60 feet, and then plunged into a 10-foot ditch on the west side of the highway.

Police say the accident occurred on the west side of the highway. Murden was driving north, and on the brow of a hill met the southbound car of Gerden Krieger, 39, Weston.

Lay Charges

OPP Constable Bert Howden, Apsley, said charges will likely be laid against Murden.

The cars were both heavily damaged. Loss to each is estimated at more than $500. The Merton car had the front wheels broken off.

Krieger, his wife, and a passenger, Mrs. Martha Green, 64, Coxwell Ave., Toronto were shaken up but otherwise uninjured. They were examined by Dr. John Steer, Apsley.

Mrs. Murden Sunday night left the Apsley hospital for her home in Toronto.

George St. Corner Vacant First Time In Half Century

For the first time in half a century or more the store premises at the southwest corner of George and Hunter Streets was vacant today. Elliott's Drug Stores (Rexall) have transferred their business to the location they have established at 296 George St., south of A. Comstock & Sons.

The Hunter St. corner has been a drug store for many years. Around 40 years ago the proprietor was William Madill, who was succeeded by the late Percy Bond, and in turn by Elliott's.

Going back into earlier mercantile history, the tenant was the Oak Hall Company, one of the chain of retail outlets of the men and boys' wear firm, the head of which was Senator W. E. Sandford. Other branches were in St. Catharines, Hamilton, Toronto, Windsor, Owen Sound, Welland, and the company had warehouses in the larger cities from Vancouver to Halifax.

Advertising Milestone

Information from Ed. Manning and M. J. Mather recalls that the enterprise of Oak Hall was illustrated by a milestone method of advertising. On the main roads leading into Peterborough signboards were set up registering the mileage from Oak Hall at the corner of George and Hunter Streets. These informing boards were about eight or 10 feet tall and a foot or more wide. They traced the distance from the Oak Hall in distances of one mile. The last manager of the store was a man named Whattam, and one of the salesmen was Dan Menzies.

Grafton & Company came into Peterborough about that time under the aggressive management of William E. Conway. Competition for business was extremely keen, and out of it emerged the Grafton store as Oak Hall declined, finally selling their stock to Gough Brothers. These are only sketchy references to changes which gradually took place in men's wear retailing.

The corner property is part of the building purchased by Braund interests from Toronto Savings & Loan Co.

Drowning Man Saved By G. Clarke

Swimmer Panics In Canal Beyond His Depth

Quick action by Gordon Clarke, 25, of 209 Murray St., saved a Peterborough man from drowning Sunday afternoon.

Ralph Sanderson, 24, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Sanderson, RR 1, Peterborough, was swimming in the canal early in the afternoon, near the MacFarlane bridge. He got beyond his depth and started to go down when Clarke dove in and pulled him out. His brother, Barney Clarke, assisted him in the rescue.

Sanderson was still conscious when he was pulled out.

Margot Louden, 73 Sophia St., who was with Sanderson, told the following story:

"Sandy (Sanderson) dove in from the east bank and then started to do the crawl stroke with his head in the water until he reached the middle of the canal. When he looked up and saw where he was he seemed to panic and went under. It was then that I realized he was in trouble and called to Clarke who was on the bank nearby.

"Sandy has been taking swimming lessons, but I guess he lost confidence when he got out beyond his depth. The queer part of it was that he didn't cry out even when he was going down."

Reuben McDonald, 624 Watts Ave., saw the trouble from his window. He told his wife who is a registered nurse and then phoned the fire department. Mrs. McDonald immediately ran over to help. She said that Sanderson was blue and frightened after he was pulled out. He was wrapped in a blanket and put in his car.

With the arrival of the fire truck, cars streamed to the scene. Sanderson was taken away and later returned home. He was treated by Dr. J. Wishart and Dr. W. J. W. Gamble.

Constables A. W. Beardsmore and S. L. Keliele investigated.

King's Birthday Observed In City

Today, Canadians observed the King's birthday. Banks, schools, government buildings and city hall were closed.

At Ottawa and in the provincial capitals, a salute of guns marked the occasion. School children got a holiday, and most government employees had the day off.

They were celebrating the King's 56th birthday, which falls on December 14 this year. In Canada, his birthday is observed in June, a better month for holidays.

Boys' Camp Filling Up For Summer Weeks

Two of the six weeks of the boys' camp, Camp Kawartha on Clear lake, operated by the Y's Men's Club, are half full, William McFarlane, boys' work secretary and camp director, said today. These weeks are the third and fourth weeks which have 31 and 34 boys respectively.

The remaining weeks are gradually being filled and so far 52 camping weeks have been applied for.

The boys this year are from various centres, Toronto, Hamilton, Niagara Falls, Lindsay, Port Colborne, Port Hope and Cobourg as well as Peterborough. The Y's Men's Club tries to have the majority at camp from Peterborough.

Plans before the camp opens in July call for two additional building, one a new log sleeping cabin accommodating eight boys, and the other a new boat house. When the cabin is completed, the present log house will be used for a craft hall.

Sisters Celebrate Jubilees Mt. St. Joseph

Mount St. Joseph is today celebrating the jubilees of 11 Sisters. Five celebrate their silver jubilee, five their golden jubilee and one, Mother Irene, has reached the sixtieth mile-stone, the diamond jubilee.

Mother Irene (Margaret Coogan) came to the community in the early difficult days when the laborers were few. Her religious life has been passed mainly at the work of teaching. St. Joseph's Academy, Lindsay, was the chief scene of her work. She is a graduate of Queen's Universtiy and the Ontario College of Education.

Always a student, her spare moments were passed among her books, but her advance along spiritual lines won in the race. She was a member of the executive of the community for several years and was later chosen by her sisters as Reverend Mother of her community.

Since retiring from active service, Mother Irene is often found with her beloved books, but more often still, in the chapel.

Those celebrating the golden jubilee of religious life are Sisters Ethelburg, Mary of Victory, St. Joseph, Philomena and St. Brigid.

Sister Ethelburg

Sister Ethelburg (Genevieve McDonnell) is a musician. Fifty years ago in pioneer Ontario musicians were few, and the little postulant with her violin was needed and welcome by the community.

She holds a fellowship in the Toronto College of Music and a degree in theory from the University of Chicago.

She has had charge of the School of Music at St. Joseph's Convent, Fort William, at Sault Ste. Marie, Almonte, and West Fort William. After 50 years of work and practice and prayer, Sister Ethelburg continues to teach.

Sister Mary Of Victory

Half a century ago Sister Mary of Victory (Anastasia Guiry), a girl in her teens, made her way from Emily in mid-winter across the ice of Pigeon Creek and Chemong Lake in a cutter to Mount St. Joseph, Peterborough.

Miss Guiry was a qualified teacher, a graduate of Ottawa Normal School, lacking only experience at her craft. Six months after her arrival at the Mount she received the Habit of the Sister of St. Joseph. It is that event the golden jubilarians celebrate today—the Reception of the Habit.

Soon afterwards Sister Mary of Victory went to Port Arthur then a struggling village in the wilderness. She remained there 10 years teaching at St. Andrew's school. All her years in the convent have been spent at her chosen profession, several of them in high schools at Lindsay, Almonte, Kirkfield and St. Andrew's.

Many a convent recreation has been enlivened by her wit and drollery. She has gone through life working steadily but always awatch for the humor in the daily happenings. She tells a good story, and her experiences never fail to create a hearty laugh.

Since her retirement from teaching she is occupied in the translation of a book dealing with an interesting event in early Canadian days. Up to this, it has never been translated from the original French. Sister Mary of Victory is a sister of Rev. J. J. Guiry, PP, of Port Hope, and of Sister Clement of Cobourg.

Blood Tests For Drunks Not For Peterborough Crown Attorney Decides

Alcohol In Blood Stream Not Conclusive Too Much Leeway Says Bradshaw; Test Adopted In Windsor, Other Cities

A good thing for larger centres, but not for Peterborough, was Crown Attorney John Bradshaw's reaction to the appointment in Windsor of a doctor to make blood tests of drivers arrested on drunk driving charges. While there are still family doctors in this city, the crown attorney said, there is no need to commission a doctor to make the tests. The announcement from Windsor followed shortly after the acquittal of two men on drunk driving charges. Both complained they had no opportunities to have blood tests.

Blood tests are not acceptable in all Canadian courts as proof of drunkenness or sobriety. And though they cannot be considered conclusive evidence, they form the best scientific evidence available.

Mr. Bradshaw pointed to evidence given at an inquest Wednesday in Norwood. Dr. C. B. Waite, district provincial pathologist, testified there that a state of stupor was reached when a person's blood contained from .27 to .42 per cent of alcohol.

Lot of Leeway

"There is a lot of leeway there" he remarked. Mr. Bradshaw felt the blood test was not conclusive.

In Windsor the test will not be compulsory. Peterborough's crown attorney said that without legislation to legalize it, a compulsory blood test would constitute assault.

As the law stands, a person can request a blood test by his own physician. But the court need not accept the physician's findings as to the state of sobriety or intoxication.

MOTORCYCLE SPILL

Lorne Rowbotham, 17, Bolivar St, hit a series of bumps as he was riding his motorcycle in Cavan township Saturday. The jar was sufficient to make him lose control of his cycle and he skidded sideways along the road surface after the cycle toppled over. He received a crushed little finger on his left hand and is being treated in Civic Hospital. He was alone at the time and there were no witnesses.

Caterpillars Fail To Appear

People in the Kawarthas were prepared to do monstrous battle against caterpillar hordes at this time. From all reports—in places they devastated last year—there are few if any at all. "The big cycle is over," say expert observers.

Mount Julian shore, one of the most badly infested spots in past years, have very few nests. Another bad spot, the MacCracken's shore, has hardly any. Down in Gilchrist Bay and through the bush surrounding White Lake there is some evidence of the caterpillar march. The Clear Lake shores, both east and west, are free from the pests, as is the area around Deer Bay.

Former Warden Norman Wilson of Apsley reports the bush bared by caterpillars around Eel's Lake, Ditches of highways and byways branching out from Peterborough show more evidence this year of pest nesting and they are reported in fair numbers around Crowe Lake, north of Marmora.

FEW VACANT LOTS

Peterborough in 1941 had more than 500 vacant building lots on streets with sidewalks and sewers, according to an Examiner report at that time. If there are any left today they are exceedingly few.

Find Chinese Now At Front Hungry, Not Well Trained

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, June 4 —(CP)— The situation may change, but at the moment skepticism is increasing among the Canadians about the fighting qualities of the Chinese now against them.

The impression is growing that the opposition is hungry and not too well trained.

He does not fight as well as the Chinese who skilfully brought himself within arm's length of positions occupied by the Princess Patricias the night of April 24-25, then waged a determined all-night battle for possession of a hill.

Lieut. Felix (Wayne) Wingfield of Louisville, Ky., commander of a US tank platoon supporting the Patricias, recently had a field day of slaughter when his Patton tanks moved forward on patrol ahead of the Canadian positions.

Wingfield's tanks killed, "at an extremely modest estimate," 150 Chinese.

Different Type

He said afterward: "They're not the same men we've met before. John (Chinaman) never used to offer himself as a target—he used to use cover. And he certainly never skylined himself."

That means silhouetting yourself on a ridge-top.

"He did everything wrong today—even trying to out-run shells."

Incident by incident, in a series that would take a book to recount, Wingfield's tanks knocked off the enemy in twos, threes and fours during a day that ended almost at dusk, when the returned to the Patricias' sector.

"You can see they're green troops," he said in the command post occupied by Maj. Vince Lilley of Hamilton, once his tanks were positioned for the night. "You remember how well those others fought. Well, these men just make targets of themselves.

"They're right silly—not like the others. You never used to see the Chinese at all.

They're Eager

"But you've got to say one thing for them; they're eager. They keep on fighting. Maybe fanatical."

Fanatical might be the word. Or hungry.

Capt. James Vallely, the Patricias' Roman Catholic chaplain and veteran missionary in China, frequently talks with Chinese prisoners of war after interrogating officers have finished with them.

He has maintained for some time that "John is hungry."

He spoke with one the day after Wingfield's "hunt."

The interrogation over, the prisoner was cramming his mouth with army biscuits when Capt. Vallely was given permission to talk with him.

Hadnt Eaten for Days

"He said they're hungry, haven't eaten for days," the chaplain quoted the youth later. The man, or boy, rather, claimed to be an 18-year-old farm laborer from northeast Manchuria.

He resentfully asserted that his unit had brought no food, banking on over-running stocks in Korean communities and on supplies abandoned by withdrawing United Nations forces.

He was quoted as complaining: "There hasn't been even a tin of C-rations."

Apparently just enough rations supplies were left behind during last December and January's allied retreat to whet the Chinese appetite, and perhaps, to be an inducement to service in the "Chinese People's Volunteer Army."

VICTIMS OF THE HCL—Frankie Russelo, 14-year-old Boston, Mass., newsboy, and his 125-pound St. Bernard dog were parted by the high cost of food. Frankie found the dog recently and brought it home as a pet. After his mother watched the dog gobble up five cans of dog food with no effort at all, she decreed he had to go. Here the St. Bernard tries to console heartbroken Frankie.

Ask Reasonable Price Set For Newsprint

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—Representative Emanuel Celler (Dem., NY) called on the Office of Price Stabilization Sunday to establish "just and reasonable prices" for newsprint.

His statement followed an announcement at Toronto by the Abitibi Power and Paper Company that it will raise newsprint prices $10 a ton effective July 1, bringing the New York port price to $116.

Celler, chairman of the House of Representatives Judiciary Sub-Committee on Monopoly, said there are hints of increases by other manufacturers indicating a price fixing pattern.

Committee Inspects Seaway Area

By JOHN LEBLANC

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 4—(CP)—A United State congressional committee, one of the keys to a start on the huge St. Lawrence Seaway, Saturday inspected sections of the proposed $860,000,000 project.

Federal and Ontario government officials, anxious for a start on the long-deferred power-navigation undertaking, escorted members of the US House of Representatives' public works committee over the Welland Canal area of the development.

The committee, which will have a big hand in deciding whether the seaway plan gets a vote in Congress this year, made the visit as part of a flying inspection tour of the whole 2,000-mile channel length. It flew here from the further-inland area of the lake-river system, and in the next two days it is to go down-river.

While the project now appears close to action than in many years, members of the US delegation Saturday told newspapermen it still is not known whether Congress will act this year.

To Take Vote

They said the public works committee is expected to take a vote in the next few weeks. But even if approved there, the seaway still has to be dealt with by another House committee and the House itself, besides the US Senate and its foreign relations committee.

It was learned in Ottawa the cabinet is considering asking parliament, at a fall session, for authority to go ahead alone. However, informants said the government has not yet made the final decision.

For today's visit of the US congressmen, the federal government sent here Guy Lindsay, chief of the transport department's special projects branch and the man in charge of drawing up the plans for Canada's participation in the seaway.

Mr. Lindsay's latest is that the navigation-power construction of the seaway would cost Canada total of $220,000,000 in addition to what she already has spent.

Poultry Disease Takes Heavy Toll

LONDON, Ont., June 4 (CP)—Newcastle disease, dread virus infection which attacks poultry flocks, is taking a serious toll throughout South-western Ontario, a survey of the district reveals.

One large scale operator, Allen Donley of London, says he has "lost everything."

District officials of the Health of Animals Division, Canada Department of Agriculture—which supervises the investigation and control of the disease—so far have refused to make any comment, other than to admit it is present.

Briton Feels Strongly About Russian Skeletons

LONDON, June 4 —(AP)—A Briton is challenging the westward march of skeletons from behind the Iron Curtain.

Russia is the world's biggest producer of skeletons for scientific use, exporting them by the thousands yearly to meet a global shortage.

T. W. Fazakerley of Croydon, a London suburb, is competing with the Russians in a big way—with plastic replicas that fool even anatomy experts.

He produces about 2,000 a year, under his present production schedule, and markets them everywhere—except in Iron Curtain countries—at half the current price for real ones.

Fazakerley feels pretty strongly about Russia's skeletons, not so much on political or ideological grounds but because they are mostly flatheads.

"From the anatomical point of view," he said, "Soviet skeletons are inferior products with those flat Asiatic-type pates. We can supply good old normal round-heads in quantity and they are the type requested in most museums, medical schools and colleges all over the place."

The ideal skeleton is female, Fazakerley says. She's got to have these qualifications:

Five feet, seven.

208 bones ("A high proportion of chassis have only 206, lacking two bottom 'floating ribs.'")

Aged between 26 and 30. ("Right in her prime.")

Mother of two. ("Having children gives her a roomier pelvic basin, that is, the area within the two saucer-like pelvic bones.")

Perfect feet. ("A lot of the girls have fallen arches in real life.")

Fazakerley does a thriving business in feet. Chiropodists use them to show patients what goes on under the skin. Corset and girdle manufacturers are big pelvic buyers, seeking to develop fashions that square with requirements of the human bone structure as well as customer demand for efficiency.

Skulls are a hot item with dentists, Masonic lodges, and anonymous gents who, Fazakerley thinks, go in for a spot of voodoo on the quiet.

The skeleton shortage has been around a long time in Britain.

British users have only two supply sources for the real thing: Persons who will their bodies for scientific use; tramps and homeless folk who are found dead and remain unclaimed for 14 days.

Of the first group, Fazakerley says: "These blokes usually don't die until they're about ninety and their bones are usually arthritic and decayed—no use at all."

Of the second source: "Not enough of em."

The skeleton manufacturer pointed to a passing blonde: "That would bring about 60 quid (£60). I could do a plastic job at half the price."

Engineers Seek Way To Preserve Niagara

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP). —Army engineers are seeking a way to stop Niagara Falls wearing itself out.

Maj.-Gen. Lewis A. Pick, chief of engineers, announced Saturday that water would start a flow soon through a model of the Falls built at the Vicksburg, Miss., experiment station of the Engineer Corps. The study of the flow of water over the miniature falls may lead to actions that would preserve Niagara.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Canadian Rabbits Gaining In Popularity As Meat Dish

I welcomed the following letter for it shows the trend that people will follow when they are pushed too hard.

Because we Canadian housewives are pushed too hard by the high price of meat we are turning to fish, fowl and rabbit—and the consumption of eggs and cheese has increased.

"Dear Mrs. Moore: Your column is one of the most interesting of its kind, with its practical every day recipes and hints. Last week's column was especially so with the rabbit recipe—with Australian rabbit.

"I would like to see more for Canadian domesticated meat rabbits. . . As you say they taste like chicken and are cheaper. . . " Mrs. G. F. C. A.

Roast Rabbit

If you are unfamiliar with the preparation I would advise having it dressed ready to use; do not hamper yourself with unfamiliar preparation. Any age or size of rabbit may be roasted—but just as with chicken younger ones require less roasting time are tenderer and have a more delicate flavor.

Stuffing: For average size rabbit you will need 5 cups soft breadcrumbs. Saute in 3 tablespoons butter or margarine 1 very finely chopped onion until transparent but not at all brown. Add it to bread. Add 1 teaspoon freshly crumbled sage or thyme, 1½ teaspoons salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper and if desired 1 well-beaten egg.

Tie tightly, when stuffed. Place on trivet in roasting pan, add ½ cup water, cover with about 3 strips side bacon. Cover tightly and bake at 300 deg. Fahr. for 2½ hours for a young rabbit—3½ to 4 hours for a mature one. Uncover during last 15 minutes.

Casserole of Rabbit

In my opinion this is the best method of cooking rabbit. It cannot dry out and all of the flavor and juices are retained. Dredge 3 pounds cut up medium-sized rabbit, which have been washed and dried, in flour to which you have added salt and pepper. Panfry to brown on all sides, in bacon fat or butter or margarine, reducing heat after pieces of meat are light golden, and panfry covered over very low heat during last 20 minutes. Add any variety of vegetables you desire. Onions thinly sliced, finely chopped celery, mushrooms, green pepper, tomato, carrots, peas are all good. Barely cover with water, cover tightly and bake at 300 deg. Fahr. 3 hours, or simmer on top of stove for 3 hours. In either case pot should be tightly covered and heat very low. If flour on rabbit does not thicken gravy sufficiently, thicken it with a paste of flour and water before serving. Put pieces of rabbit in centre of platter. Arrange vegetables around it in border. Strain the gravy over the meat.

✧ ✧ ✧

In our household rabbit is very popular so I always prepare enough to have some leftover to slice or grind for the lunch sandwiches. They are the best yet. I took some to a church meeting and told the ladies what they were before they were passed and they were 100 per cent successful and popular.

✧ ✧ ✧

Rabbit Salad-Sandwich Spread

One pound ground cold rabbit meat cooked, 1 small onion put through grinder with meat, or chopped chives, 1 cup finely chopped or ground celery, 4 to 6 chopped sweet pickles, 1 canned pimiento or ½ green pepper, ¾ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper and about ¾ cup mayonnaise. Write to me if you would like more rabbit recipes.

Princess Elizabeth Boosts Chignon Styles For Evening

By MURIEL NARRAWAY

LONDON —(CP)— Princess Elizabeth, the Royal sister least interested in fashion-setting, nevertheless has given a definite boost to the much-discussed chignon.

This up-to-date method of adding interest to short-hair styles for evening wear was chosen by the Princess for formal occasions during her recent visit to Malta.

"The Princess wore a 'figure eight' chignon on the back of her head," said Peter Isaia, a London wig maker. "The hair must be 24 inches long to make the full curves of the figure eight and the cost of this type of chignon varies between nine and 12 guineas."

Although the Princess has not worn a chignon since her return to London, wig makers report: "There has been nothing like this demand since the shingle days of 20 years ago."

Since she attained her majority, Princess Elizabeth has worn the same hair-style. Only the length differs.

Her coming-of-age pictures show hair parted on the right and swept back in soft curls lying low on the nape. Side curls framed the face, covering the ears. Today her hair is shorter and brushed back to expose the ears, otherwise the style remains.

Rank Dictates Choice

Apparent reluctance to introduce changes in Royal hair-styles is explained by necessity of rank. Tradition dictates that the Royal Family be easily recognizable in all portraits released for public distribution. The reason, authorities explain, is that in many outposts of Empire Royal pictures are cherished for many years before new sets are acquired.

The same factors govern choice of clothes. Royal fashion never changes too suddenly. New styles must be adopted slowly, giving a smooth flow to radical changes of line.

Since her marriage Princess Elizabeth has attained a quiet maturity and individual elegance completely her own.

A sudden preference for darker shades of green, blue, mulberry and red are believed to be her husband's influence. Dark colors suit her pale-rose complexion and light brown hair far better than the pastel shades worn in her 'teens.

For evening wear the Princess favors her mother's love of crinolines and long-haired furs. Since her marriage, however, she is often seen in the beautiful mink coat given her as a wedding present by the Canadian government.

The program was varied and interesting. The piano solos were played with assurance and some very intelligent interpretations and the delightful vocal solos showed a mastery of technique and style.

Following the recital the audience and participants were invited by the president, Mrs. D. Flett, to remain for a social period when delicious refreshments were served by Mrs. K. Braund and her committee. Mrs. J. White and Mrs. R. Williamson presided at the tea table.

DOROTHY DIX

Faithless Man Always One Woman Is Well Rid Of

DEAR MISS DIX: Several years ago I met my first "date" and went with him for six years. We loved each other very much and promised always to be true to each other. But around Christmas time, a year ago, when I would telephone him on Sunday, as had been my custom, he began to get very evasive. He would be busy around the house and couldn't talk or he'd promise to call back later (which he never did). Sometimes his sister would answer and say he had gone out but no one knew where. Incidentally, his family and I always got along very well together.

Dorothy Dix

Well, I finally found out he was going with a younger girl, 17 years old. I am 29. While we were going together, he always evaded the subject of marriage and whenever it came up he said he had to take care of his widowed mother. He married this young girl nearly a year ago, and I still can't get over the heartbreak. I am friendly with his mother and sister and they say they can't understand why he treated me so shabbily. I just can't seem to get over him.

Since he married, I have met other men who seem interested in me, but I just can't go out with them. On the other hand, I hate to stay home because I think of him so much then. Another thing, the girls at the place I work are always asking me about my former friend and it is very embarrassing. I hope you can help me. CONSTANCE

ANSWER: I hate to scold you, Constance, when you are already pretty down in the dumps, but really your first clue to your friend's insincerity should have come when he shied away from the marriage question for six years. No man in love goes with a girl that long without having marital thoughts in his mind, and even though he may not think marriage feasible at the time for reasons of family responsibility, he will at least discuss the issue frankly, and not evade it. He seems to me to have acted altogether in a cowardly, craven manner, and you really should say good riddance to him.

Make New Friends

You will undoubtedly find friends of infinitely greater character among the men you mention, and I think you'd better give them an opportunity to show you what real people can be like, your heart out over a faithless sweetheart.

Petty people do love to get in sly digs to someone in a situation like yours. They are not easy to bear by any means, but the best way to take them in with a smile, no matter how much it hurts. Toss off the embarrassing remarks with a laugh, and you'll be surprised how abruptly they will cease.

Throw up your head, stick out your chin and face the world with a smile. Go out as much as you can—but with people, and to places where you wouldn't be ashamed to be seen. Keep your sense of values high, and your heart will soon heal.

DEAR MISS DIX: What do you think of a mother who keeps her 18-year-old daughter at home every night of the week because she is graduating and has to study every night? She isn't allowed any dates, not even on week ends, and when she goes out with her girl friends she has to be in early. I don't think it's fair to the daughter. She can't even think of boys without her mother reminding her about school and homework. DORIS

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: This cruel parent probably realizes that Daughter will not graduate unless she buckles down and works. And I think Daughter had better cooperate on the books and graduate with fairly good grades, or she might find herself spending another year in school with even less dating time than she has now. I don't envy Mother her job of keeping our would-be social butterfly at home nights, but when diplomas are given out, there should be an honorary one for Mom; I think she's worked harder to get it than her daughter has.

Cheer up, Doris! Graduation is just around the corner.

DEAR MISS DIX: I would like to know how to take a man like this. We are an eldery couple, both of our mates are dead. My children are married; his are teenagers. The first two months I knew him he was the most wonderful man. But he has changed. Although he comes to see me every night, he is never affectionate. He just comes in, eats the good dinner I have prepared for him, then listens to the radio or reads until it is time to go home. P. P. S.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The attitude of your swain is typically masculine. He has gotten past "the days of wine and roses," of romance and affection, and wants exactly what you be satisfied to settle in this routine for the rest of his life. If you want him to suggest marriage, he'll have to be jolted into it and if you can't think of anything to turn the trick, better make the proposal yourself.

But never will the one we loved,
From memory pass away.
—Fondly remembered by her son, Fred Rowe and family.

DUVAL—
Silently the angels took Grandma,
Into the mansions above,
There shall she rest from earth's failing,
Safe in the arms of God's love.
—Fondly remembered by her granddaughters Sylvia and Sheila.

DUVAL—In ever loving memory of my dear mother, Mary Georgina (Park) Duval, who passed away June 3, 1948.
Sometimes a note of an old fashioned song,
Brings us a thought of you;
Sometimes a flower as we pass along,
Or a sky that is azure blue;
We keep in memory a love of the past,
To me, it's as bright as of old,
For deep in my heart it was painted to last,
And in absence, it never grows cold.
—Deeply loved by daughter, Ivy and son-in-law Arthur.

RONCO—In loving memory of a dear sister Philomena, who passed away June 3, 1938.
We know that she is happy
In our Saviour's home above,
Growing fairer as she lingers
In the sunshine of His love.
—Ever remembered by her sister Lucy and brother-in-law George.

Supply Threatened

SYDNEY Australia June 4 — (Reuters)—Australia may have no meat for export by 1960 if present trends continue, John McEwen, minister of commerce and agriculture, warned today Speaking at Brisbane, McEwen said that by then an increased population would have left Australia with little, if any, meat for export unless there was a substantial rise in production.

Mammoth Bazaar And Tea At St. Luke's Saturday Feature Of 75th Anniversary

Celebration of the 75th anniversary of St. Luke's Anglican Church on Saturday took the form of a bazaar, tea and square dance which provided entertainment for every parishioner, the very old and the very young, and for a host of their friends in the city and district.

Amusements were pony riding, "bottle shy", fish pond and fortune telling in the afternoon and square dancing until ten o'clock in the evening with an orchestra providing the music.

Stalls offered for sale all the usual variety of bazaar articles and a lot of extras, including a hand-tooled leather purse valued at $40. One displayed 13 handmade quilts and five cot covers, but 50 quilts had been sold during the year past. A novelty booth had toys for boys and girls including kites, Indian hats, stuffed animals, dolls, cradles and quilts and dolls' clothes including a number of knitted sets for dolls. The horticulture store had bouquets of lovely flowers for sale and was another variation.

The tea room was the large hall where extensive decorating had been done for the occasion and facilities of the fine new kitchen, completed by parishioners in time for the anninversary, were used. A hand-crocheted lace cloth done by a former parishioner of over 70 years, Mrs. E. Dunnett of Toronto, graced the central tea table, centred with beautiful flowers and candles and a large decorated anniversary cake was displayed.

Mrs. Wm. King who was convener of the bazaar, and Mrs. W. J. Gilling, chairman of the women's anniversary committee, and Mrs. R. G. Maniece received the guests. Mrs. M. Mesley was the treasurer at the door and Mrs. Reg. Turner was taking names for the guest book.

The decorating had been done by Mrs. G. R. Langley with the aid of Mrs. Chas. Hamilton, Mrs. Fraser Watson and Mrs. Mark Burnham and the tea table arrangement was by Mrs. R. Davidson.

Tea Room Attendants

Mrs. R. Krant and Mrs. E. J. MacDonald were the tea conveners.

Tea pourers were Mrs. M. Burnham, Mrs. A. Leach, Mrs. J. Bousfield, and Miss A. Curtis. Serving were Mrs. Don Grills, Mrs. G. White, Mrs. C. Hope, Mrs. K. Hambly, Mrs. W. Muir, Mrs. M. Northey, Mrs. A. Long, Mrs. D. Flint, Miss Joan Gardiner, Miss Jane Anne Middleton, Mrs. S. Vint, Mrs. A. Barnes, Miss B. Butcher, Miss R. Wickenden, Miss O. McCauley, Miss M. Hamilton, and Miss E. Miller.

The kitchen was in charge of Mrs. D. Walker with Mrs. F. Storey, Mrs. E. Ferguson, Mrs. R. Greenley, Mrs. J. Garvey, and Mrs. Halstead. Mrs. R. Davidson replenished the tea pots, Miss Betty MacDonald and Mrs. J. Miller replenished plates and Mrs. W. W. Middleton of London assisted.

In Charge of Stalls

Ladies in the Guild Room in charge of the quilts were Mrs. Charles Hamilton, Mrs. E. Crofts and Mrs. A. Northcott, of the rugs Mrs. E. Lee, and of the fancywork, Miss Murial Curtis and Mrs. W. W. Wiltshire with Mrs. L. Lipsett, Mrs. W. Beggs, Mrs. A. Ebbs, Mrs. R. Tuck, Miss Stewart and Mrs. E. McIlvena assisting.

A painting of the church displayed in this room was done by Miss Alma Curtis, former parishioner.

The children's toys were in charge of Mrs. H. Choate with Mrs. W. Merrett, Mrs. D. Menzies and Mrs. R. Sanderson helping. Mrs. F. Watson and Mrs. F. Biddle were in charge of the candy booth from which AYPA girls in old costumes of the Madrigal singers supplied their trays for circulating in the crowd.

Husbands Boss

LOS ANGELES, June 4. (AP)—Let the husband be the boss is this minister's recipe for happy marriage. Dr. Jesse Randolph Hellems told 14 young couples at a special "bride and groom day" service yesterday to heed this admonition from the Apostle Paul: "Wives, be in subjection unto your husbands as unto the Lord; for the husband is the head of the wife as Christ also is head of the church." Old-fashioned? Not at all, the pastor assured the couples, all married in his (Westwood Hills Christian) church in the last year. "One of the reasons for the enormous increase in divorces is that this great Christian teaching has been ignored."

YMCA To Hold Day Camp

Open to all boys in the city between nine and 14 years, the YMCA will operate a summer day camp from July 3 until July 23. Fraser Wade, physical director, will direct the camp activities which will include swimming, nature hikes, canoeing, crafts, overnight hikes and sing-songs.

He explained that the YMCA operating day camps have eight objectives: to develop appreciation of the out-of-doors and skills in outdoor living; growth in physical and mental health; social adjustment of a child through group experience; better establishment of socially constructive habits and attitudes; to stimulate creative experience; to understand citizenship responsibilities; to contribute the development of an understanding of God and to acquire knowledge and techniques in new skills and special interests.

This year the camp will be called Camp Pow Wow. Its headquarters will be the YMCA where the boys will meet every morning for devotions, sing-song, crafts and addresses. The outside work such as hikes and visits to factories will be made during the remainder of the day. Alex Sinclair recreation director, will be assisting in the craft work.

For the first time overnight hikes will be included in the three-week program. Various sites will be selected by members of the physical and boys' committees.

Intensify Drive To Organize Non-Union Labor

Two hundred UE delegates and observers pledged themselves at the quarterly district council meeting to intensify the campaign for the organization of non-union workers. This was the main theme of the convention held here Saturday and Sunday.

"The best way to fight government and business policies that are against the interests of the people, is to bring thousands of new members in the union wage fight," 16 contracts covering 8,450 workers, he said. Bulk of these are in the new two-year master contract between the UE and the CGE that covers 7,000 workers.

Interim wage increases of more said Ross Russell, Canadian organizing director.

Mr. Russell gave a review of recent UE gains: In the last three months 1,600 new members have come under UE contract; another 400 are organized in shops where negotiations for a first contract are under way. Total membership of UE in Canada is now 27,000, said Mr. Russell.

In the three-month period the UE has negotiated and re-signed than 10 cents an hour nave been won in 16 additional shops, stated Mr. Russell. Twelve were shops where a wage open clause was in the agreement and four were shop where mid-contract increases were obtained.

Other statistics cited by Mr. Russell: 69 per cent of the men in the UE work in shops where the lowest labor rate is $1.20 an hour; 81 per cent of the women have a minimum rate of more than 95 cents an hour, and more than half of them have a basic minimum of $1 an hour or higher.

Judgment Assailed

A resolution condemned the judgment handed down Friday by Mr. Justice Gale of the Supreme Court. The justice's finding sets a legal precedent. It quashes the Ontario Labor Relations Board certification of the Toronto Newspaper Guild as bargaining agent for circulation employees of the Globe and Mail.

The judgment upsets the decision of the OLRB, a government created body, from which there is no appeal.

The UE resolution called on the Ontario government to take court action to defend their own legislation.

C. S. Jackson, Canadian president, said the judgment "undermines the security of the worker ....and paves the way for blacklisting and intimidation by the employer."

Another resolution requested that the Dominion government press for a meeting of the big-five nations so there can be a peaceful solution to present world problems. The five powers which UE feels should get together are the United States, United Kingdom, Soviet Union, France and the Chinese People's Republic.

Mayor Max Swanston welcomed the delegates and observers who were from UE locals in Ontario and Quebec. Saturday night they turned out to a dance at the Brock Street Summer Gardens sponsored by Locals 524 and 527, Peterborough.

Archbishop Murray Dies In Montreal

MONTREAL, June 4 —(CP)— Most Rev. Gerald Murray, coadjutor archbishop of the Roman Catholic Archdiocese of Winnipeg, died in hospital Sunday night. He was 65.

Last Octoer Archbishop Murray, accompanied by Most Rev. Gerald Berry, Bishop of Peterborough, went to Rome for ceremonies connected with the definition of the dogma of the Assumption of the Virgin Mary and other ceremonies marking the beatification of Blsd. Marguerite Bourgeoys.

Msgr. Murray became ill suddenly a week ago and was brought here to St. Mary's Hospital where he died early Sunday night. He suffered a stroke Wednesday night.

SAA To "Buy House" For Plays Each Week

The Social and Athletic Association of the CGE announced that arrangements have been completed with the Peterborough Little Theatre to "buy the house" each Monday evening for the 11-week season. A general admission increase to $1.10 this year will be offered to CGE employees for 65 cents.

The first play, "Charlie's Aunt," will be presented on June 25 at PCVS auditorium and the last one on Sept. 3 will also be presented there. The other nine plays will be staged as usual at the Queen Mary auditorium.

NORWICH, Co nn., June 4 — (AP)— Police believe a woman was scared to death by a dog barking here Sunday night. Officers said Mrs. Elizabeth Butkiewicz, 59, died of a heart attack after being terrified by a dog that ran after her as she walked home from a movie.

RED ROSE COFFEE GOOD TASTE!

Outdoor Movies Disappointing

Three popular outdoor movies by lecturer William Lang were shown in the PCVS auditorium on Friday and Saturday evenings. His program was sponsored by the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association. The audience was disappointingly small at both presentations.

The movies which were shown were very attractive. The first one, "Gaspe," depicted the grand sweeping scenery of the Gulf of St. Lawrence, the neat fishing village and some splendid close-up shots of nesting birds on Bonaventure Island sactuary.

A reel showing some "posh" trout fishing at a man-made club and pool in California caused much interest but not as much as cohoe salmon fishing in British Columbia; scenes of the purse seine fleet and scoop nets of large fish were unforgettable.

By popular request Mr. Lang showed a packhorse trip to a small trout lake in the Canadian Rockies, forest fire scenes and mountain and highway views in the Yukon.

The lecturer was introduced by club president Jack O'Neill. Part proceeds both evenings, which amounted to $50, will be contributed to the mayor's fire victim fund, a member said today.

duated from St. Joseph's Academy, Lindsay, and soon after coming to the community entered on the work of nursing. She is a member of the first class that graduated from St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough. She has worked at her profession at St. Joseph's Hospital, Port Arthur, St. Joseph's Hospital, Parry Sound and several years in St. Joseph's, Peterborough.

Sister St. Joseph was a member of the executive of the community, was superintendent of St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough for six years and for the same length of time of St. Joseph's, Parry Sound. At present she occupies the position of assistant to the superintendent at Parry Sound. She is one of the few still carrying on their life-work at the end of 50 years.

Sister Philomena

Among the golden jubilarians there remain the two Mary O'Leary's, Sister Philomena and Sister St. Brigid. Sister Philomean's home was in Emily township; she came to the community qualified for the work of teaching. This work she carried on for 46 years. She was an artist at the difficult work with little beginners and was even more successful with entrance classes. For many years the entrance examination was an important milestone in each pupil's education in the province of Ontario.

Presently she is secretary and treasurer at the House of Providence and is as enthusiastic about her new work as she always was about teaching. Besides she has busied herself about the helping of new Canadians to get a speaking knowledge of English.

Sister St. Brigid

Sister St. Brigid (Mary coming to the convent she assisted her mother in caring for her younger brothers and sisters orphaned by the death of a kind, industrious father. When the family was growing, and she was no longer needed as a mother's helper, she chose to finish her life in the service of The Master. Sick sisters knew in her a kindly nurse; the over-worked and the needy a willing helper, the chapel a careful sacristan.

Many years of her life in the convent have been spent in charge of Houses. She was Superior of the House of Providence, later Superior of St. Josephs' Convent, Fort William, and of St. Andrew's Convent, St. Andrew's West. Sister St. Brigid is a sister of Rev. J. J. O'Leary, DP, of Sault Ste. Marie.

All the sisters who are today celebrating their anniversaries are still carying on useful work.

Australian Journalist To Live In Canada

OTTAWA, June 4 — (CP) — A veteran Australian journalist and retired foreign service official has chosen to make his permanent home in Ottawa.

Thomas Dunbabin, 67-year-old native of Tasmania, came back recently to represent Canada in the Sydney Daily Telegraph and other Australian publications.

He came to Canada in 1945 as the first press attache to the Australian High Commissioner's office. Last August the post was abolished and Mr. Dunbabin went home to retire.

"Not because we loved Australia less but simply because we wanted to live in Canada," he said, he has chosen to return.

$15 Will Buy Slave Girl In Southwest Arabian Area

By FRED ZUSY.

CAIRO, June 4 (AP).—Would you like to buy a slave girl? You can put your money on the line—about $15, say, for a slim, 18-year-old black miss—and take her home with you.

Men, women and children are still sold like animals at slave auctions in the southwest corner of the vast Arabian peninsula. A recent United Nations report said slavery is also widespread in Yemen and Ethiopia.

Gameel Arif, a reporter for the Arabic newspaper Al Assas in Cairo, recently visited some of the lesser-known sections in the small British-protected sultanates near Yemen.

He saw a modern slave market in operation in the sultanate of Seiyun and took a picture of it. He wrote that he joined in the bidding for a light-skinned girl. She took top price — 200 alals (about $150)—among the 40 girls auctioned off that day.

But $15 or $150, have no illusions that you're getting some fair Scheherezade for your money. Arif said the girls were a crummy looking lot much in need of washing.

Prospective buyers, before the auction starts, may inspect the goods, even to removing garments.

Some of the slave girls were bought as mates, others for household or field work. The average price for a female slave is less than $20. Slaves unsold at the end of the auction are sold for about 75 cents each.

British authorities are reported to be trying to stamp out slavery in the section. They have offered sanctuary to any slave who wishes it, but the practice continues.

Beards Of RCR Hard To Find Despite Claims

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, June 4 (CP)—The product wasn't "exactly as advertised." Not quite.

For the first time in the history of the Royal Canadian Regiment, it exaggerated a claim—that its pioneers were bearded.

It is a tradition of the British Army that—alone of soldiers—the pioneer platoons of British infantry regiments may wear beards The Canadian Army has accommodated itself to the custom, and battalions, including the RCRs, sported the growth during the Second World War.

From Pusan all the way up to the front the word had gone before: "The 2nd Battalion Royal Canadian Regiment's pioneers wear beards."

In record time the regiment reached the front, then took 10 days to unpack its gear, check and clean it, and to learn about fighting in Korea in a compact, hard-hitting exercise before the move.

But where were the beards?

The pioneer officer, Lieut. Gord Kimmerley, of Montreal, had a "five o'clock shadow" barely 24 hours old.

His predecessor had just shaved his off on promotion to become capt. Alex Rossiter.

Hard To Prove

Kimmerley, indicating a group of unshaven individuals going about their work, boasted that 24 of his 30 men had "beards."

On inspection the growths proved no longer a uniform three-eighths to one-half inch.

Asked, "But where are the beards? — you know, the real ones?" Kimberley turned for help to pioneer Sgt. W. J. Mayhew, of Timmins, Ont.

Mayhew relieved the sting. "We actually began only when we were on the boat," he explained. "Wanted to get away from civilization first."

As though to certify that he really could "grow," he produced his army identification card. One look at the monumental, thick black handle-bar moustache the photograph revealed was proof enough that the dubious-looking stubbel still had possibilities.

Apart from appearance, the sergeant said he favored beards because "it saves time in the morning. You just have to wash your face."

But it was a let-down. And was there threat or reassurance in Mayhew's parting shot?

"Come up in the line and see us in about six weeks. We'll show you."

Drug Peddling Business Target of Crime Inquiry

WASHINGTON, June 4 (AP)—The multi-million dollar narcotics peddling business in the United States will soon be the target of the Senate Crime Committee.

Th committee is worried "by an outbreak of youthful addiction" in many large cities. This also has stirred officials in New York, Chicago, Pittsburgh and Detroit.

The outbreak among juveniles is reflected in records of the US Public Health Service hospital at Lexington, Ky., where addicts are treated. Patients under 21 jumped from three to 18 per cent during the last four years.

The Treasury Department's that between 50,000 and 60,000 US addicts spend an average of Bureau of Narcotics estimates $10 a day on narcotics.

The big racket drug is heroin, used by nine out of 10 US addicts. The raw material of heroin is the dried juice of the opium poppy.

Fabulous Prices

The attraction for narcotic peddling in the US is the fabulous prices addicts are willing to pay. A pound of heroin costing $300 in Turkey may bring $75,000 to $100,000 on the American addict market.

Smugglers get their supplies mainly from Iran, Turkey, India, Mexico, Chile, Italy and Peru.

Because of sharp work by customs inspectors, smugglers recently have been forced to bring narcotics in a little at a time. Most of the smuggling is done by seamen who carry the "stuff" strapped to their bodies or hidden in their clothing.

Doctors say there are two steps in becoming a full-fledged addict.

The first stage lasts a short time, perhaps six to ten weeks. The addict feels pleasure or is relieved from anxieties.

The second comes when the "pleasant" feeling wanes and the use of narcotics is necessary to hold off a dull, nauseous illness.

These doctors say the stable, normal person rarely becomes an addict.

Barrymore Jr. Finds Going Rough In Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 4 (AP)—John Barrymore, Jr., 19 years old today, wonders if it wouldn't be easier merely to be Joe Doakes, Jr.

The young actor has found the going isn't easy.

"Sure, it's easy for me to get into a studio," he admitted. "The name 'Barrymore' is a key that unlocks any door. But once you're inside, you really have to prove yourself.

"There are thousands of Joe Doakes in Hollywood eager for the opportunity to get into the studios. They would envy the opportunity that I have. My trouble is that I'm really a Joe Doakes with a well-known name."

John now is making his fourth picture, "The Long Night." Said he: "If I'm not any better than I was in the first three, I ought to quit and find myself a trade."

Expecing Too Much

Of course, it's possible that John is expecting too much. He hinted that seems to be the trouble with others who see him: They compare him with others in his illustrious family.

"It wouldn't be so bad if only my aunt and uncle had been actors," he said. "But so were my father, my mother, my grandfather, my grandmother and so on back for 10 generations." He referred to such famous relatives as John, Lionel and Ethel Barrymore, Doloroes Costello (his mother), Maurice Costello, John Drew, etc.

If John needs any dramatic lessons, he ought to be getting them soon. He now is living in the Pacific Palisades home of his Aunt Ethel. And they are going to do a picture together, a western in which she'll play a cattle queen.

Village Revives Shin-Kicking

CHIPPING CAMPDEN, England —(CP)— The ancient and not-so-honorable pastime of shin-kicking has been revived in this historic Gloucestershire village after a lapse of 100 years.

This rugged form of diversion, which even in olden days was branded as "cruel," was reintroduced by farmer Ben Hopkins, 34, and Joe Chamberlain, 28-year-old chemist's dispenser, as part of the local Festival of Britain celebration.

When shin-kicking contests were at the height of popularity from 1605 to 1851, crowds of more than 25,000 howling fans were attracted to the blood-letting battles. The turnout for the Hopkins - Chamberlain brawl, however, was on a more modest scale.

The curious Cotswold villagers who formed a ring around the gladiators on Dover's Hill, dispersed quickly to the nearest pubs when Chamberlain planted his steel-tipped boot on his opponent's ankle after 10 minutes of kicking and groaning.

The bout ended amicably enough with the two men reclining on the ground nursing their bruises and sharing a gallon of cider—the loser's award.

To the winner went a championship belt which must be defended next year.

July Registration For Those Over 70 To Get $40 Pension

OTTAWA, June 5. (CP)—Canadians of 70 and over, regardless of means, will get old-age pensions of $40 a month beginning Jan. 1 next. To be make sure that they do, Parliament will meet again in the fall to pass the necessary laws and to deal with any other legislation then on tap. This was announced to the Commons Monday by Prime Minister St. Laurent as he detailed the government's plans to put the contributory $350,000,000 pensions program into effect.

The program will add another 400,000 elderly Canadians to the 350,000 already receiving pensions on a means-test basis. To determine who should be added to the pensions list, the Government will start a registration as soon as possible after July 1.

For those of 65 to 69, who need state aid, the government will introduce at this session legislation to give them $40 a month pensions with the cost being paid 50-50 by the federal government and the provinces. These pensions also will begin Jan. 1 in provinces which reach a cost-sharing agreement with the federal government.

PC Motion Lost

Mr. St. Laurent's announcement highlighted a sitting given over mainly to repetitious debate on bills to implement budgetary tax and tariff changes. The Chamber voted 73 to 40 against a Progressive Conservative motion to block the 25-per-cent boost in the general sales tax.

Mr. St. Laurent, announcing the fall session, indicated the government expects the current session to rise towards the end of this month. It would be adjourned to the beginning of October, then prorogued and a new session launched immediately.

In addition to the pensions legislation, the fall session also will deal with bills to implement the recommendations of the royal commissions on transportation and arts, letters and sciences, plus any bills left over from this session.

Go To Committees

Some of the fall legislation will be turned over to parliamentary committees for detailed study.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, urged the government to bring the universal pensions legislation into the House at this session and have it made law now. He felt there was no need to hold it up until the fall.

M J Coldwell, CCF leader, and Solon Low, Social Credit leader, agreed with Mr. St. Laurent's proposal to bring it up for fall consideration.

King Cancelling Engagements For Four Weeks

LONDON, June 5 — (CP). — The King, suffering from a lung inflammation, has cancelled all public engagements for at least four weeks, it was announced on Monday night. He will take a complete rest.

The 55-year-old monarch has been ill since May 25 when his doctors said he had influenza. They pronounced him recovered from this last week, but a catarrhal inflamation persisted.

His physicians earlier Monday said he would be unable to welcome King Haakon of Norway on his arrival today. They said the King reluctantly agreed to the rest.

Princess Elizabeth will read the King's speech at an official dinner for King Haakon today, and the Duke of Gloucester, will meet the Norwegian monarch.

It is understood the King may leave London to recuperate later in the month.

The official statement said: "The catarrhal inflamation in His Majesty's lung has not entirely disappeared, though His Majesty's general condition has improved.

"A period of complete rest will be essential to His Majesty's recovery, and on the advice of his doctors he has reluctantly decided to cancel all his public engagements for at least four weeks."

The King first complained of influenza May 24 after a heavy day of public engagements. The next morning, 30 minutes before he was to present new colors to the 3rd Battalion of Guards at Buckingham Palace, the first announcement was made of his illness.

He has been able to carry out his daily work of dealing with state papers. He was well enough last week to receive official visitors and hold a privy council.

The doctors signing the bulletin tonight were Sir Daniel Davies, Sir Horace Evans and Sir John Weir—all three physicians to the King—and Dr. Geoffrey Marshall, a chest specialist.

Rural Mail Setup Changed

OTTAWA, June 5 (CP).—The Post Office Department is following a policy of using rural route carriers in its outlying post offices instead of post offices, Deputy Postmaster-General W. J. Turnbull said today.

During the last five years, mail for an additional 65,000 families in Canada has been taken on by rural carriers, Mr. Turnbull said in an interview. This has reduced the number of post offices serving these groups, but on the whole, the number of post offices in Canada has increased.

Total number of offices now is about 12,400, or 185 more than five years ago, he said.

In addition to using rural route carriers more, the department, said Mr. Turnbull, always has observed the policy of eliminating the services of small post offices which indicate by their revenue over a period of a year earn no more than $15 or $25.

Gunman Cripples Holdup Victim

DETROIT, June 5 (CP) — Michigan police today are conducting a state-wide search for a hitch-hiking gunman who brutally crippled a young Detroit man after a holdup.

Lawton Smith, Jr., is in hospital in serious condition with two bullet wounds in his right leg.

Police believe the thug is the same man who shot and killed a gasoline station operator during a holdup last week.

Smith told police he picked up a hitch-hiker about midnight Sunday. He gave the rider a lift for some distance and the hitch-hiker then drew a gun and ordered him on.

The gunman finally ordered Smith out of the car and told him to lie down on his back with his hands behind his head. The gunman fired twice into Smith's leg. Then he casually inspected the wounds and said: "I don't want you to get the cops too fast." for 20 minutes until a passing motorist discovered him.

Skunk Crashes Party

CARGILL, Ont., June 5. — (CP)—A skunk crashed a house party on Monday. It turned out to be a gentleman. The skunk waltzed in to the Brant township house just as the gals and guys were getting hep to the music. The music stopped. Dancers pressed against the walls. The skunk moved daintily around the room and walked out — without misbehaving.

Youth 23 Ends Year Of Unconsciousness

Fiancee Sees Him Every Day, Still Hopes To Be Married Some Day

VERMILION, Alta., June 5 — (CP)—Marvin Osbaldeston, 23, ends a year of unconsciousness Saturday.

He has not been conscious since he was injured in an automobile acident. Doctors hold no hope that he will ever get better.

Officials at the hospital in this farming-district town, about 110 air miles east of Edmonton, said there has been little change in his condition since he was brought here last summer.

Osbaldeston and his fiancee, Agnes Harvey, 21, were injured June 10, 1950, when their car collided with a heavy transport truck near Macleod in southwestern Alberta.

The girl, then living in Lethbridge, recovered and later obtained a transfer to this small town, where she is a telephone operator.

Most of Osbaldeston's injuries were about the head. All surface abrasions healed. Doctors reported his subconscious reactions appear normal. He yawns, stretches his arms and legs and perspires when warm.

Opens Eyes Sometimes

"At times his eyes open slightly," said his mother, Mrs. Albert Osbaldeston who lives on a farm near Vermilion. "He moves his feet when we tickle his soles. We're not sure if he recognizes us.

"Sometimes he'll turn his head and open his eyes a bit when we speak to him. But he has never spoken."

Young Osbaldeston, who drove a truck out of Lethbridge, Alta., for Canadian Freightways Limited and did some office work after leaving his farm home, still looks healthy.

His father estimates that Marvin, a six-footer, was about 148 pounds when the accident occurred and now is about 160. The extra weight helps prevent bed sores.

Hasn't Changed Plans

Miss Harvey hasn't changed her plans about marrying Marvin.

"Agnes goes to see him every day," said the youth's mother. "She lives with us. She got transferred to work here so she could be close to him."

Marvin has three brothers and four sisters. Three of the sisters are younger than he is.

After the accident, Marvin was taken to a hospital in MacLeod. Later he was transferred to the University Hospital in Edmonton. Specialists performed an intricate operation. A blood-clot condition expected by doctors was not found and no immediate results were noted.

When it was decided that no further special treatment might change his condition, Marvin was moved to the Vermilion Hospital so his paents and fiancee could visit him.

Will Spend Billions On Resources

Seen More Important Than Defence Contracts, Howe Says

QUEBEC, June 5. (CP) — Production Minister Howe disclosed today that his rearmament policy for Canada has a dual aim which will lead to the outpouring of billions of dollars by both the government and private enterprise during the next few years.

On the one hand, the government will directly spend about $1,000,000,000 a year for the next three years in the building up of Canada's defence production machine through orders for guns, ships and aircraft.

On the other, private industry, with government priority and financial aid, will be spending another $1,500,000,000 in squeezing out of the ground more scarce strategic materials to bring the democracies' defence machines to full potential.

This development of Canada's basic and industrial resources, to meet the possibility of a generation of international danger, was perhaps even more important than actual placement of defence contracts, Mr. Howe said in a speech prepared for delivery before the Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

Must Speed Development

"Only by developing our strategic resources with all speed will Canada be able to bring its full potential to bear in the interests of our defence and that of other democratic countries," he said.

"It is the responsibility of the government to encourage and stimulate this growth by every means in its power."

To get these "major" developments under way, the government has allocated scarce materials to approved expansion projects for aluminum, copper, nickel and base metal smelters.

Between now and 1954, more than $300,000,000 will be spent by private industry on new base metal smelters and refineries. Half this amount will be spent in British Columbia, in connection with the development of a huge aluminum project there.

"Some $100,000,000," said Mr. Howe, "will be spent in Quebec, mostly for power and plant expansion programs, again largely associated with aluminum production.

WILL SPEND

De Gasperi Gets Slim Margin In Sicily Voting

PALERMO, Sicily, June 5—(AP)—Premier Alcide de Gasperi's Christian Democrat party scored a slim 21,376-vote margin of 2,133,878 votes cast—over Communist-led forces in Sunday's bitterly fought regional assembly elections, it was announced today.

Complete but unofficial returns from the interior ministry's election bureau gave the premier's party 666,128 votes to 644,752 for the Communist-led Peoples Bloc.

The seriousness of the Christian Democrats' brush with defeat was aggravated by the unexpectedly heavy vote polled by the Neo-Fascist Italian Social Movement (MSI). The MSI received 273,504 votes, or 12.8 per cent of the total. The premier's party percentage was 31.2, while that of the Communists was 30.2, the ministry reported.

Ticklish Problem

In the 90-member regional assembly, the ministry said, the Christian Democrats and Communists each will get 30 seats. The MSI will hold 11.

The strong MSI showing—No. 3 party—made formation of a majority coalition in the assembly a ticklish problem. The MSI is equally inimical to the Communists and to the Christian Democrats, de Gasperi's government having banned the 1951 MSI national convention because of its Fascist tendencies.

The Sicilian results underscored the Communists' ballot box strength first demonstrated in provincial elections in north Italy a week ago.

Then the Communists were almost stripped of their control of cities and towns, but showed a gain in voting strength, as compared with the April 18, 1948, parliamentary elections, while the Christian Democrats registered a loss.

Angry Mother Paddles High School Principal

CLEVELAND, June 5 — (AP) —Mrs. Bernice Smey, 40, goes to court today on a charge of grabbing a wooden paddle and thrashing James B. Fenwick, 55, high school principal, in his own office.

Mrs. Smey is accused of whacking Fenwick with his own paddle because he kicked and paddled her son, Danny, 14. Fenwick says he was disciplining Danny after he caught him pushing youngsters.

Fenwick's eyes were blackened, his nose split and his lips cut.

Mrs. Smey was bruised. She said Fenwick grabbed her throat.

Shovelling Garbage Dangerous Business

TORONTO, June 5 (CP)—Four garbage men shovelled refuse into an incinerator Monday.

Rapid-fire explosions rocked the burner.

When the smoke cleared, two men lay on the floor, felled by bullets. They were not seriously injured.

The other two fled.

The garbage contained rifle cartridges.

Asks UK Speed Negotiators To Tehran For Conference

TEHRAN, Iran, June 5. (Reuters)—American ambassador Henry Grady, describing himself as an "unofficial mediator" in Britain's oil dispute with Iran, today urged the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company to speed up the arrival of its negotiators in Tehran. (The company, under threat of immediate nationalization by the Iranian government, said Sunday it would send representatives from London as soon as possible for "full and frank discussions." The representatives are expected to be named in London today.)

Grady told a press conference it would be helpful if the company sent word at once when its team was expected to arrive.

He said he was plasead with Premier Mohammed Mossadegh's attitude, and described the situation "as good as could be expected" under the present circumstances.

Anglo-Iranian has suspended the royalties it pays Iran for the oil concession. Grady, in a reference to this, said:

"The British delegation should endeavour to find a basis for making available funds at this time for the Iranian government.

Sweeten Discussions

"If this is possible it will have a most wholesome effect not only because it will ease the burden of the government but because it will also 'sweeten' the discussions."

Grady's statement was made as Mossadegh came under fresh pressure to take over Anglo-Iranian's giant holdings without delay.

Deputy Premier Hussein Fatemi, who has taken the line that Monday was the deadline for the arrival of the Anglo-Iranian mission said today the three-man board of management appointed to take over the company's holdings will leave Wednesday for the oil fields as planned.

However, some circles said they thought the board's departure might be delayed. They said Mossadegh might still decide to wait for the arrival of the delegation from London.

Agents Hunting Racketeer Loot

DETROIT, June 5. (CP)—Internal revenue agents moved into Detroit to try to find some $10,000,000 which they believe Detroit racketeers have hidden.

It is part of a nation-wide drive aimed to pry some $260,000,000 from racketeers of all types.

Since the drive began 3½ years ago 1,800 persons have paid $129,000,000 in unreported income taxes and fines.

Use Mountain Tunnel To Protect Records

SEATTLE, June 5—(AP)—Two Alaskan business men have acquired an abandoned railroad tunnel in Washington's Cascade Mountains and plan to put its 2.65 miles to use storing records against an atomic attack.

Ralph Lomen, who with his brother, Carl, operates the Lomen Commercial Company at Nome, Alaska, said they plain to make the tunnel into a redoubt "second in the world possibly only to Gibraltar."

The tunnel formerly was used by the Great Northern Railroad. Bored through the Cascades at Stevens Pass, it is capped with 1,400 to 3,000 feet of grey granite.

Ralph says parts of the tunnel will be occupied about the first of next year.

Slight Improvement In Petain Condition

(Reuters). — Former Marshal Philippe Petain, critically ill on this island fortress, was better today after spending a quiet night, his doctors reported.

The bulletin said his heart was still weak and pulse unsteady but coughing had eased.

Mrs. Petain is with her 95-year-old husband in the Pierre Levee Fortress, where he is serving a life sentence for wartime collaboration.

Expect Acheson Resign In Fall

WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP) —An administration senator said today he expects State Secretary Dean Acheson, currently under Republicans' fire in the MacArthur inquiry, to remain in the Truman cabinet until sometime this fall.

The Democratic senator, who didn't want to be quoted by name, supports the administration's foreign policies in the clash over President Truman's dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur as Pacific commander.

But he said he and some other Democrats who also support Truman's foreign policies believe Acheson is a political liability and must be replaced before the next presidential election.

Acheson was recalled by the senate armed services and foreign relations committees today to elaborate further on his theme that the administration policy of fighting a limited war in Korea will avoid the risks of all-out war he said are inherent in MacArthur's proposals.

Find $2,000 Cigarette Loot 3 Hamilton Men Being Held

HAMILTON, June 5. (CP) — Hamilton detectives on Tuesday seized an estimated $2,000 in cigarettes and arrested a man on charges of receiving. It followed the Saturday night arrest of two other Hamilton men on charges of stealing and receiving a $2,500 tobacco consignment on May 16.

In custody are: Douglas Ducheno, 24, charged with theft and Charles Duboard, 38, and Ralph Rayner, 25, both charged with receiving.

The three were remanded today by Magistrate Beamer W. Hopkins until Friday.

A shipment of tobacco bound from Hamilton to Owen Sound was reported missing May 16 at the Lake Huron city. Police said that Ducheno was the driver of the transport that carried the valuable cargo.

Owen Sound police had been called to investigate a break-in at the warehouse where Ducheno parked his trailer. They found the tarpaulin covering the load was thrown back and no sign of the $2,500 in cigarettes and tobacco.

While police investigated the theft, Ducheno returned to Hamilton driving another trailer.

Advance Nearly Two Miles Toward Vital City; Eastern Approach Blocked

6,000 Chinese Fight Allies To Standstill In Drive From Hwachon, Other Sectors Repulse Nine Counter Attacks

TOKYO, June 5. (AP)—Allied troops rolled today within artillery range of Chorwon, key to the Red "iron triangle" in Korea. But 6,000 Chinese blocked the advance of other United Nations troops trying to reach the triangle from the east. Most of the UN west and central front surged closer to the Communist assembly area bounded by Chorwon, Kumhwa and Pyonggang. The threatening Allied advance was made against diminishing Red resistance along the rain-swept Yonchon-Chorwon highway in the west. UN infantrymen slogged nearly two miles through the mud, narrowing the 13-mile gap between Allied-held Yonchon and the prize Communist city.

Front-line dispatches reported allies on this route now are in position to turn their long-range artillery on Chorwon.

Held At Standstill

Thirty-five miles to the east, the front boiled with action. Three thousand Reds fought through the day, holding the allied forces at a standstill in their drive northwest from Hwachon toward Kumhwa. Another 3,000 Chinese held allied forces to a 500-yard gain north of Hwachon.

East of Hwachon reservoir stubborn Chinese fought bitterly to stem allied advances north of Yanggu and northeast of Inje.

Communists had hurled nine counter-attacks at the allied advance Monday. Infantrymen fought them off and generally pushed about a mile ahead. Tuesday's advances averaged about the same.

The fifth air force sent 430 planes out to strike through clouds and rain at the Communists during daylight Tuesday.

Two Fighters Crashed

Two fighters crashed and burned killing the pilots.

Two Communist planes, possibly jets, bombed Allied lines near Yanggu on the east-central front Monday night. If they were Red jets, it was their deepest penetration of Korea.

China's Red radio for the third straight day appealed to workers for funds to buy planes, armor and other heavy fighting equipment sorely needed by the Chinese in Korea.

Chinese defending the "iron triangle" were supported by moderate amounts of artillery. But generally they depended on grenades, small arms and mortars —and their stubborness.

ADVANCE NEARLY

Allied Losses Climb Sharply In Red Offensive

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., June 5 (AP).—United Nations forces fighting alongside United States and South Korean troops in Korea suffered a sharp spurt in casualties during the last Chinese Communist offensive.

Latest information received by the British delegation to the UN sets total British dead at more than 700 and the wounded and missing at more than 1,100.

These unofficial figures will be revised upward when later information provides the basis for new official figures, British sources said today. A previous British report had listed 52 dead and 756 wounded and missing. Heavy losses in the Gloucester Regiment accounted for more of the increase.

Likely Go Up

French and Turkish casualties are among others expected to rise, as a result of the recent fighting for the present only old figures are available. Following are casualty figures available here, based on April and May reports.

	Dead	Wounded	Missing
Turkey	408	898	307
France	89	314	2
Australia	70	302	35
Canada	43	82	—
Greece	42	76	1
Thailand	12	123	—
Netherlands	36	94	5
Belgium-Lux	8	47	7

Twelve Canadians also were injured in battle accidents.

South Africa's combat air force has reported one casualty. New Zealand and the Philippines said they had no recent casualty figures. The Philippines delegation expects the islander force will have a heavy toll when the effects of the recent offensive are listed.

United States battle casualty totals announced May 25 were 67,427, including 10,127 killed, 45,889 wounded and 11,411 missing. Of the latter figure, at least 102 are known now to be dead.

Solves Delicate Issue Curtsies To Princess

LONDON, June 5 — (CP). — Margaret Truman Monday night gracefully solved a problem which had aroused speculation on both sides of the tlantic.

The problem: Should the daughter of the President of the United States curtsy to the daughters of Britain's Royal Family?

Her solution: A deep, graceful curtsy as Princess Elizabeth and Princess Margaret appeared at the head of the stairs at a US Embassy party.

Miss Truman, meeting the Princesses for the first time, accepted Royal protocol at the home of Walter Gifford, US Ambassador. Onlookers said the King's daughters viewed her salute with an approving eye.

UK To Get 7 Million In Marshall Aid Grant

LONDON, June 5 (Reuters) — Britain will get a Marshall Aid grant of $7,700,000 for the economic development of her dependent overseas territories, it was announced today.

The aid will come from the Economic Co-operation Administration's special reserve fund for overseas development.

It will supplement a much larger investment program than Britain is carrying out this year in Africa, Southeast Asia and the western hemisphere to strengthen colonial economies and speed production and transport of scarce raw materials.

De Bernonville Makes New Bid Stay In Canada

MONTREAL, June 5 (CP). — More is at stake today in Superior Court than the question of whether Count Jacques de Bernonville should be deported to France for entering Canada illegally in 1947.

Underlying hearings before Mr. Justice Elphege Marier is the question of political asylum — should Canada send back to France a man under sentence of death there, even though France has promised him a new trial?

In contesting a deportation order, de Bernonville claims return to France means certain death.

De Bernonville twice has been ordered to leave the country. But the 52-year-old hero of the First World War has used every legal means available to prolong his stay here.

After living here almost a year under an assumed name, he gave himself up to immigration authorities in 1948 along with his wife and two daughters. He successfully fought a deportation order when Mr. Justice Louis Cousineau decided the immigration board hearing his case was improperly set up.

Set Up New Board

In December 1949, the federal government set up another immigration board to hear his claim for political asylum. The Count applied for a writ of habeas corpus to void its deportation order. His claim that three government officials must be summoned to testify was upheld. Three witnesses are wanted by de Bernonville to give evidence on the facts of the deportation order against him. All these legal complications have somewhat obscured the facts of de Bernonville's case. He claims his conviction in France was by a Communist court prone to post-war hysteria and he entered Canada seeking political asylum. His work as propaganda director for Marshal Henri Petain and as director of operations against the French underground was in the interests of the French people and not collaboration, he claims.

De Bernonville's case is not the first of its kind. Dr. Michel Seigneur and his family, also sentenced to death for collaboration with the Germans, was granted permanent residence in Canada by an order-in-council in 1949. The circumstances were almost identical to those in de Bernonville's case.

Dies On Gallows For London Murder

LONDON, Ont., June 5—(CP)—An abortive gas station holdup last November that resulted in murder sent Walter George Rowe to his death on the gallows early today.

The trap was sprung under the 29-year-old Detroiter at 1:09 a.m. EDT and a doctor reported his heart stilled 20 minutes later. It was the first hanging here since 1932.

Rowe was convicted of firing a shot in a London service station Nov. 20 that went through a door and fatally wounded Clare Galbraith, 20-year-old public utilities employee who had been working on his car.

Crown Counsel W. B. Common said the attempted robbery that led to the slaying was the result of Rowe's attempt to get money for a divorce from his young wife, now living in Hamilton with their two young children.

2 Veteran Policemen Suicide Over Inquiry

NEW YORK, June 5. (CP)—Two veteran policemen, involved in investigations of police corruption, committed suicide Monday. One plunged from a Brooklyn courthouse window. The other fired a bullet into his brain at his Philadelphia home.

Moments before the start of his trial on charges of accepting graft from bigtime bookie Harry Gross, retired policeman Charles V. Panarella, 44, leaped from the sixth floor of the Brooklyn courts' building.

Panarella and 20 other policemen are charged in bribes to protect the $20,000,000-a-year gambling ring of Gross. In the Philadelphia suicide, Inspector Warren W. Hobson, 59, a veteran of 34 years on the force, was found dead with a bullet hole in the right temple. He testified in April before a grand jury investigating police graft.

Injured British Seaman Brings Cruiser Back Early

VICTORIA, BC, June 5. (CP)—A 17-year-old injured British seaman brought the Canadian cruiser Ontario home Monday night three days ahead of schedule from her 15,000-mile South Pacific cruise. The Ontario left here Feb. 26. Seaman Gordon Lee of Kent, England, was painting the stack of the British tanker Atholchief on Thursday when the chair gave way and he fell 25 feet to the deck.

An emergency signal went out and the homeward-bound Ontario answered the call 1,400 miles southwest of here. The Atholchief was enroute from San Francisco to Singapore.

A motor cutter transported Lee to the cruiser, where the Ontario's senior medical officer, Surgeon-Cmdr. Henry Ruttan of Victoria, took charge. An X-ray showed 17 fractures of Lee's spine and ribs.

Never Unconscious

Lee never lost consciousness despite almost unbearable pain. The Ontario cut three days off her running time in the last 1,400 miles to Victoria.

Nearly 1,200 wives, children and other relatives were on hand to welcome the warship home. On reaching the approaches to Esquimault harbor, Ontario fired a 13-gun salute to the admiral's flag. It was answered with an 11-gun salute to Commodore Hugh Pullen, Ontario's commanding officer.

The commodore said the training cruise was "first class."

The ship's company had nothing but praise for the hospitality extended them in "down under" ports. Two sailors were married in Australia. Their wives are expected to reach Canada this fall..

Officials Resign Aid King Paul

ATHENS, June 5 (CP).—All of King Paul's court functionaries have resigned in connection with the controversy over Field Marshal Alexander Papagos, it was announced today.

The announcement said 30 court officials had submitted their resignations in order to help the King in his "great and patriotic mission." The King took over the post of chief of the armed forces from which Papagos, Greece's No. 1 military hero, resigned last Wednesday.

The announcement said the mass resignation was made because "reports had circulated" saying Papagos had stepped down not because of bad health, as he said at the time, but because of "the inimical attitude of the court." The resignations apparently would give the King a free hand in the Papagos case.

A highly informed source said Papagos' main difference with the palace concerned Aristides (Boulis) Metaxas, until recently head of the King's political force.

It was announced yesterday that six army officers have been charged with an "act of insubordination" for allegedly posting troops around Parliament House and trying to seize Athens radio station.

Prices Drop Sharply On Toronto Exchange

TORONTO, June 5 (CP) — Prices declined sharply as the session progressed on the stock market today. Losses ranged up to more than $2.

Industrials were headed lower by papers and steels which showed a solid list of minus signs. Utilities, constructions, foods, textiles, refining oils and manufacturing companies were down. Banks, agricultures and retail stores were mixed.

Consolidated Smelters stood out in base metals with a $3 drop. Noranda was down $1 and Waite Amulet, United Keno Hill, Steep Rock, Quemont, Golden Manitou, International Nickel dipped fractions.

Western oil losses ranged up to the ⅝ decline of Calgary and Edmonton. Mid-continent was the most active issue in the market as it bucked the trend for a four-cent increase at 15 cents.

Golds attracted little interest and weakened slowly. Senior producers slipped fractions and a handful of secondary golds dropped.

Pioneer Recalls Regina As Dusty Railroad Colony

REGINA — (CP) — Robert Sinton, one of the builders of Saskatchewan, has celebrated his 97th birthday.

Lt.-Gov. J. M. Uhrich, Mayor Garnet Menzies of Regina and many other fellow citizens called to pay their respects to the pioneer who came to Regina in 1882 and saw the community grow from a dusty railway construction camp to a city of 70,000.

At 97, Mr. Sinton rises every morning at 6:15 and keeps busy until 10 p.m.

"Come around the back and see my garden," he urged his visitors. "It's all in now. I dug it myself."

In addition to gardening, he walks six miles each day—two miles after each meal.

His only physical disability is partial deafness. He still reads without glasses.

Never a Pain

"He never has an ache or pain," says Lillias Bowie, his housekeeper. "He looks after the furnace all winter and removes the storm windows himself. Why, he even drove his own car until a year ago."

Mr. Sinton complains: "They won't give me a driver's licence now. Said I was too old. Maybe they were right."

Mr. Sinton came west in 1878, farming for four years near Brandon, Man., which was then the frontier of setlement.

He moved west to Regina, homesteaded south of the town and combined the occupations of farmer and contractor. Later he made a name for himself as a breeder of purebred cattle.

Millbrook Cadet Corps Holds Church Parade

MILLBROOK, June 5 (ENS)—The annual cadet church parade was held on Sunday morning to St. Andrew's United Church when the cadets were addressed by the Rev. T. Garnett Husser.

Cadet Captains Robert Thompson and Margaret Aiken were in command under the direction of H. V. Kent, cadet instructor. The band was led by Don Kent.

Mr. Husser in addressing the cadets chose the subject "Growing Up" and took his text from Corinthians, "When I Became a Man I put away childish things". He said the baby is the centre of attraction of the home. The baby and his needs take priority, and no one begrudges him this. It was a real tragedy however when this desire for attention and for the centre of the stage carried over into adulthood. He said no one expected gratitude, appreciation, in thanks from the baby for ministering to his needs, but it is tragic when a child grows to adulthood without such feelings.

Fraser Carr sang "The Beautiful Land on High" and the choir sang "Lord, I Believe."

SEAWAY TOUR — U.S. congressmen view the Welland Canal during a three-day tour of links in the proposed St. Lawrence Seaway, accompanied by power officials and army engineers, they watch a freighter from a 125-foot elevated bridge. The Welland Canal, deep enough to handle 80 per cent of the world's shipping, would be a vital link in the seaway.

Ontario Work

"In Ontario, copper mining, smelting, and fabrication are the most important. In Manitoba, the construction of a rail line will open up the Lynn Lake mining area, while a smelter in Edmonton will process nickel-copper ores from that area."

Speedy development of titanium and iron ore deposits in Northern Quebec, Labrador and Ontario was urgently needed. High-grade iron ore deposits in the United States were in the process of "imminent exhaustion."

"In the case of titanium, we have, in addition, the possibilities of a completely new industry in which Canada may well become the foremost producer of the refined metal and its compounds.

But this was only scratching the surface of the tremendous development in Canada. His department, said Mr. Howe, had given priority ratings for a $150,000,000 expansion in Canada's heavy chemical industry.

Hopes in the Detroit walkout took a brighter turn last night when it was agreed to submit the entire contract to arbitration. This was along the line of a plan submitted several days ago by the AFL Operators' Union.

New Castle, Sharon and Farrell, Pa.,—steel towns which adjoin each other— were the latest cities to feel the effect of a transportation tie-up. Ninety bus drivers walked out over wages.

Special Curb Requested For Gov't Help

LONDON — (CP) — Horace Hambling, who launched a drive last year for a ban on stage and radio jokes about civil servants, now wants all government employees to wear a uniform.

In submitting his proposal to the Civil Service Clerical Association, Hambling declared civil servants had just as good a claim to distinctive dress as soldiers, sailors and airmen.

He suggested a severely-cut navy blue uniform, similar to a bank messenger's, but with collar and tie as well as shoulder pips to denote rank. Women employees would wear a tunic and skirt with matching beret.

"A plain uniform on the military style would be best," Hambling said. "After all, with the complaints and criticism we get from the public we are just as much heroes as the armed forces. But we don't want a ruritanian outfit of red and gold with tassels on it."

Hambling hopes to have greater success with his latest proposal. Last year the clerical association refused to have anything to do with the campaign to make the civil service joke-proof.

Holding Out For 2 Aspects Of Seaway Plan

CORNWALL, June 5—(CP)—The chairman of a United States congressional committee says he is holding out for development of both the power and navigation aspects of the St. Lawrence Seaway, rather than of the power alone.

"We are going to get the waterway or there'll be no water power, as far as I'm concerned," Charles A. Buckley (Dem.-N.Y.) Monday night told a dinner given members of the House of Representatives public works committee visiting seaway sites.

The Ontario and New York state governments have urged that the power development be undertaken if a go-ahead could not be obtained on the entire plan. The combined power and waterway project has been stalled for 10 years by lack of action by the US Congress.

But another dinner speaker, Maj.-Gen. Lewis Pick, chief of the US Army's corps of engineers, said the waterway alone should be undertaken. Said the general, accompanying the committee as a technical adviser:

"We can get along without this power. We can make power elsewhere, but we need the (Labrador) iron ore and we must not allow selfish interests or motives to destroy this project."

Neded For Both

Transport Minister Chevrier said the project is needed for both power and navigation. He said Canadian government departments estimate that there would be a $45,000,000-a-year saving in transportation costs from the 2,000-mile waterway which would admit ovean-going ships to the heart of the continent.

US Ambassador Stanley Woodward said that, since his arrival in Canada a year ago, he has been impressed with the proposed development of the seaway as of prime importance to the US. He said he did not know how the commitete would vote, but he hoped its inspection of river areas would be beneficial.

Early yesterday committee members cruised over part of the proposed seaway route on a Canadian government ship. They inspected sites for prospective power installations.

Two Juveniles Arrested, See End To Breakins

COBOURG, June 5—(ENS)—Two boys, 13 and 15, have been returned to the training school here by provincial police and an investigation has begun into breakins at 21 cottages and private homes from Cobourg to Brighton and north to Roseneath and Little Lake.

Two other boys from the same school who escaped Tuesday of last week with the first two, were picked up west of Toronto.

Police say that they believe the first pair of lads were the ones who set fire to two cottages east of Cobourg, burning them to the ground. A trail of breaking and entering incidents led through Brighton and Little Lake and on to Roseneath. Apparently the boys were looking for clothing and food as most of the cottages were ransacked with that apparent objective.

Police hunted them without success during the latter part of last week with new break-ins being reported daily. Finally on Sunday some farmers in the Roseneath area caught two boys and kept them until Provincial Constables Frank Clough and Bill Baluk of Cobourg picked them up and brought them to Cobourg.

As they are juveniles and there is no detention home in Northumberland and Durham counties, the boys were returned to the school. Meanwhile police are completing their investigation and charges may be laid.

Mayor Proclaims Clean-up Week

CAMPBELLFORD, June 5 — (ENS)—The week of June 11-16 has been proclaimed paint-up clan-up week in Campbellford. Mayor J. E. Ayrhart issued the proclamation Monday night during one of his flying visits to the town to preside at the monthly council meeting. While most of the homes of the town are kept in excellent condition and appearance, there are a few properties that could stand some cleaning up and the mayor and council hope residents will rectify the situation during the clean-up week.

Town Insurance At Campbellford To Be Increased

CAMPBELLFORD, June 5—(ENS)— The regular meeting of the Campbellford town council was held in the council chambers on Monday with all members present, and Mayor J. E. Ayrhart in the chair.

Council decided to send the road and bridge committee to Cobourg on June 11 to attend a conference regarding roadways that are extensions of county roads.

Mr. Ayrhart said he was proud of the fact that he has learned through the authorities that the streets of Campbellford are kept excellent repair, and are in most instances superior to streets of similar municipalities. Much of the credit for this is due Deputy Reeve Oscar Mason, chairman of the road and bridge committee.

A donation to the Salvation Army Red Shield campaign was authorized. This had been figured into the budget for -1951.

P. G. O'Sullivan, local insurance agent, gave the council an idea of the cost of increasing insurance on town properties. A recent survey showed that much of the town property and equipment was under-insured, and steps are being taken to increase the amount to approximately $75 in extra premiums a year. A new policy was authorized covering malpractice at the local hospital. Almost all hospitals carry this type of insurance, and it was discovered during the survey that the local hospital was not protected by a malpractice policy. A $10,000 policy was decided on to cost $43.50 yearly.

After some discussion, council decided to stop relief payments to two local parties, due to the fact that they both own cars and are driving them. One of the relief recipients attempted to claim she had sold the vehicle, and presented an ownership card in her daughter's name to prove it. A letter from the Highway Department showed the car registered in the name of the person who was receiving relief.

The matter of repairing and installing new sidewalks on a few properties was left up to the road and bridge committee.

A suggestion was made to have the Fire Marshals Department called in to inspect a few buildings in the town, to determine whether or not they constitute a fire hazzard, and if so have them declared unsafe. There are a few buildings in the town that should be torn down and this action will no doubt settle the situation.

An additional $20,000 to assist in the completion of the new hospital building will be raised by debentures. The town has already given the board $40,000. The new debenturees will be offered to the public locally, and will be sold in denominations as low as $50. They will bear interest at 4% and will be repayable in annual installments over a period of 20 years. The Water and Light commission has signified their willingness to purchase a substantial portion of the issue, and council thinks it

...debentures was given its third reading, signed, sealed and numbered. The bonds will all be validated so that their purchase will give the holder the maximum in security.

Council authorized the payment of a $250 grant to the Campbellford Citizens' Band.

Gordon Says Rail Expansion Governed By 3 Factors

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld., June 5 — (CP)—Donald Gordon, President of the Canadian National Railways, said today that money, availability of materials and manpower are three main factors management must bear in mind when analyzing new railway projects.

"Costs must bear some relationship to revenue traffic, real or potential," said Mr. Gordon in an address prepared for delivery before the St. John's Board of Trade.

"Locomotives, rolling stock and other supplies cannot be turned out overnight and when defence requirements of strategic metals are given over-riding priorities then our programs become difficult, uncertain and subject to revisions."

Of the manpower problem, with particular reference to available supply to expert assistance, Mr. Gordon said: "It takes a lifetime of experience and training to develop some of the special skills needed and many projects simply have to await their turn on draughting boards or in surveys because the staff of senior skilled officers is limited."

Had Difficulties

He said the Newfoundland railway and its associated facilities, when they became part of the C.N.R., showed evidence of having been managed by capable railroaders. But like all railways it had suffered from the financial famine of the depression era and from serious shortages of materials and manpower during the post-war period.

It was necessary to expend large capital sums for Newfoundland lines. New railway equipment received or on order totalled 483 units, representing an investment of $2,639,252.

Improvements to the Newfoundland hotel will probably cost close to $1,500,000, he said. The railway working forces have been increased by about 800 men, and all employees have received the scale of wages, pensions and other emoluments in force on C.N.R. lines elsewhere. With 4,500 employees the system is the largest single employer of labor in the province.

Mr. Gordon said there is no possibility in the foreseeable future of a change from narrow to standard gauge in Newfoundland. Practical necessity and traffic potential do not justify the heavy expenditure involved, he said.

Mr. Gordon announced that a new ferry between North Sydney and Port-Aux-Basques is expected to go into service in less than two years. The ship will be able to make a round trip every 24 hours, including time out for loading and unloading, and be able without difficulty to plow through heavy floe ice in the Cabot Straits. Carrying capacity will be 30 persons, 75 automobiles, six trucks, two trailers, 50 head of cattle and 650 tons of cargo.

Judge Imposes Military Censorship

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, June 5 — (Reuters) — The judge Monday imposed military censorship on reporters covering the trial of a Sunday newspaper charged with publishing military secrets in contravention of the Official Secrets Act.

Reporters took an oath of secrecy and submitted their stories to the censors.

The prosecution asked for censorship on the grounds that unwanted publicity would be given to military evidence.

The defence claimed that facts alleged in the newspaper article which formed the basis of the charge were common knowledge.

The Report Of The Massey Commission

We have received the report of the Royal Commission on national development in the arts, letters and sciences and must say to begin with that it is the most attractively produced government report that we have ever seen in this country. We have not yet had time to study its 500-odd pages, but we have skimmed them. We shall attempt no considered opinion on the Report at present, but when we have read it thoroughly we shall have something to say about it. However we wish to take note of its appearance, and to tell our readers that the Report is not merely worth reading, but readable, as well—which is not always the case with government productions.

* * *

Already there has been some complaint that the recommendations of the Report, if put into action, would cost a great deal of money. It is impossible to say at present just how much money they would cost, but we should like to have a figure to work on. We should like to know how the cost of implementing these recommendations would compare with the subsidies which Canada pays on food; we should like to know how it would compare with the annual income from liquor and luxury taxes; we should like to see how many times it would divide into the huge surpluses which the government has been collecting recently. All expense is relative; how would the cost of these recommendations relate to some of the other expenses, which our country pays without protest?

* * *

We object to the suggestion that the aim of the Report is to bring culture to Canada. Culture is not something which can be put on like a cloak; it is a thing which exists everywhere. Whatever the state of the arts and sciences may be in Canada at present is Canada's culture. The question is, does that culture need enrichment and improvement? The whole tone of the Report shows that improvement is necessary. We have to pay greater attention to our history and our past; we have to improve conditions for learning, letters and the arts in the present; we have to make sure that learning, arts and letters are on firm foundations for the future.

* * *

Do we need these cultural amenities? The only answer to that question is this: no nation has achieved real greatness in the past without them. Unwilling though some of us may be to face the fact, other nations judge us by our learning, our arts and letters. They buy what we produce, of course, and they sell us what they produce themselves, but buying and selling alone cannot make a great nation. Only greatness in the things of the mind and spirit brings lasting reputation. So far Canada has produced very little in the realm of the mind and spirit which is of more than passing interest to the world at large.

* * *

Cultural growth cannot be compelled, but it can be encouraged. We cannot, by means of scholarships and handouts, create philosophers and artists. But less by expenditure of money than by a change in our intellectual climate, we can encourage the growth of learning, letters and the arts. There was a time, in Canada's pioneer days, when learning was deeply respected and sought after in this country; the history of Peterborough tells us that the first thing the provided themselves with shelter, was a school for their children. But this love of learning and respect for learning have not persisted. We have discovered that it is possible to make a good living in this bounteous country without much learning, and to enjoy some of the sweets of life without bothering our heads about arts and letters. It is time for Canada to move on, recognizing that physical luxuries alone are not sufficient to make a great nation. The Massey Report is a guidebook to show us the way.

Doctor For Blood-Tests In Peterborough

As Peterborough's Crown Attorney cogently remarked yesterday in reference to Windsor's appointment of a doctor to make blood-tests for sobriety, there is no legislation yet to legalize them. The evidence of the tests is not acceptable to all courts, nor is any legal compulsion attached to them. Nevertheless we feel that Windsor has taken a step in the right direction. The testing of a car driver's blood to establish the amount of alcohol in it is scientifically sound and, in some socially advanced European countries, recognized as a legally sound method of proving drunkenness. The time must soon come in Ontario when our courts accept the test and the law compels the taking of it by suspected drunk drivers. Windsor has anticipated that time. Its drivers now have the opportunity of submitting (voluntarily) to the test and the courts are bound to place considerable reliance on the result.

We disagree with the Crown Attorney's assumption that, even if the appointment of an independent doctor to make the tests is good for Windsor, it is not good or necessary for smaller centres like Peterborough: the family doctor will do, says the Crown Attorney. But where is the family doctor to be found?

Today, even in Peterborough, the physician who treats all ills and is counsellor and friend to three generations of the family, is a rarity. Doctors work in groups, each practising his own special skills. There are half-a-dozen co-operative clinics in Peterborough. People have three or four doctors, or are referred to them. Drivers suspected of drunkenness do not invariably have, even in Peterborough, their "own" doctor. The appointment of an independent doctor to make blood-tests would be assisting both them and the police.

Of course, most people do have doctors known to them and doctors know the people. But a doctor called in by a fee-paying patient to make a blood-test for alcohol is in a predicament. He will be loathe to give evidence that may land his patient in jail for seven days. Most doctors try to avoid such cases, as policemen and suspected drivers know. If a civically-appointed doctor is available to make the tests, both the police and the drivers are served. If an appointed doctor is good for Windsor, he is good for Peterborough.

The Echoes Of 1951

The Peterborough Collegiate magazine, The Echoes, published by the Students' Council, has made its annual spring appearance. It is an especially pleasing appearance this year, for from the silver and black cover to the autograph page it is a first-rate production. Its format and content are bright and, more important, in good taste. The layout is stylish and open; the pen-and-ink designs and sketches give the pages an attractive and sometimes amusing air. Segregating the photographs (very well displayed indeed) in one section obviates the clutter and ungainly arrangement which often mar school magazines. The title-page is notable.

The editors have covered comprehensively, and apparently thoroughly, the many phases of a large school's life during the year and aspects of its manners and moods, in a hundred good-looking pages; in fact, fine clear echoes of a fine school. We mention with nostalgia the slight mustiness in the always essential jokes—echoes of other Echoes:— Teacher: What is nine times six? Student: Fifty-four. Teacher: That's very good. Student: Good! Great Scott, it's perfect. Perfect is the word.

Fashions In Names

We never tire of studying fashions in Christian names, and whenever any new information comes our way on this topic we pass it on to our readers, hoping that some of them will be similarly interested. Not long ago we came upon a list of names which had been favourites in an English parish near Liverpool, named Walton-on-the-Hill, in the years 1664 and 1734. We present these below, for comparison with a list of most-popular names in Ontario during 1869, and 1950, gathered from the records of the registrar-general; we add also a list which we printed some time ago of favourite names in England compiled from the birth notices in the London Times. Here are the boys' names:

Walton 1664	Walton 1734	Ontario 1869	Ontario 1950	Times 1950
William	Thomas	William	William	John
John	John	George	Robert	David
Robert	James	James	James	Richard
Thomas	William	John	David	Michael
Richard	Robert	Charles	Ronald	Peter
James	Henry	Albert	John	Charles
Henry	Richard	Henry	Paul	James

Here is a similar tabulation of girls' names:

Walton	Walton	Ontario	Ontario	Times
Mary	Anne	Elizabeth	Catherine	Elizabeth
Margaret	Margaret	Jane	Joan	Jane
Jane	Ellen	Anne	Margaret	Margaret
Hannah	Alice	Annie	Sandra	Susan
Alice	Martha	Helen	Patricia	Caroline
Lydia	Hanann	Hannah	Cheryl	Sarah
Anne	Jane	Catherine	Elizabeth	Jennifer

A certain conservatism in naming children is probably a good thing, though we wish that people would permit themselves a little more imagination, from time to time. At present there is a rash of names drawn from the heroes and heroines of Hollywood; they occur, perhaps, as frequently as the names of reigning monarchs a century ago. But some beautiful and by no means outlandish names have been permitted to fall into disuse, and anyone who wants to find them may do so in Miss Withycombe's interesting Oxford Dictionary of Christian Names. After all, this harping on John and Mary and George and Margaret can become monotonous.

"Women buy more beauty aids than they need," says a Government official. Ah, sir, it isn't what they put on their faces but what they spill on the top of the dressing-table that accounts for the big sales.

Taking Stock In Italy

By CECIL SPRIGGE

THE results of the first of the three series of municipal elections which will together cover the whole country reflect three influences at play on Italian public opinion. First there is the instinct of self-preservation against Moscow-controlled Communism. The coalition of the principal anti-Communist parties in the elections for this batch of 2,639 communes has reduced the number of Marxist administrations from 1,173, to 398, has parried a Communist threat to gain control of Milan and has subtracted the great cities of Genoa and Venice, together with hundreds of smaller towns, from previous Communist domination. Bologna, the third great Communist-ruled centre of this batch has been saved for the Red Flag by a small margin of votes and by the interference of the Fascists as a third force.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE second influence at play has been weariness of post-war confusion. This accounts for a considerable loss of votes by the major Government party, the Christian Democrats, which has been saddled for the last six years with the main responsibility for chronic mass unemployment and more lately for the steeply rising cost of living. The lost votes of Christian Democracy have gone to a notable extent to the neo-Fascists and to numerous local middle-class groups which will dominate about 500 communes.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE third influence is a strong impatience for more social progress and efficiency. The Communists have been rewarded for the efficiency of many of their local administrations in the past years by more than retaining the local voting power of the coalitions which they dominate in spite of the lower prestige of their national party. It looks as if an important group of voters have backed the Nenni Socialists (allied with Communists) in the belief that they are after all not wholly servile to Moscow. The Nenni party has done well. The chaotic performance of the authentically anti-Communist Socialists who went to the elections under four different, and sometimes rival names, though they were supposed to have combined into a single party one month ago, makes it rather remarkable that they have retained their old following to an apparent extent of about 90 per cent.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN the Italian Press differing selections of voting figures are still giving apparently objective support to fairly divergent interpretations of what has happened. In the first place, conquest of seats is quite out of line with conquest of votes. The Christian Democrats, while losing plenty of votes by comparison with 1948 and slightly improving on 1946, have hugely increased the proportion of municipal councils which they control.

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS largely reflects the change in the electoral law. The 1946 law assigned seats by proportional representation. The 1951 law automatically gives a large majority in any council to the electoral combination at the head of the poll, even if it has no absolute majority. The Communists call this law fraudulent but it simply enables the voter to put first things first. Incidentally, without it the Communists would not have retained Bologna, their great triumph celebrated by a torchlight procession, where they got less than half the votes but have three-quarters of the council seats.

✧ ✧ ✧

AS to the total votes won, the best available comparison concerns the 27 county towns included in last Sunday's batch. Official figures have been issued and there is also a rival set of Communist figures which somehow manages to tilt things against the Christian Democrats by several percentage points without otherwise changing the picture. Voting totals in three elections are compared; the municipal elections of 1946, the Parliamentary elections of 1948, and last Sunday's municipal elections.

✧ ✧ ✧

ACCORDING to the official figures, in 1946 Christian Democracy in isolation took 33 per cent. of the votes, in 1948, 43 per cent., in 1951 35 per cent. The extreme Left took nearly 60 per cent. in 1946, 34 per cent in 1948 and 37 per cent. in 1951. The Social Democrats non-existent in the first, took 11½ per cent. in the second elections and 10½ per cent. in these last.

✧ ✧ ✧

CALCULATIONS concerning the extreme Left and Social Democrats are, however, vitiated by intervening Socialist reshufflings. In 1951 the Nenni Socialists took in these 27 county towns 12½ per cent. of the votes. No comparison can be made with 1946 when they included the Social Democrats, nor with 1948 when they were electorally merged with the Communists. But the strength of their 1951 vote, equal to about half the Communist vote, has excited speculation that the sympathizers with Cucchi and Magnani have set their cap at Nenni's party, disregarding Nenni's own unabashed Kremlinism. The advance of the Fascist vote from 1½ to 5½ per cent. in these county towns is about the clearest of all the indications.

✧ ✧ ✧

A COMPLETER view will be given by the including the present highly-important Communist strongholds of Turin and Florence. The big names in the third batch of elections, for which the date is still unfixed, are Rome and Naples where Communist hopes are small and Fascist and other Right-Wing hopes very considerable. There are also tricky elections for the Sicilian Island Parliament next Sunday.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE results of the first batch of elections have eliminated several of the great local administrations which have most actively since the beginnings of the Marshall Plan sabotaged Government discipline. At the same time they have not thrown the communes into a possibly dangerous desperation. The Fascists—at the heart of whose creed is a never-languishing detestation of Britain, British policy and British liberal ideas—have gained considerably and they will now pursue with strength and enthusiasm their ambition to lure Italy into fresh fishing in troubled waters whenever occasion offers.

CALM REPLY

A distinguished visitor to an insane asylum went to the telephone and found difficulty in getting his connection. Exasperated, he shouted to the operator:

"Look here, girl, do you know who I am?"

"No," was the calm reply, "but I know where you are."

HOW NOW, COLD COW?

Porcelain, Textiles, China, Crystal— Also Gigantic Machinery

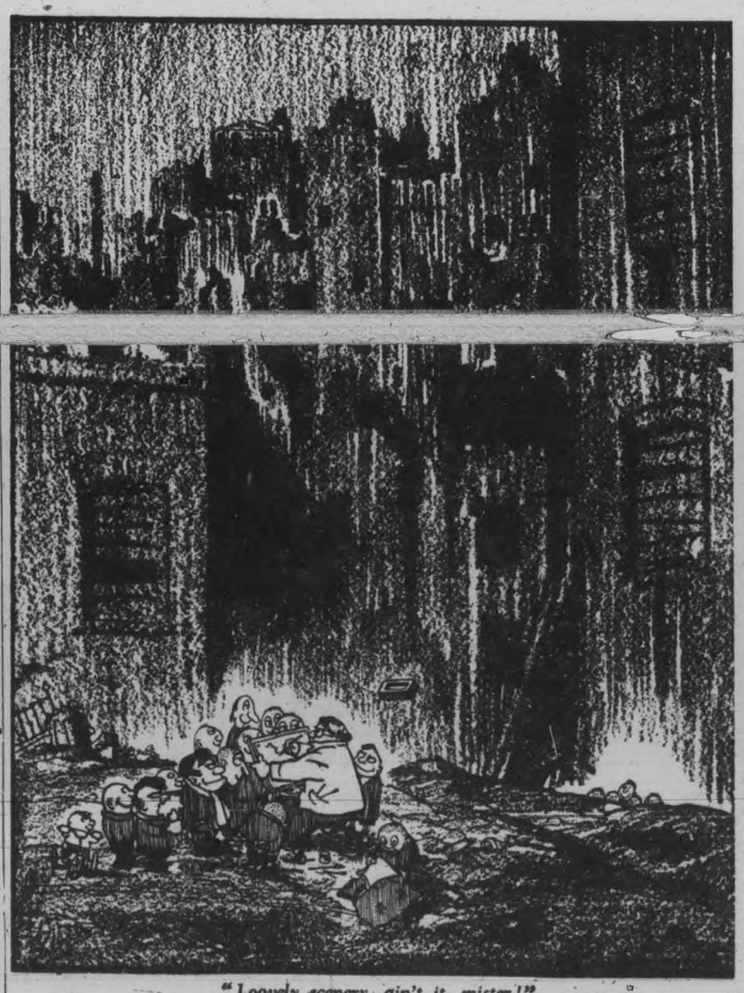
(By BON VIVANT)

TORONTO—There was a time, when the temperance forces were galloping up and down the county crying, "the boy or the bar", that certain uncouth characters maintained nothing oiled the wheels of business like a little something alcoholic. I should judge, from the fantastic display of wines, beers, ales and spirits at the Fourth Canadian International Trade Fair, being held in the Coliseum, at the Toronto Exhibition Grounds, that the modern business man, at least on the international level, has seen no reason to alter his view on this point.

Not only is there an extensive lounge, furnished with neat little tables for four, and comfortable chairs, and well supplied with courteous attendants in white coats, who are definitely there for some other purpose than emptying ash trays, but on the second floor there is sort of a "booze of all nations" exhibit. I liked this. Even signs posted all over the place proclaiming the building was a bonded warehouse, and those carrying satchels, briefcases, steamer trunks, or driving closed trucks, were liable to search, did not destroy the evil and wicked pleasure I derived from seeing that which biteth like an adder and stingeth like a serpent, on bold public display.

LET it not be thought my entire visit to the Trade Fair was spent in this restful atmosphere. Perchance I did spend longer admiring the array of bottles, jugs and jars, labelled in many tongues, than I spent looking over a ten ton punch press, but that is because I understood the uses of the bottles and jars much better than I did the functions of a ten ton punch press. This punch press depended entirely upon size to impress the many headed. The bottles, jugs and jars didn't worry about size, they seemed entirely confident that everyone knew at least one use for their contents.

I also enjoyed "Wullie the Weaver", his loom, and his tartans. Wullie left no doubt in your mind, even at an International Trade Fair, of whence he hailed. Tartan trews, tartan shirt, tartan wesket and balmoral with tartan band, plus his loom, on which he was weaving a tartan by hand, conveyed, even to the dullest witted that Wullie had some connection with Scotland. Now I've seen hand weaving before, and I imagine it is all pretty much the same, but a running commentary on tartans, in a rich Scotch brogue, flavoured with the mists of the highlands, and methinks a little something to assist in digestion of the strange foreign foods at a Trade Fair, added a glamorous touch.



IT would be pretty silly to try to cover the whole trade fair in one article so I suggest you go and see it for yourself. I tried an old international dodge to get in without paying, but it didn't work. It appears, upon inquiry, that my fame is local, not international, so I had to cough up 50c. In return for this I received an aluminum badge. There were gold coloured badges too, and I'd have paid another 50c for one of those. However, they were apparently reserved for gents with rolled umbrellas, gents with large bald heads, or gents in rather odd costumes reminiscent of the far east. As I couldn't qualify as any of these, and was a little timid about saying I was an Iranian looking over oil machinery, I had to settle for the plain aluminum job.

The British machinery really took my fancy. It had such a finished look. I also admired a handsomely chased suit of armour in the Italian exhibit. The textiles from Britain and France were most colourful, and the exhibits from Holland were set off, not only by their obvious merit, but also by the fact that a great many pretty girls, in Dutch costumes, were most anxious to explain things to you.

The Japanese were on hand with toys, bicycles and a whole miscellany of manufactured goods. Procelains, delicate china and cut crystal were there in profusion and displayed in such a way that all pieces were easily seen and admired without the necessity of handling. I was somewhat amused at one of the exhibitions from Holland. It was a complete planned kitchen, with cupboard units, sink unit, frig and stove. A short distance away was a Canadian kitchen, showing similar items. My amusement was caused by the general superior appearance of the Dutch set-up. It may be that Canadian manufacturers can learn a trifle from the old world at that.

One of the items which entertained me for some little time, was the display of mechanical transports and hoists. These machines, ranging in size from one about the dimensions of a go-cart, to the king size job, about as big as a ten ton truck, are not only self propelled, but handle loads of varying sizes, picking them up from the floor, trundling them to where wanted and hoisting them into place. There was one there for handling newsprint rolls and no lover ever took his beloved in a firmer embrace than this gadget did a 60 inch roll of newsprint. If the lover did things with the lass that this truck-hoist did with the roll of newsprint he would either have to marry the girl, or face a charge of assault.

JUST what the Trade Fair means to Canadian countries who exhibit at it in the hopes of getting business from Canada, I could not hope to guess. I was however, impressed with what Canada can do, and with what other countries who seek our trade offer in the way of manufactured goods. An ingenious lot of people these manufacturers.

"Loovely scenery, ain't it, mister!"

Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

I will sing of the mercies of the Lord for ever: with my mouth will I make known thy faithfulness to all generations.... The heavens are thine, the earth also is thine: as for the world and the fulness thereof, thou hast founded them. The north and the south thou hast created them. (Ps. 89: 1, 11, 12.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Who would not fear thee, O King of nations? for to thee doth it appertain: forasmuch as among all the wise men of the nations, and in all their kingdoms, there is none like unto thee. But they are altogether brutish and foolish....

But the Lord is the true God, he is the living God, and an everlasting king.... He hath made the earth by his power, he hath established the world by his wisdom, and hath stretched out the heavens by his discretion. (Jer. 10: 7, 8, 10, 12.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Thus saith the Lord, the Holy One of Israel, and his Maker, Ask me of things to come concerning my sons, and concerning the work of my hands command ye me. I have made the earth, and created man upon it: I, even my hands, have stretched out the heavens, and all their host have I commanded. (Isa. 45: 11, 12.)

Misprints

(The Times, London)

Authors and journalists with just enough learning to misquote, with vile handwriting and vague spelling and with a careless, if human, habit of occasionally putting "black" when they mean "white", all contribute to the cares of the proof reader. He has to remember that Mr. Thomas Atkins will be annoyed if he sees himself described as Mr. P. Atkins and furious if he is made to bear the good name of Atkinson. The tally of bricks saved from dropping—and, sometimes, dropped—by the readers is legion. There was the popular vice-chancellor of a northern university whose resignation inspired (at least in proof) the valedictory comment, "Dr. Syntax is to leave us and our city will be the purer for his going." There was the sportsman, famous in his day on the turf, of whose stable it was written that it contained "several useful h'cap horses" and printed that they were "useulish cab horses."

Distance lends enchantment and even material value to slips that come between the manuscript and the proof, the proof and the finished, the irretrievably published, version. A current catalogue of first editions list one of them as being "rare" and as having its date printed as 1671 instead of 1771. The "reader" who missed that catch was gathered to his fathers long before he could have the satisfaction of learning that he had made history for bibliophiles. Error, until time has mellowed it, provokes prompt irritation or laughter. When telegraph poles were equipped in a morning paper with "incubators" instead of "insulators", by evening the remark had been made in print that "now we know where the canards are hatched". The oldest, and one of the best cautionary tales of which "readers" are mindful, tells of the "battle-scarred" veteran who was called "battle-scared" in one edition and apologized to in the next on the ground that he should "of course" have been referred to as "bottle-scarred."

Our Hungry Visitors

(Le Soleil, Quebec)

Of the $260 millions which our American visitors spent in Canada in 1950, $65 millions, that is to say the big proportion of 25%, went to the silk and retail shops. The restaurants benefitted to the extent of 22%, hotels and summer resorts to about 17%. But no field of our economy stands to profit more from the seasonal affluence of visitor than does agriculture. During this same season of 1950 our country welcomed more than 20 million tourists. According to a recent publication of the Canadian Tourist Bureau, such a population of visitors consume normally, during its stay here, at least 4,000,000 pounds of butter, 4,000,000 dozen eggs and 18,000,000 pounds of beef and other agricultural products in equal proportion.

Rector At Omemee Church Veteran Kenya Missionary

OMEMEE, June 5 — (ENS) — The Rev. Charles Richmond, who has recently become rector of Christ Anglican Church in Omemee, comes to them from Kenya Colony, East Africa.

For the past 100 years, Christian missionary work has been carried on in Kenya but mainly in the highlands of the colony. Generally speaking, the outlying tribes have been left without missionary activity. To one of these, the Samburu tribe, in the desert plains of Kenya's northern frontier, Mr. Richmond was commissioned by the Bible Churchmen's Missionary Society of Bristol, England, in 1935, to undertake pioneer work in evangelism. With this nomadic people Mr. Richmond spent five years living under canvas. Most of the year water was procured from a deep hole in the sandy dry river bed. After hours of waiting, a few pints of thick greyish water could be taken to the tent to be filtered, boiled and filtered again before being used for steeping tea and other purposes. Any further supply had to be brought some 75 miles with no other mode of transportation than camel or mules. A thorn-bush provided shelter for Mr. Richmond's dispensary from which he gave treatments for malaria, tuberculosis, venereal disease, intestinal worms, etc., treated victims of accidents, and with permission from the district commissioner performed minor operations.

Served As Captain

In 1940 he joined His Majesty's Forces and served as captain in the King's African Rifles throughout the East African campaign, which was fought in Ethiopia, British and Italian Somaliland and Madagascar. A number of the warriors of the tribe he was endeavoring to Christianize joined with him, some of them serving with distinction and receiving decorations.

In 1943 he married Harriett Truesdell of Massachusetts, who had served under the African Inland Mission since 1936 at Kijabe among a tribe called the Kikuyu. Her work was exclusively among African girls of this tribe. They were tillers of the soil and more responsive than the nomadic tribes. During the war Mrs. Richmond remained at her missionary post. The Richmonds' two boys were born in Kenya, Rollin in 1944 and David in 1946.

Later in '46, Mr. Richmond returned with his family to England where he was demobilized. After taking a short post-graduate course he was ordained by the Bishop of Bristol and was rector of a church in Bristol prior to his return to East Africa in the latter part of 1948.

For their second term of missionary service Mr. and Mrs. Richmond were commissioned as a family to undertake the task of evangelizing the Masai tribe. During the 20 years previous the African community of Nairobi had attempted to evangelize these people but found them most unresponsive. The Anglican Church community of the diocese of Mombasa suggested Mr. and Mrs. Richmond to tackle this most conservative tribe of people. "After much prayer," said Mr. Richmond, "we were guided to Kajiado which is situated in the centre of the Masai tribe." From there he was able to make trips into the desert region where the Masai roamed in search of pasture for their cattle, the Masai being a nomadic pastoral tribe. To Kajiado, all fresh provisions had to be brought from Nairobi, 50 miles distant. Mr. Richmond was given a government permit to shoot what wild game he needed for the family food. The diet of the tribesmen consisted essentially of products from their cattle, milk, meat and blood. The latter is extracted from the jugular vein of the living animals, after which the small opening is stopped and the animal continued its normal existence. The blood is mixed with milk to make a Masai milk shake.

Few Schools

There are a few schools in the Kenya colony to which each district is obliged to send a certain number of boys. The teachers are baptized Africans. Mr. Richmond was privileged to speak with these students and baptized eight boys whom he had taught the Christian religion. One local Masai has entered the Anglican Training College to study for the African ministry. It is the hope of the missionaries that this young man will become the first ordained Anglican African Masai minister.

The Masai tribe in general have resisted evangelization, but since the Richmonds have worked among them, there has developed a feeling among a few of them that they themselves should build their own churches, and have offered money to commence building a church. The missionaries have tried to instill the principle that it is the job of the Masai community to be responsible for the evangelization of their tribe. In accordance with this conviction, Mr. and Mrs. Richmond thought it best to quit the mission and give them this opportunity. They believe a self-supporting church in East Africa is the real answer to the full evangelization of that people. Also their boys have reached the age to enter school.

They left Kenya 5 p.m. Saturday, April 21, and reached New York 11.30 a.m. Monday, April 23, travelling by air. They began work in Christ Church, Omemee, on May 27.

Barbados History, Problems Outlined By Trevor Clarke

Trevor E. Clarke took Peterborough Rotarians on a vivid and informative verbal trip to Barbados.

Mr. Clarke was guest speaker at the Rotary luncheon meeting Monday.

Born and receiving his elementary education on the island, Mr. Clarke first came to Canada in 1940 when he attended Upper Canada College, Toronto, for three years. While a student at the University of Toronto he spent his summers working in Peterborough. Following his graduation as a lawyer he served in the RCAF before coming to Peterborough as a member of the firm of Carley and Standish.

Dipping into the past as well as the present, Mr. Clarke gave a full story of the history and an up-to-date presentation of economic and social conditions of Barbados.

In his introductory remarks, he cleared away some of the generally believed myths that the island was the last outpost of slavery, populated by natives who spend all their time spear fishing and swimming in the surf.

Thickly Populated

"The island has a population of more than 202,000 persons, which makes it proportionately one of the most thickly populated places in the world," he related.

The island was discovered by the Portuguese in 1536, but was not claimed until a British ship took it for James I in 1605. It was first settled in 1625. In 1662 the British Government took over the rule of island and it has remained a British colony ever since.

The present population is divided into 10 per cent white, 70 per cent negro and 20 per cent mulatto. The black population stems from African stock brought over during slave trade times, which, since liberation, work on the island's plantations. The whites are in control of the island economy insofar as they own the greater part of the land and the factories.

All Educated

Turning to the subject of education, Mr. Clarke explained that attending the island schools is compulsory for whites and negroes alike up until 14 years of age. Increasing numbers of natives, with government financial help are attending colleges in Canada, United States and England. As a result many of them have become prominent lawyers, doctors, statesmen and agriculturists on the island. The elected House of Assembly is almost all natives.

"This is the land of the sugar cane," the speaker said. "Consequently the main island export is sugar, with rum second and molasses considered a minor product. With the major part of the land under sugar cane cultivation, almost all foodstuffs have to be imported."

Four distilleries turn out the island's world famous rum.

No Machinery

The greatest problem on the island, Mr. Clarke explained was that of over-population. As a result, modern machinery and equipment has not been introduced so that the natives will not be deprived of a livelihood.

"Barbados has a great deal to offer the tourist," the speaker said. "As well as steamship direct, flights can be taken from Toronto and Montreal which make the trip in less than 20 hours."

"In addition to a neat and trim general appearance," he continued, "the island has one of the best climates in the world. The temperature range is 75-87 degrees all year around. The air is kept fresh and cool by the northeast trade winds. All varities of swimming are available from the calm waters on the sheltered parts of the island coast to the rough surf. In addition Barbados is also known as a healthy island. Freedom from swamps and jungle as eliminated the threat of malaria. Other sports including tennis, golf, sailing, horse racing and deep sea fishing also make it a tourist attraction."

"The island is spotted with numerous hotels and guest houses to accommodate tourists," Mr. Clarke concluded.

The guest speaker was introduced by T. J. Carley.

Laughs On TV Not Up To Par Sennett Says

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 5 AP). — Mack Sennett, longtime King of Comedy, said today that television's laughs are not up to par.

"As a comedy medium, television has yet to find itself," said the native of Danville, Que., a film veteran.

"Today's television reminds me of the stage the movies were in when I was in burlesque many years ago. At that time, the burlesque houses would put on movie clips between the shows so the theatre would be cleared out. They were called chasers . . .

Sennett said he is amused by the excessive use on television of pie-throwing, that form of humor which originated in his productions. And he is impressed by some of the new comics, notably Sid Caesar. But comic values are not fully realized on the TV, he added.

"You can't just get together a few hours before the show and whip up a skit and expect it to be full of belly-laughs."

Put On Film

Sennett said TV will not become a comedy medium until the shows are first put on film.

"You can't tell what is going to be funny until you see it," he reasoned. "If you photograph it and improvise your gags and cut the final version to take out the dull spots then you can achieve the ultimate in laughs."

The producer has resisted offers for the use of his films on TV. He has a great many comedies with such figures as Charlie Chaplin, W. C Fields and Bing Crosby.

"I'm in no hurry to sell," Sennett said. "I don't believe television will come of age until some system is perfected to 'pay as you see.' People want to see the best movies on TV, but it is not economically possible now.

Westclox Girls Take A Win Over Woollens

Westclox rolled up a 17-7 Girls' Softball League victory over Woollens last night at the Bowl. The Woollens, who can upset any of them when they show hustle, played an indifferent brand of ball, and booted seven. The Clockers' experience and hustle paid off for them before a fair-sized crowd. M. Downer and L. Derry pitched on the rival mounds with M. Selkirk coming in in the sixth. D. Smith showed well for the losers behind the bat and C. Ferguson fielded in fine fashion. B. Morrow and M. Hawthorne stood out for the winners.

A. Anderson, M. Hawthorne, J. McIntyre M. Owen and B. Rumble each had two safe blows for Westclox, while R. Naylor led the losers at bat with two bingles. A Westclox double-play was A. Anderson to M. Selkirk to J. McIntyre. Teams:

SPINNING HINTS

For Item Two on more fun and results from your Spinning Tackle we wish to touch on the modern Spinning Reels.

If you had the full choice of spinning tackle, whether American or European, there is a long list of things which you would have to consider before selecting what you would estimate to be the best for your needs.

Much of this has been done for you, however, by your Sport Shop in purchasing spinning tackle suitable to this district.

In regard to your selection of reel, here are a few of the points which must be considered when acquiring a spinning reel.

1. What is the capacity of the reel?

The reel should have a capacity for 200 yards of 6 lb. nylon line.

2. Does the reel have an automatic pick-up, and if so how many throw-on contact points?

The automatic pick-up is preferred as it makes handling the line easier.

As for the throw-on contact points, it is suggested that two is the most suitable because this means that there is not more than a half revolution of the outer shell made before you have control of your line on the reel-in.

3. Are spare parts available?

This must be considered particularly with the purchase of a foreign-made reel; so that you can guard against delays and extra expense caused by spare parts and overhauls.

4. Is the reel of good quality?

Your Sporting Goods Stores who know their trade do much to guard against inferior products which might jeopardize their business, but for your own personal interest this is the procedure to follow if you are in doubt as to the quality of workmanship and design:

Remove wing nut and remove spool, study the workmanship of the parts. —Are the gears carefully machined of hard metal or are they stamped? Are these washers or any tiny parts which might become lost while changing reel spools? Does the out revolving shell turn concentrically or does properly into the shell or would there be a chance of the line slipping back of the shell to foul the reel? Does the line spreader distribute the line evenly back and forth over the spool?

5. Is the operation of the reel smooth?

6 If you are a left-hand caster does the reel have a right hand wind?

7. Are extra reels spools obtainable?

8. What is the ratio of multiplying action?

For every turn of the reel this should place three coils of line on the spool or a ratio of 3 to 1.

There are many fine points that a tackle expert can point out to you, and when you shop at Dit Clapper's you know that "Sportsmen Serve Sportsmen."

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Some lacrosse fans may be surprised that St. Catharines Athletics are presently atop the loop standing with four wins and one loss, while the Petes and Brampton are next with three wins and a reverse each. But St. Kitts is a great lacrosse centre and they come up with a strong squad year after year. They've a large minor setup building for 'em all the time, one started before the PMLA was set up several seasons back. The A's will show here for the first time this year tomorrow night at 8.45 in Miller Bowl. That should be a hot scrap between two potent packs. And the Petes had better be in peak form or they might well meet another early-season setback.

* * * * * *

Down St. Catharines' way, they take their gutted-stick sport right seriously. Broadcast all the games by Rex (The Lung) Stimers, at home and away. A number of last year's junior Mann Cup winners (yep, they were St. Kitts, too) are aboard the senior lineup now, along with big Steve Oneschuck, Bill Whitaker, Jimmy McMahon, Tony D'Amico, Ham Nelson, Kenny Croft, Doug Smith and some more. There is no team the A's would sooner defeat than the Petes, who have three of their former aces in Jerry Fitzgerald, Nit O'Hearn and Harry Wipper. And don't think these guys won't be hustling against their old mates. It should be fun.

* * * * * *

Imports Start To Arrive

In senior ball, the Petes are undefeated in five starts to lead the Viaduct Major League, Oshawa Merchants—who ousted 'em in finals last year—having dropped a pair. However, the Merchants expect several more USA imports on time for the game here 'gainst Ed Whitehill's pack Thursday night at Riverside. That'll be the tidbit so far this diamond semester, and the Petes hope to have Dick Golden over from the States for the tilt. Don't know what pitcher will start for the locals, depending on which one goes tonight in Toronto against Kingsway. The old baseball rivals will strive hard for this one, the Petes having won in Oshawa in their only other clash so far.

* * * * * *

Len Taylor writes in the Kitchener paper that Oshawa officials are dying hard in their chase for Jerry Creasey, lifted from them by Kitchener Legion of the Inter-County Loop. Said officials have written several times, at first politely, but later in harsher tones to threaten court and OBA action if Creasey plays for Kitchener—which he did the other day. Taylor adds: "Meanwhile the expense money which Oshawa advanced to him and which he returned has now been sent back to Creasey for the third time, and will probably be in the mail back to Oshawa by the time this is being read. It's a fine game of 'who's got the greenbacks' and for once nobody wants that old filthy lucre." Apparently, the OBA must have given Creasey permission to pitch for Legionnaires.

Hits At Bargain Prices

Hits were a dime a dozen last evening in the Ashburnham Bowl as Westclox girls trimmed Woollens 17-7 and Marines rolled to a 17-9 triumph o'er Ashby's. No less than 26 bingles boomed off the Marine bats, as Ashby's shook a bad game out of thier system. Clockers, too, were potent at the plate, while Woollens didn't perform up to par—not enough hustle. But they'll likely shake down shortly. Games Wednesday: Marines vs. Westclox, and Cobourg vs. Woollens. That first one should be a dandy, and maybe the nightcap, also. The Cobourg Pavs have a 16-year-old twirler who is easily holding her own so far in this circuit, allowing but 12 hits in two games and striking out 32 batters. Westclox play in Cobourg on Friday. Schedule is in tonight.

Talk about free-wheeling at the plate, the Foresters of the Civic Softball League last e'en weren't fooling a bit. They knocked off Grant & Loucks over at Armour Field by a 25-14 score, the losers also cuffing the cabbage around the patch in a few frames. Both sides used two arm-weary flingers but still the score mounted. Some more revised schedule for this loop in on the morrow, since the circuit has now obtained use at times of the Bowl and of Morrow Park. Top six teams enter playoffs for the Bert Austin Trophy. Bell plays Utilities tonight, while Salvation Army meets the Bus Drivers on Wednesday p.m. in Armour Field.

Chiefs Trample Ottawa In Twin Bill

By The Associated Press.

Syracuse Chiefs, who started the International League season with a bang and then hit a slump, are rolling along in high gear.

Fresh from three of four victories over the league-leading Montreal Royals, the Chiefs turned back Ottawa Giants 3-1 and 6-0 Monday night. The triumphs moved the runner-up Chiefs to within 4½ games of the Royals who lost 3-1 to the third-place Rochester Red Wings.

Jack Griffore turned back the Giants on five hits in the opener while Bob Keegan pitched a brilliant two-hitter in the nightcap.

Johnny Metkovich got both Giant hits.

The Chiefs won the opener with two runs in the sixth inning. Griffore helped his own cause by doubling and scoring a run.

Keegan, who made his first start, after excellent relief work, fanned eight and walked seven in gaining his second victory. The Chiefs wrapped the game up with four runs in the first two innings.

Downs Montreal

Fred Hahn, with help from Bob Habenicht in the eighth, picked up his first victory in four decisions in downing Montreal.

Wildness on the part of lefty Tom Lasorda cost Montreal the game. He walked the first three batters he faced and all scored.

Baltimore Orioles defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 3-1. Home runs by Howie Moss, Al Cihocki and Bill Glynn accounted for all Baltimore's runs. Lew Morton homered for Toronto.

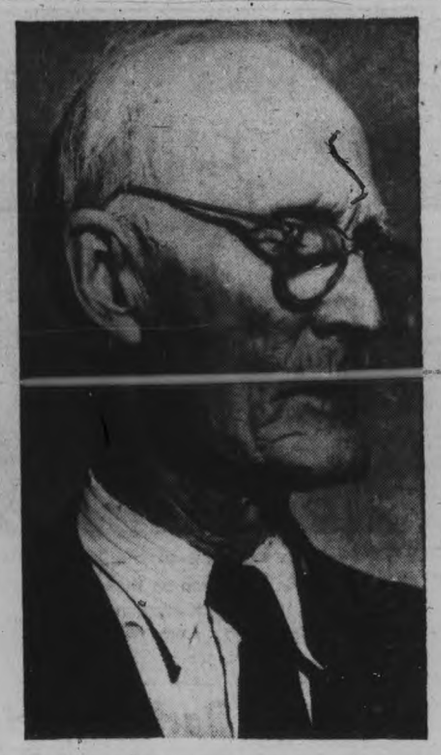
Walt Dubiel pitched Springfield Cubs to a 2-1 victory over Buffalo Bisons. Jack Wallaesa homered in the seventh to win the game.

Out At The Kawartha

Well, it looks as though Spring is here and Summer cannot be far behind. One sure sign is the posting of the draws— and the hard-working handicap committee are right on time too. They set their dead-line and stuck to it. Yes, and that brings to mind the fact that before long we are going to have a rule quoted to us concerning the dates that rounds must be completed. We often condemn, often envy the brethren of the handicap committee, sitting there with arms akimbo set, exercising that prerogative so much akin to the divine right of kings.

We note that a total of 58 have entered their names for the President's Cup Competition, with 52 in the first round and six getting a bye. The Kawartha Cup Competition for the lads in the higher handicap bracket, has a total of 30 signed up, with 28 in the first round and two getting the nod to the second.

We are pleased to bring to the attention of the members that our friendly pro, Lex Robson, has extended an invitation to all the fellows to have a game with him, sometime during the season. Here is how this will be worked out. All of those wishing a game are requested to enter their names on a list to be posted in the locker room. A draw will be made each week to decide which three chaps will play the nine holes on Sunday morning and another draw will decide which three will play the nine holes in the afternoon. Lex hopes to carry out this plan during the whole season and so get around to playing with all members before the close of the season.



Now, while we are talking about the "old master" let us dispel the fears of those who say "it cannot be done." Lex Robson, last Saturday p.m. displaying that absolute flawless form which won for him, on several occasions, the prized Miller Trophy, parred the first nine with an even thirty-five. Nice going. And now, what about the grounds? Winter rules with preferred lies are still the order of the day. However, things are shaping up and these, like Satan, will soon be behind us. Those first patches of dandelions [illegible] soothed. A drive on the bunkers at this opportune time, has seen good progress made by the grounds boys. At this particular point of time, with every type of vegetation growing fast and heavy Mac has a real job on his hands. However, concrete plans have been formed and the results of the efforts put forth by those lads who get up each a.m. before you and I, will soon become apparent.

Persistent rumor has it that the mosquito is equiped with a new type of snorkel tube this year. We understand that at least one excellent brand of repellant is on the market and has been used by some of the lady golfers with splendid success.

Gil Dodds, the "Flying Parson" who set various track records including the indoor mile, was ordained a minister at Boston six years ago tonight after receivng a bachelor of divinity degree at the Gordon Theological School. Dodds established a record of 4 minutes 5.3 seconds for the indoor mile at New York in 1948 which still stands.

OLDTIME STAR RETIRES—After many years of service at the CGE Co. here, Jack McCabe (shown above) is retiring. He is the last of three athletic brothers, the others being one-armed Dan of baseball fame, and Jim who shone in field lacrosse. Both are dead. Jack was probably the best lacrosser developed in Peterborough. He starred for years before and since the turn of the century here, down east and in the States. He and the late Rollie Glover, playing in the home field, were in great demand by a number of clubs across the line during their prime.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Big-league baseball attendance is about eight per cent behind last year on a per game basis, although the total draw is 97,585 ahead of the 1950 figures.

The difference comes from the games played, 297 this year through Sunday as compared to 269 last year. Consequently, the American and National Leagues have drawn 4,315,634 to 4, 218,049 in 1950.

Despite the larger ball parks in the American the National League is showing the way with 2,297,367, well distributed among all eight teams. Figuring an average home attendance, the National for 1951 is 14,822 to 15,338 last year —a decrease of three per cent.

Fernando Gagnon, Canadian bantamweight champion, puts his title on the line tonight against Claude Meunier of Three Rivers, Que., in a 12-round fight at Municipal Stadium, Quebec City.

The title fight, ordered by the Canadian Boxing Federation, was originally scheduled for May 28. It was postponed when the Quebec city champion injured his right hand in training.

Joe Maxim, reported on the verge of collapse after his 15-round fight with heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles May 30, was ordered by the Illinois Athletic Commission Monday to suspend all training and boxing activity for 30 days.

Maxim, light heavyweight champion, lost a 15-round decision to Charles Wednesday night. He took such a beating he had to be administered oxygen after the fight.

Lee Savold, the Englewood, N. J., boxer who is recognized by Britain as the world heavyweight champion, won't be risking his title against Joe Louis in the New York Polo Grounds, June 13. That's what a British boxing authority said Monday.

"We are taking no notice of the fight whatsoever," said Ted Waltham, secretary of the British Boxing Board of Control. "We won't take any notice of the result."

He said he didn't care to explain why.

Golfer's Drive Good Damages Small Plane

UNION CITY, Tenn., June 5 — (AP).—Robert Armstrong, who belts a powerful drive, shot down a plane Monday when he clubbed a golf ball off the number three tee.

The ball struck a small Piper Cub that swooped down over the fairway. It passed through the fuselage, tearing two small holes in the canvas covering. Pilot Joe Cook landed the plane on the fairway, but decided little damage was done.

Armstrong and the five men playing around the Union City and Obion golf course with him, continued their game. Armstrong reported, with relief, that he wasn't even penalized a stroke.

Marines Take A Victory From Ashby's

Marines uncorked a terrific hitting attack at the Bowl last night to pound out a 17-9 girls' softball win against Ashby's. They flailed out 26 safe hits off the delivery of E. Brown and D. McFadden. Ashby's could do little with the delivery of E. Whittaker, and they got a bad game out of their systems, kicking in with half a dozen errors. M. Behan and V. Page of the Outboards, and M. Boyce and L. Jordan of Ashby's went best defensively.

M. Gillen led the winners at the plate with a home run and four singles in seven trips, with V. Page clicking for four for five, M. Behan four in six, E. Mantle a triple and two singles in six and E. Whittaker a homer and two singles in six times up. Two hits each for Ashby's were rapped out by D. Martin, L. Jordan and D. Jackson, with a homer each banged out by L. Jordan and I. Downer. Teams:

Arthur King Whips Savoie In Dull Battle

By ARCH MacKENZIE.

TORONTO, June 5 (CP). — A ring veteran at 23, Toronto and Philadelphia's Arthur King gave a near-perfect exhibition of ring craft Monday night in dulling the potent fists of Montreal's Armand Savoie for a unanimous 10-round decision.

Carrying a 4½-pound advantage at 137½, the slender Negro made his first home appearance in a long time a winning one by standing off the 21-year-old Montreal lightweight. But in playing it cagey with the hard-hitting Savoie, King slowed the fight to a pace that found little favor with Toronto's biggest boxing crowd.

The approximately 9,000 persons in Maple Leaf Gardens paid $24,268, surpassing the $23,500 mark King helped establish four years ago in wresting the Canadian lightweight title from Dave Castilloux. The gate was smaller than expected.

Call For Action

Fans started calling for action as early as the fourth round and kept it up until the end, booing the judges' decision.

Their biggest chance to unleash vocally came in the ninth round as Savoie came out seeking a knockout, took a flurry from King and then twice staggered him with rights against the ropes.

But King was back on top in the 10th—keeping the pattern of left-jabbing Savoie on the way in, then covering up to leave few openings.

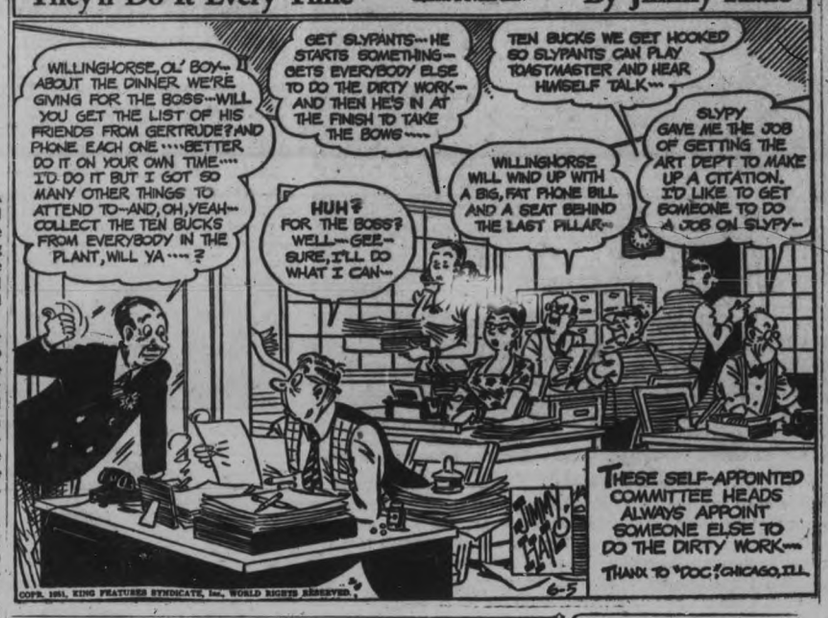
The affair left the vacant Canadian lightweight title unchanged. King, British Empire champion, lost it through inactivity. A championship bout must go at least 12 rounds.

Hamilton Subdues Mimico Mounties 14-4

HAMILTON, June 5 (CP) — The high-flying Hamilton Tigers had little opposition from Mimico Mounties Monday night when they defeated the visitors 14-4 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior game.

Tigers ran up a 2-1 first-quarter lead, made it 7-1 at the half and had the count 10-2 at the end of the third.

Jack Dorney was high scorer for the Tigers with two goals and three assists. Wilf Chard got two counters to lead the Mounties.



WINS FIRST ROUND

At Manchester, England, all three Canadians in the northern lawn tennis tournament came up with first-round victories Monday in the men's singles.

Brenden Macken, Montreal, defeated T. R. Miles 6-2, 6-2. Lorne Main, Vancouver, defeated D. L. Drury 6-0, 6-0 and Henri Rochon, Montreal, whipped G Chapourain 6-1, 6-1.

Indians Break Lopat Jinx Whip Yankees In 8-2 Whirl

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

It took nearly two years, a black cat, 15,000 rabbits' feet, a message to Garcia and some solid socking for Cleveland to break through the Ed Lopat jinx.

But that's what the Indians accomplished Monday night when they sent the stylish southpaw to the showers in two innings with a six-run assault and went on to whip the New York Yankees, 8-2.

Cleveland's victory, its third straight over the Yankees, and its ninth in a row, overshadowed even the Chicago White Sox' sweep of a twi-night doubleheader from the Boston Red Sox, 6-5 and 2-0.

Not since June 17, 1949 had the Indians been able to conquer Lopat. Since then, the lefthander beat them 11 straight times, twice this season. Before Monday night, Lopat had won 30 out of 36 decisions against the Tribe. He entered the fray with an unblemished record of eight wins without a defeat.

Mexican Mike Garcia, beseeched by numerous messages to "beat Lopat," did it handily with a well-scattered 10-hit performance.

Couldn't Compete

"I guess the rabbits' feet and the black cat did it," Lopat sighed in the clubhouse.

Lopat was referring to the good luck charms handed out to the first 15,000 of the 20,217 fans who entered Cleveland Stadium.

As if that wasn't enough, a zany fan tried to break Lopat's hoodoo all by himself by running out to the mound with a black cat as the Yankee hurler was tossing warm-up pitches in the last of the first inning.

The year's biggest turnout at Comiskey Park—42,718—hollered itself hoarse as the White Sox whipped two former teammates—Ray Scarborough and Will Wight—to open up a three and a half game lead in the American League race.

Nip Senators

Billy Pierce and Saul Rogovin, erstwhile members of the Detroit hurling corps, turned in route-going efforts. Pierce yielded 11 safeties but staggered through to his fifth straight victory and his seventh win against two defeats in the opener. Rogovin scattered seven hits to fashion the Palehose's fifth shutout of the season.

Detroit Tigers came from behind with two runs in the last half of the ninth to nip the Washington Senators, 6-5.

Rookie Lou Limmer hit a grand slam home run to lead the Philadelphia Athletics to a 7-6 triumph over the St. Louis Browns. Stan Musial smashed two homers and a single, drove in three runs and boosted his average to .380 as the St. Louis Cardinals checked New York's second place challenge with a 7-2 win. The Cincinnati Reds roared from behind a 7-0 deficit with three tallies in the eighth and seven in the ninth to down the Boston Braves 10-7.

Gus Bell hit for the cycle—a single, double, triple, and homer, to lead Pittsburgh to a 12-4 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Rain washed out the night game between the Dodgers and Chicago Cubs in Brooklyn after a scoreless two innings.

Produce Or Get Out Leaf Players Told

TORONTO, June 5 (CP) — General manager Joe Ziegler of Toronto Maple Leafs Monday night told players for his International Baseball League club to "produce or get out."

Leafs have won eight of their last 17 games, but a road trip to Baltimore and Springfield last week convinced Ziegler he had to make a move.

"After we win six games out of eight and figure to be settled, we go to Baltimore and Springfield and lose five of seven to two clown ball clubs," he stormed at a press conference. "And you can print that I said 'clown' ball clubs."

Ziegler said two or three players on the current team will be departing soon.

Men, Women and Children Trapped In Minefield 3 Canadians Attempt Aid

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, June 5 (CP).—Single-file, knee-deep in the ripening spring wheat, the small peasant group is next to the accustomed path.

In pedestrian Korea, generations of feet have pounded out uphill, down valley and across country, time-saving shortcuts. If the move has to be afoot, the most sensible route is the peasant path.

The late afternoon sun was yawning into twilight as the two families, their pitifully - few earthly belonging on their heads, pause to note that something new had been added since they left the familiar countryside weeks ago.

That was when the Chinese launched their spring offensive.

United Nations forces had fallen back to this north bank of the Han and there had halted, building formidable defences against the invaded. But the enemy never came. Instead, he, too, withdrew when after three weeks of waiting for his moment he lost the initiative, wrenched by a determined UN counter-offensive.

Strong Summons

The front rolled northward with the following crest of returning peasantry close behind. With all its original force, the call of their newly-liberated fields—torn from the Communist grasp for their third time in 11 months — was an inexorable summons.

But barbed wire—spiny strands extravagantly staked over broad expanses of the fields — barred the path.

A nearby soldier shouted. He motioned with his hand.

What did he means? They didn't know. They knew no English. He probably meant they'd find it easier taking the long way around. Besides, soldiers always shout . . .

They stepped across. Five hundred yards away someone saw a flare go up. There were muffled thuds. The little group was in a minefield.

Sgt. Frank Taylor of Montreal, 31-year-old field hygiene expert with the Princess Patricias, doubles as first aid man (as well as camp sergeant - major) when emergency hits the camp. He got Cpl. Paul Skocyclas of Grandview, Man., and also of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps, and jeeped to the scene.

Already Pte. Kawanami of Hamilton was busy in the minefield.

Could Not Help

Koren "Riceburners" (porters with the battalion and so-called because of their diet) lined the wire but dared not go in to help. Nor did a group of Canadians.

Not one man did Taylor see—but seven: men, women and children.

He sent a Canadian back for more supplies. The man, sickened at the sight, neither returned nor saw to it that someone else did .

With bandages and dressings on hand, using slabs from shattered boxes from the Koreans' bundles as splints, Taylor went to work.

The mangled families were spread throughout the area. Terribly wounded though they were, those still able to move had panicked and detonated still more mines. A little girl had gone 150 yards into the field before a cannister blew clear through her back and out her abdomen.

Brought Wounded Back

Slowly, knowing as an infantryman full well the peril in which he was operating, Kawanami brought the wounded back to the relatively safe path running through the area, and on which Taylor was operating .

Two Canadians at the barricade, inspired by Taylor's efforts, entered the field to lend a hand. One sickened as he handed his first bandage and left. The other all but fainted when the leg he was holding up while the sergeant staunched blood came away in his grasp. He left.

Hope For Best

All Taylor and Kawanami could do was stop the bleeding, get temporary splints tied where necessary, and hope the unit could get the tragic group to a field dressing station in time.

One old man, lifted bodily 25 yards off the path by one explosion, lost his left leg and his right foot. His left thigh was shredded by shrapnel, he had a compound fracture of the left arm and his face was lacerated. He died on the way to the dressing station.

All the while Skocyclas, who had brought up strechers, was dragging the wounded out to the barrier as Taylor finished his ministrations to each, and there they were loaded onto unit transport dispatched by Capt. Gordon Turnbull, the adjutant.

Dusk was falling when the job was done in that garden of destruction, over which a cuckoo's cynical "cuck-coo" commented on the ways of man, whose means in war so often obtain other than the intended ends.

EXHAUSTING WAY TO START A JET—"Artificial respiratin" is used by one F-86 jet fighter to start another jet engine in tests at Otis Air Force base, Mass. Using the blast from the plane ahead, the rear jet gets the necessary starting rotation to get underway. The method, tried successfully in Korea, is suitable for emergency starting at advanced bases where external power units—normally used for jet starting, because of the large amount of power required—are not available.

10,500 Workers To Get Raise

OSHAWA, June 5—(CP)—Approximately 10,500 hours-rated and salary employees will receive increased wages and cost-of-living allowances, General Motors of Canada announced Monday.

The company also granted a three-cent increase in basic rates. Salaried employees will receive an additional $25 a month plus a $5 increase in salary. The current allowance is $40 a month.

The new rates become effective the first pay period after June 12.

Parliament Sessions Must Be Lengthened

OTTAWA, June 5—(CP)—Two opposition party members agreed Monday that parliament no longer is a "sideline" for members. It has become a full-time job.

Both agreed that sessions would have to be lengthened.

US Publishers Assoc. To Oppose Increase

WASHINGTON, June 5—(AP)—The American Newspaper Publishers Association Monday gave notice it will continue to oppose the major increases in telegraph press rates proposed by Western Union.

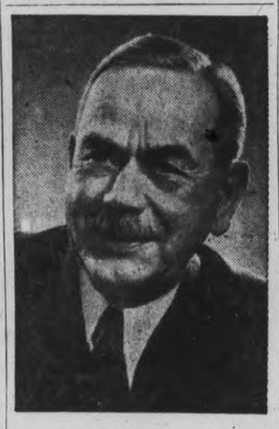
The ANPA filed its statement with the Federal Communications Commission through Julius Ochs Alder, chairman of its press communications committee.

The association had previously filed a telegraphic protest and the FCC May 23 blocked the proposed increases of 10 per cent in commercial rates and an average 15 per cent in press rates scheduled to become effective June 1.

The commission directed Western Union to make no change prior to Sept. 1 and meanwhile ordered public hearings on the increase to start here June 25.

Million Dollar Fire

PASSAIC, N. J., June 5 (AP)—Fire raged out of control for five hours in the heart of downtown Passaic, Monday, gutting a big electrical appliance store and damaging dozens of others. Damage was estimated at $1,000,000. The store, which had just advertised it would not be undersold by New York's price-warring department stores, was jammed with bargain hunters when the fire broke out. Everyone got out safely.



Would Cut Relations With 7 Red Countries

Big Response Boosts Mayor's Fund

Assistant Treasurer Reports Funds "Around $36,000"

Total of subscriptions to the Mayor's Fire Fund has advanced to "around $36,000," reported today by W. R. Wallace, assistant treasurer.

Observance of the King's Birthday by the banks has delayed for one day the publication of the receipts to the Fund over the weekend and Monday. Mr. Wallace is accountant at the Bank of Montreal.

"The accumulation of subscriptions since Saturday prevented us from preparing the daily list and having it typewritten for publication," he said.

The total which he quoted was an early estimate today of the present amount of the Fund from the sheaf of cheques, many of which had been received by mail this morning.

Mr. Wallace mentioned some of the contributions, such as:

Royal Bank of Canada	$200.
Canadian Raybestos Co.	250.
Employees of Raybestos Co.	215.
Peterborough B'nai B'rith	250.
Peterborough Branch, Sun Life Co. of Canada	100.
Staff and City Representatives of Sun Life	50.
Students' Council of PCVS	100.

$100 From Temiskaming

Mr. Wallace reported receipt of a cheque for $100 from the Temiskaming Firemen's Association.

J. R. Miller, South Porcupine, Ont., secretary-treasurer of the Temiskaming Firemen's Association, sent a letter with their cheque expressing condolence with the families of the four men who died in the Zacks building fire of May 19.

"We extend to the wives and families of the deceased our sincere regret and sorrow, and to Chief George Smith and his department our sympathy in the loss of such valued members. And we close with gratitude to the people who are giving their time and effort and contributions to see that all possible steps are taken to make the burden on the wives and families somewhat lighter."

Mr. Miller also wrote that the Temiskaming Firemen's Association is comprised of 33 departments, "some large, some small, in the area of Northeastern Ontario and Northwest Quebec, from Cobalt north. In the majority, the members are volunteer firemen from various walks in life, and our professional membership makes up approximately 15 per cent of the total 800 men".

FREDERICK JAMES HALL who is graduating in electrical engineering from the University of Toronto and will receive his degree at the convocation on Wednesday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Hall, 470 Bonaccord St.

4 Cases Listed June Session County Court

Four criminal cases have been set down for trial at the court of general sessions scheduled to open at 2 p.m. today. Because of the illness of Judge S. L. Smoke the court is expected to be adjourned to later in the week, probably Thursday.

Listed are two charges of forgery, one of theft and one of dangerous driving.

Jack Allen Cockerill, Holloway Drive, on January 11 was committed for trial on a charge of stealing about 120 bronze ingots valued at $750 from the DeLaval Co.

The alleged theft took place on the night of Dec. 30. Both provincial and city police took part in the investigation and arrest of Cockerill.

At present he is out on $2,000 bail.

Forgery Charge

Erancis Sabotka, Oshawa, is charged with forging a withdrawal slip for $300 against the bank account of Jan Jakubowski, also of Oshawa but a one time farm laborer in Asphodel township.

The two men had boarded together in an Oshawa house until Sabotka was arrested in February.

Jakubowski had a savings account in a Peterborough bank and when he decided to transfer the account in February, from Peterborough to Oshawa, he found he had $57 instead of $350.

Charge Against Imming

A charge of forgery has also been laid against Hugh Imming, now of Hamilton, but formerly of Peterborough.

He is the brother of Paul Imming, now serving a three year penitentiary term along with Aubrey S. Hancock, for the $100,000 car finance swindle involving the Colonial Finance Co., Toronto.

Hugh Imming is charged with forging the name of Hugh F. Douglas on a conditional sales contract between his brother Paul, proprietor of Ideal Auto Body, and the Colonial Finance Co.

As a result of the contract, the company forwarded $639 to the Ideal Auto Body on the understanding a car had been sold.

Bail was set at $3,000.

Francis Spring, 66, Prince St., is charged with dangerous driving in connection with the accident that killed Marguerite Beatty, 19, Rink St., on January 23.

Miss Beatty was struck down at Rink and Aylmer Sts. early in the morning, and she was dead on arrival at the hospital.

Police Called To Protect Non-Strikers

No Violence Shows At Marble Co., Four Workers Enter

City police were called to the Ontario Marble Co. Ltd. early today to ensure there would be no violence should non-striking employees wish to enter the plant.

A picket line of 21 men patrolled the south side of Maria St., outside the building.

Two non-striking employees and a couple of other men were not molested or hindered when they entered at 10 a.m. today with police escort.

"We don't intend to fight the police," said Leonard Velleman, UE representative. "But as far as we're concerned those men inside are scabs."

In the company view there is no strike on, and therefore no legal picket line. Twenty-three of the production workers were fired Friday morning when they did not punch the clock to begin the day's work.

Plant Called

Sergeant Leo Murphy and four police responded to a call from Superintendent George Eggerdon at 7 a.m. today. They were to be on hand to protect anybody who wished to return to work.

Nobody showed up at that time and the men continued to demonstrate in orderly fashion outside the plant. They marched back and forth in double column, occasionally breaking ranks for a smoke and a chat.

Several police remained on duty but there were no untoward incidents.

At 10 a.m. the police got a second call. Two workers entered the plant and they were joined by two other men, presumably from the Toronto works. Their morning job was loading marble on a truck.

Stopped May 22

The work stoppage began on the morning of May 22 when the bulk of the production workers objected to the promotion of a man from the ranks to the position of assistant to the superintendent. And they have refused to work since.

The union members say that the company has violated the existing agreement. They contend that seniority must be the first consideration before the company raises a man from the shop to a supervisory position.

Counter-Charge

"Management doesn't want a settlement," said Mr. Velleman. "They have violated the contract and then locked the men out."

Mr. Young says the management has every right to hire, fire, promote or demote employees as it sees fit. He points out that the men had been given three chances to return to work: twice late Thursday and again Friday morning.

There has been no union grievance filed over the promotion, Mr. Young says, and that is the established procedure.

"We're not having any more talks with the men," said Mr. Young, "those outside are fired. Period."

He said the company would continue to ask for police protection, if necessary, so work could go on inside the plant.

Union officials report nearly a 100 percent turnout on the picket line. One man was missing early today but he was said to be on his way to help his workmates.

Firemen To Sponsor Dance To Aid Fund

In an all-out drive to raise funds for the dependents of the four fire victims, the Peterborough Fire Fighters Association is sponsoring a dance this Friday at the Club Aragon.

All of the proceeds—and the charge will be $2 a couple—will go to the Mayor's Fire Fund.

The Club Aragon has donated use of the dance hall for the night and Bobby Kinsman and his orchestra are also giving their service gratis. A number of firms and merchants have paid for advertising.

Dancing will begin at 9 p.m. City firemen, dressed in uniform will be present to take tickets, usher, and keep order.

1879 Hitchhikers

News that the Peterborough-Port Hope railway was discontinued reminded a former Peterborough resident of a day when it came in very useful to her. Mrs. Laura (Campbell) Graham of 60 St. George St., Toronto, travelled with her mother and baby sister to the exhibition in Toronto in 1879. Heading back they were just in time to see the train pulling out of the station. A Port Hope man offered to drive the stranded family as far as Port Hope. They stayed the night in a Port Hope hotel and then the next morning caught the train to Peterborough.

NOT MORE THAN 100 FEET from her Nassau home, two-and-a-half year old Catherine Jones was drowned early Monday afternoon. The tot left a group of other children she had been playing with earlier and fell into the canal at a spot on the west bank indicated by Paul Crough (pointing). It is believed she had been in the water 30 minutes when discovered by her mother who had been anxious over her absence. Percy McNaughton, 50, (LEFT), a power house employee, waded into the canal and lifted her from the water where she had been floating, face downward, 14 feet from the bank. He immediately began applying artificial respiration and continued till the arrival of Dr. Donald Clarke, and later an inhalator squad from the fire department. Skidded On Ice, Not Careless

A charge of careless driving against William Cameron 25, 70 Langton Street, was dismissed today by Magistrate W. R. Philp.

The charge arose out of an accident March 24 when the car Cameron was driving collided with one driven by Mrs. Rena Andrews. About $450 damage was done to the Andrews car.

Mrs Andrews testified she had driven on to Highway 7 from the driveway of the Smith Cheese Factory, and had driven east a short distance when she heard a "terrific bang" at the rear of her car and felt the crash.

She said the road was very icy.

Tried to Swing

Cameron told the court he was coming from Omemee, and had driven up the hill toward the cheese factory. He saw the Andrews car in front of him and tried to swing around it.

"I saw I wasn't going to make it, so I put on my brakes, but didn't get any traction. The car slid right into the other car," he said.

Mrs. Andrews said she had been driving about 25 miles an hour; Cameron said he was driving about 40 miles an hour.

W. J. Arthur Fair, KC, defence counsel, argued that "there may have been misjudgment" on Cameron's part, but not negligence.

John A. Bradshaw, KC, Crown counsel, said "Mr. Fair's argument boils down to this: That you can drive normally under such circumstances, and trust to the ice to get you out of it."

Two Men Sentenced To Four Months' Jail

Two Crawford's Grove men received sentences of four months in Reformatory today when they pleaded guilty to the charges of theft from a vacant house near Indian River.

They are: Frank Booth 21, and Edward Collins 21. Originally they were charged with breaking and entering and theft, but the charge was reduced.

Taken from the house were some hot air registers and a lawn mower.

Booth, who has a record dating back to 1945 was given four months definite and one month indefinite. Collins received a straight four months.

Three Industrial Plants Give $6,142 To Fire Fund

In another progress report from the industrial section of the Mayor's Fire Fund, of whose committee he is a member, Reg. Reid mentioned today a total of $6,142 from three of the city's manufacturing plants. Canadian General Electric Company contributed $1,000 and the employees $4,105. Western Clock Co. $250 and Western Clock employees $796.75.

Canadian Raybestos Co. $250 and Raybestos employees $215.

Six More

"We have six or seven other plants to be heard from," Mr. Reid said.

The estimate today by W. R. Wallace, assistant treasurer, of approximately $36,000 in the treasury, brings the total within reach of the $40,000 which was tentatively suggested by Don McGillis when the group of citizens met on Monday, May 21, to organize the Fund and to set up a trust for its administration.

Incidentally, Capt. George Gimblett of the Fire Department mentioned yesterday a rumor in South Monaghan that the fund was for its general benefit, under similar conditions of emergency and need.

For Victims

"We don't think that opinion obtains throughout the city and district," Capt. Gimblett said, "but it has come to us from one quarter. As everybody has understood, the Mayor's Fire Fund is for the benefit of the dependents of the four men who lost their lives in the fire of May 19.

"The committee of citizens decided that was to be its purpose, and all we can do is help as much as we can in the subscriptions. It was announced the other day that the trust of which Judge Smoke is to be chairman will include in its membership the president of the Fire Fighters' Association, whoever he may be from year to year.

"There should be no misunderstanding about the fund. As we have read, the total amount subscribed is to be turned over to the trust. Use of the fund is left to their discretion, but that use is to be for the aid of the four families."

CELEBRATES 99th BIRTHDAY

Mrs. H. Marshall of Lindsay who is celebrating her 99th birthday this week is also an active gardener. This nonegenarian believes that it pays to keep busy.

Len Woodman Heads Personnel

Len Woodman, personnel officer of the Raybestos Co., has been elected the new president of the Personnel Association of Peterborough. He succeeds Reg. Reid, Outboard Marine.

The association had its third annual meeting at Youngs Point. A new executive was elected. They are Len Woodman, president; Al Hyderman of Peterborough Lock, vice-president; and Ivan McGowan of CGE, secretary treasurer.

Before the meeting the 18 members of the association were taken for a cruiser ride around Clear Lake.

Mr. Reid, the retiring president, said the association had helped in many ways to improve industrial relations. The beneficial effects were shared by the companies, the members of the association, and the community at large.

Hasty Pees Adopt New Indian Mascot

BELLEVILLE, June 5. — Arrangements are being completed to provide "E" Company of the Hasty Pees (Hastings and Prince Edward) regiment with the traditional wooden Indian mascot.

This group will form First Infantry Battalion of the 27th Brigade.

The famous first battalion had its own chief who is still buried somewhere in France. It acquired another "Chief Petawawa-Much" which now mascots the reserve battalion.

A delegation of non-commissioned officers of "E" company approached Lieut. Angus Duffy with a request that this chief be turned over to them.

This was turned down, but arrangements may be shortly completed whereby the company will get an Indian papoose son of "Petawawa-Much".

Tweed Man Dies, Scalded By Steam

BELLEVILLE, June 5 — Bert Cornell, 50, of Tweed, died in Belleville Hospital on Monday morning as a result of a severe scalding at the Hunter Veneer plant in Tweed.

The victim was working at midnight on top of a factory boiler on the nightshift making repairs when a blast of scalding steam hit him. He was able to make his way down the ladder to the boiler room floor, where first aid was given by Dr. M. G. Dales. He was then taken to the Belleville hospital, where he died a few hours later.

A second employee of the plant, a man named Marson, suffered second degree scalds on his arm.

A preliminary inquest was held Monday at Belleville hospital before Dr. R. W. Tennent, coroner.

The accident was investigated by Chief of Police George Spratt of Tweed.

PUC To Extend Water Pipes To Supply New Building

Bell Telephone Co. will occupy for storage and other purposes a depot building which Arnold Steele is planning to build on the west side of High St., south of the CPR. The location is part of the old George May property which fronts on Lansdowne St.

It is on the opposite side of the railway from Timber Structures.

Ross Dobbin has estimated for Utilities Commission that 400 feet of 8-inch main will be required to extend to the new building the water service now at Timber Structure Total, including one-inch connection to the street line is $2,200.

The Dobbin note on this application to the Commission is: "Last year we extended the 8-inch main on High St. from St. Mary's St. to Timber Structures, and this company ageed to pay a minimum water rate of $15 a month, which was approximately 10% of the cost of installation.

The company is served through a meter, but up to date has not used enough water to reach the minimum."

Bell Telephone was interested some weeks ago in the property on the west side of Water St. north that is owned by the city. It consists of about three lots at the foot of a higher level of land overlooking the river. Council refused to sell.

For the Imperial Oil service station at the southeast corner of Monaghan Road and Lansdowne St., a 10-inch main will be laid down Monaghan Road from the north side of Lansdowne St.

"Before the paving of the corner," Ross Dobbin informed the Utilities Commission, "we laid a short piece of 10-inch main across the street. To service this new station would require a further extension of 100 feet, and we estimate the cost of main and service would be $840.

"At some time in the future we purpose extending the 10-inch main to McGill St., where it would connect with the 10-inch main, installed a few years ago. We have not considered it advisable to connect this main through under the CNR, because we anticipate the city will cut down the hill which exists at this point."

City council has "considered" that crossing grade and slope at end of McGill St., in fact that project goes back to the time when James Hamilton was mayor. He proposed the conversion of Monaghan Road from a township highway to a city street. Apparently the job is to be done in piecemeal fashion and gradually.

Number Of Permits Issued In May For New Homes Only Half Total Year Ago

30 Homes Planned May '51, 62 Last May, Cut In Value $454,000 To $266,600; Credit Restrictions May Be Reason

Thirty houses valued at $266,600 were included in May's total of building permits, just half the volume in the last month of spring, 1950. At that time the number of houses in prospect was 62 of estimated value of $454,000. Possibly inflation restrictions may have had some effect in this year's building activity, and right at the peak of the season. Total estimate of last month's permits was $376,720, and the aggregate for the five months of the year was $1,471,053.

May last year sent the building figures surging up over the million and a half level.

The month's total was $1,256,034, boosting the year's figure to $1,661,747.

Permits

Details of last month's permits were received today from the office of City Engineer Chalmers:

18 garages $6,470; 30 houses $266,600; 120 miscellaneous $103,650; total, 171 permits $376,720; and from Jan. 1 to May 31, total $1,471,053.

Particulars for May of last year: 24 garages $5,630; 62 houses $454,000; 120 miscellaneous $796,404; 206 permits $1,256,034. Total for five months $1,661,747.

In the miscellaneous column last month were included: $18,000 on renovations at Capital Theatre; $20,000 Baird and Edwards service station, Lansdowne St. east of Sherbourne St. $20,000; and $15,000 Cities Service service station.

Five Canadians Presented To Princess

By MURIAL NARRAWAY.

LONDON, June 5 (CP).—Five of 13 Canadian buyers in London for Britain's fashion fortnight have been presented to Princess Elizabeth at a government reception in Lancaster House.

Princess Elizabeth was guest of honor at a reception, welcoming buyers from 375 countries to the third British fashion fortnight (May 30-June 13) since the Second World War. This has become a yearly trade "convention" to boost overseas sale of British textiles and fashions.

Looking slim in a mushroom-pink button-through dress with flying side panels, a matching straw picture hat, brown bag and shoes, the Princess chatted with the buyers. She was one of the most unostentatiously dressed figures in a glittering assembly.

A Slight Hitch

Her "guard of honor" was a double line of lovely mannequins wearing expensive creations. Through some hitch in the arrangements, however, the Princess walked quickly through without pausing to examine the clothes.

Most of the guests had already seen these and many other garments exhibited at fashion shows in Grosvenor House. Fashions shown throughout the fortnight cover everything from coats, suits and dresses to high-priced furs. All come from wholesale and manufacturing houses and many are "utility" models — made to government specifications and sold without sales tax to home or overseas buyers.

Hand-knitted suits, dresses and sweaters made by the Women's Home Industries are foremost favorites with North American buyers. There were many hand-knitted shawls and head-scarves, popular for evening wear.

Canadian buyers presented to the Princess included Miss M. Revie, Winnipeg; Mrs. Jane and Miss Patricia Harris of Montreal and Dorothy Weston of Toronto.

Traditional Food Exhibited By ScottishWomen

EDINBURGH (CP)—From remote highland glens to the manufacturing towns of the lowlands Scottish women will send examples of their culinary and handicraft skill to a Festival of Britain exhibton here scheduled for Aug. 16-25.

The exhibition has been arranged by the Scottish Women's Rural Institutes and its main purpose is to show visitors traditional Scottish dishes. They will include Selkirk bannock, Forfar bridies, Ayrshire shortbread, Orkney "broonie" and Tantallon cakes.

Near the exhibition hall on Johnstone Terrace there will be a tea-room where tourists will be able to sample the delicacies prepared by women who are experts at home baking. There will also be a display of handicrafts worked by members, including examples of embroidery, spinning, weaving, knittinga and leather work.

The display of housewifery craft will be the greatest ever attempted by women's oganizations in Scotland. Arrangements have been made for a souvenir booklet of photographs of old and new Scottish crafts.

Hotels and boarding houses throughout Scotland are introducing more traditional Scottish dishes on their menus. In the past visitors have complained that they were given little opportunity to sample dishes peculiar to the different districts.

11 Sisters Mark Anniversaries At The Mount

A Mass of Thanksgiving for the 11 Sisters who are celebrating at Mount St. Joseph the anniversary of their entrance into religion was celebrated on Monday morning by His Excellency Most Rev. Gerald Berry, assisted by Very Rev. V. J. Corkery and the Rev. J. Weiss.

Simultaneously with His Excellency's celebration, two other masses of thanksgiving were offered at the side altars by Monsignor J. J. O'Leary of Sault Ste. Marie at the Sacred Heart Altar, and Rev. J. J Guiry of Port Hope at the Ay Ifatro-Hope at the Altar of Our Lady. Each of these priests has a sister celebrating her golden jubilee: Sister St. Brigid and Sister Mary of Victory.

The chapel was beautifully decorated with golden yellow roses, the gift of relatives of Sister Jubilarians.

There were present in the Sanceuary to do honor to the Sisters, Rt. Rev. J. J. MacAuley DP; Rev. Alphonse McNichol PP of Staynor. Rev J Bennett C.SsR, Toronto; Rev V McFadden PP St. Luke's Church, Downeyville; Rev. Joseph Collins PP, St. Michael's Church, Cobourg; Rev. Joseph Walsh PP, St. Patrick's Church, Kinmount; Rev Simon Perdue, CSB; Rev. Father Mohan C.Ss.R; Rev. Gerrard Sullivan, Rev J. A Greenan, and Rev. Joseph O'Sullivan.

At the conclusion of the masses His Excellency addressed the Sisters, congratulating them on having worked for 50 years in the Vineyard of the Master. He based his sermon on words from chapter IV of the Book of Wisdom, the Lesson of the Mass, "Age is not counted by the number of years A spotless life is old age."

"The value of your lives to the universe, and to the community in which you live, said His Excellency, will make up the number of years you have spent apart from the world. It is a great privilege to celebrate at the Mother House; here you were once a class and you have returned to be a class again."

As a passing summer cloud often partially obscures the brilliant sun of a summer day, so was the rejoicing saddened a little by the announcement of the sudden death of Most Rev. Gerald Murray C.Ss.R, Archbishop of Winnipeg. The deceased was the intimate friend of Bishop Berry (who bears his name), and his companion on his recent visit to Rome.

DOROTHY DIX

Girl Takes Brutal Method Of Breaking Engagement

DEAR MISS DIX: I take it for granted that my fiancee has called things off because she has passed into silence and I haven't been able to get a word out of her for the last four weeks. There is no reason for her change of attitude toward me as we have had no disagreement. I still rite to her every day and every week end I send her a little gift of some sort, as I have done ever since we became engaged. These are accepted but not acknowledged. She hangs on to the diamond that I slipped on her finger with so much pride, although she knows darn good and well that I still owe a hundred bucks on it, and because of this I am holding to the hope that perhaps everything will work out. It is her privilege to break the engagement and if that is what she wants to do I will step out of the picture, but I would like to know where I stand. K. B.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Well, I'd say that the lady has wafted you out into the air and that you are standing in the great open spaces, romantically speaking. Also, I deduce that there are two reasons why your sweetie has suddenly ceased to answer your letters and let the silence of the grave descend upon her. One is that she has fallen out of love with you and in love with some other man and she is ashamed to tell you of her fickleness. But the main reason is that she means to keep that diamond ring and she doesn't intend to enter into any argument about it.

Charge it to Experience

So just charge it up to educational expense and forget it. And in this particular case I think your experience will be worth all it costs in the pangs of unrequited love and hard cash. For a man is lucky to find out before marriage, instead of afterward, whether a girl is a grafter, and whether she is marrying him because she loves him or because she thinks she can get luxuries out of him. He is more than lucky if a girl who is changeable and liable to shift the objects of her affections does it on the safe side of the altar and thus saves him alimony.

Any engagement that can be broken should be broken, and if either a man or a woman doubt their love or their suitability for each other before marriage, not only the honest thing but also the kind thing is for either him or her to break a promise whose keeping would wreck their lives. But the method your ex-fiancee has taken of breaking the engagement by just going dumb is so brutal as to have no justification.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Some years ago my sister and I had a quarrel in which she said bitter things that hurt my feelings and I cried and vowed I would never speak to her again. My husband sided with me. Within a few months my sister and I patched the matter up and have been friends ever since, but my husband has never forgiven her. He will not permit me to go to see her or let her come in our house or let our children mingle. When my son and I do see my sister and her children, he accuses us of double-crossing him and plotting against him. We could be a very happy family, for my husband is a good man and is generous and kind to us, if he would only just forget and forgive. Is there any way that I can make him understand this?

PERPLEXED WIFE

ANSWER: Evidently your husband is one of the stubborn men who have a lot of foolish pride that makes them stick to a position once they have taken it, and so your best chance of getting him to drop the old feud is just to let the issue die. Don't argue with him about it. Don't discuss it. Don't plead with him to let you go to your sister's. Just cover the whole matter with a pall of silence and in time his old grievance will grow dim even in his own mind.

And it would help a lot if you would be unusually affectionate and attentive to your husband and make him understand that you and the boy are not siding with your sister against him. What feeds the flame of his hate is jealousy. He can't bear to think that you don't approve of him and consider that he is being mean and little about the matter.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I have been married twenty-five years to a wonderful husband. Our trouble is his mother, who has been with us for fifteen years. She is 75 years old, is constantly nagging our 14-year-old daughter and is always interfering in our affairs. We can't have a five-minute conversation alone. She has three other children. Don't you think she should spend part of her time with them? M. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: No matter how much we love our elderly relatives, they can be trying at times. Having no activity of their own, they take vicarious pleasure in minding everyone else's business and without being tactless it is very difficult to indicate that the family would occasionally like some privacy. Since Grandma has three other children, I should think she'd enjoy visiting with them for a change.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Puddings Recipes Found Always Popular With Cooks

Whether my conviction that fruit is the correct and best kind of dessert is a phobia or a prejudice or a notion—I try not to let it show too glaringly in these columns. It has been called all three, and most of us know that when we toil we are only trying to improve on God's handiwork for desserts—fresh fruits—and it can't be done.

But I'm a cooking expert (or so I'm told) and one of my young fans wants to see pudding recipes in this column. All you need to do is ask and I jump right off my soap box and land at the typewriter with my recipe file beside me.

✧ ✧ ✧

Fresh Cherry or Strawberry Roll

Into a pan that is about 13x9 inches put 1½ cups sugar and 2 cups water and place over low heat and let come gently to boiling point while you prepare

Shortcake Dough: 2 cups sifted flour, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 5 or 6 tablespoons shortening or margarine, 2/3 to ¾ cup milk. Sift together first four ingredients and then cut into them the shortening, then quickly stir in the milk to make a soft dough. Roll out into an oblong on floured board about ⅓ inch thick and 6x12 inches. Spread with 3 cups pitted fresh cherries (sour are best and when used sprinkle with ⅓ to ½ cup sugar), and dot with 1 tablespoon butter and sprinkle with ½ teaspoon nutmeg or cinnamon. Roll up and pinch ends and cut into slices with very sharp knife—slices should be 1½ inches. Place cut side down in boiling hot syrup and bake at once in oven of 450 deg. Fahr. for about 20 to 25 minutes. Serve warm with unsweetened whipped or pouring cream. Strawberries are equally good, but they need no sugar inside the roll.

Variation: When strawberries are expensive use half strawberries and half cut up rhubarb in the roll. Use sugar inside the roll when rhubarb is used.

Plum Duff

In a medium-sized bowl beat 2 eggs very well then stir in 1 cup brown sugar, ½ cup shortening or margarine very soft or melted, and 2 cups cut-up cooked prunes which have been well-drained. Sift together 1 cup sifted flour, ½ teaspoon salt, and 1 teaspoon soda. Sift over egg and shortening mixture and stir in. Pour into buttered mould—filling it not more than two-thirds full. Steam for 1 hour. Serve with Foamy Sauce: Cream one-quarter cup butter and gradually beat into it 2/3 cup sugar. Beat in 2 egg yolks and 2 tablespoons milk. Cook, stirring, over hot water until thick and remove at once. Add 1 tablespoon lemon juice and ½ teaspoon vanilla, then pour slowly over 2 beaten egg whites, stirring until blended. Serve at once.

Pineapple Rice

One cup cold boiled rice (if grains are not separate wash them under cold running water and drain dry), 1 cup whipped cream, ½ cup sugar, 6 marshmallows, 1 cup crushed pineapple fresh or canned, ¼ cup chopped nuts. Whip cream. Add sugar and rice and blend. Add the chopped marshmallow and chill. Chill drained pineapple. When ready to serve add well-drained pineapple and chopped nuts and fold into mixture. Pile lightly in sherbet glasses. Fresh strawberries are delicious used in place of pineapple. These amounts are supposed to serve 6 but if Pete is any measuring stick I'd count on only 4 servings.

Lovely Presents Given At Charity Ball

LONDON (CP)—A bouquet of Malayan and American orchids with Canadian and French roses was presented to Princess Elizabeth at the annual flower ball, held in conjunction with the Royal opening of the Chelsea Flower

Other presentations were a corsage of pink Prince Charles orchids, a woolly lamb for Princess Anne, a toy electric stove and two dozen toy soldiers in Guards and Household Cavalry uniforms for Prince Charles.

The gifts for her children were presented to the princess on behalf of the St. Loyes Training College for disabled persons, in whose aid the ball was given. More than £65 was raised for the college by the sale of flowers and seven bouquets, including one at the top price of 10 guineas, went to Elizabeths' table.

Wearing an off-shoulder gown of gold brocade, a diamond and ruby necklace, bracelet and earrings, the princess danced for nearly three hours with the men at her table.

Longest dance of the evening went to her childhood playmate and cousin, Lord Carnegie.

"We grew up together but this is the first time for 11 years that we have danced together," said Lord Carnegie.

Child's Booklet Democracy Story

TORONTO —(CP)— A chatty booklet aimed at catching the eye of youngsters in the first grade is the latest educational effort of the Imperial Order Daughters of the Empire.

Main objective of this little book, "The House Next Door," is to tell kiddies—in language they can understand—a bit about Communism. The Order wants them to realize the advantages of living in a democratic country.

There's another angle to this booklet, still in mimeographed form, which the Order would like to see used in Canadian schools. It's written in story fashion, starting off when Jerry and Judy rush into the kitchen to tell their mother a new family is moving next door.

The new neighbors turn out to be a family of new Canadians. The way in which Jerry and Judy quickly make friends with Jarmila and Janis Kovac is another lesson in good citizenship.

Jerry and Judy aren't troubled by the unusual names and strange accents of their new friends but accept them as a matter of course.

The five chapters tell about Grandfather Kovac who likes to mend toys. And there's a bit of business with a puppet-show. All in all it's a sprightly children's story.

Bylaw Has Women In Low Category

VANCOUVER (CP)—A lawyer in court here said a civic act places married women in the same category as infants and lunatics.

The act is the Greater Vancouver Water District Act, which prohibits women from naming an arbitrator in any property dispute with the district water board.

"The statute puts married women in the same class as infants or insane persons and says they may not name their own arbitrator," board counsel D. M. Brown told Mr. Justice A. M. Manson.

He was arguing in the case of Mrs. Jessie Flynn, who refused an offer of $5,000 for her property in the Seymour Creek Watershed. The court was asked to appoint an arbitrator when Mrs. Fowler's husband refused to appoint one, as he was permitted to do under the act.

Cartwheel Hats Top Fashion Show

TORONTO (CP)—Black "cartwheel" hats and higher hemlines featured the Israeli fashion show at the Canadian International Trade Fair.

It was the first time Israel dress manufacturers have presented their goods before the critical eye of a Canadian public. The show met with hearty aplause.

While there wasn't much originality of design the perfect draping of the skirts—for the most part full—attracted audience attention.

Large black hats accompanied several of the afternoon costumes while huge flower corsages were noted for formal wear.

One of the most handsome gowns was a yellow taffeta evening affair, topped with black net and with a close-fitting black lace top.

Among the most unusual was a black evening-skirt made of black taffeta "peatls." This outfit was completed by a white rogandy blouse.

Says World Has Too Many Babies Uncontrolled Population Danger

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, June 5—(AP)—"Next to the atom bomb, the most ominous force in the world today is uncontrolled human fertility," says Robert C. Cook, managing editor of the Journal of Heredity.

He gives two main reasons:

It is making Americans dumber each generation. There is a steady decline in the country's average intelligence because the less-intelligent are producing more babies than the more intelligent. Eventually, the US may become "a nation of near half-wits."

The world is producing far more babies than it has food or other resources to support. The daily net increase of humans is 68,000, about 47 a minute. At this rate, the earth will have 4,000,000,00 humans by the year 2,000, compared with the present 2,5000,000,000. Even now, more than two-thirds of the world's population do not get enough to eat.

Cook spells out the dangers in a new book, "Human Fertility: The Modern Dilemma" (Wm. Sloane Associates, Inc.).

Economic standards of living are not the yardstick of intelligence, but the fact is that the more successful people in art, science, business and professions are being out-bred by the less-successful.

In England, a Royal Commission in 1949 concluded that "the average intelligence quotient of the British people was declining about two points every generation."

The answer, Cook says, is to get at least more equality or parity in the reproduction rates among all levels of intelligence, from superior to average or below average.

Countries stabilizing their populations are notably Sweden, France and Ireland, he adds.

Fraser Valley Liberal MP Willing To Bet He Can Tell Butter From Margarine

OTTAWA, June 5 — (CP) — George Cruickshank, Liberal member of parliament for Fraser Valley, is willing to bet that he can tell the difference between butter and margarine.

He offered to make the bet after James Sinclair, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, said in the Commons that he learned that Mr. Cruickshank recently ate the butter substitute and could not tell the difference from butter.

The incident, said Mr. Sinclair, occurred at Canada Packers plant in Toronto during a recent visit by members of parliament. He said he had written Canada Packers and was informed by the secretary of the company that Mr. Cruickshank had been served margarine at a luncheon. The secretary said he believed Mr. Cruickshank was "under the impression that he was eating butter, but such was not the case."

"Neither you (in Canada) nor we (in the United States) have felt anything like the full impact of the defence programs yet. Offer To Give King Treatments

TORONTO, June 5. (CP)—The Vitamin E. Society of Canada offered Monday to send a doctor to London to administer vitamin E. treatments to the King in an effort to cure him of Buerger's disease, a leg affliction from which His Majesty is suffering.

R. C. Wood, prominent Toronto broker and honorary secretary of the society, made public a letter he sent to Lord Beaverbrook, publisher of the Daily Express. It requested the latter's aid in allowing Dr. Evan Shute of the Shute Institute, London, Ont., to be sent to England to consult with the King's physician.

Mr. Wood wrote:

"Our society regretfully admits that the Medical Associations of Canada do not officially approve of vitamin E therapy, though over 4,000 Canadian doctors either use or prescribe it and Dr. Evan Shute has 195 doctors and their families as his patients . . .

"Our society feels that medical prejudice should have no part in withholding a possible helpful treatment from His Majesty . . ."

Mr. Wood said many cases of Buerger's disease have responded to vitamin E treatment. The disease is a circulatory ailment that affects circulation of the blood in the legs.

Snows Second Day In Alberta

WINNIPEG, June 6. (CP)—A June deluge of snow, rain and sleet today drenched a wide section of southern Alberta for the second day, breaking down telegraph lines and disrupting communications. Reports reaching here said snow was continuing in Calgary and Lethbridge today after the unseasonable storm brought three inches of snow in the last 24 hours. Telegraph connections with Calgary and other Southern Alberta points were spasmodic. Reports reaching Canadian Pacific communications here said 110 telegraph poles were down in one area; 25 were broken in another. Reports said the snow was confined to a triagular area bounded by Calgary, Lethbridge and Cowley, Alta.

The temperature fell to 32 degrees in Calgary and Lethbridge Tuesday night.

An official of Canadian National Telegraphs said if was too early to give an accurate estimate of the amount of damage done by the heavy snow and freezing rain. He said the storm was "very serious."

An official of Manitoba government telephones said it was impossible to telephone Calgary and other points in southern Alberta from Winnipeg. Vancouver also was cut off on the direct circuit.

No snow was reported from Saskatchewan points, but rain was general in the southwestern region of the province. The weather bureau said it would spread northward and eastward.

Thundershowers were forecast for tonight in the Qu'Appelle and Assiniboine valleys, in eastern Saskatchewan and western Manitoba.

Edmonton and the northern half of Alberta appeared to have missed the storm. There was bright sunshine in Edmonton.

Must Build Seaway Alone If Necessary Frost Says

SAULT STE. MARIE, June 6. (CP)—Premier Frost of Ontario says Canada must be prepared, if necessary, to go ahead with the St. Lawrence Seaway without United States assistance. Addressing the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet he said Tuesday night that Ontario should be ready to help build an all-Canadian canal and enter into a joint arrangement with New York State for use of St. Lawrence power. Ontario would need an additional 1,500 horsepower within five years and its development would take all that time.

Mr. Frost said that if the Canadian Government decides to undertake the project, it can count on the full co-operation of Ontario and of its Hydro Commission.

"I, of course, would express the hope that the American government would go into partnership with us. I have great admiration for our neighbor."

(Almost as he spoke, a Detroit delegation said in Toronto that five States on the Great Lakes had started discussions on the legality of joining with Canada in the work of building the seaway.)

Planning Link

The Premier revealed plans to link this district's iron ore properties with the Trans-Canada Highway in a move to expand Canada's steel industry.

He said the iron-mining centres of Wawa, Hawk Junction and Michipicoten Harbor, about 190 miles north of here, "will be well and reasonably connected with the Sault." Aerial and ground surveys were being carried out to pick the best route.

"We have had some spectacular developments in Labrador and Steep Rock, but still I am inclined to the view that probably Algoma is greater than them all.

"The potentialities are enormous. It is close to large cities of population. It is served by three railways and by the greatest inland waterway in the world. It has its own steel mills and a great city, Sault Ste. Marie, to service it. I do not think there is any better set-up in America."

With construction of the seaway [illegible] ore resources would be opened to the world.

Will Consider Execution Stay

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP).—A Supreme Court attache said today that the court would consider a request for a last-minute stay of execution for seven condemned Nazis.

The stay was asked by Warren E. Magee in a motion filed in the office of the Supreme Court Clerk Tuesday. He contended serious constitutional questions remained unanswered in the case of the seven condemned men.

It was assumed that the executions would be deferred, at least until final action is taken by the Supreme Court.

The government had asked the court to throw out the new appeal.

London Docks Face Complete Shutdown

LONDON, June 6 (Reuters)—London's vast dock system was threatened with a complete shutdown today when an unofficial strike of checkers spread to Tilbury, a huge port near the mouth of the Thames.

The 1,400 tally clerks are striking in sympathy with checkers at London's "Royal Group" of docks, who walked off the job Monday, claiming the Dock Labor Board had broken an agreement.

Dockers and stevedores are idle as well, since they cannot work without the checkers to supervise them.

About 50 big ships are tied up.

OTTAWA, June 6 — (CP). — Solon Low, 51-year-old Leader of the Social Credit Party, was assaulted Tuesday night as he chatted with two friends at a bus stop outside the Chateau Laurier Hotel in downtown Ottawa. He suffered split lips.

Mr. Low was taken to hospital where doctors put two stitches in each of his lips.

Police booked a man who gave his name as Joseph P. Desgagne in connection with the attack. He was charged with common assault and probably will appear in police court today.

Nationalist China's UN Debt May Curb Assembly Vote

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y., June 6 — (AP) — Unless Nationalist China makes a substantial payment by next Jan. 1 on her United Nations dues, she may lose the general assembly vote that Russia has tried so hard to deny her.

Official records of UN finances revealed today that Chiang Kai-shek's government has paid nothing on its membership assessment for either 1950 or 1951, and owes more than half of her 1949 assessment.

The UN charter provides that a member shall not vote in the assembly if it is financially delinquent for two full years. But the assembly may permit such a member to cast ballots if it is convinced that the failure to pay is due to conditions beyond the member's control.

Chiang's Chinese are not the only Un members with unpaid bills, however. UN assessments for 1951 total more than $42,000,000—$36,000,000 is still uncollected.

Nationalist Chinese sources said here that their government is aware of its obligation to the UN and is trying to meet the problem.

All 1951 bills to the UN were due Jan. 1, at the beginning of the UN fiscal year. Howeever, many members have fallen into the habit of letting them slide until later in the year, several paying in the late fall.

The Russians usually come in with a huge cheque during the general assembly. The Soviet Union's bill this year totals $2,971,386.

The United States assessment for 1951 is $16,568,244. The US is expcted to pay this in its fiscal year beginnig July 1.

Canada's membership bill for the United Nations this year will run to about $1,400,000. So far, Canada has made a $233,000 payment and has informed UN headquarters the remainder will be paid just as soon as the money is voted by parliament. This amount does not include Canad's contributions to UN specialized which may run to more than $1,000,000 this year.

Mosquitos So Bad Bowlers Need Doctor

KITCHENER, June 6 (CP). — Two women bowlers playing at Kitchener's municipally-controlled Rockway Bowling Club have required medical attention for mosquito bites they received on the greens, Stanley Shupe, city engineer, told the city council's Board of Works meeting Tuesday night.

He was authorized to have all shrubs, bushes and other foliage surrounding the greens treated with "DDT fog," provided the cost is not prohibitive.

Several aldermen agreed that this spring has been "very bad" for mosquitos, but veteran Alderman Henry Sturm said they are not to be compared with those he encountered several years ago on a fishing trip to Lake Nipissing. The northern type, he said, were "as big as grasshoppers."

Find Jewels Hidden In Locker

Police Uncertain If $100,000 Gems Been Lost or Stolen

MONTREAL, June 6. (CP) —Were the $100,000 in jewels belonging to the Hollywood producer's wife lost, stolen or both? That's the question tickling the curiosity of Montrealers today.

Police recovered the jewels in a baggage locker Tuesday. But after that fact and the few others police would release, the case took on the tinge of a magazine detective thriller.

These are facts as police told them Tuesday night. Mrs. Archie L. Mayo, wife of a Hollywood movie producer, reported Tuesday her jewels were stolen.

Somehow, police wouldn't say how, this led Chief of Detective Wilfrid Bourdon to question a "foreign woman" in the midtown hotel where Mrs. Mayo had been staying. Meanwhile, Mrs. Mayo left town for New York.

Find Locker Check

While questioning the "foreign woman", police said they found a baggage locker check in the bottom of a chocolate box. They said the woman had tried to go to the bathroom with the chocolate box during the questioning.

The locker check led to the locker where the jewels were found in a chamois bag. They include diamond-studded wrist watches, platinum earrings, diamond bracelets and several other items.

Police said the "foreign woman," whom they declined to identify, told them she found the jewels on a settee Tuesday in the hotel where Mrs. Mayo had stayed.

They quoted her as saying two women sat down beside her in the hotel lobby and when they left, she noticed a chamois bag which she picked up and took with her.

All police would add to this was that they were not holding the "foreign woman," that she had booked passage for Europe on a passenger liner and that their investigation was continuing.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Mayo was coming back from New York to identify all the jewels, police said. Chief of Detective Bourdon said some items had not yet been "all directly identified." But "most of them have been identified by Mrs. Mayo."

Truck Catches Wire Youth Electrocuted

SAULT STE. MARIE, June 6—(CP) — John McMillan, 17, of nearby Echo Bay, was electrocuted Tuesday when a log-jamming apparatus on his truck caught in high tension wires skirting a highway.

McMillan was driving up the old Garden River Reserve road to work when the apparatus on his truck caught in the 32,000-volt Company.

Police said he would have lived if he had remained in the vehicle, but he stepped out and grounded himself. Police said the truck burned for hours after they arrived.

The tragedy was discovered by McMillan's brother Jim, and a friend, Pete Gavin.

Tried To Bribe Council TorontoMayorCharges

TORONTO, June 6 (CP). — Mayor Hiram McCallum told city council that Charles Rich tried to bribe council members to have an injunction against his north Toronto property lifted.

Rich has been involved in a four-year fight with the city because he wants to use the property, in a business district, for dwelling purposes.

Mayor McCallum said to C. E. Shand, Rich's lawyer:

"Rich didn't stop at trying to use such tactics on one or two members, either."

Reserves Judgment

MONTREAL, June 6. (CP) —Mr. Justice Maurice Lalonde in Superior Court today reserved judgment on the habeas corpus move by Count Jacques Duge de Beronville of France to set aside a deportation order. The 53-year-old French nobleman seeks a permanent home in Canada. He is under death sentence, passed in absentia in France, for alleged wartime collaboration with the Nazis during the German occupation.

Iran Slowing Up Seizure Of Oil Company

TEHRAN, Iran, June 6 (CP)—Iran slowed up today on seizure of the properties of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, but most newspapers here criticized the government for not speeding enforcement of its nationalization law.

With representatives of the British-controlled company to come here for oil talks with Iranian officials, the government already exhibited a definite slowdown in the take-over measures it had vowed would be carried out early this week.

As a result, most of Iran's press blasted Premier Mohammed Mossadegh for not implementing the law at once.

Assassination Plot

Police said details of a plot to assassinate Mossadegh were found on Mojtaba Navab Safavi, arrested leader of the fanatical Fadayian Islam sect, and began an intensive hunt for his followers.

Police said they found information about the conspiracy in Safavi's pockets when they seized him last Sunday.

They declared the sect was also preparing to murder Sayed Kashani, a Moslem religious leader.

Safavi, who used to send threatening letters to prominent politicians written in blood, was reported by police to have admitted that he ordered the murder of Prime Minister Ali Razmara last March 7. His death cleared the way for Nationalists advocating nationalization of the AIOC.

Propose Vote For Men In Army

OTTAWA, June 6 (CP).—The elections committee of the Commons moved Tuesday to extend the franchise to all members of the services on active service regardless of whether they have reached the legal voting age of 21 years.

The committee approved an amendment to the Dominion Elections Act proposed by Nelson Castonguay, chief electoral officer.

It provides that any serviceman or woman who on or after Sept. 9, 1950, is or has been on active service is entitled to vote.

The amendment will have the effect of extending the vote in general elections to all service personnel under 21 years in the regular forces in Canada as well as abroad. All of Canada's regular forces have been placed on active service.

Big 3 Delay Answer To Russians

Details Unsettled On Red Demand Pact Be Discussed

PARIS, June 6. (CP) — The Western Big Three delayed today their reply to Russia's demand that any four-power foreign ministers' conference must specifically discuss the North Atlantic Pact and American bases abroad.

The West was scheduled to give an answer to the "conditional" acceptance by the Soviet Union of an invitation to convene the Big Four meeting on international tensions.

A western spokesman said today "the three western deputies have not yet finished alignment of their views on the Soviet reply to the three-power note."

"They will meet again at 5 p.m. tonight while continuing to check with their governments. The four deputies will have their 66th meeting Thursday.

Not In Province

The west has contended during the three months of meetings here that since the Atlantic Pact is a treaty of 12 sovereign countries, it cannot rightly come up for discussion in a meeting of the Big Four powers. They also held, however, that such matters as the Atlantic Pact and US bases could be discussed, if need be, within the framework of any one of three proposed agendas.

Two days ago Soviet deputy Andrei Gromyko, replying to western notes suggesting a Big Four meeting in Washington July 23, said the USSR would agree to such a meeting if the pact and the bases were placed on the agenda. The west looked upon this as amounting to rejection of the western bid.

3 Escape Police In 90 mph Plunge

HAMILTON, June 6 (CP) — Three persons escaped police after a 90-mile-an-hour plunge in a stolen car into a deep gulley on the old Guelph road early today. The car did not turn over in the wild ride down the side of the 60-foot embankment and the occupants fled unscathed.

Provincial police first picked up the trail of the stolen automobile on the beach strip at 1 a.m., shortly after the high-powered car was reported missing.

The chase swept around the bay. Bursting through a road block near Aldershot, the fleeing car outdistanced the pursuing cruisers before it crashed along the old Guelph road, which runs from Clappisons cut to Longwood road. Cutting a path through the shrubs it came to stop a few feet short of an eroded creek bed.

Knew Of Invasion

WASHINGTON, June 6 ((AP).—State Secretary Dean Acheson said today Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters had a report three months in advance that the North Korean Reds planned but refused to believe it.

Major Reversal

LONDON, June 6. (Reuters)—Britain's decision in the United Nations trusteeship council Tuesday not to sponsor the membership of the Chinese Communist government was understood in diplomatic quarters here today to represent a major reversal of British policy on the question of Red China's admission to the United Nations. A foreign office spokesman declined today to state directly whether Britain's action indicated a general decision not to press for the admission of Communist China to the UN.

Aussie Dockers End Strike After 24 Hours

MELBOURNE, Australia, June 6 (Reuters)—Thousands of Australian dock workers and seamen returned to work today after a 24-hour protest strike.

The men walked out Tuesday when three Communist union officials went to court on charges arising from a waterfront ban on New Zealand shipping in sympathy with New Zealand strikers.

Most major ports were affected.

An industry disciplinary board, backed by union officials, fined 100 Sydney dock workers £2 each for taking part in the stoppage.

The executive of the Australian Council of Trade Unions later agreed Australian unionists should not become involved in the New Zealand waterfront dispute.

This may mean an early lifting of the blacklist ban on shipping from New Zealand.

Ask 24-cent Boost

The New Zealand strikers are demanding the equivalent of a 24-cent-an-hour wage increase. They now make 60 cents.

The executives' decision came after it had received a delegation from the Waterside Workers' Federation, which included its Communist general secretary, James J. Healy.

The government has issued summonses under the Crimes Act against Healy for alleged offences arising from the present waterfront trouble.

Meanwhile, the 17,486 ton trans-Pacific liner Aorangi, whose crew walked off Tuesday in protest against the charges, still is without replacements.

She was to have sailed Thursday for Vancouver, B.C., by way of Auckland, N.Z.

Police On Lookout For Burwash Pair

KILLARNEY, June 6 —(CP)—Provincial police searched this Georgian Bay north shore area today for two escapees from Burwash Industrial Farm believed heading here from nearby Lake Penage.

Police said the two, identified as Albert Joseph Cadeau, 29, of Orillia and William Ervin Kett, 23, of Windsor were spotted heading this way after several cottage owners reported that their cottages on Lake Penage were broken into.

They said the pair are believed to be armed with rifles stolen from the cottages. They escaped from the farm near Sudbury, May camp dairy barns.

600 Employees Out Of Job In Unauthorized Walkout

FERGUS, Ont., June 6 (CP)—A union meeting during working hours, described by the company as an unauthorized walkout, has left home more than 600 employees of the Beatty Brothers Co. out of work.

The men attended a meeting in Victoria Park called by the United Steelworkers of America (CIO) to discuss contract negotiations and returned to find a notice they were suspended "until further notice."

The work stoppage of the men —about three-quarters of this Guelph area town's working force —threatens to cause a major slump in local business.

The company declared the walkout illegal. Production manager Albert Menzies said a similar walkout several weeks ago was followed by a warning to the union that a repetition would bring disciplinary action.

Keith Ross, USW international representative, charged it was a lockout. "We are not on strike," he said.

Union men stood outside the plant Tuesday night. The company said they were pickets, but the union described them as security guards. Ross said union members were considering penalizing the company by staying off work one day for every day of the suspension.

A dispute over wages involved piece workers and a guaranteed rate, and day workers. The company and union are about eight cents an hour apart on the guaranteed rate and four cents an hour apart for day workers. The union sought a 16-cent increase to bring day workers up to $1.10 an hour. The company offered 12 cents.

A conciliation board is to meet in the dispute, with Judge J. C. Reynolds of Kingston as chairman.

Dulmage's trial is scheduled to start today. Maximum penalty for abduction is seven years.

Fulford (L-Leeds), said if a man or woman put on the King's uniform he or she should have the right to vote whether fighting in the field or not.

Leonard Stick (L, Trinity-Conception), agreed but George Nowlan (PC-Annapolis-Kings) and Edward Applewhaite (L-Skeena) thought there were going to be a lot of service people who would do little or no fighting.

New Type of Warfare Hinted From China By Communist Army

TOKYO, June 6. (AP)—Allied tank patrols today hammered at the gates of Chorwon and Kumhwa, southern anchors of the Communist central Korean stronghold.

A tough and confident United Nations army "is standing at the front door now, hammering at the lock," AP correspondent Robert Eunson reported from Eighth Army headquarters in Korea.

Tight censorship blacked out the exact distance Allied troops were from the Reds' strategic Chorwon - Kumhwa - Pyonggang bastion. The Eighth Army reported gains of up to two miles, except on the bitterly-defended eastern front.

In the west, Eunson reported the Allies had "battled all the way back to the gates of Chorwon . . . exactly where they were six weeks ago when the Communists' first spring offensive was touched off."

Closing In

Then, the main line was four miles from Chorwon. Armored patrols stabbed two miles closer. Eunson reported official estimates place 300,000 Reds on the battlefront. He said 120,000 North Koreans hold the eastern and western flanks, with 180,000 Chinese in the centre defending their vital triangle.

Hints of a possible new type of warfare in Korea came in an unconfirmed report from Taipeh. The China Union Press said 30,000 Soviet satellite troops have arrived in Red Korea.

The Chinese Nationalist agency said 1,000,000 conscripts are digging deep tunnels, immune to air and artillery attack, linking strong points from which this new force will fight.

The Eighth Army gave this picture of the front Wednesday:

West. Only patrol action on the dragging left flank south of the 38th Parallel. Gains of up to two miles near Yonchon, six miles north of the border.

Centre: UN forces gained a little more than half a mile in the Yongpyong area, one to two miles to the east and northeast. Limited

Doomed Girl Gets Diploma

ATLANTA, Ga., June 6—(AP)—A shyly radiant girl for whom life is nearly over was graduated from high school Tuesday night with 185 classmates.

For cancer-doomed, 18-year-old Betty Thompson the brief road ahead held only uncertain hopes of a brief marriage to Sailor Tom Amburn and then death, possibly in the fall.

She was awarded a loving cup by classmates as the school's outstanding citizen.

Betty wore her engagement ring from Amburn who is confined to a naval hospital at Na[illegible] nerves.

Betty and Tom were planning to be married. When Tom went home to talk to his parents the navy cancelled his furlough for leaving the place he had given as his emergency address.

New Zealand Worries About King's Visit

AUCKLAND, June 6 (Reuters)—New Zealanders feel grave misgivings about the wisdom of persisting with the proposed royal tour of the Dominion next year because of the King's health, The Auckland Star says today.

"Everywhere people are heard saying it might be in the interests of His Majesty's health and the Queens' peace of mind that their visit to Australia and New Zealand be abandoned," the paper says.

"At the same time the general feeling is that there should be a royal visit Who would be more welcome than Her Royal Highness Princess Elizabeth, heiress to the throne, with her popular husband, the Duke of Edinburgh?"

Opposition Fails To Alter Tax Proposals

OTTAWA, June 6 (CP).—Opposition groups tried unsuccessfully in the Commons Tuesday to have the Federal government alter 1951-52 tax proposals.

Some members protested against increases in the sales and excise taxes others sought to have an excess-profits tax imposed on corporations to relieve the income tax burden on persons in the low-income group. The government—once with the aid of the Progressive Conservatives — rejected suggested changes.

Finance Minister Abbott said revenues are needed to meet additional defence expenditures and the government tried to spread the burden as evenly as possible.

The official opposition voted with the Liberals to defeat 129 to 19 a CCF motion calling for a graduated excess profits tax on corporations. The Social Credit party voted with the CCF.

The motion was sponsored by H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay West) after Mr. Abbott called for second reading — approval in principle—of a bill giving legal effect to the income tax changes announced in the budget. The bill was given the reading following defeat of Mr. Herridge's proposal

Gets Second Reading

Given second reading and passed through committee was a bill providing for changes in the excise and sales tax. Members voted 42 to 28 against a move to force repeal of a 25 per cent increase in the sales tax. The budget boosted the tax to 10 per cent from eight per cent.

Given third reading and sent to the Senate was a bill providing for a number of minor changes in customs tariffs.

In moving his motion, Mr. Herridge said that the budget slapped a 20 per cent defence tax on the amount people already pay in personal income taxes. The CCF believed this would work hardship on those in the low-income groups.

An excess profits tax on corporations would reduce inflation and would allow the government to ease the burden on those earning small incomes.

There should, said Mr. Herridge, be equality of sacrifice in the matter of taxation.

Demand Repeal

Spokesmen for all opposition groups called for repeal of the increase in the sales tax. Mr. Abbott said he considered it preferable to another increase in income taxes.

Progressive Conservative, Social Credit and CCF members voted against the increase and won support from Matthew MacLean (L-Cape Breton North Victoria) and J. L. Gibson (Ind.-Comox-Alberni). Other Liberals supported it.

Mr. Abbott said that unless over-all production is increased taxes "must and should" reduce the consumption of everyone if the demands of defence production are to be met. Living standards must be reduced.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, termed the sales tax "oppressive" and said that if Canada is going to have such levies she should also have a line of tax-free utility goods, especially in clothing for working people and children.

Game Wardens Fight Over Seized Rods

It looked like a case of "hit or git" to Jack O'Neill, Brock St. He hit.

In police court today on a charge of assaulting his fellow deputy game warden, Sidney Mitchell, Pigeon lake, O'Neill was convicted and fined $10 and $10.50 costs by Magistrate W. R. Philp.

The difference between the two deputy wardens began the night before pickerel fishing opened, on May 11. Mitchell siezed rods and reels belonging to two anglers he found fishing from the Chemong lake causeway before midnight.

Mitchell said the men had a pickerel, but they threw it into the lake. O'Neill, president of the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association, said that the practice that evening had been to caution the fishermen, not to sieze their rods.

Half Hour Early

Mitchell had seized the equipment about 11.30, with half an hour to go before the season opened.

O'Neill said the two men complained to him that their equipment had been seized, and he went to Mitchell to see about it. Mitchell said O'Neill tried to persuade him to give the poles back.

"He called me many names he shouldn't have," said Mitchell.

On May 12, said Mitchell, he went to the Reid St. home of Conservation Officer Stanley Windsor to surrender the rods. After he arrived, Windsor, O'Neill and Norman Bradley, vice-president of the fish and game association, appeared.

Called Poacher

The argument started again, and in the course of it, said Mitchell, O'Neill called him a poacher.

Mitchell denied this, and levelled his finger at O'Neill, saying "Prove it." Directly after, said Mitchell, O'Neill hit him in the eye.

O'Neill said Mitchell grabbed his shoulder and shoved him half around. "He had his left hand like he was ready to use it.

"I figured it was a case of hit or git. I hit him."

Norman Bradley testified Mitchell first pointed at O'Neill and then pushed him. After the push, said Bradley, O'Neill hit Mitchell. Conservation Officer Windsor said that Mitchell didn't push, he just pointed.

Magistrate Philp commented that both men were "a bit officious" and undoubtedly "there was considerable blood between them."

In answer to defence counsel J. C. N. Currelly's argument that the finger-pointing made O'Neill fear bodily harm, the magistrate said he didn't believe it had.

A charge of assault against Mitchell was adjourned to June 11.

Paper Drive Yields 80 Tons

Although the response to the Boy Scout paper drive Tuesday night was light, the association hopes to secure $1,000 for the mayor's fund.

Assistant District Commissioner, Peter Dominik said today that throughout the city "there didn't seem to be as much waste paper around." He believed that the last Scout drive six weeks ago along with the various public school drives for picnic money had reduced the waste paper in the homes.

The association had hoped to set a paper drive record. But after more than 300 Scouts, Cubs, fathers and Boy Scout executives had worked from 6 p.m. until 9.45 p.m. only six freight cars were filled.

He estimated the tons of waste paper and cardboard at close to 80 tons as compared with the 120 tons collected at the annual spring drive by the Scouts. But with the advertising free and the work voluntary about $1,000 may be received.

The weather gave the Scouts a break. In previous drives they have either been hampered by gusts of wind or by rain. This time the weather was fine allowing the boys to keep the streets and CNR freight yard clean.

1 Worker Only Reports To Marble Co.

The number of workers in the Ontario Marble Co. plant dwindled today from two to one.

One of the two men escorted through the picket line of fellow workers by city police, Tuesday morning, decided not to go in today. He turned up for work at 7 a.m., but after a short conversation with some of the 23 pickets outside the Maria St plant, he left, presumably for home.

City police protection was provided for anybody who wanted to go in. But there were no threats or hints of violence and the police did not get out of a nearby cruiser.

One Less

"Well, that's one less," commented one of the picketters.

The men have not worked since the morning of May 22. At that time they objected to the promotion of a man from the ranks to the rank of assistant to the superintendent.

No Grievance Filed

Ernest Young, manager, says the company has a right to promote anybody it wishes. And he points out that the men have not followed the usual union procedure of filing a grievance.

Leonard Velleman, UE representative, accuses the company of violating the contract by promoting an hourly-rated man from the shop to a supervisory position without giving first consideration to his seniority.

On one thing both sides agree: the work stoppage is not a strike. The company says flatly that the men are fired after being given at least three chances to get back on the job and live up to the terms of the contract. The union calls it a lockout, and claims the company is not serious about trying to reach an amicable agreement.

Tuesday morning the men began to picket the plant shortly before 7 a.m., starting time. Police arrived to give protection to those wanting to work but nobody arrived. Two men entered the plant at 10 a.m.

Early today some workers from Raybestos, fellow union members from composite Local 527, UE, walked in the picket line as a gesture of solidarity.

How Do You Know What You'll Get?

Pickerel season's everlasting question came up again in police court Tuesday.

"How do you know what you're going to get?" Michael McGuire, 514 Bolivar St., asked Magistrate W. R. Philp.

McGuire wanted to know how a man was to tell whether he was going to catch pickerel, bass or maskinonge, when he was fishing for pickerel.

Magistrate Philp said he didn't know.

Crown Attorney John Bradshaw pointed out to McGuire that if an illegal fish is caught, the fisherman should throw it back. That way, charges will not be laid.

Tough Luck

If he keeps the fish, said Conservation Officer Stan Windsor, it's the fisherman's tough luck.

McGuire's curiosity was brought on logically. He was charged with catching a small-mouth bass in pickerel season.

McGuire admitted catching it and knowing it was not legal to catch bass out of season. But, he said, its throat was torn by the hook, and he thought it would die anyhow.

Even if it were dead, it should be thrown back, said Mr. Bradshaw. No charge would be laid in that case.

Stan Windsor pointed out that if the line were cut, the hook left in the fish, the hook would soon dissolve and the fish would live. McGuire caught the bass, a 13-incher, at Gannon's Narrows.

McGuire pleaded not guilty, was convicted and fined $10 and $3.75 costs.

Reserve Army Conscription Urged By Potts

OTTAWA, June 6 — (CP). — The commander of Canada's 5th Division in the Second World War says it is imperative that Canada bring its reserve forces to full strength now—and not tomorrow.

Maj.-Gen. A. E. Potts, who gained fame and the nickname "Pirate" as leader of the Canadian raid on Spitzbergen, Tuesday night called for conscription of manpower for Canada's reserve troops.

He told 200 former CWAC officers and other ranks at their annual re-union that the army's method of gaining recruits by press and radio campaigns is not good enough.

The former CWAC's responded favorably to several new features which will be incorporated in uniforms for the Canadian Women's Army Corps reserve when it launches its expected recruiting drive soon.

"We're ready to join just as soon as they want us," a group of CWAC's said

Pathetic Sight

Maj.-Gen Potts in his address said it is a "pathetic sight" to see a reserve force unit on parade today.

"For years our reserve force commanders and officers have been trying every possible means to cajole men into joining their units....for the most part it is a dismal failure."

"I am convinced we will not bring our reserve forces up to strength by these means. I am equally convinced that it is imperative that we bring these forces up to strength now — not tomorrow.

"I believe that the only way this can be done is by some form of compulsory service."

gains were made in the Hwachon area.

East: Reds put up heavy resistance north and northeast of Yanggu at the eastern end of Hwachon reservoir. This was the communique's only refrence to heavy resistance.

Fierce Fighting

AP Correspondent George A. McArthur said fierce fighting flared all along the eastern sector from Yanggu to Inje.

North Koreans, fighting stubbornly from their dugouts in the hills, held attacking Allies to slight gains above Yanggu.

The Fifth Air Force reported that with a let-up in the rains it mounted 456 air strikes during the day. Pilots complained a low haze hampered their effectiveness.

Field reports said Allies were less than 10 miles from Chorwon, western gateway to the wide and long Pyonggang Valley. The flat lands, beyond the rugged ridges over which the infantry men are fighting, is ideal tank country.

The Pyonggang Valley leads almost due north to the east coast port of Wonsan, which Allied naval guns have battered daily for nearly four months.

Clearing weather opened the way Wednesday for planes to get at Red troops concentrated in a defence arc around the triangle.

Must Build Seaway

Mr. Frost said the potential of the ore properties has been estimated at 500,000,000 tons. There is no doubt that, within a short time, between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 tons will be produced yearly, he said.

Robert Saunders, Ontario Hydro chairman, addressing the same gathering, said there is no question about Canada's ability to build and pay for the St. Lawrence seaway and power development on its own if the United States does not agree to help.

The Premier Tuesday visited the village of Massey, 125 miles east of here, inspected its two new schools—public and separate—and declared Friday a holiday. Today he will open a school at Arnprior in Eastern Ontario and he and Mr. Saunders will visit Ottawa valley powersites.

Crash Is Blamed On Broken Spring

A broken spring caused a truck to go out of control Tuesday and crash into a car parked on the north side of McDonnel St. near George Street United Church.

J. W. Gibson, 483 Parnell St., was driving north on Water St., and turned west onto McDonnel St. when the right front spring broke on his truck, sending it out of control.

The truck hit the car, damaging its left rear fender, body and door panel. On the truck, the right front fender, headlight, and bumper.

Clear Lake Rd. Ready Soon

Next week the laying of prime asphalt on the 12½-mile length of the Buckhorn road will start, weather permitting. Cost of the operation is estimated at $9,500.

Drivers using the new road, which stretches from Highway 28 to Buckhorn, have complained of pot holes, rough spots and dust. The Suburban Road Commission who look after the road hope that this will eliminate any further major work on it this year.

A spell of wet weather will postpone operations.

Clear Lake Road

Completion of the construction of the Clear Lake road is expected soon. The 6½-mile road, winding around the southern shore of Clear lake, will be of particular benefit to people with summer homes in that vicinity.

It stretches from Highway 28, near the southwestern tip of Clear lake, to McCracken's Landing. About a mile of the road, at the McCracken end, still needs to be finished and gravelled.

The work is being done by the Department of Highways under the development road scheme. That is the Department builds the road and then hands it over to the municipalities for upkeep.

Aproximately four miles of the road lies in Douro township, and the remaining 2½ miles in Dummer township.

Keene Culverts

Another Suburban Road Commission job is underway in Keene village. Some 250 feet of culverts are being put in the mile of roadway running in an L-shaped formation through the village.

The roads, running east and west, and north and south, will have the present gravel and prime surface changed to an asphalt one. Cost will be about $5,000.

The county is replacing the old Birdsall bridge that spans the Ouse river, a mile north of Rice lake in Asphodel township. It will cost about $4,000.

Work should be completed by the end of June.

Motorists who usually drive over the Birdsall bridge now have to go a mile north to the steel bridge.

Lemon learned about it after the city boosted fees from $15 to $25 in city-owned Rose Hill cemetery. But C. C. Optimism Held Need Of People

CAMPBELLFORD, June 6. — (ENS)—"Optimism" was the subject of the talk given at the Monday luncheon of the Campbellford Rotary Club by the Rev. J. McAvoy who was introduced by past president Owen Watson.

"Optimism founded on faith and grounded in cheerfulness, is one of the greatest assets of man," said the speaker. "A healthy optimism is greatly needed today by people who are restlessly seeking happiness, satisfaction and security. The question whither are we wandering? is continually presenting itself. We are so busy with the secondary things in life we lose sight of the fundamental principles. A genuine optimism based on trust and hope is one of these principles" Rev. McAvoy stated.

"In order to achieve this spirit," he went on to say, "one must remember the Biblical phrase "Whatsoever things are good — think on these things." Let us bring ourselves to this frame of mind which reflects our trust in God."

He expressed the opinion that people must overcome the habit of complaining and remember that criticism of others is a reflection on him who criticizes, and quoted the lines "There's so much good in the worst of us— And so much bad in the best of us—It ill becomes any of us to talk evil of the rest of us."

Past-president A. D. Bennett thanked the speaker.

Rotarians Walter Wiggins and Ralph Locke reported on their trip to Rotary International at Atlantic City.

Gunnar Lilliquist of Bridgenorth was fined $5 and $9.75 costs Tuesday when he was convicted by Magistrate W. R. Philp of failing to give an approaching car half the road.

Morrison testified he was driving north on Park St. near Westcott St. when he saw a southbound car swerve to the east side of the road. The two cars crashed.

Morrison said he was driving on the east side of the road, at about 20 miles an hour. Damage of $150 was done to his car.

Lilliquist testified he saw the lights of the Morrison car as they came over the railway tracks south of the scene of the accident. "I didn't have time to do anything," he said. Lilliquist said he was on the west side of the road.

Porker Drowns In Little Lake

Perhaps realizing her end was near a 375-pound porker made one last bid for freedom Tuesday. However it failed and she drowned in Little Lake.

While being driven into the slaughter house at the Canada Packers the porker escaped through a ground floor window to George St. There she was met by a group of factory workers who were led on a merry chase down George to Perry St.

Finally the large sow, which was valued at between $80 and $90, headed for Little Lake. She plunged into the lake and drowned. Drowning was believed due to injury when the sow jumped out of the window.

A boat was rushed to the scene and the carcass pulled out of the water and destroyed.

Old Age Pensions For All

Next January every man and woman in the country aged seventy or more will be eligible for an old age pension of $40 a month, as of right. This will be provided for in legislation to be introduced at the next session of Parliament, as will be, also, supplementary pensions for those between the ages of 65 and 69, as of need. The universal pension regardless of means, is a significant sociological event in Canada and in western civilization. It involves an important matter of principle.

* * *

Until after the Napoleonic Wars the State had three functions: to secure national defence, to maintain public order, and to protect property. The Radicals, whose philosophic leader was Jeremy Bentham, believed that the purpose of all legislation should be to promote 'the greatest happiness to the greatest number'. The less law, the more liberty, Bentham believed, although he admitted the need of good laws to prevent people from hurting one another in political and social life. He denied the need for similar State-action in economic life. This doctrine of laissez-faire and democratic individualism itself was inadequate to the conditions of early Victorian England, as Bentham's disciple J. S. Mill discovered. He built on it the liberal philosophy of social reform. It also inspired the movement towards socialism, co-operation and State interference which ripened in Britain at the end of the century. The institution of universal pensions in Canada pushes as far as it will go—that is, short of Socialism holus-bolus—the social reform movement of the last century, and spills over into the twentieth century notion of the State as the begetter and provider of 'the greatest happiness for the greatest number'. The new pensions come as a right, not as a need.

* * *

Nothing is left of the invisible hand of Providence (as with Bentham); all is given into the invisible hand of the State. This is the temper of the times. The Government's proposal has met with no Opposition objections on the matter of principle. The Conservative leader regrets only that the legislation will be delayed until autumn. As Utilitarians believed a century ago that the mystic hand of Providence would ensure that each man, seeking his own pleasure or profit, automatically promoted the general good and general profit, so today some people believe in a mystic State hand full of Government money which will provide. This illusion should be quashed. The $350 million a year for the pensions will be paid for out of national income. That comes out of national production, and the national production is the product of those who work. Whatever means are adopted to make the pension contributory, the people who work will have to provide the money. It will be out of their pockets.

* * *

There has been a great variety of new social legislation in the last decade; family allowance, national health and the like, (the first Old Age Pensions came as recently as 1927), and the population between the ages of twenty and sixty is paying the bills. For forty years these people must earn enough money by the sweat of their muscles and brows to pay the taxes to keep the other two large sections of the populace for another forty; the hordes under twenty and the very considerable numbers over sixty.

The bills are large and will be larger, chiefly because our population is aging. It is estimated that in twenty years the total number of persons over seventy will exceed the number of persons today over sixty-five. In 1971 the $40 universal pension will cost, it has been conservatively estimated, $500,208,000. Can the country afford it? Can the workers between 20 and 60 stand the pressure? We are not as fearful of the country's financial capacity as a Finance Minister of another decade who stated without blinking an eye-lash that Canada could not afford to pay the old age pension to the blind, at 40. The tax-collectors are already raking in more hundreds of millions than they have spending plans for. But will a $40 a month pension suffice? Where is the ceiling, now that the principle of old age pensions as a right has been accepted?

"Make certain that you are never discourteous to a tourist," warns a contemporary. Good advice, though we make no promise if a tourist should be discourteous to us first.

No Board Should Be Above The Courts

Widespread interest has been shown in the decision of Mr. Justice G. A. Gale to overrule a decision made by the Ontario Labour Board. The Board had certified a union as a bargaining agent for eighty employees in the circulation department of the Toronto Globe and Mail; Judge Gale decided that a proper hearing had not been given to the employers in this instance, and quashed the decision. The labour union says that it will appeal against Judge Gale, and that is its right; if such an appeal is made, a vexatious point of law will receive a much-needed airing.

Let us stress the fact that the labour union will appeal, and nobody will attempt to prevent such action. But an Ontario statute declares that decisions of the Ontario Labour Board may not be appealed; in effect that Board—it is not a court—is set above the provincial courts and its decisions are not subject to the usual corrections and reconsiderations which the law permits. Attention has been drawn to this unjust state of affairs many times, but the action of Mr. Justice Gale has brought it completely into the open. Referring to the no-appeal statute Judge Gale said: "A clause like Section 5 does not expel the right of the court to review and set aside proceedings in an inferior tribunal where there has been such a failure to follow the dictates of essential justice." This is something which needed saying and we must be grateful to the judge who has said it.

There cannot properly or justly be tribunals or boards within the state against which there is no appeal, and which are not subject to correction by the ordinary processes of law. But there has been a tendency of late to set up tribunals and boards which enjoy such exemption. Long ago there were civil courts and ecclesiastical courts which were at loggerheads because they were never completely clear about their jurisdiction, and the poor wretch who cleared himself with one might fall foul of the other. We want no special courts and no Star Chambers in this country. We want, on the contrary, a clear process of law within which the citizen may know that he is not likely to be subjected to arbitrary measures, and in which he can appeal to a higher court if he feels that he has not received justice in a lower one.

The Toronto Star, discussing this matter, says that the decisions of the Labour Board "were made final deliberately in order that employees need not match their finances against those of employers in appeals from court to court." If the employees have a labour union behind them they need not worry about funds, for most unions have resources far exceeding those of all but a handful of employers. There is no excuse for an abridgement of justice, or for a court against which there is no appeal. Once the principal of arbitrary tribunals takes hold in Canada, there is no end to the injustice which may be done.

No Booze For Elwood

Mary Chase's play Harvey and the movie made from it have been so popular that there can be few people who are not familiar with its story; an habitual drunkard, Elwood P. Dowd, is haunted by a large rabbit named Harvey, and upon this relationship the fun of the piece depends.

Frankly, we do not care much for Harvey, because we do not think that people who drink to the point where they have hallucinations are funny. Most people appear to disagree with us. But recently we have learned, not of a few people, but of a whole nation, which shares our distaste for this aspect of the popular play.

An adaptation of Harvey is now being performed in Italy, and in it Dowd sees his rabbit, not because he is drunk, but because he is slightly touched in the head. The reason: the Italian people shun and pity drunks, and would never accept Dowd as a likeable fellow if he were presented to them in that light.

This seems to us to reflect credit upon Italian taste. And we must point out that it is the taste of a country in which there is no restriction upon the sale of liquor. It is the taste of a country in which there is so much morbid worrying about drink, a play with a drunkard for its hero should have been so popular.

NOTE AND COMMENT

On a baseball team, a man is just as old as he fields.

A 14-year-old boy recently beat his mother in a cake-baking contest. That is a home where there will be no sighing for cakes like Ma used to bake.

"Is the bloodhound a ferocious animal?" is a question directed to a contemporary newspaper. Judging from the look of fixed melancholy which the bloodhound customarily wears, we should say no.

Five-cent cups of coffee may now be obtained in the Parliamentary restaurant, which tried ten-cent coffee for a week, and didn't like it. If this isn't special privilege, and subsidizing of food and half a score of other heinous heresies, we are much mistaken.

ON THE MARGIN

Three Notable Novels

FESTIVAL AT FARBRIDGE, by J. B. Priestly (British Book Service).

IN the introductory letter to his publisher, A. S. Frere, at the beginning of this book, Mr. Priestly tells us what he has tried to do in writing it. "As you will see," he writes, "I have returned, with some variations of my own, to the old comic tradition of story-telling, which is not dead yet even though it is out of fashion just now—though perhaps it was always—in fastidious literary circles." And he continues: "This is not a long novel in the sense of being a narrative that simply goes on and on and on, a kind of vast worm, taking a character or two from the cradle to the grave; it is long really because it is a broadly based story (only covering a few weeks) containing an unusually large number of characters, who all have to be kept going, in the old comic way, which demands just about as much energy and gusto as a writer in his middle fifties can call to his aid". That is what Mr. Priestley set out to do: has he done it?

I deeply wish that it were possible to return a triumphant Yes to that question, for the present critic shares Mr. Priestley's affection for the sort of story he describes, and for the authors—Smollett, Surtees, Dickens, Lever and the rest—who succeeded in that vein. When the next comic novelist in the great tradition comes along he will certainly remind us of these, but he will also add something to the comic novel—he will, to use a phrase very much open to misinterpretation, bring it up to date. But in "Festival At Farbridge" Mr. Priestley gives us nothing new, and sometimes we are conscious of his fatigue as he bustles his characters through their adventures; often we catch echoes of Dickens, but we do not hear the authentic voice of Dickens. "Festival At Farbridge" is a lively piece of work, and well worthy of your attention, but it is not quite what Mr. Priestley hoped to write. It is not so good as "The Good Companions" or "Angel Street", and this may be because in those novels the author did not set to work to challenge the memory of Dickens.

Briefly, "Festival at Farbridge" is about a stick-in-the-mud English town which decides not to trouble to celebrate the Festival of Britain. But an adventurer named Commodore Tribe, aided by a pretty girl named Laura Casey and a rich young man from the Far East named Theodore Jenks, persuades the town to change its mind. Their adventures and mishaps in putting on a Festival in Farbridge form the story. There are a good many love stories interwoven in the plot, and they all end happily. All the good people are rewarded for their goodness and all the bad people get a good setback. This is satisfactory, and a pleasant change from the hundreds of novels in which nobody is good enough or bad enough to be remembered between chapters.

This novel contains some fine things, for Mr. Priestley is one of the ablest and most vigorous writers of our time. He creates, in the last section of the book, a thoroughly convincing and wonderful atmosphere of high enjoyment—an atmosphere which will deeply move any reader who has, at any time in his life, thoroughly enjoyed himself. To do this is infinitely more difficult than to create one nice girl, and yet Mr. Priestley has succeeded in the hard task and failed to create, in Laura Casey, a really nice girl. Theodore Jenks is a mere handsome puppet. But some of the minor characters live greatly.

I recommend this book as an admirable piece of entertainment. I am only sorry that I cannot say that it is of a piece with the author's best work. But J. B. Priestley, even when not always at the top of his form, is worth a hatful of more even, careful and less gifted novelists.

A MOUSE IS BORN, by Anita Loos (Doubleday).

The present critic belongs to the minority which has never read "Gentlemen Prefer Blondes". Therefore I cannot say whether this novel is better or worse than Miss Loos' famous account of Lorelei Lee. But it is certainly a very entertaining book even though, with 214 pages, it seems a little too long. It is an account of the life of a film star, Effie Huntriss (known as "The Bust") written to explain herself to her unborn son—who is the Mouse mentioned in the title.

The Bust is a simple girl with a great deal of sex appeal, and a very limited ability to act. Most girls, she explains, lack sex appeal, and it is only when they take their boy friends to the movies to see such highly caloric ladies as herself that they are able to stir the young men into action. This is undoubtedly an entertaining theory, and there may be something in it. As Miss Huntriss unfolds her mind we are at first appalled, and then delighted by its vacuity and by her complete lack of anything which might do service for a moral sense. She is a child of nature, for whom Hollywood is the hub of the universe, and the beliefs of Hollywood the laws of life.

When Miss Loos writes about Hollywood, we must assume that she knows what she is writing about; she has lived there for twenty years. But satires on Hollywood, though many and entertaining, have a way of taking on some of the banality of Hollywood itself, which robs them of their bite. You will enjoy reading "A Mouse Is Born", but it is doubtful if it will change whatever opinion of Hollywood and its products you may happen to have at present.

THIS IS THE HOUR, by Leon Feuchtwanger (Macmillan).

THIS book has already received a number of unfavorable reviews, which puzzles me, because I read it with enjoyment, and recommend it highly. Some American critics have called it slow and wordy; but if it is slow it is also deep, and if it is wordy it has much to say. It is an account of several years in the life of the Spanish painter, Francisco Goya, and such men are not explained readily. It appears to me that Feuchtwanger does explain a good deal about Goya, without ever patronizing or undervaluing his subject. Goya was a great man, and Feuchtwanger is a man who understands greatness, and can make it comprehensible.

Feuchtwanger is an uneven writer, but when he is at his best he is a very remarkable one. There is nothing facile or trivial in his work, though it is sometimes turgid. But the man who wrote "Power" (also called "Jew Suss") and "The Ugly Duchess" is not a novelist to be brushed off by critics, even when he writes as dully as he did in "Proud Destiny". In this study of Goya he is in his best form, and he has written what appears to me to be a rewarding novel; that is to say, the reader will put it down with a better understanding of life than he possessed before he read it.

The book was written in German, and translated by Mrs. Lowe-Porter, who translates the works of Thomas Mann, and by Frances Fawcett. I cannot quite explain why I feel it, but I feel that the translation has lost much of the flavour of the original. Words and phrases appear which are ill-chosen, and irritating; they give the wrong colour and emphasis to incidents and thoughts which, through this fog of language, we feel to have been truly, justly and finely expressed by Feuchtwanger. Nowhere is this more plain that in the passages of verse with which each chapter is ended. We are told that these are meant to be "indulgently ironic". They read like inept imitations of Longfellow. Nevertheless, in spite of passing annoyances, the book is worthy of the attention of any serious reader, and it should be of special significance to readers who are also amateurs of painting.

ACTIVITY IN THE BULLPEN?

Preferential Tariffs Face The Axe

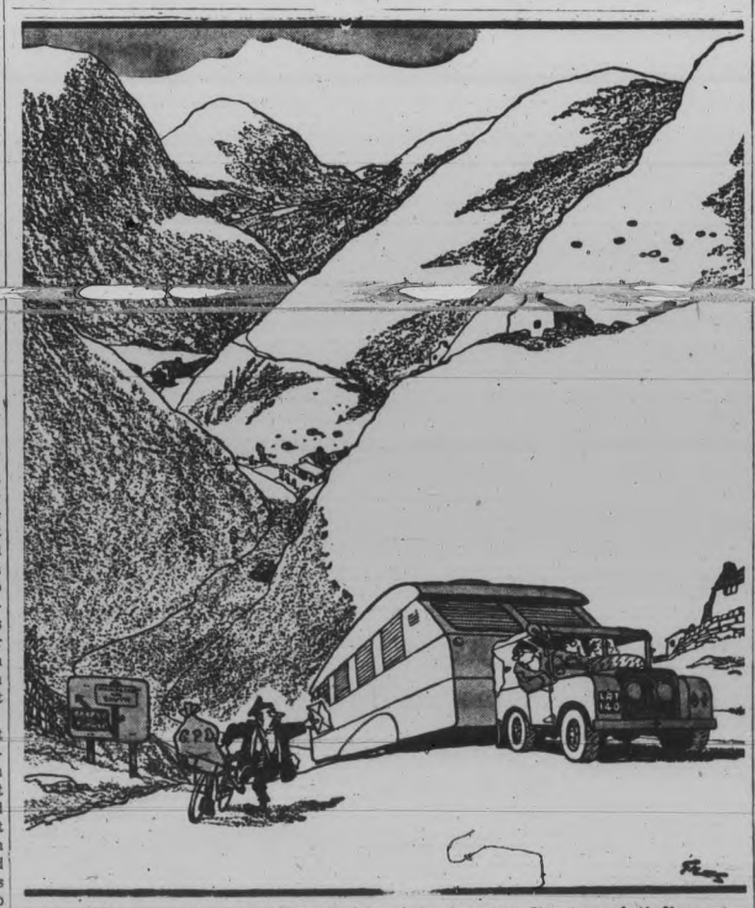
(CALGARY HERALD)

ACCORDING to Mr. Howe, the preferential empire tariff may have served its purpose, and the time for its abandonment may soon be at hand. This blunt statement will come as a shock to many Canadians; for Imperial preferences—the product of the 1932 Ottawa conference—are one of the few tangible signs of Commonwealth unity. Mr. Howe's off-handed remark, therefore, raises important questions.

Imperial preferences are a device by which goods originating within the Commonwealth are subject to lower tariffs than similar goods originating in foreign countries; British manufactured products, for example, are generally admitted to Canada with a lower duty than similar goods manufactured in the United States. This device has enabled industry to be developed in various parts of the empire, has encouraged trade among the different members of the Commonwealth, and before the war undoubtedly developed a higher level of inter-Commonwealth trade than would have grown up without Imperial preferences.

But things have changed since the war. Economically speaking, there is not one Commonwealth but two. One part of it is the sterling bloc, which consists of the whole Commonwealth except Canada, and between members of which goods move without currency restriction. The other part of it is Canada which, because it trades on a dollar basis, is treated by the rest of the Commonwealth, for all practical purposes, as part of the North American bloc or as an offshoot of the United States.

For this reason, Canadian exports to the sterling sections of the Commonwealth, although they still enjoy Imperial preference, are subject to quota restrictions, foreign exchange control, bulk-purchasing, embargoes and all the other devices of the planned economy. Theoretically, for example, automobiles manufactured in Canada may be imported into Britain at a lower rate of duty than cars of foreign origin; but in practice all Canadian cars are banned from the British market, so that the preferential tariff is meaningless.



So it is beyond doubt that whatever theoretical advantages Canada enjoys from Imperial preferences are far more than outweighed by the disadvantages of discriminatory treatment, by other Commonwealth members, of Canadian goods for reasons of the so-called "dollar shortage."

If Canada abandoned the preferential tariff today, countries like Britain and Australia would suffer from the consequences far more than we would; Britain, for example, would lose her favoured place in the Canadian market. We should not like to see preferences go; but if they do go, Britain must blame herself.

Letter To The Editor

BASIC CONSERVATION JOB

Sir: The decision recently announced from Ottawa—"Ottawa Aids Provinces in Reforesting Costs" (News-item, May 3, Examiner)—is an encouraging, if modest, start on one of the basic conservation jobs ahead, for the Canadian people. It is sincerely to be hoped that the various provincial authorities will co-operate on what the above story describes as the goal of "sustained yield from the forests—that is, replacement must match depletion."

While I've my pen in hand, please permit me to draw the attention of your conservation-minded readers to the following significant lines from one of your American contemporaries:

"The misuse of forests, grasslands, wildlife and water sources in the United States is the most violent and most destructive story in the long history of civilization. Highly organized minority groups are now engaged in determined attempts to wrest away the public lands of the Western States and turn these regions to their own uses....This is a triple threat, because a blow at forest reserves is one of synchronized impact upon the water sources and fertile soils—as deadly as any delayed-action bomb. There is one objective behind this aggression against the public domain—to exploit these last forest reserves for every dollar that can be wrung from them." (From "The County That Can Feed The World").

Oddities Of The Other Fellow

(London New Statesman)

A familiar journalistic gambit is to divide people into two classes—those who like tripe and those who don't, or those who do and those who don't enjoy making snowballs in May.

My own favourite example is between those who secure their ties with a paper fastener, and those who don't. (It was years after I left Cambridge before I discovered that this was not a universal practice, just as it was only quite recently that I learnt that some people put on their overcoats one arm after another instead of both together as I naturally do.)

Another division of mankind brought to my notice is between those who hold the handle of their attache cases firmly and confidently with all their fingertips tucked out of sight, and those who keep a forefinger cautiously

I used to assume that the first group were trustful, resolute people with clear conscience, who feared no betrayal of their secrets, while the latter, whose timid forefingers might equally have been pressed to their lips, were furtive, mean people with attache cases that contained sordid and discreditable things. But lately I have seen two cases burst open (a sight which is all too rare), one protected by a forefinger and one not.

The first disgorged the Times, the New Statesman and Nation, and a tin of throat pastilles; the second, carried nonchalantly by a man wi striped trousers and a tightly rolled umbrella, vomited forth a mass of soiled linen, a roll of blue tickets, and bookmaker's clock. Diversity in a man is all very well, but this kind of thing is a nuisance to the tidy anthropologist.

DON'T DISTURB HIM

"Hadn't you better go and tell your master?" said the motorist to the farmer's boy, who stood looking at the load of hay upset in the lane by a collision.

"'E knows," replied the boy.

"Knows? How can he know?"

"He's under the hay."

Since he went to Korea he has been on loan to the United States Air Force. But since his operational tour is over he'll return to the RCAF soon for a new posting. Flt. Lieut. Studio Suspends Tyrone Power After 15 Years

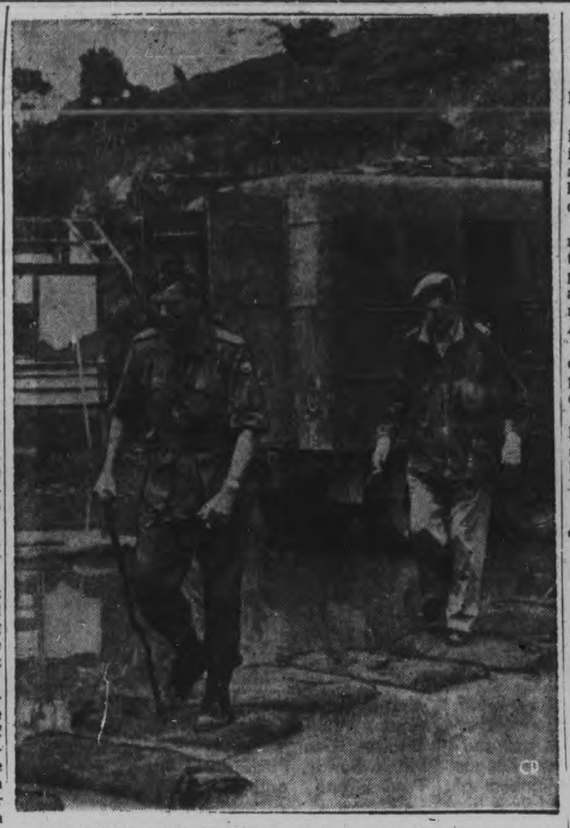
By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 6 (AP)—Filmtown received a jolt last week when it learned that Tyrone Power had been suspended by his studio.

Offhand this doesn't sound like unusual news. Actors are often suspended in Hollywood, particularly in these trying times. But it was different with Power. For 15 years he had been the king of Twentieth Century-Fox—the fair-haired boy who could do no wrong.

This was his first suspension. So I sought him out to ask how it all happened.

"The studio's announcement was correct," he said. "The hard fact is that I just can't see doing another costume picture." (He was cast in "Lydia Bailey," but declined the assignment.)



"I've had enough costume pictures," he continued. "I've done five in a row—'The Prince of Foxes,' 'The Black Rose,' 'Rawhide,' 'American Guerrilla in the Philippines,' and 'The House on the Square.' That's too much for one actor. I think it's time I had a change of pace."

Power has travelled to all parts of the world for those films, including North Africa, Italy, Britain and the Philippines. He was not only fed up with the costumes and the rigors of such films, but the language as well.

Friendly Row

The actor added that his dispute with the studio was a friendly one. "They were very nice about it," he explained. "Still they had to suspend me as an example to the other players.

"I hate to cause any trouble in times like these when the business is in such bad shape. But I look at it this way: There is no thrill left in the movie business any more. There is no glory left, and it's silly to think that you can add anything to your bank account; it all goes to taxes. So I figure that it is better to do something that you like."

World Citizens Show Interest In Bomb Haven Plans

By SAM STREET

LONDON —(Reuters)— An island refuge from atom bombs is being planned by a middle-aged professional man here who has advertised for volunteer colonists.

The planner who declines to reveal his identity because "for the present I must follow my profession in London" has had almost 250 replies, from Britain, many European countries, South Africa and the United States.

No particular island has been chosen yet. Nor has any concrete plan for establishing the escape colony been put forward.

But the general idea is that the haven would be as remote as possible and there would be no bosses, "-isms," or political cults. It would be, said the planner, who is in his middle 40s, "a spot where true civilization may flourish away from bombs and bombing planes."

This is the ad he placed in a London magazine: "Will those interested in the founding of an isolated island colony which may provide a refuge from the horrors of civilization send a stamped envelope to box 1987?"

Enquirers were invited to a meeting to talk the matter over. About 85 people, mostly Londoners, attended.

Living on Volcano

"We stare at the danger of war like fascinated rabbits," the planners told them. "We are like people living on the slopes of a volcano and there is every sign the volcano is going to erupt."

He said he did not want a community dedicated to any particular religion or political belief. "But It would be our duty to keep alive all that is best in our common inheritance."

He thought an international colony would be a good thing—"but the colonists would have to leave national politics and prejudices behind."

A questionnaire was circulated asking:

"Have you any definite ideas about the situation of the proposed colony? Are you willing to buy a lot? Have a house built? Would you be able to keep yourself and family? Have you special training or experience which would be of value?"

When the answers come in another meeting will be held and a working group will be set up.

Plan RCAF Band Visit To City

The RCAF Training Command Band will appear in Peterborough on June 15. This is the first time that this outstanding musical organization has come to Peterborough. The band is being brought here by the Peterborough Wing RCAF Association and at the program which will be given in the Civic Arena a silver collection will be taken with all money received going to assist in organizing an Air Cadet Squadron here.

Formed in 1946

Band was formed in the summer of 1946 with the members being selected from ex-members of the famous No. 6 RCAF Bomber Group Band overseas and from other personnel who had served with one of the many RCAF bands established during the war. Younger blood has been infused by the inclusion of ex-members of air cadet and high school bands.

The first public concert was given before the patients and staff of Christie Street Hospital, Toronto, on November 11, 1946.

A tour of air stations was made in May, 1947. Included were visits to Montreal, Moncton, Halifax, Greenwood, Summerside and other Atlantic coast contres. This tour inaugurated a route of over 50,000 miles which the band has covered on successive tours by air, rail and road.

In the summer of 1947, a visit was made to RCAF Station Goose Bay, Labrador.

Played at CNE

In August, 1947, less than a year after its organization, the band appeared in a series of concerts at the CNE. This was a large commitment, for with less than a year of rehearsals, the repertoire was by no means inexhaustible. Nevertheless, approximately ten concerts were given from the main bandshell.

After a full year of tours to RCAF stations and various eastern Canadian cities, the band was engaged for the second time as the official "Duty Band" of the 1948 CNE.

Immediately following the close of the exhibition the band began to tour of the east coast and eastern Canada. These tours from this time on were conducted in comfort, as a new 37 passenger "Courier" bus was provided in July, 1948. This type of bus, similar to ones used by the larger trans-Canada bus companies, has ample accommodation for 37 bandsmen, their luggage and musical instruments. During the first eight months of operation, this new bus travelled approximately 10,000 miles.

In November, 1948, the band played in Massey Hall at a tri-band festival, in company with the Dovercourt Citadel Salvation Army Band and the Metropolitan United Church Silver Band.

Ask Wages Freed

WASHINGTON, June 6 (AP)—The American Newspaper Guild Tuesday urged the wage stabilization board to unfreeze the wages of newspaper workers because publishers are free of price controls. The Defence Production Act specifically exempts the newspaper and publishing industry from price stabilization. The act is not clear about the stabilization of wages in those industries.

Reserve Decision On Bargaining Plea

TORONTO, June 6—(CP)—The Ontario Labor Relations Board Tuesday reserved decision on an application by the United Steelworkers of America (CIO) for certification as bargaining agent for office workers at the London plant of General Steel Wares of Canada.

The company claimed that the union should be barred from certification for any of the firm's unorganized groups of workers because, the company said, the union carried on an illegal strike that shut down the firm's plants last February.

John Osler, counsel for the union, said that in many ways he had sympathy for the company's position, but it was irrelevant to the certification application.

It was "entirely irrelevant under the legislation, even if a local had a reputation for walkouts during the contract term," Mr. Osler said.

Petes Lose To Kingsway For First In Six Games

TORONTO, June 6—Kingsway Lumber of Toronto stopped the Petes 10-8 in the Viaduct Major Baseball League game here last night at Millen Stadium before 500 fans. The Petes, leading the league, had gone five in a row before bowing in this contest. Staffords opned the Tuesday bargain bill with a 15-8 verdict over the luckless Crofton nine. The present standing:

Petes	6	5	1
Kingsway	6	4	2
Oshawa	5	3	2
Staffords	5	2	3
Croftons	4	0	4

Started Strong

The Petes last night looked like winners, taking advantage of wildness by Alfie Williams in the early innings to gain a 5-2 edge. An outburst good for five runs in the fifth and three in the sixth salted away the game for the homesters. Bill Edger started for Petes and went well till the fifth, Gunner Whitehill finishing up.

Russ Wallace and Billy Calder paced the winners' attack with three safeties each, Wallace having a triple. Keith Bell hit a homer and single, while Bill and Baz McMurray and Steve McClelland had two hits apiece. George Brabin led the losers with three hits and three runs batted in. Joe Stewart chased home two with a bingle in their final rally. Following is the Petes' box score and the complete summary.

Mutuals Victors

Mutuals yanked out a 7-5 fastball victory over Raybestos at Brinton Field last night in a neat number. The winners scored three each in the first two frames and, after Rays had crept closer with a run in the third and fourth, the Mutuals clinched it with a marker in the eighth chukker. Batchelor gave way on the winners mound to Guerin when the losers started to crowd them, while Nichols hurled for Raybestos. Teams:

Lakefield Loses To UEW In Men's Loop

Howie Dalton's UEW crew defeated Lakefield Aces 15-9 in the opener of last night's men's softball twin bill at the Bowl before a fair chilly-night crowd.

Ray Allen, one-armed southpaw star went the route for the shop nine opposing Heffernan and McCracken and though touched for 13 safeties kept ahead of his opponents from the outset after his mates had furnished a four-run lead in the top of the first. Aces fought hard as ever though and made in interesting for UE and the fans to the final out. Twelve extra-base hits featured including homers by Casey, Grafstein and Larkman each over the fence in deep right, triples by Wade and Red Wasson and three solid doubles by Jack White who drove in four to pace UE's attack. Revoys lead UE by one game.

LAWN BOWLING

By HERB MARTIN

The first two extra-end games were handed in last night. In the first one, Walter Perks won out from W. Potter by 21-20, and in the second Harry Northrop defeated Joe Adams by the remarkably low score of 12-11.

Just a reminder—don't forget to choose a partner and enter in the Friday night doubles tournament. The nights are cool and ideal for this kind of a tournament. Don't be surprised if there is a real big crowd out.

We heard this one lately. A pedestrian is a motorist who has finally found a parking space.

Revoy's Victors In Neat Tilt Against Orphans

Revoy Motors took a thrilling nightcap from Harold Dormer's Orphans last night at the Ashburnham Bowl 13-12 as interest intensifies in the men's softball group. The win was the third straight without a setback for Ken Guilfoyle's classy crew but came only after a tough battle to the final frame.

Don Bigford toiled for the winners opposing Terry Woods with the latter holding a good edge for five innings as Revoys got away to a shaky start. A strong rally in the sixth however, led by Mackness, Thomson, Wyatt and Bigford sent Woods to the showers, aided by an error or two and three walks as the Guilfoyle band netted six tallies to lead the ball game. Fraser Wade took over and the nip and tuck struggle continued apace with Orfs tying in the top of the seventh and scoring one in the ninth. Revoys had it in their half, however, and put over two as Legrow and Thomson hit safely and the latter scored the winner on Conlin's fielder's choice to Currie.

Wade hit two doubles and Woods one for Orphans while Legrow had a triple, Thomson a pair of doubles and Wyatt and Bigford one apiece for the extra-base hits for Revoys. O'Donoghue, Wyatt and Mackness fielded well in this game.

Orphans: McGrath, c; Jaquith, ss; Lewis, rf; Scriver, 1b; Curry, 2b; F. Wade, 3b, p; Donoghue, lf Griffin, cf; Woods, p.

The local Filter Queen OLA juniors open their schedule here against Niagara Falls (last year's St. Kitt's Dominion champions) on June 15, playing their first game away on June 21 at Toronto. This was decided at the schedule meeting in Mimico last night. Teams in at present are Niagara Falls, Mimico, Toronto Maitlands and the young Petes. Two others, Brampton and Weston, are possibilities yet. Windsor and Owen Sound have byes into provincial finals.

If just four teams go in the group, Peterborough plays a double schedule with the Falls and Mimico, and a triple one with Toronto. If six come in, all teams play a double schedule. It appears as if Lou Vitarelli's team will have a 14-game schedule, seven at home. Regardless of the number of entries, the first four go into group playoffs, the top two in the "A" setup, and the third and fourth in "B" playoffs. The schedule will be drawn up shortly.

CANADIAN SPORTS PARADE

FOR seven months of the year we follow the exploits of the NHL hockey players while their victories, defeats and injuries almost become our own. Then, with the awarding of the Stanley Cup our sporting interest turns to baseball, lacrosse, water sports and elsewhere. But what of our winter heroes? How do they spend the five months of sunshine between the hockey wars? Well, mostly, our NHL warriors continue to work for a living. Most of the players choose a job which will aid them in maintaining a maximum degree of physical condition and fitness. In the hockey world of today playing condition is the number one requisite and, even during the off-season months, the players work and plan with the one dominating thought—to retain the extra that counts!

What They're Doing

Defenceman Gus Mortson of the Toronto Maple Leafs believes in sticking close to mother nature during his summer sojourn and once more he is prospecting for riches in the wilderness of Ontario's northland. Hart Trophy winner Milt Schmidt of the Boston Bruins is a golf professional for a well known Bean Town club (as is Wild Bill Ezinicki) and it's thought that the two Bruins may consider Boston their permanent home town when they finally hang up their skates.

Conacher and Bucko McDonald may be followed once more. Another right-winger, Fleming Mackell, is a mutuels clerk at Blue Bonnets, race track at Montreal, while left-winger Joe Klukay works for the L.C.P.O. in his home town of Sault Ste. Marie during hockey's off-season.

All-Star Red Wing Gord Howe is playing semi-pro baseball out in Saskatoon in what has come to be known, facetiously, as the "Bentley league." The title refers, of course, to the wide baseball interests of the numerous Bentley brothers (incl[illegible] not playing ball, the famous hockey players are usually hard at work on their extensive farms in the district.

Defence-Fireman

Hefty defenceman Bill Juzda steps from the cool ice-surface of hockey to the tensioned heat of a railroad-engine cab each summer. As a fireman for the C.P.R., Juzda is working out of his home town of Winnipeg, Manitoba, and finds the rugged, healthy life comfortably comparable to his equally rugged winter job with the Maple Leafs. Centre Cal Gardner prefers baseball for his summer recreation playing in and around his home at Transcona, Manitoba. Rumour has it that, this summer, Cal is coming up to bat in a no-hitter at Matrimonial Park.

Variety seems to be the spice of life for off-season hockey players!

Discuss Dropping Red Line Play

MONTREAL, June 6 (CP). — Hockey officials from Canada and the United States have been meeting here for two days but what exactly has transpired hasn't yet come out as the sessions are closed.

Reports going the rounds, however, have it that an effort is being made to eliminate the red line at centre ice.

Reported backers of the move claim it will open up play and help a team clear the puck out of its end zone. Opposing defencemen, it is claimed, would be wary of moving up to the blue line on a ganging play.

It is also claimed the move would add 10 goals a season to the total of a fast-breaking forward.

Monday and Tuesday were given over to discussion of rules and regulations. Today governors of the National Hockey League are scheduled to meet.

Confeds Get Edge

Confederation took an 8-4 school softball triumph over King Edward yesterday, scoring a run in the third, two each the next two frames and three in the seventh. The losers tallied one each in the second and third, with two more in the seventh. It was a tidy tilt most of the route, but Chesney walked eight and Ferguson took over in the last two frames. Teams:

Confederation—Brown, Walling, Jones, Hotston, Druery, Moffatt, Chesney, Ferguson, Parnell, Trotter, Rollins.

King Edward—Murphy, Rose, Stevens, W. Rowe, R. Rowe, Byers, Ball, Rield, McIntosh, Collins, Waldie.

Umpire, J. Barnard.

Central Girls Win

Central girls of the school softball circuit trounced King Edward lasses 20-13 in a wide-open tussle yesterday. An 11-run outburst in the fifth clinched it for Central after they had scored two in the second, three next time up and four in the fourth. King Edward counted three in the third, and five each in the next two innings. Teams:

Central—J. Lustic, P. Lang, W. Mahood, B. Tiffin, M. Turner, C. Scully, C. Head, B. Partridge, J. Young, P. Neal, B. Fuller, M. Sutherland, J. Martin, S. Dunford.

King Edward—C. Dorrington, L. Jones, J. McMillan, L. Scott, N. Davis, D. Moffatt, M. Foster, M. Harvey, J. Hughey, C. Swan, F. Blackwell.

Named Manager

THREE RIVERS, Que., June 6 (CP).—Del Bissonnette, former Brooklyn Dodgers first baseman and former manager of the National Baseball League's Boston Braves, has been appointed manager of the Quebec Provincial League.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

The league-leading OLA senior St. Catharines Athletics play the second-place (tied with Brampton) Petes here tonight. An 8.45 touch in Miller Bowl. While St. Kitts and the local lacrossers have each dropped just one decision to date, the Saints have won one more game in five starts to the Petes' four. Yes, Don Crowe's crew have a couple of toughies facing 'em this week in St. Catharines tonight here and the Brampton Excelsiors here on Friday. Now is the time to show they haven't been building in vain—that they can knock any of them off. But it won't be any walkover, nossuh. Tonight's tilt should be a swell struggle between two strong squads for top spot.

* * * * * *

Another local team, the Petes' senior ballsters are showing early foot this semester, leading the Viaduct Major League with five straight victories and one loss. But they'll have to hustle like all get-out here tomorrow eve when Oshawa Merchants meet 'em at 8.30 in Riverside Park. The Merchants are almost tied for second slot with Kingsway of Toronto, Staffords being next and then Croftons. But Oshawa have been adding American imports and will be tough from here in. So will the Whitehill team, we expect. They're getting Dick Golden (infielder) over from the States and are still after a hurler from across the line. This Thursday tussle really rates a crowd as it should be the best to date this schedule.

Rink Manager An M.P.?

A recent item out of Toronto said: "When Orillia opens the new community rink next fall, Bucko McDonald is destined to step forth and take over as manager." Now, Bucko is a member of the federal house, but finds time to take an active interest in sports. He used to play a sound game of lacrosse—and has seen action here against the Petes—and he was well-known as a bouncing defenceman in hockey for Detroit Red Wings. We trust the rink rats around the Orillia palais d'ice (and it's a smart edifice) treat the M.P. with proper respect at all times. Else Bucko may tee off on them.

The Galloping Ghosts of Cobourg are being feted at a Friday dinner down that way, Manager Fred Dufton informs us. Dr. Aitken, Harv Bamforth and Don McGillis Sr., of the Orfuns' grid club, have been invited from here. The Ghosts believe in re-organizing early and getting the jump on other clubs in the annual prowl for players. And they've done exceptionally well over the years. Were ORFU intermediate "B" champs in 1937 and 1938, winning the "A" title in 1938, 1946 and in '48, not to mention more recent triumphs, such as taking it all last autumn after winning this grouping. They've taken a few Dominion intermediate trophies, too. It's quite a football town.

* * * * * *

Winners Had To Hustle

Revoy's had to go all out to edge the Orphans 13-12 at the Bowl last night for their third straight win in the City Softball League. Orphans' errors didn't help any, but they made it a mighty close fit. Bigford pitched the distance for the Guilfoyle gang, while Fraser Wade took over late from Terry Woods for the Dormer bunch, who lost out in the ninth as Blair Thomson scored the winning run. UEW defeated Lakefield Aces 15-9 with a one-armed lefthander, Ray Allen, twirling for them against Kevin Heffernan in a tussle spotted with lots of extra-base blows. Casey, Grafstein and Larkman belted homers, and Jack White came up with three doubles. Cam Wasson's crew made the Dalton gents hustle, too. Games tomorrow: Lakefield vs. Orphans, and Revoy's vs. UEW.

* * * * * *

Up in Toronto last gloaming, the Petes dropped their first Viaduct Baseball League decision of the season—in six starts—as Kingsways pulled out a 10-8 verdict. But Petes are still in top spot. Big Alfie Wiliams scattered seven hits for the home crew, though he was pretty wild in spots. Aside from George Brabin, who bingled three, with Stewart, Edger, Lowrey and Milne getting a hit each, the Petes were handcuffed most of the way. But the free tickets made it close enough to the finish. Bill Edger was going along fine till the fifth but he gave way then to Gunner Whitehill. The Lumbermen have a good club and this senior ball circuit promises to be plenty heated the rest of the season.

Excelsiors Triumph

TORONTO, June 6 (CP). — Brampton Excelsiors Tuesday night defeated Toronto West Yorks 18-12 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association Senior game. Al Garbutt scored six goals for Brampton, helping to tighten his team's grip on first place in the league. Leading scorers for Toronto were Benny Harris, Jack Howes and Frank Facto.

Elgin Triumphs

In the best played game of the season, Elgin, which threatens to be the team to beat this year, gained a 7-6 decision over the Juniors. J. Richardson started for Elgin and threw good ball, although his support was spotty at times. Payne relieved in the seventh, and ran into trouble in the ninth, and Brown was hurried in to put the fire out, cutting the Juniors one run short of tying it.

Morrow pitched for the Juniors and showed real improvement, with much better control. He tired in the seventh and Wilson relieved and did a creditable job.

Stevenson pulled off a good catch once, on a screaming liner through short, while Kelly came up with the longest hit of the game, a four-bagger that pushed two runs across the plate ahead of him.

SPINNING HINTS

For our third item on "Spinning Hints" we will mention a few of the finer points about lines, on their development and usage, as well as a few recommendations for better results.

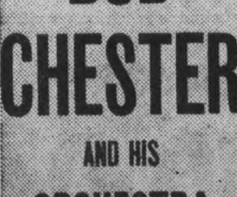
Firstly, we cannot emphasize too much on the importance that in these articles, as well as in practice your best results will come only with practice and the use of matched equipment, i.e., a spinning rod coupled with a spinning reel, using only spinning lines.

Since your spinning rod and spinning reel are designed to allow the line to pay off the reel with least amount of friction or drag; it stands to reason that your line is also manufactured to facilitate the casting of your lure to its greatest possible distance. Therefore, the manufacturer had to consider several facts before turning out a product which was suitable to stand the tests of usage, time and adaptability to this new type of equipment. Mainly they were weight, thickness, visibility in water, water absorption, possible deterioration and strength.

Previous to the last war the Japanese had a substitute gut line which had several advantages but had one important disadvantage. The disadvantage being that it had to be soaked for 20 minutes or more in water to make it pliable and free running. These are not imported any more and with the introduction of the Nylon Monofilament it is doubtful if it ever again becomes popular.

Braided Nylon has been preferred by some anglers but with the rapid development of plastics the Nylon Monofilament has proven to be the most popular with spinning enthusiasts and has all the necessary characteristics needed to an exceptional degree.

The usual spool capacity is 150 to 200 yards of 6 pound test line (Monofilament) and this should be put on the reel so that there is no twist and if necessary the centre of the spool can be backed with old line in order to load the spool up to its proper level. Care should be taken not to fish with an overloaded or underfilled spool will cut down the distance of your cast while the overloaded spool has a tendency to run off the spool to an excessive degree and cause a bad snarl.



Your line of 6 to 8 pound test should prove sufficient for most the fishing which is done in this district and most fresh water lakes, a heavier test could be used for muskie and pike fishing.

The real thrill of this King of Sports is the landing of big muskie or pickerel, yes and even a scrappy bass on light spinning equipment.

Follow this column daily and watch for Clapper's special announcement on how you can prove to yourself the ease of handling and the difference of using matched tackle.

Boston Gets Big Surprise Bows To White Sox 10-2

By JOE REICHLER,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

So you still think the Chicago White Sox are morning glories? Well, ask the Red Sox.

Boston stormed into Chicago last Sunday with the avowed purpose of pricking Chicago's bubble and putting the upstarts in their places. Hadn't the Red Sox just won 11 of their last 12 games? And weren't they ready to use the White Sox as a stepping stone to first place?

The Bostonians' confidence increased when they won the opener of a five-game series. Then came the debacle. The White Sox beat them four in a row.

Tuesday's amazingly easy 10-2 triumph over the power-packed pre-season flag favorites marked the sixth time Chicago has whipped Boston in 7 games this season. The victory kept intact the White Sox' three and a half game lead over New York, conquerors of Cleveland Tuesday 8-2.

Elsewhere in the American League St. Louis Browns shellacked the Philadelphia Athletics 10-1, and Detroit shut out Washington, 4-0.

Eighth Triumph

Ned Garver hurled a four-hitter against the A's for his eighth triumph—an amazing accomplishment considering the cellar-dwelling Browns have won only 14. Gene Bearden pitched the Tiger shutout over his former Washington teammates.

Brooklyn's Dodgers eked out a 3-2 win over St. Louis to increase their National League lead over the Cards to four and a half games. It was the Brooks' fourth straight victory.

Sal Maglie registered his ninth straight victory as the New York Giants nipped the Cincinnati Reds 3-2. Lefty Paul Lapalme, making his big league start, hurled Pittsburgh to an 8-0 triumph over the Boston Braves. Relief artist Jim Konstanty, making his first start since he lost the world series opener last fall, lasted only five innings as the Chicago Cubs whipped the Philadelphia Phillies 3-2.

High Scoring Innings

Two high-scoring innings—the sixth and eighth—gave the White Sox all their runs as they handed Boston's Willard Nixon his first defeat. Rookie outfielder Jim Busby sparked a six-run eighth with a two-run homer. He also got a triple and single. Randy Gumpert scattered eight hits for his fourth success against no defeats. The Sox now have won 18 of their last 20.

Don DiMaggio got three of Boston's hits to stretch his consecutive hitting streak through 25 games.

Allie Reynolds smashed Cleveland's nine-game winning streak with a five-hitter for New York. Yogi Berra and Bobby Brown paced a 13-hit assault on loser Early Wynn with home runs.

The Browns belted three A's hurlers for 16 hits. Catcher Sherman Lollar smacked a single, double and homer and drove in three runs. Garver chipped in with a single and double.

Detroit's George Kell collected four hits in as many times at bat. That equalled Washington's entire output against the lefthanded Bearden.

Breaks Tie

Roy Campanella's double scored Carl Furillo from first in the ninth inning to break a 2-2 tie and win for Brooklyn. A three-base throwing error by Card pitcher George Munger of Pee Wee Reese's sacrifice bunt gave the Dodgers the tying run in the eighth. Blanked with one hit through six innings, the Giants snapped a scoreless pitching duel between Maglie and Cincinnati's Harry Perkowski with two runs in the seventh. Wes Westrum and Willie Mays drove in the runs. Maglie scored what proved to be the winning run in the eighth. An eighth inning homer by Ted Kluszewski and a ninth inning triple by Bob Usher gave the Reds their runs.

Pittsburgh supported Lapalme's five-hit pitching with a 21-hit attack against loser Johnny Sain and three Boston relievers. Ralph Kiner and George Metkovich collected seven hits and four doubles between them. The Pirates left 18 on the bases to tie a major league record first set by the 1905 Pittsburgh club and equalled by several others.

The Cubs got all their runs in the fourth off Konstanty, who went down to his fifth defeat. He has won only two. A triple by Dee Fondy, doubles by Smoky Burgess and Hank Sauer and Andy Pafko's single furnished the tallies. Bob Rush went all the way for his third victory.

Man Crushed By Truck, Held ½ Hour

Thrown From Cab As It Tipped Over Into Apsley Ditch

Thrown out of the cab of a truck as it toppled over, Kenneth Hall, 29, Apsley, was crushed under the truck and lay there for half an hour about one a.m this morning on Highway 28 just at the south outskirt of Apsley.

Hall was brought to St. Joseph's Hospital here today for X-rays, arriving 12:30 p.m.

At press time, examination of the injured man had not been completed. It was feared by officials in Apsley that Hall had a punctured lung, a dislocated hip, fractured ribs, and possibly a fractured leg.

While he was laying under the truck, gasoline from the gas tank drenched him and he was burned by it, but luckily the gas was not ignited. Hall is married.

Provincial Constable Bert Howden, who investigated, said the truck driven by William McCaskie, 27, of Apsley made a left turn on a straight highway and drove into a 10-foot ditch and toppled over.

He said when he arrived only Hall's feet were visible sticking out from under the truck. A tow truck was brought to lift the truck from Hall. He was taken to the Red Cross hospital in Apsley where he was treated by Dr. John Steer. Later in the morning it was decided to take him to Peterborough.

No explanation was available of why the truck made the turn off the highway into the ditch. About $125 damage was done to the truck.

FUND TOTALS $43,000

The Mayor's Fire Fund was up to $43,000 at noon today, W. R. Wallace, assistant treasurer, reported from this morning's subscriptions.

INDUCTION OF THE NEW RECTOR of All Saints' Anglican Church, the Rev. M. P. Poole, (left) former curate of St. Clements Anglican Church, Toronto, was held on Tuesday evening. Shown next to him is the Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverley, Bishop of Toronto, and the Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson of St. John's Anglican Church. In Rear (holding the crozier), is the Rev. H. J. Scuse who will be inducted as rector of St. George's Church tonight.

Rev. M. P. Poole Inducted Rector

The Rev. M. P. Poole was inducted as rector of All Saints' Anglican Church by the Rt. Rev. A. R. Beverley, Bishop of Toronto, at a special service Tuesday night.

The guest preacher was the Rev. D. H. MacLennan of Hamilton, who used as the theme of his address, "They had been with Jesus."

The Letters of Institution and License were given by the Rev. W. J. Gilling of St. Luke's Anglican Church, Rural Dean, and the Prayers by Archdeacon C. W. Balfour. Archdeacon W. P. Roberston took the Perambulation.

Other clergy present at the service were the Rev. H. J. Scuse of St. George's Anglican Church, Bishop's chaplain; Canon F. J. Fife, Young's Point; the Rev. L. J. Delaney, St. John's Anglican Church, Lakefield; Canon C. R. Spencer, Port Hope.

Following the service, a reception was held in the Parish Hall. In the reception line were Bishop and Mrs. Beverley; Mr. Poole, the new rector, and Mrs. Poole; the rector's warden, Mr. and Mrs. A. V. Hill; the people's warden, Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Searight.

During the reception, Bishop Beverley spoke briefly. He paid tribute to the work done by the late Rev. W. H. Kibblewhite, and stated that a bright future lay ahead for All Saints' Church.

The new rector, Mr. Poole, was born in Winnipeg. Following his graduation from St. John's Theological College, University of Manitoba, he became curate at St. Luke's Anglican Church, Winnipeg. Previous to his coming to Peterborough, he was also incumbent of St. Mary's Anglican Church, Winnipeg, and then curate at St. Clement's Anglican Church, Toronto.

Sisters Reunited, Parted 44 Years Ago In England

Forty-four years ago two sisters said goodbye in Fulham, London, England. May 29, at the Peterborough CNR station these same two sisters were reunited when one of them stepped from a train which had brought her on the last lap of a journey from Kingsberry, London, England.

"I was so glad to see her," said the visitor from England.

The sisters—Mrs. Alfred Ladd of Kilgsbery, London, England, and Mrs. Charles Barton, 206 Edinburgh St.—had enjoyed a week of visiting when interviewed by the Examiner, at Mrs. Barton's home.

Mrs. Ladd said that she boarded the "Georgic" at Southampton on May 19 and landed in Halifax exactly a week later. From there she travelled by railroad to Peterborough.

The letter, announcing the date of her coming, reached the Barton home only two weeks before her actual arrival.

After telling how happy she was to see her only sister again, Mrs. Ladd was asked what had impressed her most during her short stay in Canada.

Continually Amazed

"I am continually amazed at the quantity and quality of food available here, especially meat. Last Saturday my niece (Mrs. Barton's daughter) took me to the market and I couldn't believe my eyes when I saw all those eggs. We also visited a chain store and I saw one woman painstakingly selecting a steak. I couldn't help but think of the feast it would be considered at home were we able to have even the poorest steak she turned down.

"You know, our ration of meat a week is only one slice. We get two eggs, three ounces of cheese a week, and one and one half pounds of candy a month. Why there have been times when I went without a cup of tea for three or four days.'

And during this last remark there was in Mrs. Ladd's voice and a look in her eye that revealed her as a true tea-loving member of the English race who considered this one of the greatest of hardships.

With this discussion of rationing the conversation turned to the last war and how Mrs. Ladd and her family were affected by it. She explained that they lived in one of the most bombed parts of the city.

Windows Blasted

"Our house didn't have a window or a door left," she remarked. "All we could do was use carpets where the glass and doors had been. The musical instrument factory where my husband had worked for many years was bombed and he began working in another part of the city. Now we are living in a three-room flat under what is called Requisitional Housing."

Politics crept into the conversation and the English guest expressed the opinion that the Labor government would be defeated in the next election.

Calls Election

"I can't see any other outcome," Mrs. Ladd contended, "with people complaining so much about the austerity measures this party has enforced."

Enthusiasm came to the fore when Peterborough was mentioned. Mrs. Ladd couldn't say too much in praise of the city's scenic attractions. She seemed particularly impressed by the lift lock.

No particular agenda has been planned for Mrs. Ladd's three month stay in Peterborough. "We are just so glad to be together and we certainly have enough to talk about all these years to keep us busy for more than three months," she exclaimed. "However we are going to have a family reunion with my sister's family here the end of July."

Mrs. Ladd has two daughters and one son, all in England. Mrs. Barton also has two daughters and one son.

Following the interview the two sisters planned to go out and enjoy some afternoon tea—"so blessedly plentiful in Canada."

Equipment Being Ordered To Keep City Hall Sparkling

Progress at the new city hall is indicated by council's arrival Tuesday night at the planning of its housekeeping details. Formal opening is apparently six months distant, possibly in November, but meanwhile work is steadily advancing, blue prints have become reality, and the matter of menage and its requirements are about to receive attention.

Ronald Winter, adviser to the council, turned in a report recommending the staff and utensils.

He suggested: one caretaker, two male cleaners, 8 hours a day, 44 hours a week; four charwomen, 4 hours a day, 24 hours a week.

Approximate area of space to be cleaned regularly is 37,000 sq. ft.

"The suggested staff is a minimum requirement to keep the building in first class order. The caretaker, besides being responsible for the work of the staff, is also in full charge of the boiler and its equipment."

Polishing Gear

Duties of the staff are outlined, and Mr. Winter suggests required equipment: three floor polishing machines for each floor, complete with scrubbing brushes, buffing pads, etc. to take care of terrazzo, wood and linoleum floors.

Three mop trucks, one for each floor, "for use in conjunction with the above". Three vacuum cleaners, one for each floor; commercial type.

One dozen each of: dust mops, dust pans, radiator brushes, mop heads and sticks, mop pails and wringers, floor brooms (three sizes, one dozen each), furniture dusters, sponges, steel wool, floor pails."

Mr. Winter recommended that tenders could be called for these supplies, and estimated $2,900 be authorized to cover the cost.

Supplies comprise such commonplace domestic staples as — soap, wax, terrazzo cleaner, glass cleaner, metal polish, etc., costing around $500 to "take care of the first few months".

This report was sent to the property committee.

A motion by Ald. T. D. Miller and Ald. J. A. Dewart approved a recommendation of Marani & Morris, architects of the city hall, for the expenditure of $235 on additional work in the dark room of the photography section of the police department

Buy Brinton Carpet

Council also adopted the recommendation of the architects for purchase of 170 yards of carpet at $9.65 per yard from Brinton-Peterborough Carpet Co., plus sales tax and 25 cents a yard for sewing.

Another motion by Aldermen Miller and Dewart approved a change order requiring additional work in the council chamber, amounting to $1,006.

It set out various details such as raising the wood railing from 2 ft. 2 in. to 2 ft. 6 in.; revising the dais; adding drawers in the mayor's and clerk's desks; and a list of other changes more or less minor, which the architects recommended.

The special committee appointed to enquire into the furnishings of the office of the mayor and of his reception room proposed acceptance of the original recommendation that the tender of Grand and Toy be accepted.

As an item of finance, this report to the council was submitted by Ald. T. D. Miller, chairman of the finance committee.

Invited New Bids

The special committee's report over the name of City Clerk Outram recalled that the council directed that local tenders be informed that new bids were being called for the furnishing of these two rooms, "since their previous tenders were not concerning a class of furniture of a quality desired for these particular rooms, or as specified." They were invited to make new bids by May 5.

Only two showed any interest. They were D. Belleghem & Sons and S. J. Black. The Belleghem tender was unsatisfactory in not tendering on all the furnishings required, and the quality of the

Paving Contract Let To Warren Over Objections

Purchase of an Elgin street sweeper at the tender of $12,735 was authorized by the council Tuesday night.

Another accessory of the streets department that is being ordered is an Aveling-Barford three-wheel road roller, diesel engine, and so on as to details of equipment, at $10,445.

Board of works had referred the several pouches of tenders to City Engineer Chalmers for his study and advice. His return of these recommendations was adopted.

Warren Bituminous Paving Co. bid of $159,942.55 also comes into effect from the report of the board of works. Law Construction Co. was the other bidder for this seasonal business.

Slightly Higher

Mr. Chalmers wrote: "I have checked all extensions in the tender of Warren Bituminous Co. and found them correct. The prices on the average are slightly higher than last year, but should be within the estimated cost".

The paving company wrote the council that they had legal advice to the effect that they were not offending against any law in the establishment of their plant at Auburn.

This was a reference to the protest of Mr. R. R. Faryon and his threat of injunction if the company continued in operation after June 15, causing smoke, dust and smell in the neighborhood and depriving residents of the right of the ordinary enjoyment of home and property.

Turned Out

J. B. Waterhouse, treasurer of the Warren Company, Toronto, wrote that Auburn Realty Co. recently informed them that they would not renew after Dec. 31, 1951, lease for the land on which the asphalt plant has been in use for several years.

"It is, therefore, our intention to move the plant and equipment by the end of the year."

"We have spent considerable money trying to satisfy the various comlaints Mr. Faryon has made. It is our belief that we have eliminated all causes of his complaints. We have no alternative but to move at the end of the year."

Club Protests

A letter of protest pointing at the Warren plant was also received from T. A. Mackay, secretary of the Peterborough Golf and Country Club.

"Members are strenuously objecting to dust and smoke that blow across the course," he wrote. "It makes a very unpleasant impression on visitors....We fear they will not return, and that we would lose considerable in green fees. The opinion is that the members will not tolerate this indefinitely."

APPOINTED ORGANIST

A native of Port Hope, W. H. Wickett, 32, of Ingersoll has been appointed organist of Wesley Unitted Church, London, Ontario. Mr. Wickett will start his duties July 1.

JAMES BLAIKLOCK, an honor graduate of the University of Toronto having passed with honors his studies in mechanical engineering for the past two years, is receiving his Bachelor of Science degree at convocation today. He is the son of Mrs. J. F. W. Blaiklock, Engleburn Ave.

Housing Pinch Still On In Peterborough

The scarcity of hen's teeth has nothing on the present housing situation in the city and district even though new housing divisions have been built and are being built.

A survey of real estate offices, and a check through the daily newspaper advertisements revealed that houses for rent are "nearly a thing of the past," a few apartments are available, houses and cottages for sale are plentiful.

The few apartments offered are mostly furnished, allowing the landlord to ask anywhere from $50 a month up to $85. In some cases the "furnished" part of the contract includes the barest of essentials.

Other unfurnished apartments which appear from time to time vary between $30 and $75 depending largely upon the location and number of rooms. A self-contained, all conveniences, modern four or five room apartment may rent as high as $75.

The $30 apartments usually are two or three rooms situated in the centre of the city or on the outskirts where transportation problems arise.

More Available

Newspaper advertisements seem to indicate that there are more apartments available this year than at this time last year. But those that are vacant seem to have fewer rooms. More three-room apartments seem to be the trend. In other years apartments were larger.

"Just not any available," was the report from real estate offices regarding homes for rent. What few that do become vacant from time to time are about $12 to $15 above the average weekly wage for Peterborough, $48. One office said that its last house for rent was a four-room bungalow which went for $50 a month.

If available, other homes may cost from $50 to $80 a month unfurnished and depending again on the location in the city.

Payments Doubled

Down payments on homes for sale have nearly doubled in the past year with the result that they are more plentiful. For example, a new house costing $8,000 which had a down payment of $1,500 last year has a payment of $3,000. And there are almost none at $8,000.

An alternative girls' lunchroom, replacing the present one in the PCVS basement, is to be found. That is the recommendation of the health committee, board of education. Look To Ottawa For Guidance On Television

By D'ARCY O'DONNELL.

OTTAWA, June 6 (CP). — Canadian broadcasters look to the federal government for some guidance regarding the development of television as result of recommendation of the Massey Royal Commission on Arts.

Officials of the publicly-owned CBC plan to proceed with the development of TV stations in Montreal and Toronto. Further expansion likely will stem from action by the government and by parliament.

Some persons connected with privately-owned radio stations say the future depends on whether the government accepts the majority or minority report of the commission, headed by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey of Toronto.

Prime Minister St. Laurent has said the government will study the report in the next few weeks. He indicated legislation will be presented to parliament at a fall session.

Favor Minority Report

Private broadcasters favor the minority report of Dr. Arthur Surveyer of Montreal. He recommended that a separate body—to be known as the Canadian Broadcasting and Telecasting Control Board—be established to supervise both privately and publicly-owned broadcasting and telecasting stations.

Four other members of the commission, including Mr. Massey, recommended that the CBC retain control of both private and public broadcasting and telecasting. Some private operators said the majority report made an "unrealistic and impractical" approach to television development.

They said they were not clear in some instances on what the majority meant. For example, the majority recommended that "no private television broadcasting stations be licensed until the CBC has available national television programs and that all private stations be required to serve as outlets for national programs."

Programs In Mind

A spokesman for the commission explained this did not mean the CBC should have a network of TV stations across Canada before a private operator is allowed in the field. The commissioners felt no private stations should be licensed until the CBC can supply at least a percentage of their programs.

The commissioners did not say what percentage of CBC programs private stations should be obliged to carry or when they should be carried.

The spokesman said it will be possible for the CBC to provite private stations with TV programs on kinescope recordings or films as soon as production studios start operation in Toronto and Montreal.

Ottawa Hopes To Stem Poultry Disease

OTTAWA, June 6 — (CP) — Robert McCubbin, parliamentary assistant to Agriculture Minister Gardiner, said Tuesday the government is trying to bring outbreaks of Newcastle disease under control as quickly as possible.

H. told Earle Catherwood (PC, Haldimand) in the Commons that the Agriculture Department has the problem of the disease, which plagues poultry flocks, well in hand.

Gets $9,794 For Accident

TORONTO, June 6 — (CP) — A total of $9,794 from the province's Unsatisfied Judgments Fund has been awarded to William George Johnson and his three children, of Owen Sound, for an accident in October, 1949, which injured him and took his wife's life.

In a suit for damages in Owen Sound last December, Albert Playford, 35, driver of the car which hit Mr. and Mrs. Johnson as they stood beside a highway, was assessed a total of $17,450. Playford said he had no means with which to pay.

Tuesday's judgment will be paid from the provincial fund established to meet such cases.

Caterpillar March Worst In Years

DRYDEN, Ont., June 6 (CP)—Countless millions of destructive tent caterpillars are infesting forest areas in practically every section of this northwestern Ontario district.

Dixon Turner, chief fire ranger here, predicted this year's invasion would be the worst yet. He said the peak of the damage is not yet reached. This is the last year of their cycle, however, and forestry officials expect no trouble next year.

The peak of the invasion was late in June last year but because of a warm spring officials believe this year's will be reached in about six or seven days.

Watch For Bootleggers

EDMONTON, June 6 (CP)—Police across the country Tuesday were asked to watch for cloth bootleggers attempting to dispose of $28,000 worth of imported fabrics stolen from a downtown Edmonton tailoring establishment. Enough material for 800 suits was stolen while racks of finished clothing, desk drawers and the store safe were left untouched.

Secret Turbines

TORONTO, June 6 (CP)—A. Lee Ainsworth, vice-president of John Inglis Co. Ltd., Tuesday night said his firm will build a highly-secret steam turbine for use in new Royal Canadian Navy sub-chasers. A lawn social will be held later in the summer at Bridgenorth when the Smith Union is planning to entertain the Peterborough Union. The meeting was closed with prayer and lunch was served by the hostess and the ladies of Fairview.

Urges Canada Use Scientific Experts

MONTREAL, June 6—(CP)—Canada will never have an important place among nations until "she starts using her brains instead of trusting to pot-luck" in exploiting her natural resources Dr. J. J. O'Neil said Tuesday night.

Dr. O'Neil, Dean of McGill University's Engineering Faculty, said in his presiedntial address to the Royal Society of Canada that what is needed is an immediate "scientific stock-taking" of natural resources.

This would lead to a planned program for "their orderly but persistent exploitation to the continuing benefit of the country as a whole."

Among those receiving medals from the society was Dr. J. E. Hawley, of Queen's University, Kingston, the Willet G. Miller medal for geology.

Join Churches In 9-Yr. Waves Report Shows

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK, June 6 —(AP)—Americans join the Presbyterian and the Congregationalist churches in nine-year waves. In both churches these highs of new members come when the stock market is declining. They run opposite to a nine-year cycle in stock prices.

These reports appear in the May issue of Cycles, a publication by the Foundation for the Study of Cycles, New York City. The possibility of similar religious waves in other churches has not been studied.

The Presbyterian cycles were found and they fitted almost exactly the ups and downs of membership in the other church. This has been going on for the last 99 years, the period covered by the study.

Had 10 Peaks

"In that time there have been 10 peaks of new members, followed by a decline. But with three exceptions each peak brought the membership of each church to a new high.

The report says no one knows the reasons for the waves. It suggests there is something which makes us alternately bold and fearful. We go into business during bold periods and to churches when in fear.

Just as a speculation about the cause of the alternating periods the article suggests atmospheric electricity. There is supposed to be a nine-year cycle in the amounts of electricity in the air. But that cycle has not been proved.

As an explanation of the failure of the two churches to reach new highs during the 30s and most of the 40s, the report suggests the decrease in fear of eternal fire and damnation.

Amends Provisions

OTTAWA, June 6 (CP)—Finance Minister Abbott told the Commons Tuesday night he is amending new depreciation write-off provisions announced for business in the 1951-52 budget. He said the changes, to be announced within a few days, will be based on the finance department's observations since the budget was brought down April 11.

Little Manufacturers Given Contract Chance

OTTAWA, June 6—(CP)—The Defence Production Department intimated to Canada's "little" manufacturers Tuesday that there are some big defence projects in the wind, and they had better hurry if they want to get in on the show.

Officials said that giving the small manufacturers advance information on the kind of projects the department is concentrating on at the moment, they would have a chance to bid for subcontracts on component parts with the big producers who would get the main contracts.

Long Nights of Waiting Hard For Canadians At Front

By BILL BOSS

WITH THE CANADIANS IN KOREA, June 6 —(ENS)— The greens and the browns already were submerged in the dark blue of dusk.

A lone aircraft still hovered over the enemy positions ahead.

Occasionally a deep, bass wham broke the thick stillness as a heavy gun in the rear sent a shell out on its mission. Harrassing fire.

The beginning of yet another night in a long succession.

For almost three weeks the Canadians had waited. In strong positions, they stood guard north of the Han ready to stop any Chinese attempt to break through to the south.

They had killed an enemy offensive once—north of Kapyong the night of April 24-25. In these incomparably stronger positions, strengthened with mines, barbed wire, flame, anti-tankguns, fougasses—napalm bombs buried underground—and other "trinkets" evolved through their own ingenuity, they were confident they could do it again.

It was a question of waiting—and hoping that when the Chinese did come it would be in thousands. It would be a slaughter.

Waiting Hard

Waiting. Waiting and watching. With the cunning of the devil and the quiet of cats, Chinese get within inches of a slit trench before the danger is known.

Throughout the darkness—8:30 at night to 5:30 in the morning—eyes must peer into the night, ears strain for the slightest whisper of noise and hands be always ready to man the weapons. No sleep. No rest. Work.

It's easy the first night. Even the second. It's new. And the senses are alive to the menace.

But comes the 10th, the 11th, the 19th. The boredom, the tedium, the weariness of waiting, tell. Drowsiness and sleep, the unpardonable sins, threaten. . .

For the 20th time the major was returning to his command post after a final inspection of his lines, a last word with his men, for the night. From then on they would be in touch by telephone and wireless.

Trudges Up Slope

The company sergeant-major spotted him in the gathering gloom. Stocky, quiet-spoken Vince Lilley of Hamilton, unruffled as usual, trudged up the slope, followed by Pte George Evans of Prince Rupert, BC, his batman and shadow.

"A last brew-up before dark," ordered CSM. G. J. Goldsworthy of Halifax and Calgary, his own check-up on ammunition and supplies completed. The night would be cold—perhaps 40 or 45 degrees.

It's 8.30. The entrenched blue of land and sky deepen quickly into black. The major settles into the "verandah" of his heavily-timbered dug-out—a strong-point in itself—and says warmly, "Come in, find a seat, have a drink."

From the corner in which he sits, two long slit trenches go out at right angles. At the end of one are two hollowed-out compartments. One is bedroom for him and Capt. Patrick Pine of Rivers, Man., his second-in-command.

Nerve Centre

The other has the map-boards, the radio and the telephone. It is the nerve centre, whose communications are manned by Pte. J. H. Nelson of Vancouver.

PTE. FRANK COX

The drink? Choice of Canadian or Japanese beer, rum or chartreuse. . . or what was left of the chartreause after Pte. Frank Cox of Peterborough, sten-gunner and one of the sentries for the night, had unpardonably knocked it over.

Flares parachuting slowly to the northeast began illuminating the sky. Sent up by flanking companies to show up possible movement? Maybe. . . until word came through it was the lone airplane that earlier had been straffing. Chinese were massing in front of Australian positions to the right, and the flares gave the area the brilliance of the noonday sun. All night the unknown sky-man patrolled the lines, 2,500 feet up, dropping lights wherever indicated by the ground.

"Maybe they'll make for the Aussies in the hills instead of coming down the road at us," someone says.

Things Moving

The telephone rings and Sgt. Charles Newcombe of Vancouver tells Nelson that a trip-flare set by the Canadians has gone off in a village 500 yards forward. Newcombe commands a platoon position overlooking the Han.

A little later and Newcombe reports mortar fire on his position. And smoke.

Lieut. Charles Petrie of Edmonton telephones at 9.30 that mines have been exploded in his platoon area.

"Okay," says Lilley, resuming conversation about other things, "that means they're getting closer."

He'll begin to take notice when the firing begins. His men have orders not to open up until they "see the whites of their eyes."

But it doesn't. Nothing more—until headquarters telephones that a rowboat should soon be reported cressing the river towards their positions.

Don't Fire

"He's bringing you a telephone, and is hauling line from his command post. He's from the UN unit across the river. Don't shoot him."

The major reacts quickly. "If he's not shot he'll probably go up on the minefield down there."

Newcombe is ordered to have someone who knows the field go down and accept the phone. It means liaison with troops across the river. Their line of fire is across terrain the Chinese would have to cross to assault the Canadans. Valuable instrument, that.

Then, quiet. At 11 p.m., Lilley observes that as an old soldier he's learned to snatch sleep whenever he can get it. "If they're coming now it won't be until three in the morning," he says, crawling into his cave.

(The Chinese seem to attack just after dark, or in the last hours before dawn.)

Share Cave

Goldsworthy does the same into his cave—at the end of the other slit. He shares his with whichever of Cox or Cpl. Doug Goddard of St. Vital, Man., isn't on sentry-go at the time. Goddard, company clerk, and Cox, spell one another off.

It's cramped in that bunker, and stuffy. Illumination is by a candle on a niche hollowed out of the wall. But cramped and stuffy, it's warmer than outside.

Cox agrees to wake everyone at 2.30, unless things happen earlier.

But though sleep calls briefly at the nerve-centre, it never for a moment stops in along the line ahead.

Full Moon

It's the time of the full moon—most favored by the Chinese—and everyone "stands to." At other times the paired soldiers might spell one another off in their positions.

But nothing happens. Three o'clock, then 3.30 slowly pass, and again the nerve-centre dozes—ready to spring into action the moment Nelson gets a message over his sets.

Comes the dawn, and Lilley phones in a cryptic "NTR" to headquarters—"Nothing to report."

You mightn't believe it but it's been a hard night—of waiting.

And as a man, the more than 125 men on the outpost stretch out after eating breakfast—lie on the bottom of their trenches, on blankets spread on the ground, anywhere they can be least uncomfortable, and store in the sleep that may save tomorrow night.

G. K. Sheils, C.M.G. (left), executive vice-President of the N. M Davis Corporation Ltd, Toronto, was elected 1951-52 vice-president.

Change Rules For Seamen

OTTAWA, June 6 — (CP). — Prime Minister St. Laurent announced Tuesday changes in regulations covering security of seamen on the Great Lakes.

He told the Commons that the security regulations applying to men serving on the Great Lakes will not be applicable to men on small fishing vessels, barges used as auxiliaries in dredging operations and similar craft.

Under the general regulations, seamen serving on the Great Lakes are screened for security purposes. No seamen without a card issued by a National Employment office is allowed to work on a lake vessel.

5 States May Aid Seaway Project

TORONTO, June 6 — (CP).— A delegation from the Detroit Board of Commerce said Tuesday there is a strong possibility tha five states bordering the Grea Lakes will give financial support to the St. Lawrence seaway development if the United States Congress turns down a joint plan with Canada this year.

W. W. Hall, secretary of the Detroit Board, said that if Canada decides to go ahead on her own, states like New York, Michigan, Ohio, Wisconsin, Minnesota and possibly others would find it in their best interests to give assistance, probably in the form of a bond issue.

Union Officials Hear Reports

ASBURY Park, NJ, June 6 — (CP). — Top officials of the Textile Workers Union of America (CIO) met in a closed session on Tuesday to hear reports from the union's legal committee.

Only routine matters were discussed, officials said after the meeting, highlight of the second day of a 10-day conference of the union's executive council.

There apparently were no developments in the reported rift between union president Emil Rive and George Baldanzi, executive vice-president.

Union sources say a showdown between the two over Rieve's dismissal of Canadian director Sam Baron, a Baldanzi supporter, won't come about until late this week.

March 9 Rieve dismissed Baron as Canadian director for what he described as "conduct unbecoming a staff member," and appointed J. Harold D'Aoust of Nashua, NH, in his place.

War Pensioners Seek Increase

OTTAWA, June 6 — (CP). — The government is going to be asked to consider an across-the-board increase in rates of awards for Canada's 162,000 war pensioners.

Both Liberal and Opposition members of the Commons' Veterans Committee Tuesday threw in motions asking Cabinet to consider whether war pensioners should receive greater compensation for the wounds and ailments they suffered in the service of the country

They adjourned until today without decision.

The Liberal motion, made by Capt. W. J. Henderson (L-Kingston City), asks the government to give "further consideration" to submissions by the Canadian Legion and other organizations that the time has come to boost pension rates.

Charging that that isn't urgent enough, Maj.-Gen. G. R. Pearkes, VC (PC-Nanaimo) moved an amendment. He wanted the committee to recommend that the government give consideration to legislation to provide an across-the-board increase at this session of Parliament.

Boy Takes Rail Engine For Ride In Yard

LONDON, June 6—(AP)—A shiny, black railroad engine gleamed in the sunshine on a track in the yards Tuesday. Steam hissed into the air to show it was ready to work.

Suddenly there was a grinding noise, the brake lever went up and the engine moved. It lumbered about 30 yards down the track.

Then it stopped, churned backward and halted on almost exactly the same spot from which it started.

A small, sooty schoolboy peered from the engineer's cab, slid to the ground and slapped the dirt from his hands.

"Sorry, mister," he said to the red-faced station foreman who came running up, "I always wanted to do it. But I put it back, didn't I?"

Gregg Gives Advice On Choosing Career

OTTAWA, June 6 — (CP) — Here's Labor Minister Gregg's theory on how to choose a career:

With guidance and counselling a 16 or 17-year-old high school graduate should pick his future career and then go out for about two years and work at what he can get in that general field. Then, if he still has the urge, go back and start at a university.

Mr. Gregg, speaking Tuesday night to delegates to the sixth annual conference of University Advisory Services, told guidance and placement experts from 13 Canadian universities that if they agree with this theory "your main task will be to persuade the doting parents."

Salmon Mousse (or Salmon Mould)
(see both below)
with Cucumber Sauce (see notes)
Shredded Cabbage and Parsley and Radish Salad
French Dressing
Sliced Tomatoes
Thin Bread and Butter
Fresh Shredded Pineapple and Halved Strawberries
Lemon Scones (see notes)
Tea

✧ ✧ ✧

Directions

Since the scones add substance to this meal you will not mind a substantial vegetable like potatoes in the first course.

This is a pretty meal. Can you take my word for the deliciousness of the cucumber sauce and try it? It will be great source of satisfaction to you, for it makes cold fish dishes into special fare —even canned salmon.

Salmon Mousse

Two tablespoons granulated gelatine, 2 tablespoons water, 1 egg, 1½ tablespoons lemon juice, 3 tablespoons melted butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon each salt and mustard, ¼ teaspoon paprika, ¾ cup milk, 2 cups flaked canned or cooked salmon (or tuna or shrimp or lobster or leftover white fleshed fish of any kind). Soak the gelatine in the cold water 5 minutes. In double boiler cook all other ingredients e fish until mixture thickens, stirring constantly. You may beat with a beater if desired. Remove from heat, stir in gelatine and fish, stir, and pour into mould rinsed out with cold water or into individual moulds. Chill and serve very cold on lettuce or cress with mayonnaise or:

✧ ✧ ✧

Cucumber Sauce

One cup grated cucumber, 1 cup cream whipped, ¼ teaspoon salt, dash of cayenne, 3 tablespoons vinegar. After it is grated squeeze cucumber in cheesecloth to extract all juice. Discard juice. Add seasonings and the vinegar drop by drop to the whipped cream and chill. Just before serving fold in the cucumber. If desired sour cream may be used when vinegar may be omitted. This is an exceptional sauce.

✧ ✧ ✧

Salmon Mould

One can salmon, 16-oz. drained, ½ tablespoon salt, ½ tablespoon mustard, ½ tablespoon sugar, 2 eggs, 1 cup milk, ¼ cup vinegar, 1½ tablespoons gelatine, ¼ cup cold water. Soften gelatine in cold water and make a dressing of the scalded milk added to mixed dry ingredients and eggs, by stirring over hot water. Add vinegar, remove from heat and add soaked gelatine. Fold in salmon which has been flaked. Sliced hard-cooked eggs, chopped celery and cucumbers are good additions and increase size of loaf.

✧ ✧ ✧

Lemon Scones

Four tablespoons butter or margarine, 1 teaspoon grated lemon rind, 2 cups sifted cake flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon salt, 2 teaspoons sugar, 2 eggs, ⅓ cup light cream, 3 tablespoons sugar, ½ teaspoon grated lemon rind. Sift sifted flour, baking powder, salt and sugar together. Cut into them the butter and lemon rind until it resembles coarse meal. When breaking eggs keep out about ½ of one white for a glaze. Beat eggs that remain very well and stir in; also the cream. Just stir until mixed. Roll to ½-inch and cut in triangles. Brush tops with reserved white and sprinkle with last amounts of mixed lemon rind and sugar. Bake at 450 deg. F. 12 minutes or until baked.

Summer Stage Has Ambitious Plan

VANCOUVER. — (CP)—When the newly-formed Totem Summer Theatre begins in its open-air bowl in West Vancouver on July 2, one of the finest arrays of Canadian talent ever gathered for "live theatre" here will be starting an eight-week season.

Producers Thor Arngrim and Stuart Baker are responsible for the all-Canadian summer stock company.

"It's probably a most ambitious plan," they said, "but we are sure the west can support legitimate theatre.

"We are trying to establish another source of employment for Canada's talent—there's plenty of it—and we hope the public will be as enthusiastic about it as we are."

Plays from "Harvey" to "Born Yesterday" are scheduled for performance with many Canadian actors listed on the playbill. Among them will Allan Roughton, Verlie Cooter, Hilda Browne, Babs Hitchman, John Emerson, Betty Philips, Walter Marsh, Ed McNamara, Peg Dixon, Frank Lambrett-Smith and many others.

"LETTER GO," THE MAILMEN CHEER —Mail-carrying motor scooters, like this model shown in Washington, D.C., will ease the aching backs of some 100 mailmen in several communities in the near future. Mail carriers Roma B. Lowell, left, and Ollie R. Foster talk over the advantages of the new "scooter," which has passed extensive tests in Miami, Fla. The Post Office Department says a "scootered" mailman can carry 400 pounds of mail, compared to 35 for a man on foot.

Big Increase In Housing But Won't Fill Bill

By HAROLD MORRISON

OTTAWA — (CP) — Another 800,000 new homes likely will be added to Canada's communities by 1960, bringing total housing units to 4,000,000. But even this big increase possibly won't fill the bill.

Dr. O. J. Firestone, trade department economist who makes housing his profession, estimated in an interview that about 477,000 families are doubling up with others — some because they are unable to obtain homes of their own and others because they prefer to live that way.

By 1960, he believes, the families in this category may swell beyond the 500,000 mark.

The 39-year-old Montreal economist with post-graduate work at the London school of economics, Dr. Firestone has delved deeply into the Canadian housing situation for the last five years.

His predictions and estimates are based on a continuance of current economic trends and on a nicely-rounded volume of housing facts and figures—his latest book, "residential real estates in Canada" (University of Toronto Press).

This 500-page volume tells the story of housing right up to 1950. But what of the future?

Case of Reasoning

Well, Dr. Firestone told the interviewer, it is a case of reasoning — granted, of course, that in the next decade there will be no third World War or such a rapid rearmament pace to have the same economic impact as a global conflict.

Up to the end of 1950, Canada built a total of 3,200,000 homes. She is building at the rate of about 90,000 a year. By 1960 she might build another 800,000 bringing total homes in Canada to 4,000,000.

But that's not the whole story. In the struggle for housing, the number of families without homes of their own has kept growing. In 1939, there were 269,000 of them sharing accommodation with others. This grew to 371,000 in 1945. By the end of 1950, their numbers had reached 477,000—in spite of the fact that Canadians have built in post-war period the largest number of houses in Canada's history.

The explanation? Canada is undergoing a terrific rate of population growth and economic development. So far, housing simply has been unable to keep pace with that phenomenal expansion.

How to cope with the problem? There's no way, says Dr. Firestone, but to build more homes. Canada is building at the rate of 90,000 a year. If, after the current period of adjustment to increased defence spending, Canadians can step this rate up to, say, 100,000 a year, then the problem, if not solved, will be at least arrested.

Urges Fathers In Britain To Rock Cradle

HARROGATE, Yorkshire, England (CP)—Britain is an emotionally immature nation, with a man-dominated society—except in the nursery.

That straight-from-the-shoulder assessment was given by Dr. Alfred Torrie, wartime director of army psychiatry, to delegates attending the annual conference here of the national marriage guidance council.

The doctor advised fathers to take over their duties with the children at a much earlier age than they have been doing.

"There is no reason why the little one should not have his turn of being bathed and cuddled by father," said Dr. Torrie. "Deep down, fathers are a bit jealous of the mother-child relationship. Because of the father taboo we men do not come into the picture until sometimes it is too late."

Seen In Behavior

Emotional immaturity, Dr. Torrie proceeded, was reflected in the behavior of the present generation everywhere.

Instead of sitting down and planning future action calmly and intelligently, people have allowed themselves to fall into temper tantrums like a child. When confronted by a problem they kicked the cat, cursed the wife, the government or Russia and then looked around for a scapegoat.

In his 20 years of dealing with unhappy marriages, the doctor said he had found that a large number of marital disharmony cases are due to emotional immaturity, not to sex or other difficulties.

"We must face this problem boldly," he added, "and make sure that the next generation rearms so that if we cannot prevent the next war we will at least prevent the war after next."

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

Nothing Wrong With Girl Who Wants To Ignore Boys

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My friend Sue and I are both 15-year-old girls, but I am very worried about her. She doesn't go with boys and doesn't really seem to care about them. Isn't it usually natural for a girl her age to have some interest in boys? She makes wonderful marks in school, and is very well liked. After school she goes home, helps her mother and for pastime reads, plays baseball or makes airplane models with her brother. She says all these things are fun and a whole lot more interesting than trying to attract the attention of every Tom, Dick and Harry. Is there anything I could say to make her want to be popular with boys? Sue is very popular with younger boys, who like to play ball with her and often ask her to help with their lessons, but for boys her own age or older she has no use.

JANET

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Is it possible, Janet, that I detect a touch of envy here because Sue is so happy and contented with her way of life and you are so befuddled in your efforts to win the attentions of your various Toms, Dicks and Harrys? While it is true that most fifteen-year-old girls like to be popular with boys, and have dates, there are some who take a little longer to reach this state. Their teen years are just spent savoring life to its limit and not being disturbed by emotional upheavals.

She's Happy

Sue's lot is a happy one, never fear! She does the things she likes without worrying about the approval of a boy. At the day's end she goes to bed, tired from a vigorous game of baseball, and drops right off to dreamless slumber instead of lying awake half the night wondering whether Jim's smile was really directed at her today or was a friendly gesture for the whole group. And why didn't Bob call tonight? And will Jack offer to take her to the class dance next month? All this turmoil is not for her—and fortunate is she that it is not.

Sue's day for popularity will come and when it does—watch out for your own boy friends. Her natural manner, good companionship and sportsmanship may lure all your beaux away. The rosiness on her cheeks and lips, coming from vigorous outdoor exercise, will put to shame the rouge and lipstick that other girls need for color.

Instead of wondering what you can do to make Sue think of boys more, see if you can't get a little advice from her on how to make good marks.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: How much have children a right to expect from their parents? We have a daughter of 25 to whom we have given every advantage that we could possibly afford and who is now in a position to care for herself, but she lives at home three months of the year without contributing one cent. Frequently has company over the week end. Does not help with the housework. Sleeps until almost noon. Goes out and spends the night and comes home the next day without one word of explanation. Yet she complains all the time that she does not have the privileges that her friends have and makes the home very unpleasant with her continual nagging. She is in fine health and has a good position nine months of the year. Would it be best for her to stay some other place, or shall we permit her to stay here and continue to disrespect the home and all that we hold dear?

A BROKEN-HEARTED MOTHER

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: When parents have reared and educated children and fitted them to make their own living, they have done all that should be expected of them. It is up to the children then to take care of themselves. Even a bird has sense enough to push its young out of the home nest and make it use its own wings and grub for itself. If your daughter makes herself unpleasant as a guest in your house, make her get another place to live. It will be better for you both. Perhaps, if she knew that being respectful to her parents and keeping a civil tongue in her head would save her the price of a board bill, she would make herself more agreeable.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am 14 years old and like a boy who is 16. My parents heard from a friend that this boy drinks, smokes and swears. My parents don't think it right for me to like him. They have never seen him do any of these things, so do you think I should believe them?

BETTINA

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: "Where there's smoke, there's fire," Bettina, and your parents' knowledge is undoubtedly right—at least to a certain extent. And in matters as serious as this, even if a portion of the gossip is true, the boy is no fit friend for you. Being engaged in any one of the pursuits you mention should put him beyond the pale of your friendship for good. There are plenty of nice boys around. Pick one of them for a friend.

Obscene Ties Cause Uproar In Australia

By LOUIS LECK

SYDNEY, Australia, — (CP) — "Bodgies," that section of the younger male population who favor long drape coats, ankle-tight trousers and flamboyant ties, are making headlines in Australia.

It's the ties that are causing most of the trouble. The neckwear—the wearing of which is not confined to Bodgies—has long offended the taste of more sober-minded Australians.

The Conservatives won a point recently when magistrate Burchill of Brisbane cracked down on a firm and its manager in that city for selling offensive ties. Fines totalling £20, with £5 costs were imposed on W. J. Healy Pty. Ltd., and John Healy, manager and director of the firm.

The firm and Healy were each charged under the Vagrants, Gaming and Other Offences Acts with having exhibited obscene publications; 1. An obscene representation on a necktie of a female with black hair and nude, apart from scanty reddish draping, resting on a white pillar. 2. A headless female, nude, apart from a transparent skirt.

Tie Display

Police who laid the charges said in evidence that a tie display in Healy's window on July 6, last year had attracted a crowd of teen-agers, including girls in school uniforms.

In a reserved judgment, Mr. Burchill said the meaning of obscene publication under the act included an obscene publication emphasizing sex.

The defence had claimed that at the present time a broader meaning was to be given to the definition under the act, and there was no doubt that modern standards were now not so strict.

"However," said Mr. Burchill, "I am of the opinion that the designs were not in conformity with modern standards, and I find that both designs are matters emphasizing sex and are obscene publications."

Lindsay Accepts Assessment If County Assessor Named

LINDSAY, June 6—Lindsay's representatives on the Victoria County Council were instructed to voice their disapproval of the new assessment set on the town by the equalization committee of the county.

Ald. Williamson made the motion that the Reeve and Deputy Reeve be instructed to advise the Victoria County Council that the town would accept the new equalized assessment providing the county engages a county assessor for next year. A rider in the motion stated that the town did not like the $200,000 jump and felt that an increase of $130,000 was ample.

Reeve Butler and Deputy-Reeve Greaves said that they had conveyed a similar message to the council at the meeting of the equalization committee when the assessment had been raised, Reeve Butler said that some members of the council had wanted to raise Lindsay by $500,000 and $300,000. The Reeve said that he had approved an increase of only $130,000 but had compromised for $200,000.

His worship was somewhat stunned when it was reported to him that the assessment of the township of Mariposa had been decreased by one million dollars since 1925. Mayor Lamb said that the farmers were making more now out of beef than they ever made out of alsike. He said that the town should appeal the new assessment. He pointed out that Lindsay put 25 cents in every $1 that was spent by the county.

Ald. Williamson thereupon made the motion that the council accept the assessment only if the county agreed to engage an assessor to properly assess the county.

Equipment

tender was not specified.

Mr. Black did not submit a new bid, but asked for definite information on the quality of the furniture required. Because the tender of Belleghem & Sons was not complete, and was on a quality of wood not specified, and because Mr. Black asked for detailed information which could not properly be supplied to him in fairness to the other tenders, we are not recommending further.

The report of the committee concluded with a "re-recommendation of the original tender submitted by Grand and Toy".

Bid On Same Articles

Ald. H. F. Waddell said that apparently those who tendered on the furniture did not tender on the same things.

"What we have to do it to assure ourselves that all are tendering on the same thing," he urged. "If the local people cannot supply the furniture they should say so; if they can, they should have the chance of tender on the same things that the others bid on. With further consideration, those who tender should be asked to tender on like articles."

Ald. J. A. Dewart said he did not second the report of the special committee which was presented by Ald. T. D. Miller.

"I'm not happy about seconding several things that have gone through tonight, because I want to know what I am doing. I would feel happier if a small committee was appointed to go into these proposals about the furniture and change orders." Ald. Dewart said. "I think the Mayor might appoint a small committee to go into such things with the architects, and then be able to give us that information."

Ald. Miller said the proposed changes were taken up in committee of the whole council, "and it is not our fault if Ald. Dewart is not aware of them. The Police Court dark room is only a small item, and the $1,006 for changes in the council chamber has to do with various items incluuding reseating of the members of the council.

Rather Complicated

"I don't think items are being handled loosely, but I agree that some of them are rather complicated. In regard to the furnishing of the two rooms it is difficult to explain types and methods of construction. I have no objection to reconsidering this report, and giving Mr. Black another opportunity to submit a price. However, I do feel that it is difficult to explain exact types of furniture desired."

Ald. Dewart repeated his proposal that it would help the council if a small committee went to the city hall and brought in reports themselves.

"We get the architects' recommendations, and in all likelihood they are the correct solution of problems confronting them at any given time. But, a small committee could consider and examine recommended changes, and we would fully understand what it is all about."

A motion by Aldermen Braund and Graham referred the special committee's report back, especially for the purpose of endeavoring to supply tenderers with any information they sought and that could be provided.

The committee report had recommended, again, acceptance of the tender of Grand and Toy.

Rochester Edges Royals 11-8 In 10 Innings

By The Associated Press.

Montreal fans are a bit worried today. The Royals still lead the International League by four games but are reeling as the result of five defeats in their last six starts.

The Royals dropped three out of four games to the third-place Syracuse Chiefs and have dropped two straight to the runner-up Rochester Red Wings.

Rochester came from behind and beat the Royals 11-8 in 10 innings Tuesday night. The Royals provided Chris Van Cuyk, towering lefthander, recently acquired from Brooklyn with a 6-1 lead in the first inning.

Van Cuyk lingered until the seventh when Larry Ciaffone chased him with a two-run homer to cut the Montreal lead to 7-5. The Wings tallied three in the ninth but Toby Atwell homered in the last of the ninth to send the game into overtime.

Winning Splurge

A 10th-inning single by Collum started the winning surge. He moved to second on a sacrifice bunt and Don Richmond was purposely passed to set up a double play but the strategy went awry. Ed Mierkowicz doubled in a run, Ciaffone singled in another and then still another came on Hal Rice's infield out.

Ottawa Giants downed the Chiefs 6-2 behind the five-hit pitching of veteran Ed Wright. Wright clinched the game with a two-run single in the seventh inning.

Hank Biassatti blasted a home run with one out in the ninth inning to give Buffalo Bisons a 6-5 decision over Springfield Cubs. Archie Wilson homered in the eighth for the Bisons to tie the score at 5-5.

Lefty Irv Medlinger pitched Toronto Maple Leafs to a 5-2 triumph over Baltimore Orioles. The Leafs clinched it with three runs in the fifth. Johnny Sullivan singled home two of the runs.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Thorncliffe Raceway at Toronto Tuesday announced increases of up to 100 per cent in purses for non-stake races in its 42-day harness racing program opening July 7. Raceway directors previously announced the purses would be cut to $250, due to last year's financial losses.

General manager J. W. Brown said that since 836 entries had been received for the 21 stake races, other purses could be boosted. Races each day would include two for $250 and others for $300, $400 and $500. Stake races will be from $1,000 to $7,500.

Sunday racing is assured Vancouver this year, it was announced Tuesday. A new track opens July 1 just across the international border at Boundary Bay, Wash., 25 miles from downtown Vancouver.

As a starter there will be trotting events, but running races may be introduced next year.

Joe Louis said Tuesday he will claim British recognition as the world heavyweight champion if he defeats Lee Savold in the Polo Grounds on June 13.

"That's the first I ever heard of a heavyweight champion fighting and not having a chance of losing his title," said Louis. "Sure I'll claim it."

Then slowly, he added "I'll take it to the UN."

Savold is recognized as world heavyweight champion by the British Board of Boxing Control. Monday the board said it wouldn't change that recognition even if Louis defeats Savold.

Fernando Gagnon of Quebec successfully defended his Canadian bantamweight title Tuesday night with a four-round knockout over Claud Meunier of Three Rivers, Que.

Gagnon weighed 117¼ and the contender, 113½.

The hard-punching, faster Quebecer sent Meunier to the canvas twice in the second round. Meunier took an eight-count and was saved by the bell a few seconds later.

Seven thoroughbreds owned by Joe Holbeck of Toronto from his double Blue Stable brought $42,350 in an auction Tuesday at Woodbine Park.

Mount Branca, three-year-old gelding which ran in the King's Plate, brought top price of $16,300 from Doug Ness, who also paid $700 for Isis, a filly.

Crozier Coulter announced that Mr. Holbeck is retiring from racing and is disposing of his Double Blue Stable.

At Waterbury, Conn., Bill Ezinicki, in winter a big stick with Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, Monday knocked off a 70-71—141 in the US open golf qualifying round.

He finished third in the field to rate the first alternate position in the New England section of the country-wide classic.

Ezinicki, a former Winnipegger spends summers as a pro at the Colonial Golf Club in Lynnfield, Mass.

In New York Magistrate Hyman Bushel dismissed an assault charge Tuesday against Terry Sawchuck of Winnipeg, star rookie goalie of Detroit Red Wings of the National Hockey League.

The charge was brought by Willie Vetrano, 30-year-old Brooklyn supermarket manager.

Vetrano charged Sawchuck struck him with his hockey stick as the Red Wings were on their way to the dressing room between periods in a game won by New York, 6-2 last Feb. 25.

Sawchuck said Vetrano called him several objectionable names. He added he did no more than wave his hand at Vetrano.

Glasgow Celtics Beat Ontario All-Stars

TORONTO, June 6 (CP). — The touring Glasgow Celtics soccer team Tuesday night beat Ontario National League all-stars 2-1 before a crowd of about 8,000. It was Celtics' fifth game of their North American trip.

All-stars opened the scoring at five minutes of the first half on a goal by Alex Prolomey, which caught Glasgow goalie George Hunter flatfooted. Celtics replied later in the half when Charlie Tully fooled all-stars' goalie Dick Arends.

Half-time score was 1-1.

John McPhail scored the winning goal at the 43-minute mark from a pitch-in.

Kills Policeman Gunman Trapped

CHATHAM, Kent, Eng., June 6 (Reuters)—The body of a young gunman, who killed a policeman with a Sten gun Tuesday, was carried out of a house today after a battle with officers in which tear gas bombs were used.

One hundred police attacked the house, home of the gunman, under cover of armed soldiers and sailors in this site of a Royal naval base and dockyards. They used tear gas to keep the killer's head down because they were convinced he would fight his way out.

The gunman, Alan D. Poole, 20, five-foot, 11-inch army deserter, had been hunted since Monday night when he shot Constable Alan Baxter who died in hospital Tuesday.

The youthful desperado had shot himself in the chest with a Sten gun rather than surrender. His body was found slumped in the loft of the building.

Cotton Mills Close Shanghai Hard Hit

HONG KONG, June 6 (AP) — All Shanghai cotton mills closed today, posing a major unemployment problem in that Communist Chinese city.

A Shanghai translation service said the Communist financial and economic affairs committee ordered the closure until July 21 because of a cotton shortage. It said the Red regime promised to pay the workers 75 per cent of their wages.

Shanghai's main industry is cotton weaving. Half of China's more than 5,000,000 spindles are in Shanghai.

Cobourg Juveniles Down Oshawa 7-3

COBOURG, June 6—Frank McIvor's three-hit pitching gave Cobourg juveniles their first win in Lakeshore Baseball League competition here Tuesday night. McIvor fanned six and showed good control in whipping Oshawa UAWA, 7-3.

Two hurlers worked for the losers, Brodie starting off with Ray Wallis replacing him in the fourth inning when Brodie's control left him. Cobourg scored five runs in that stanza to break up a 2-1 ball game.

A good crowd watched in cold, almost wintry, weather, as McIvor struck out the last man in the final frame with two aboard. Milne, Oshawa catcher, led both teams at bat with a triple and a single.

Seek To Recruit Lumberjacks

INVERNESS, Scotland, June 6 (CP) — A. B. Thursby, Ontario government official, arrived today to recruit lumberjacks for summer work in Canada.

Thursby has already hired 88 men in Glasgow and is looking for 60 more to complete the number required by the Great Lakes Paper Company of Fort William. He is working in co-operation with R. G. MacDougall, Canadian government immigration officer.

In London, authorities said Thursby is just one of a steadily increasing number of Canadian representatives now in Britain seeking to line up emigrants for industries in the Dominion. In the last month, private individuals from Ottawa and Goderich have even come over seeking married couples willing to work as cook and butler.

The number of British emigrants to Canada has risen each month, from fewer than 1,000 in January to an estimated 5,000 in April. Canadian immigration authorities in Britain now "process" about 8,000 persons a month, not all of whom finally emigrate.

London Chemist Aids Research With Products

LONDON —(Reuters)— A London chemist who makes the "impossible" possible is today operating a mushrooming export business to almost every country in the world.

Edward Gurr started off five years ago in a cellar under his London apartment. He built up a reputation by tackling jobs turned down by competitors as "impossible" or "commercially unprofitable."

Specializing in chemical stains and re-agents used for medical research, Gurr worked on the assumption that although the original orders were minute, success would be followed by demand for the new products. He was right. Today he owns and operates a full-scale laboratory.

One of his first tasks in his cellar days was to develop a special stain for a French doctor to detect the early stages of cancer in women. Another was a "pocket laboratory" kit for testing drinking water. He now turns out large quantities of both these items.

Unusual Jobs

Other jobs tackled by Gurr were: producing a dye that makes invisible light rays visible; catching thieves with a "ghost dye" which becomes visible on contact with the sweat glands of the hands; inventing a microscopic stain to tell the ages of trees; making a skeleton-softener which enables bones to be cut into thin slices for examination.

His latest success has been the collection of a microscopic "zoo" of elephants, lions, tigers and tigers and leopards. Gurr's "zoo" animals are unborn smbryos in which all the physical characteristics of the adult animal are present.

Their purpose is to illustrate use of the stains by which scientists detect diseases at early stages of development.

CULTURE BLUEPRINT — Prime Minister St. Laurent holds the 200,000-word report of the Royal Commission on Arts, Letters and Sciences. Two years in the making, it was presented by Rt. Hon. Vincent Massey, left, chairman of the five-member commission which covered 16 cities and travelled 10,000 miles to survey Canada's cultural heartbeat. The report may become the keystone to future government financial aid to national cultural development.

Hudson Bay Camp Snug Spot In Wild Country

FORT CHURCHILL, Man., (CP)—From the windows of this northern military camp you can see seals romping on the Hudson Bay ice in spring, or white whales coming up for air in summer.

Migrating caribou sometimes delay the landing of aircraft. Silver foxes have been seen to sniff at plane tires. And on occasion polar bears and wolves invade the camp site.

Bitter cold in winter, muskeg, mosquitoes and biting flies in summer make outdoor life anything but pleasant. There's nowhere to go outside camp except the small community of Port Churchill five miles away.

Make Life Comfortable

But the Army has done a lot to make off-duty life comfortable and entertaining. Millions of dollars have been spent on modern housing and recreational facilities.

Population of the camp, including civilian research staff and construction crews, ranges from 1,500 to 2,000. The armed services, learning how to live and fight in the Arctic, hold frequent tests of men and equipment.

There are about 160 families and they live in apartments of up to six rooms. Each contains a modern kitchen of the kind you see in the magazines. There are refrigerators, electric stoves, built-in cupboards.

All Amenities

There is no distinction between officers and other ranks in the matter of quarters. Rents are scaled according to ability to pay. A married private, for instance, pays $44 a month for his apartment, including utilities.

For recreation, there are sports activities, a library, canteens, coffee shops, a 642-seat theatre, bowling alley and commissary. The camp broadcasting station has regular programs of music, plays, news.

Seven units of the army's institutes have a monthly tunover of $100,000. Lt.-Col. N. N. Gemmell explained this includes a beer supply.

Prices Like Winnipeg

Prices in the coffee shop are on a par with those in Winnipeg, 640 miles to the south, but married personnel find food prices high. Freight rates are to blame. It costs more to ship a sack of potatoes over the Hudson Bay railway than the spuds cost in the first place.

Children in the camp community drink powdered milk, but adults use whole fresh milk.

"The children prefer powdered milk because they are used to it, and fresh milk doesn't always come through," explained Major C. R. H. Porteous. When available, the fresh variety sells for 30 cents a quart.

Japanese Changing To Canadian Wheat

WINNIPEG—(CP)—A permanent eastern market for Canadian wheat could result from changed Japanese food habits, special commissioner Masano Mizukami of the Japanese government's food-buying agency said here recently.

Mr. Misukami said Japan already has purchased $10,000,000 worth of Canadian wheat and barley and will continue to buy as long as the price is competitive with that of other countries or other grains such as rice.

His people, he said, are eating more and more bread and have shown a preference for Canada's top-quality wheat. So far most of Japan's purchases have been in Nos 2 and 3 northern wheat.

"Prince Albert looks like rows of little tin cans," said one of the grey-haired woman passengers after she stepped down from the Saskatchewan government airways plane.

Said 78-year-old Anton Reiderer: "I had no idea it would be so easy."

His wife, who at a little less than 70 was the junior of the load, said she accompanied him to keep an eye on him. The oldest group member, at 79, was Mrs. L. Butting.

UN Troops Sweep Reds Off Hill 4 Mi. From Chorwon

TOKYO, June 7. (AP)—Allied infantrymen swept the Reds off a Korean mountain top four miles from Chorwon today, breaching outer defences of the Communists' "iron triangle". Capture of Mount Kodae represented a gain of about a mile—the longest reported Thursday. The United Nations advance ground to a halt in the mountainous eastern half of the 125-mile front in the face of North Koreans who wouldn't give up. "They have suffered tremendous losses," an Allied officer said. "The bodies must be stacked on each other."

The UN advance in the west was paced by infantrymen storming up Mount Kodae, four miles southwest of Chorwon. They pushed the Chinese back to a point 40 miles from the deepest penetration of their abortive spring offensives.

Atop the 2,700 foot hill, United Nations forces dominate entranceways to the Chorwon-Kumhwa-Yonggang triangle. On their left is the Seoul-Chorwon highway. On their right is the opening of Pyonggang Valley, which splits the triangle.

Chorwon itself lies in front. Only one low hill stands between the Allies and the city.

Digging In

But front dispatches said the Reds have quit retreating. They're dug in to fight.

Troops capturing Kodae, and their supporting forces, gained 1,000 to 2,000 yards, through artillery and mortar fire. Flanking units spreading west across the Imjin River near Yonchon ran into bitter fights.

UN forces on the east flank, spearing toward the centre of the iron triangle, advanced 2,000 yards. Censorship obscured their position.

Elsewhere, where the Allies gained at all, it was an inching advance paced by probing tank forces.

Reds threw up their heaviest artillery barrages of the war.

As the UN army inched forward there were mounting indications the Chinese have withdrawn as far as they intend to for the time being.

Front-line commanders said the Communists were desperate to save huge stores scattered in the Chorwon - Kumhwa - Pyonggang triangle.

There has been no sign that the supplies have been carted away. Personnel was not being evacuated from town or hillside.

Communist supply trains moved down from Manchuria across the Yalu River into North Korea. Night convoys crawled toward the front.

AP correspondent, Tom Bradshaw reported from Eighth Army headquarters there was every rea-

UN TROOPS (Continued on Page 2)

Boy Describes Kidnapping, Held 32 Hours

KINGSTON, June 7—(CP)—Teddy Wainwright, 13-year-old Kingston boy, was scheduled to resume today his story of a fear-filled captivity of 32 hours during the Easter weekend.

The boy is chief Crown witness in the trial of Owen Clifford Dulmage, 29-year-old Ottawa man, charged with abducting and assaulting him, causing bodily harm.

The bespectacled Dulmage, respected boys'-work leader, looked thin and pale Wednesday as he pleaded innocent to the charges and then listened to the boy's testimony.

Teddy Wainwright's story was told in a series of replies to questions by Crown Attorney T. J. Rigney.

He said he was struck on the head from behind late Good Friday evening near his home. For 32 hours, he said, he was held captive by Dulmage, until he was found Sunday morning following the crash of Dulmage's car on a highway 15 miles from here.

Forced To Strip

The boy told of being blindfolded, and taken to an unknown place where he was forced to strip and put on bathing trunks and socks.

He was tied up, he said, and four times was strung up to the ceiling. His own initials had been marked on his left leg and he told of one time when he said the blindfold was removed and his captor attempted to force wax in his eyes.

The boy also told of periods when his captor appeared kindly, rubbed liniment on a sore back and fed him sandwiches, cookies, fruit and milk.

A number of exhibits were brought forward and identified by the boy. Among them were a blood-stained cap and blood-flecked coat which he said he had worn the night he was seized, and a paper bag splattered on the inside with blood, which he said had been placed over his head.

He identified photographs of a room as that in which he had been held. He said a corner of the blindfold—his own scarf—had worked loose, and he saw two small gold cups on top of a radio which he identified in the picture.

7 Nazis Hanged At Landsberg

LANDSBERG, Germany, June 7—(AP)—Seven Nazi war criminals, convicted of the mass murder of millions, were hanged by the United States army here early today.

They were the last to die of 275 persons condemned by the United States War Crimes Tribunals of 1946-47. The seven went to the gallows after four years of legal manoeuvring. Their last mercy appeal was denied by the US Supreme Court Wednesday.

Three of those hanged were SS (Elite Guard) generals and two were colonels condemned for the wanton slaughter of innocent Jews, Gypsies and Russians.

Two other SS men died because, had wreaked horror among their defenceless charges.

The first to die—at midnight—was SS Col. Paul Blobel. Then, in alphabetical order, came: SS Col. Werner Braune, SS Gen. Erich Naumann, SS Gen. Otto Ohlendorf, SS Gen. Oswald Pohl. The last to be hanged were Lt. Hans Schmidt and Sgt. Georg Schallermair, two minor concentration camp officials.

Egyptian King, Queen Honeymoon In Sicily

CATANIA, Sicily, June 7 (AP)—King Farouk of Egypt and his beautiful 17-year-old commoner queen, Narriman, arrived at Taormina today to begin their honeymoon party.

They arrived after a leisurely cruise aboard the royal yacht Kakhar El Bihar.

The King and his party have booked at the Swan San Domenico Hotel for a five-day stay.

"His Majesty has reserved 50 rooms,"s a hotel pokesman said.

Hunger Strike Staged By 70 Douks

Prison Demonstration Carried Out For About 3 Weeks

OTTAWA, June 7. (CP) — About 70 Sons of Freedom Doukhobors are on a hunger strike at the Westminster federal prison in British Columbia, Maj.-Gen. R. B. Gibson, Federal Penitentiaries commisioner, said in an interview today.

He said the strike has been going on for about three weeks. No steps have been taken by guards to try to break it by force.

However, in the case of one inmate, "forced feeding" did take place on doctor's orders, Gen. Gibson said.

Gen. Gibson did not make clear how the "forced feeding" was being done.

The Vancouver Sun said Wednesday night that guards were forcibly feeding some Sons of Freedom and that in at least one instance guards had held a prisoner down and forced a tube into his mouth while another guard fed him soup through the tube.

Gen. Gibson said "nothing is being done to aggravate the situation." Food is being placed beore the imprisoned Doukhobors.

"If they don't eat it, it is put away. Some of it, of course, is wasted."

The prisoners are those remaining of some 400 arrested last year for arson and nude parading following an outbreak of violence in the Kootenays by the fanatical sect.

"Those arrested for parading in the nude have been let out," Gen. Gibson said. "Those remaining are really the core of the group."

The trouble began when the Doukhobors were moved back into the main section of the prison after they had burned two wooden dormitories within the prison grounds.

No cause could be ascertained, but the Sun said Wednesday that "authorities believe the hunger strike and other demonstrations by the prisoners are closely linked with growing restlessness among unorthodox Doukhobors in the Kootenays."

Man Pleads Guilty To Assaulting Low

OTTAWA, June 7 (CP). — Joseph Philias Degagnier, 45, who said he was a member of the Social Credit party, pleaded guilty today to assaulting Solon Low, Social Credit leader.

Degagnier, who yesterday had pleaded innocent, was remanded one week for mental examination.

He testified he had been drinking before meeting Mr. Low on the street in downtown Ottawa. Dgagnier asked for money.

'He turned me down. I knew him. I belonged to that party . . ." he added. "I was nervous. I blacked out and I guess I hit him."

The Social Credit leader suffered loosened teeth and split lips.

Tornado Wrecks Texas Village

WHITE DEER, Tex., June 7.—(AP)—A tornado roared in from the northwest with a "brilliant flash" and flattened homes and schools in this Panhandle village of 500 Wednesday night.

At least 15 houses and the town's two schools were demolished. Many other buildings were damaged heavily.

Only five injuries were reported in this tornado-wise area where most homes have storm cellars.

The Highway Patrol reported early today that "everything is under control."

TWO KOREAN YOUNGSTERS from the Allied orphanage in Pusan find one pair of cowboy boots enough for both. One boy lost his left leg, the other his right. The boots were part of a large shipment of shoes sent to the orphanage by the people of Akron, Ohio.

Say Russian Army Activity Increases On Iran Border

TEHRAN, Iran, June 7. (AP)—United States Ambassador Henry F. Grady said today intelligence reports indicated increased Russian military activity along Iran's northern frontier. But he added he saw "nothing particularly significant" in the reports. Authoritative government officials confirmed published reports that unusually-large Russian military concentrations had been seen on the northern frontier and that Soviet battle exercises are continuing in that area.

The Soviet armies were described as engaging in "unprecedented" military manoeuvres on both sides of the Caspian Sea. Iran border police have heard the sounds of gunfire continuously for three days.

Grady, at a press conference, said US intelligence knows that there has been some increase in Russian defensive fortifications, but nothing further.

The border activity reports come in the midst of tension between Britain and Iran over the nationalization of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company.

Counter Moves

Iranian intelligence sources consider the Soviet activity along the border as counter-moves to British naval movements in the Persian gulf and the dispatch of parachute troops to Cyprus — within easy dropping distance of the southern oilfields.

These sources say it is notable that the Soviet activities began about two months ago, at the time of riots in Abadan and the first reports of British warship movements.

Nootka Pounds Enemy Outpost

ON BOARD HMCS NOOTKA, June 7—(CP)—With a one-two punch, this Canadian destroyer recently closed in on the enemy, killed several of them and then opened up with its big guns to blast Communist transportation and defence outposts in North Korea.

The action was launched in the afternoon behind a protecting screen of fog. The Nootka was on the east coast, joining United States warships in a bombardment of the Songjin area.

An 18-man armed party, on orders by Cmdr. A. B. Fraser-Harris, of Halifax, attempted to slip in on the enemy in two cutters. Suddenly, as the group neared the shore, the fog lifted and cries of sentries brought a hail of automatic fire from enemy posts.

The Canadians returned fire, killed three of the enemy and kept others pinned close to the ground. Lieut. A. H. M. Slater, of Victoria, in charge of the landing party, ordered a withdrawal.

Back on board ship, he told of a railway line guarded by the enemy. The commander ordered the Nootka's guns to open fire. A pillbox, a lookout post and a railway bridge were damaged.

Police Seek Maniac As Slayer

Store Owner's Wife Murdered In Shop Serving Customer

TORONTO, June 7. (CP)—A tall, blonde man with crooked teeth — termed a "maniacal killer" by police — was sought today for the hatchet slaying of a 42-year-old woman.

But despite one of Toronto's grimmest police searches, the killer of Mrs. Edwin Derkison, hacked to death in her midtown hardware store Wednesday, remained at large.

The hunt took in mental institutions — every patient released from such a hospital in recent months was investigated — rooming houses for blocks around the scene of the slaying and construction jobs in the neighborhood. A reward of $1,000 was posted by police.

Three persons got a good look at the man sought; two spoke to him. But when he left the Derkison store on Yonge Street just south of Bloor shortly before 2 p.m. Wednesday he seemingly vanished a block from the scene.

Two Men Questioned

One man with a cut on his cheek and a swelling on his arm was picked up in suburban Etobicoke early today. He was released a few hours later. Then a second man, described as young and with blood on his tie and cut knuckles, was taken to headquarters about noon. Officers took him from an automobile parked near the murder scene.

Ruth Harris, 23, whose address was not published for her own protection, told today how she entered the store to make a routine purchase and was waited on by a man who directed her elsewhere. She noticed blood on his face and when she left, arranged a call to police.

"I don't know what I'll do if you don't catch him," she told officers. "I'll know him again—but he'll know me, too."

The man had left the store before the body was discovered a short time after Miss Harris' visit

Exchanges Shots With Robbers

TORONTO, June 7 (CP). — A jeweller surprised two robbers in his store Wednesday night but the men fled during an exchange of gunfire. No one was hit.

Archibald Ostrander, who lives in an apartment above his store, heard a noise and went to investigate, armed with a .38 automatic.

He surprised the two men who were ransacking the store.

"What in hell are you doing here?" Ostrander called out.

"Look out George," said one of the thugs. "Step aside and I'll let him have it."

Ostrander dropped to the floor. Two bullets missed him. Then he opened fire but the bullets missed as the men fled.

London Papers Hint Moscow Now Destination Of Pair

LONDON, June 7. (Reuters)—A European search has begun for two important officials of the British Foreign Office — both concerned with relations with the United States — who disappeared from their homes May 25. London newspapers have suggested they set out for Moscow, but a Foreign Office spokesman said he had no information on this. He also said he had no reason to believe they carried important documents with them, as reported in the press.

The two are Donald MacLean, head of the American department of the Foreign Office, and Guy Burgess, a second secretary at the British Embassy in Washington. They are known to have gone to France a few days ago.

Burgess, 40, recently arrived on leave in Britain after serving in Washington for nearly a year. He joined the foreign service after the war, during which he had worked in various government departments.

MacLean, 38, suffered a breakdown a year ago but was thought to be fully recovered. He served in the foreign service in Paris in 1938 and was transferred to London two years later.

Appointed Counsellor

In 1944 he went to Washington, remaining there until 1948, when he was appointed counsellor at Cairo. He became head of the American department at the foreign office last year, a post in which he had to deal with US-British relations. He is married and has two children.

Scotland Yard and the secret service were informed by the foreign office when the men vanished. They have been suspended from the foreign service for being "absent without leave."

The head of the foreign office news department, William Ridsdale, personally answered reporters' questions for about half an hour today on the disappearance of the two diplomats.

He was asked whether the decision to suspend them with effect from June 1 indicated that in the view of the foreign office the two men had "disappeared voluntarily."

Ridsdale said: "We know nothing to the contrary."

Wife Still There

MacLean's wife had not disappeared, he told another questioner.

Asked whether the foreign office had any information to sug-

Combermere Farmer Tried For Bigamy

BELLECVILLE, June 7 (CP). —Trial of Malcolm Prentice, 42-year-old farmer of the Combermere district on a charge of bigamy started Wednesday at the June sitting of the General Sessions of the Peace before Judge G. F. Smith of Napanee.

Married at Bancroft in 1928, but not having lived with his wife since 1930, Prentice is charged with having gone through a marriage ceremony at Combermere with Blanche Banby, 32-year-old widow, last October.

Mrs Lillian Prentice, who said she married Prentice in Bancroft in the spring of 1928, testified she had not lived with her husband since 1930 when their farm

Last Troops Withdrawn From NZ Docks

AUCKLAND, N.Z., June 7 (AP) —The government withdrew the last troops from the Auckland docks today and the new Cargo Workers' Union took over the handling of all ships.

This represented an additional victory for Prime Minister Sidney G. Holland's anti-Socialist government in its fight against the Waterside Workers' Union, which called a country-wide strike four months ago.

There are approximately 1,300 members in the Cargo Workers' Union here, most of them new to dock work. With that strength, the government was able to call of' the troops who have been aiding in the unloading of ships and keeping vital trade going.

Refused Overtime Pay

Tte Waterside Workers' Union went out on strike after several members were fired for refusing to accept overtime pay. The members were protesting against wage boosts offered by the employers.

The government took away the union's franchise and froze its funds. Police were ordered to arrest anyone soliciting money for the union.

The New Zealand navy, however, still is manning a dozen or more coastal ships, since some seamen are out in sympathy with the Waterside Workers' Union. In addition, the great majority of coal miners are staying out in protest against emergency regulations introduced by the government to enable it to keep essential supplies moving during the dock strike.

Sabotage Inquiry In Ottawa Fire

OTTAWA, June 7. (CP)—Defence Minister Claxton indicated Wednesday the Defence Department is going to unusual lengths to try to find out whether sabotage caused the $1,000,000 fire which destroyed part of an Army ordnance depot here last Saturday night.

Gordon Fraser (PC-Hastings-Peterborough) asked the Minister in the Commons why there was no report in the press of a second fire which broke out "at the far end" of the depot some hours after the first one. Mr. Claxton confirmed there was a second fire.

He said "a very intensive" study of the causes of the blaze is going on with RCMP, the Ottawa fire chief and representatives of the Canadian Fire Agents Association joining with officials of the Army.

Concessions Made At Yalta

WASHINGTON, June 7—(AP)—State Secretary Dean Acheson contended today there was no connection between the Far Eastern concessions made to Russia at Yalta and the defeat of the Chinese Nationalists by the Communists.

Acheson said that Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, leader of the Nationalists, welcomed the agreements, which gave Russia entry into Manchuria through concessions at Port Arthur and Dairen.

It was Acheson's sixth day of testimony at hearings by the senate armed services and foreign relations committees on the dismissal of Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Senator Brien McMahon (Dem. Conn.), a strong administration supporter, raised the question of whether the Yalta agreements weakened Chiang's forces. He said his purpose was to dispel any notion that the concessions to Russia "made it possible for the Chinese Communists to have a victory in China."

The Yalta agreement was an understanding reached by President Roosevelt, Prime Minister Churchill of Britain and Premier Stalin of Russia at a February, 1945, meeting in the Russian town of Yalta.

Russia agreed to come into the war against Japan three months after the defeat of Germany and, in return, was given certain Far Eastern concessions.

After Acheson had read the terms of the agreement, McMahon asked:

"Have you ever heard or have you ever been told of any military connections between the defeat of Chiang Kai-shek and those concessions that were made to the Soviet Union at Yalta?"

"No, Senator McMahon, I think there was none," Acheson replied.

As Acheson came back to the witness chair, Senator Bourke Hickenlooper (Rep. Iowa) told reporters he would seek a "frank and clear" statement from the cabinet officer of United Nations political objectives in Korea.

"After listening to the secretary at great length, I am more confused than ever as to just what our goal is," Hickenlooper said. "And I am sure I am not alone in that confusion."

London Strike Spreads 80 Ships Remain Idle

LONDON, June 7 (Reuters). — The total of idle ships at London docks jumped to 80 today as an unofficial strike of checkers spread to include the entire force of more than 1,500 men.

Thousands of tons of meat sugar and fruit awaited unloading because dockers and stevedores cannot work without checkers to supervise them.

The strike started at London's 'Royal Group" of docks Monday, when a man was recruited who did not belong to the local branch of the union.

Nearly 7,000 stevedores are idle as a result of the checkers' walkout.

$6,000,000 fund at the disposal of its three-man board of directors set up to operate the holdings of the British-controlled Anglo-Iranian oil company, centre of the dispute. The board was slated to leave today for Khuzistan, site of the oil fields.

Train Hits Truck 80 Die In Fire

RIO DE JANEIRO, June 7 — (CP)—The government-operated railway said today a suburban train collided with a gasoline truck, killing 80 persons and injuring 50 others.

The first three cars of the train jammed with commuters, were destroyed in the ensuing fire.

The passenger train was on the way to Rio from the town of Belem, in the nearby state of Rio de Janeiro. The accident occurred at Noval Guassu, just outside the Rio city limits.

A railway spokesman said first reports from the scene gave a toll of at least 80 dead, but "possibly there are about 100."

Fire caused all the deaths.

The engine hit the stalled truck on the tracks and continued forward with gasoline from the truck landing on the first passenger car. The engineer slammed on his brakes and sparks from the wheels apparently set off a big explosion and fire.

Elizabeth Takes Salute For Father On Birthday

LONDON, June 7 (AP).—London today celebrated the King's official birthday.

As the King continued a four-week rest, recuperating from influenza, Princess Elizabeth mounted her chestnut charger, Winston to take the salute for the King at the annual trooping of the colors by the Brigade of Guards.

President Truman's daughter Margaret was in the crowd at the colorful ceremony, which began over 200 years ago as a sobering up exercise for royal troops.

The King's 55th birthday actually was last Dec. 14. But his anniversary is always celebrated in June, so that the ceremony will have a reasonable expectancy of favorable weather.

This year, however, Princess Elizabeth's scarlet tunic and long, dark blue skirt outshone the dry but grey skies.

(Canada celebrated the King's birthday June 4).

To mark the occasion, the King in his annual birthday honors list bestowed three Baronies, a Baronetcy, 29 Knighthoods and various appointments to minor orders.

Among the 10,000 persons who packed the stands and surrounded the parade ground was Norway's King Haakon, dressed in pale blue. He is here on a state visit.

Thousands lined The Mall and cheered as Princess Elizabeth rode from Buckingham Palace to the Horse Guards Parade ground across St. James Park from the palace.

The mounted band of the Horse Guards preceded her.

Her son, three-year-old Charles, rode to the parade ground in an open carriage, tucked between Queen Elizabeth and Princess Margaret.

He waved shyly to the delighted crowd.

MacBride Doesn't Plan Take Office In Gov't

DUBLIN, June 7 (AP).—Foreign Minister Sean MacBride said today he does not intend to take office in any new Irish government because his Republican party took such a beating in last week's general election.

His party won only two seats, compared with the 10 it held before. Then it was an important part of the coalition headed by Premier John Costello.

There was no clue as to who will form a new government. Eamon De Valera's Fianna Fail emerged as the largest party but it lacks a majority. So does Costello's coalition. A dozen independents hold the balance of power and both De Valera and Costello are wooing them in an effort to achieve Premiership.

The election gave the coalition parties 64 seats in the 147-seat parliament, plus seven supporting Independents, against 69 for De Valera's Fianna Fail. Stability of a coalition government would rest with another seven Independents, who owe no special allegiance.

16 Inches Of Snow In Alberta

Begin Digging Out, Phone Lines Restored Roads In Bad Shape

CALGARY, June 7. (CP)—Southern Alberta prepared to dig itself out today after a freak June snow storm dumped some 16 inches of wet snow on the ground in two days. Weather officials said it was the worst June snow storm on record. And temperatures were well below normal for this time of year. Calgary Wednesday had a high of 34. The average is 70.

But the weatherman said the worst was over. He predicted only showers for the southern part of the province today with slightly warmer temperatures. A high of 50 was expected here.

Lethbridge and Medicine Hat, two other centres hard hit by the disturbance, were also in for better weather. At least no more snow was foreseen—only rain showers.

Meanwhile, the task of cleaning up after the unseasonable blast got under way.

Telephone and telegraph lines were reported in fairly good shape Wednesday night after being down for hours in many areas.

Meagre Reports

Communication with Lethbridge and Medicine Hat, however, remained poor and only meagre reports trickled out of the damage caused in those two southwestern cities.

It is known an unprecedented snowfall of 11.2 inches fell in Lethbridge Tuesday night and early Wednesday.

A spokesman for Alberta government telephones said Wednesday night that the heaviest damage to the communication system occurred in the Calgary, McLeod, Pincher Creek and Okotoks areas.

He said no definite estimate of damage has yet been made "but many miles of lines were knocked down."

Roads remained in poor condition and police advised motorists to drive carefully as many passages had been turned into soggy masses of mud by the wet snow and heavy rain.

No Hardship

The extensive disruption of communications and clogged roads left many rural communities isolated but no hardship was feared.

Livestock men said that although the storm was hard on their stocks, it was not expected to produce a serious situation—except for newly-shorn sheep.

Snag, in the Yukon—the so-called "ice box of the world"—sweltered in the heat. The high there Wednesday was 83.

Miss Jeanne Stewart Nursery School Head

When the nursery school opens in September at Dixon House, Miss Jeanne Stewart who has been on the staff for the past two years, will be in charge. The school, operated by the recreation commission for pre-elementary school children, closed for the summer last week.

Miss Jannie Lauchlin, a school teacher from Scotland, directed the school's activities during the past term. She reported to the commission a month ago that she planned to return home this summer.

Miss Stewart was assistant to Mrs. Jack Taylor (Wyatt) when the commission opened the school two years ago. Since then she has held that position. During this month she is taking a special course in nursery school work in Toronto.

Boston Artists Hold Exhibit

An exhibit of engravings, lithographs and woodcuts by Boston artists is now on display at the Public Library. This is the only display of this type which will be exhibited at the library this year.

The Boston display includes work by internationally known artists including Rockwell Kent, famous for his national magazine illustrations.

Peterborough is the last exhibit for this work before it is returned to Boston. It has been hung in Windsor, Toronto, Hamilton, and Oshawa.

The showing of this display was arranged in an exchange with the Society of Canadian Printers, Etchers and Engravers. At present the work of members of this society is being shown in American cities.

This is the first time that an American display such as this has been shown in Peterborough.

by Thomas Ireland, a bank messenger, who had called to deliver a bank draft.

Police, working on the theory that the shabbily-dressed man might have been one of the workers on Toronto's partly-finished subway, searched without success Wednesday night through the underground tunnel which cuts through land near the store, located on the west side of Yonge Street.

Several hundred subway workers were examined and questioned by police looking either for a worker whose face and clothing were spotted with blood, or one who had smeared himself with mud trying to hide signs of the slaying.

Motive for the slaying was obscure. Police said it definitely was not robbery. Inspector John Nimmo said about $29 in cash was found untouched in the cash register.

Husband Upstairs

Mrs. Derkison was slain about 2 p.m. while her husband lay ill in bed upstairs of the store. Wire had been twisted about her wrists, looped around her neck and tied to one ankle. While she was doubled backwards, her slayer battered her head repeatedly with a hatchet taken from a display window. The murder weapon was apparently one Mrs. Derkison had been showing to the man she thought was a prospective customer.

When found, the victim also had a towel drawn about her throat and loosely knotted back of her head. The hatchet was embedded in her skull and she was almost decapitated.

Called Police

Persons who saw the killer included Miss Ruth Harris who came into the store to buy a drill and was sent elsewhere by the calm, soft-spoken man. She saw the blood on his face and clothing and went to a nearby store where she asked persons to call police.

Rowland Trevor went to the store moments later to buy some paint. He found it locked. He rapped on the door and the killer answered telling him the store was closed. Trevor said the slayer left the store right behind him and disappeared on the street.

Kennedy Elected Moderator Of Presbyterian Church

OTTAWA, June 7. (CP)—A tall, distinguished looking Scot who won the Military Cross as a captain in First World War and who now is minister of First Presbyterian Church in Regina Wednesday night was elected Moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada. The Rev. Norman Kennedy, 55, was elected by a clear majority on the first ballot to succeed Montreal Presbyterian College's the Rev. Dr. Frank Scott MacKenzie. His election came shortly after the opening of the 77th general assembly of the church in the capital's oldest Protestant church, St. Andrew's.

The nine-day sessions of the assembly were opened with a welcome to Ottawa for the 233 official commissioners by the Rev. Dr. A. I. Burnett of St. Andrew's.

The commissioners, ministerial and lay delegates, represent 46 presbyteries from Newfoundland to British Columbia.

Following Dr. Mackenzie's sermon calling for self sacrifice on the part of all church members to oppose enemies of the church, Mr. Kennedy's first act as moderator was to appoint a personal chaplain.

Personal Chaplain

His choice was the Rev. Wallace MacKinnon, of Moose Jaw, Sask., the first personal chaplain to a moderator in the history of the Presbyterian church.

The general assembly for the next eight days will consider reports on home and foreign missions, the women's missionary society, changes affecting ministers, congregations and students, radio broadcasting and pensions.

gest the two men were travelling to Russia, Ridsdale said: "We have no information at all about their whereabouts."

He said it could be assumed the two men left England together and were proceeding to France but their arrival in France had not been confirmed.

Ridsdale said he supposed they would be travelling on diplomatic passport.

Ridsdale was asked whether the Foreign Office knew anything about any "third man" mentioned in a London press report as having intended to travel with MacLean and Burgess but who had had second thoughts.

He replied: "We have no knowledge of any third person."

Ridsdale said he had no further statement to make on the matter and could not say whether any further official announcement would be issued.

If the two missing men have gone into the Soviet sphere, it would be the biggest break in British security since Prof. Bruno Pontecorvo slipped to the east last October. A nuclear physicist, he was regarded as the No. 2 man at Harwell, Britain's atom research establishment. He had worked on atom research in Canada, also.

Pontecorvo, an Italian-born naturalized British citizen, disappeared after a vacation visit with relatives in Italy and was reported to have entered the Soviet Union through Finland.

Charge Firm Violates US Anti-Trust Law

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)—Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company, the country's biggest maker of outboard motors, was charged today with violating the Anti-Trust Law in the distribution and sale of its products.

The Federal Trade Commission alleged that the company's policy of selling motors bars distributors and dealers from handling competing products. The effect of this, the FTC said, is "to substantially lessen competition and tends to create a monopoly."

The company operates through three separate divisions: Johnson Motors; Evinrude Motors, Milwaukee, and Gale Products Division, Galesburg, Ill. The complaint does not apply to the Gale Division.

TWO WORKERS AT MARBLE

The two workers who Tuesday refused to join their 23 fellow Ontario Marble Co. employees on the picket line outside the plant, went in again today without incident. The picket line was set up Tuesday morning after the wholesale firings by the company when the men did not report to work as ordered Monday morning. Tuesday morning the two workers went through the picket line [illegible] away after a conversation with the picketters. Today both clocked in, again with no opposition from the 23 orderly pickets. The company says the picketters are fired and therefore cannot be considered strikers. The union contends the company has locked them out. The dispute arose over the promotion of a man from the plant to assistant to the superintendent.

But from the ridges of Kodae UN forces could look down onto Chorwon, and the start of Pyonggang valley and the rice paddies, toward which other UN troops are pushing from Chail.

Front dispatches said the hill mass was captured by infantrymen cutting down Chinese defences of "a company here and a company there." The UN foot troops forged through sporadic artillery and heavy mortar fire as they climbed the height.

The Yonchon-Chorwon road runs to the west of Kodae. Chinese defenders dotted it with mine fields and tank traps in efforts to halt Allied armored patrols. Anti-tank guns fired from neighboring hills.

Money For Milk To Needy Raised By Garden Tea At Home of Mrs. R. R. Faryon

A delightful social event which is to benefit the needy people of Peterborough took place Wednesday afternoon at the home of one of the hardest workers for their welfare, Mrs. R. R. Faryon.

Mrs. Faryon is treasurer of the Welfare League and so it is she who has been most keenly aware of the increase in the price of milk. Bills for the milk supplied, through local dairies, to families in the city are never less than $60 per month and frequently more than $75. Because funds were short several families were taken off the list recently but there are always more to be put on.

The League operates on the advice of the Department of Health on these matters. However, members visit the families frequently to satisfy their own interests and to check on other needs. Cod liver oil is also supplied for the children, making another bill of expense.

It was to accumulate a bank balance for meeting these bills that the garden tea was planned. All of the 300 tickets they had printed were sold in advance and interested friends who had not been contacted also came to the tea. Members made donations to a home cooking table which netted a nice sum for the fund.

Mrs. Faryon was apologizing for the lack of flowers in the borders to her wide lawn and she declared the season is "two weeks in advance." Bouquets on the small lawn tables and the tea table, verdant surroundings and bright sunshine served to offset any deficiency and the scene was colorful enough when guests arrived in gay summer attire.

The family dog presented himself at the tea and attracted the very young guests to his side but he was coaxed away by his master with a purchase of cookies.

President Receiving

President of the League Mrs. C. G. Collins receiving with the hostess at the gateway, Miss Claire Mason taking tickets, and Mrs. J. D. Anderson and Mrs. H Eastwood at the bake table were in the shade of lovely, old trees.

On the tea table was a dainty cloth of embroidered silk marquisette, and tea things especially chosen for a garden tea. Four tea pourers were former members, Miss Helen Munro, Mrs. Fred Hills, Mrs. G. S. Cameron and Mrs. D. T. Diplock, and Miss Gene Clark and Miss Rachael Young had the pleasure of performing this duty for the women Mrs. Herbert Bradburn, Mrs. Larry McKeiver, Mrs. John Stuart Jr., Mrs. Jack Dewart, Mrs. Hugh Waddell, Miss Lahring Parsons, Mrs. Walter Perks, Mrs. W. R. L. Blackwell, Mrs. Clare G. Collins, Mrs. R. R. Faryon, Mrs. J. Douglas Anderson, and Mrs. Hubert Eastwood.

Associate members are Dr. Agnes Moffatt, Mrs. Walton Stevenson, and Mrs. W. B. Gordon. Former member Mrs. Ralph Honey also assisted with the tea.

supervisor and superintendent of Public Health and the Children's Aid Society.

Mrs. W. R. L. Blackwell and Mrs. John Stuart Jr., were general conveners of the tea and they were assisted in serving by all members of the League, all associate members, Miss Jessie Blackwell, Miss Stephanie Stuart, and Miss Sarah Waddell.

Give Personal Service

The welfare work of the League is carried on by 23 active members and is just as much personal service as financial contribution. The three Well Baby Clinics in the city are staffed by these women, and Mrs. Faryon is one member who takes a turn every week. At meetings, held at members' homes regularly, the mending for the children at the Shelter is done. Some clothing is also provided for these children when necessary.

The active member list includes Mrs. D. A. MacTavish, Miss Claire Mason, Miss Clara Morris, Miss Margaret Widdess, Mrs. Howard Simpson, Mrs. Herbert Young, Mrs. Maurice Clarkson, Mrs. Graeme Falkner, Mrs. Wilfred Huycke, Mrs. Romeyn Stevenson, Mrs. Wm. J. Gordon,

Management, Workers Try Stem Accidents

A threefold responsibility to prevent industrial accidents was pointed to Wednesday night by A. L. Bennett, of Galt, speaking to the annual meeting of the Central Ontario division of the Industrial Accident Prevention Association.

Mr. Bennett, secretary treasurer and sales manager of P. W. Gardner and Sons, Galt, is a past president of the association. The dinner meeting was held at the Kawartha Golf Club.

This threefold responsibility fell upon top management, factory management, and on workers themselves. It was up to top management to set policy; safety rules, safety guards to be used, etc.

Factory management (foremen, supervisors, leaders) were to instruct employees what and how to use safety gadgets; the workers themselves had to use them before they became effective.

130 Members

About 130 members of the Central Ontario division attended the banquet, which was preceded in the afternoon by a tour through the CGE plant.

Chairman for the evening was Harry Baptie. Other speakers were Archie Bailey, IAPA president, and Gordon Anderson, general manager of IAPA.

Fred Overend introduced Mr. Bennett, who was thanked by H. M. Burley of Belleville. A singsong was led by Clarence Corbett, and accompaniment played by Harry Northrop. Miss Helen Hajnik sang three songs: Road To the Isles, They Wouldn't Believe Me and Siboney; as an encore she sang Now is the Hour.

Court Absolves Town Of Blame

COBOURG, June 7 —(ENS)— The court of appeal in Toronto absolved the town of Cobourg yesterday of any liability in connection with damages sustained in a motor accident last year in which the town was blamed in the amount of 40 per cent for the accident because of road conditions. The action was brought by Donald Henderson against the town of Cobourg and by James and Nancy Dixon against Henderson et al.

Judge M. Miller in awarding damages of around $600 against Henderson and the town of Cobourg, at the county court hearing last February, found that the town was liable in the proportion of 40 per cent and Henderson, 60 per cent. The appeal court yesterday found that the negligence was on the part of Henderson and that no blame should have been attached to the town of Cobourg, the appellant.

Charge Ministers Being Killed By Overwork In United Church

TORONTO, June 7—"We are literally killing our ministers with overwork," said the Rev. Dr. Harold Young, secretary of colleges and students for the United Church in Canada, at the church's Toronto conference in Danforth Ave. United church Wednesday.

He cited the case of a 70-year-old minister at Unity, Sask., who travelled 80 miles, partly on horseback, in 45 below zero temperatures, to conduct a funeral in a town which had no minister.

"He was seriously ill afterward," said Dr. Young. "We can honestly say that the lifespan of many of our heroic men is shortened by the travail of filling the needs of an understaffed church."

The United church has 125 untended charges in Canada, he reported. Of these, 52 are in Saskatchewan and 25 in the Maritimes, while ministers in Northern Ontario have decreased by 10 since 1945.

There were 522 candidates in training for the ministry this year, more than ever before, and 144 men received into the church. Dr. Young reported. But he added that the 96 ordinations which will take place during the conference will barely offset losses through death or retirement over the year.

"We should set our objective at 650 candidates in training continuously, to meet the demands of an increasing number of churches in the next five years," he said.

"We prefer live rebels to docile doormats," said the Rev. Dr. John Dow of the students at Emmanuel College. "But we would like about twice as many of them." He felt that other fields of service, notably social work, were taking young men from the ministry.

"But I don't believe the solution is to shorten or simplify the training course, as some have suggested," he said. "This would only give us poorly trained men."

The women's training college, which will launch a $600,000 building campaign next year, had 10 openings for every graduate last season. Its present enrolment is 100 It would like it to be 600.

The armed services will put a further strain on the number of available ministers in the church, reported the Rev. John Leng, MC. Already, three have joined the chaplaincy, and eight more will be needed by fall, he said.

Retiring as conference president, the Rev. C. E. Dyer warned against the tendency to "build an institutional church, with emphasis on numbers, organizations, and huge budgets."

"The individual is losing his sense of importance and becoming less creative in our modern way of life," he said. "The church must show that the ultimate good of any social order is rooted in the worth of the individual."

The conference named the Rev. Dr. C. A. Gowans to succeed the Rev. Dr. Dyer, re-elected the Rev. J. A. C. Kell secretary, and named Robert Stewart treasurer. It approved permanent retirement pensions for 15 ministers, compared to three last year, and one-year pensions for 14 others.

Unsatisfactory Highway 28

The five miles of Highway 28 which leads from this city can hardly be considered satisfactory for its purpose. It is so narrow that it cannot be said to have two good lanes, and yet it carries much traffic, some of which is travelling at high speeds. The shoulders of the road are soft, and at several points are flanked by deep ditches. It is time that this stretch of road was improved.

* * *

Possibly the improvement will be made when the Trans-Canada Highway is planned. There will have to be a cut-off at some point to take through traffic north of the city toward Lindsay, and it is possible that this will go north of the new Civic Hospital. When that happens the part of Highway 28 which leads directly into Peterborough should be widened and carefully re-graded. But it may be years before the Trans-Canada Highway is complete, and the problem on Highway 28 needs attention now.

* * *

It may be argued that the portion of the Highway which lies within our city limits is Peterborough's own responsibility. In reply to this it might be said that large sums of taxes are paid by the users of the highways who live in the city, and that our contribution to the gasoline tax alone would be ample to pay the expense of this necessary work.

Don't Forget That The Artist Is Also A Taxpayer

Some editorials and signed comments which have appeared concerning the recommendations of the Massey Commission show that a curious belief exists in Canada that artists of one kind and another are not taxpayers, and want large sums of taxpayers' money for themselves. The tone of the comment to which we refer makes it clear that the writers think that Canadian artists and Canadian taxpayers live in separate worlds.

This is quite wrong. Any Canadian artist, whatever his work may be, who receives enough money for it to be taxable, is taxed. What is more, if he receives his return for his work, or part of it, in the form of royalties, those royalties are taxed as unearned income. How many taxpayers, we wonder, would like to be told that the money they get for their hardest, best and most exacting work, had not been earned?

Canadian artists are also Canadian citizens. Any suggestion that they belong in a different, privileged, non-taxpaying category is nonsense. It is our parliamentarians who get tax-free money and passes on the railways, not our painters, writers and musicians.

Canadian Wins The Newdigate

Since 1806 the undergraduates of Oxford university who are interested in the composition of verse have competed for an annual prize of twenty-one guineas established by Sir Roger Newdigate, the antiquary. To win this prize is to receive one of the highest honours that undergraduate life can afford, and many men who have achieved celebrity in later life—not all of them in the profession of letters—have first come to public attention when they won it. This year it has been won by Michael Hornyansky, a Canadian.

We congratulate Mr. Hornyansky on an auspicious continuance of a career which began when he was chosen to be a Rhodes scholar. He is the son of a distinguished Canadian artist, and his mother is a 'cellist of widespread repu-

Newdigate will be for him, as for many another man, the first step in a notable contribution to literature.

Did Anybody Ever Think So?

We are continually amused by the way in which scholars rush out of their studies with proof of something which has never been in doubt; for instance, Dr. H. K. Moore, who is head of the department of psychology at Arkansas Agricultural and Mechanical College, has sought to astonish the world by proof that brains are no handicap to a woman in getting married. This discovery is part of the result of a study of 176 married and 176 unmarried women over 30 years of age, in which the Arkansas savant has been engaged.

Did anybody with ordinary horse sense ever think that brains handicapped a woman who wanted to get married? There are many men who seek intelligence in a wife even before beauty or a pleasing disposition. A woman of striking intelligence, provided that she has no specific physical or temperamental handicap, can pretty well take her choice of husbands.

Intelligence seems to be fairly evenly distributed among men and women. Sometimes it appears that men are more intelligent than the women they marry because many women cease to develop or to use their intelligence after marriage. But as a rough general rule it may be said that most marriages are between people of approximately equal intelligence; clever women and clever men tend to be drawn together, and the same attraction is at work among the stupid.

Dr. Moore has been wasting his time. But of course his work has thrown him into the society of 352 women, which must have been an enrichment of his personal experience.

Why Politeness Week?

A correspondent writing to the Montreal Star suggests a Politeness Week, in which good manners and thoughtfulness might be impressed upon the young. Her complaint is the old one: she has been jostled in buses, and has not been offered a seat by some of the young men who were sitting down. Chivalry, she says, is dead.

Of course it is dead. Women killed it. The old chivalry, which maintained that a woman—a woman of a certain social standing, that is—was a sacred creature, unable to do anything for herself if there was a man nearby to do it for her, is dead, and a good thing, too. Women have gained equal political rights; they cannot have all the old frills which they enjoyed in the days when they had no vote, no protection for their property, no jobs, and no seats in legislative gatherings, as well. The new chivalry is a politeness between the sexes which recognizes their equality, and it is a form of courtesy which women, in some cases, have been slow to learn.

In a hotel last week we watched a longish queue of people who were waiting to pay their bills. At last the queue was reduced to eight men. Two women swooped upon it, and with smiles which they thought were charming, crowded in at the top of the line.

At a theatre one hot night recently we watched a number of men queue for a drink at the only available fountain. Many women wanted drinks, also, but none of them queued. They kept on crowding in at the head of the line until they had all satisfied themselves. Then the men had their chance.

It is such behaviour as this—refusals to take their turn, and insistence upon the right of women, at all times, to take precedence of men—which makes the practice of chivalry difficult. It also convinces observant boys that women are very well able to take care of themselves, and a Politeness Week would not impress them. They would wonder if politeness should not work both ways, in an age of sex equality.

We Shall Never Get Back To Normal

There is an understandable urge in most men at some time or other to "get back to normal." We look back with regret on the "good old days" wondering whether they will ever come back again. We forget that the older generation of that time looked back regretfully too, and had little good to say of the present.

There is a hankering in some circles after a return to the old triangular trade pattern, when Canada sold more than she bought from Britain, using her favourable balance in order to buy more than she sold to the United States. This was only possible when Britain possessed considerable foreign assets. In these days of bilateral trade agreements Canada can no longer rely on Britain to provide her with a handsome trade balance, and she must export to the States approximately the same amount as she imports.

The latest figures show that for the fourth consecutive month Canada has had an adverse trade balance with the States. This is not particularly alarming in itself, bearing in mind that four months is too short a period in which to estimate a trend. Moreover the volume of exports as well as imports showed a marked increase. Exports are expected to increase still more during the summer months, and the Anglo-Canada the volume of trade with the U.K., now just under a quarter of our trade with the U.S.

Nevertheless the re-establishment of anything resembling the old triangular pattern of trade must remain a pipe-dream. In the event of a Conservative victory in the British General Election in the fall we could probably expect some loosening of controls, but it is improbable that Britain can afford to make any dramatic changes towards convertibility. In any case the majority of her foreign assets were sold during the earlier part of World War II. Moreover her new defence program threatens to curtail her export drive, without which she cannot import.

We must therefore watch our trade balance with the U.S. carefully if we are to live within our means. The Americans are our best customers, and while we endeavour to increase our trade with other countries, particularly with Britain, we must continually remind Washington of the importance of a healthy trade balance to the well-being of her Northern neighbour.

Sport And Super-Sport

By IVOR BROWN

ONE of the most successful plays of this spring in London has been a revival of "Man and Superman," which may be due to a renewed affection for the sexual theories of Bernard Shaw or else to the fact that Mr. John Clements and Miss Kay Hammond, who play the hunted and huntress, are radio favourites of the first order.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN THAT piece it is the womanly woman who tears down the defences of a defeated bachelor. But, whenever I read the papers, I note more triumphs for the sportswoman who can outrace the hare, outleap the grasshopper, and make proud man himself look very small indeed. And I see that a team of women Golf Professionals are coming over from America and will, among their matches, tackle our male professionals. They are led by Mrs. (Babe) Zacharias, whose prowess with a niblick is such as to make the deepest of bunkers go up in clouds of sand and the reeds and gorse-bushes of "the rough" seem no more than blades of grass. It is no rash prophesy that our men will be hard put to it to maintain the equality of the sexes. For, as Shaw's Man yielded to womanly Superman, so may the Sportsman now quiver and collapse before the Supersport.

✧ ✧ ✧

FOR centuries woman never played games at all and, when they started to compete on the tracks and courses, they were so hampered by their swaddling and trailing skirts that they stood little chance. Arnold Bennett once remarked that women are very like men except that they conceal the fact of bifurcation. When they ceased to make this concealment, admitted the existence of legs, and went into very short skirts or shorts and slacks the effortless superiority of the male immediately dwindled. Adam then had to run and hurdle very fast indeed in order to do it just a little better than Eve.

✧ ✧ ✧

ATALANTA of the ancient Greek legend outraced all the men until one beat her by cheating. He threw golden apples in front of her, thus reversing Eve's use of dessert, and she stopped to have a look at them. But Atalanta was the exception; Frau Fanny Blankers-Koen, the Olympic flyer, is now almost the normal wife, mother, and athlete invincible.

✧ ✧ ✧

DOWN the ages woman has been permitted the blood-sports. She took her bow to the forest and later her gun or her rifle to the moors. She rode to hounds. She went fishing (Shakespeare's Cleopatra could have entered her recreations in "Who's Who" as 'fishing and billiards'). But that women should go to the wicket or the hockey-field or stalk round a golf course in seventy or so was a very late development.

✧ ✧ ✧

SIR Philip Sidney did describe women at stool-ball, which was a form of cricket. A shepherd in one of his poems observed:

A time there is for all, my mother often saies,
When she with skirts tuckt very hie with gyrles at stoolball playes.

✧ ✧ ✧

BUT, once the clothing handicap was removed, it was soon made plain that agility and sureness of eye are qualities not limited by difference of physical structure. It is odd that the sex which talks most should be the shorter of wind. The spinster became the sprintress, but long-distance running is the last of the feminine achievements. However, the males will doubtless soon see a Marathon Maggie outstrip the straggling field and cover the last five miles of twenty-five as though they were mere furlongs or trifling yards.

✧ ✧ ✧

THIS has been achieved without loss of charm or beauty. Our fathers' idea of the Cricket or the Hockey Girl as a galumphing and unsightly hoyden has been completely falsified. An anonymous poem of 1675 called "The Chase" describes the beauty of the huntress.

To sport with fellow maids in maiden cheere,
To swim the brook, and hollo after Deer
Thus, the winds wantoning their flying Curles,
So raced, so chased those most Delightfull Girles.

Does not this hold as true of modern Wimbledon? Does Miss Gussie Moran depend upon her attire alone for gorgeousness? Not a bit of it. On the courts or the course, 'so race, so chase those most Delightfull Girles.'

✧ ✧ ✧

AS THE pace quickens and all games become more expertly played, the Amanda and Amaryllis of the past keep up with the tightening standards. Badminton, once deemed a diversion for ninnies, has become a supreme test of eye, wrist, and nimbleness. And the ladies, who once could complain,

We things called women, only made for show,
And pleasure, created to beare children,
And play at shuttle-cock,

now crash the shuttle home in a desperate rally. And with no loss of grace. 'Parties women marry with ease and without more repentance than comes to their more sedentary sisters. 'At the supreme moment,' cries Shaw's John Tanner, the man cornered and captured by his wife-to-be, 'at the supreme moment the Life Force endows you with every quality.' Even, we know now, with the quality of sailing over hurdles or high jumps and driving a golf ball for three hundred yards. None now among those say "Unwomanly" when Miss Gloria Hooker slams a long-hop against the rails. Rather will he reflect "What a mother of men to be." Should she miss her century and should her side go down a tear will trickle on to a M.C.C. tie. One match lost, but perhaps another, and a greater, made.

WINNER

"What qualifications are required to make a successful card player?" asked Mrs. Bowling, casually.

"Well, it's hard to say," replied her husband, thoughtfully. "A man must be cool, calculating, crafty, cunning, and have a touch of meanness in his disposition."

"Oh, John!" exclaimed his wife. "Surely you wouldn't like to play cards with such horrid people!"

"That's all right," the husband answered proudly. "I nearly always win."

Letters To The Editor

INSURANCE FOR FIREMEN

Sir: We are very greatly gratified at the hearty response to the Mayor's Fire Fund.

I would like to make a suggestion which I feel will be a good one for our city council to act upon.

To take out a blanket accident policy for $10,000 to cover all our firemen, payable to the family of any fireman in the future who should lose his life in any fire or should die within one year after being seriously hurt and unable to work as a fireman.

Also all policemen be covered by a similar policy who should be killed in performance of duty.

Where does our meter money go? Part of this could be used to cover premiums.

Yours truly,
OSCAR S. MATCHETT.

LAKEFIELD'S WATERWORKS PROBLEM

Sir: The purpose of this letter is to acquaint you with the facts pertaining to the installation of waterworks and sewer systems in the village of Lakefield. May I first explain the background of this proposal.

In 1946 the ratepayers authorized an expenditure of $304,000 for this purpose. However, when tenders were called this sum was found to be inadequate. At that time the Council decided it would be wise to wait a few years until the inflationary tendency, then becoming evident, levelled off or returned to normal.

By this time we know definitely that this hoped-for levelling off has only recently been accomplished to any appreciable extent. We also know that due to restrictions on steel, contractors are looking for waterworks contracts where there will be no restrictions, unless of course, we engage in another total war.

Many of us felt that the proposal voted on last November was inadequate and unfair and so that proposal was defeated. The unfounded arguments indulged in by those who oppose a waterworks proposal of any kind, did not help the electorate to form the careful and unbiased decision necessary to deal with a proposal of such importance.

A number of responsible citizens decided to examine the whole question and seek to find a proposal that was reasonable, one that every good citizen and hopeful investor would examine carefully and find it to his or her benefit as an investment for the future, both from a financial aspect as well as greater personal comfort. Questions pertinent to the idea as a whole were raised and a small executive committee was elected to seek out the information required to sensibly resolve these questions into a clearer picture of the whole. Further discussions weighed these various informations and formulated the proposal which is now being put forward.

Nearly half of the cost is raised by a frontage tax. This is the fairest way to levy for an improvement because the value of the land is greatly increased by the fact that these utilities are accessible to it. The Local Improvement Act bears out this premise. The minimum frontage tax is proposed to be $30 for the first 100 feet. The average frontage in the municipality is 80 feet so the average property holder pays the smallest amount. Those with multiple properties pay more but stand to profit more by it. In order not to penalize the owner of a corner lot unduly, only one frontage, the longest, was used to compute the total revenue anticipated from this source.

The consumer rates are quite reasonable and the figure used only anticipates 400 of the 521 properties in the village to be consumers. Since everybody may not be able to afford to install plumbing it was felt that 75 per cent would be a very likely estimate.

The remainder of the cost must be borne on the general rate and that will be approximately 9 mills, based on the present total assessment of $890,000.

Before I leave this general explanation of the proposal let me point out, perhaps a little more clearly, the possibilities involved of lowering that general rate. You will notice that we have used the present total assessment. This most certainly will increase, not appreciably on lots already built upon, but on new homes that will be built in our village. At present housing and mortgage companies will not finance a new home, or an old one, in a municipality that does not have these utilities. This would open up a field of progress that Lakefield has missed entirely during the years when so many veterans were looking for a place to settle and build. Industries, an essential part of every thriving community are not encouraged to locate here now due to the prohibitive insurance rates that are charged for factory buildings not protected by automatic sprinkler installations.

Let me dwell for a moment on the contemplation of living in a village whose sanitary facilities bear out its natural beauty and tranquillity. A village where the parents of growing children are not constantly plagued by the various manifestations of inadequate bathing facilities, such as ringworm, scabies, impetigo, and even pediculosis, and where their fears of polio, the scourge of childhood, are allayed to a degree by the knowledge that at least their water supply is pure and sewage properly disposed of.

The various aspects of municipal financing are somewhat involved and can take on alarming proportions if propounded by someone who deliberately seeks to confuse. Lakefield's financial condition is quite satisfactory when compared wth municipalities of similar size. Since it enjoys the distinction of being the largest centre in the province without waterworks, from this very fact we must realize that other, smaller villages have tackled this problem intelligently. My sincere wish is that Lakefield will do likewise.

Swan Song

(The Minneapolis Star)

Gerald Kersh, the British novelist, recently was operated on at the University of Pennsylvania hospital. It was a serious operation, and the slice of his removed liver is on display at the Pathological Museum....The day after the operation Kersh was visited by his secretary, who was unnerved at seeing him so ill. The doctors were holding out little hope for his recovery. "We must do something about getting funeral expenses ready," Kersh told his secretary—and quieted her by dictating a story. He dictated a 17,500-word novelette, sold it to the Saturday Evening Post, recovered—and sailed for home last week.

Believe Canada Needs More People

By FORBES RHUDE,
Canadian Press Business Editor.

Both the immediate past president and the new president of the Canadian Manufacturers' Association are men with pet themes.

The immediate past president, W. F. Holding of Toronto, calls his "immigration"; while the new president Hugh Crombie of Montreal, calls his "don't sell Canada short."

During this week's annual meeting of the association at Quebec, the two met with a score of newspapermen and batted around ideas about what makes Canada tick.

It turned out that though Mr. Holding and Mr. Crombie called their themes by different names, there wasn't much difference in the ideas behind them. For instance, to Mr. Holding's advocacy of immigration, Mr. Crombie declared:

"If we don't populate Canada, some one else will. They'll tell us we're not using it. That's what we told the Indians when we came."

Mr. Holding takes a dim view of people who think that while the United States has a vast home market, Canada must continue to have a small one.

Greatly Underpopulated

"Why," he said, "the United States built its home market in 100 years by letting people in; and, in one period of 30 years, added 1,000,000 people every year. If they had been satisfied, as we have been, they would still be a small power."

The immigration idea is, in brief, something like this: more people will need more goods, and that will give more jobs to more people to make them.

Mr. Holding remarked that Canadians take pride in being the world's third trading power while Canada is 33rd in population. "It's absurd," he declared, "and shows we are underpopulated. We're just selling our natural resources."

Shouldn't Hoard

His idea of good trade is to sell enough abroad to buy back what we need; though he doesn't mean that we should hoard our raw materials unduly.

But Mr. Holding and Mr. Crombie believe in the St. Lawrence seaway.

Says Mr. Crombie: "It's inevitable." Said Mr. Holding: "It will provide the heart of the continent with cheap water transport and with electrical power. My guess is that Canada will build it by herself." He rather favored the idea of being free from the influence of a big partner in the project.

Mr. Holding gave illustrations of why the United States can at present have a higher standard of living. For instance, an American manufacturer can install a machine which will produce goods at near-fabulous rates, because there is a mass market in which to sell them.

If a Canadian industrialist spent money for the same machine he would get his whole year's production for the Canadian market "in a week" and wouldn't make enough to pay for the machine. If he put it in anyway, with faith in the country's growth, it would be obsolete in 10 years before it paid for itself.

Ballerina, Reuters Chief In Birthday Honors List

LONDON, June 7 (Reuters)—Centenaries of Reuters News Agency and the great London Exhibition of 1851 are recognized in the King's birthday honors announced today.

Knighthoods are bestowed on Christopher Chancellor, general manager of Reuters which celebrates its 100th birthday in July, and Gerald Barry, the man who conceived this year's commemorative Festival of Britain.

Men and women from many walks of life—politicians, soldiers, scholars and actors — receive awards in the 31st honors list of the King's reign. The list contains three baronies, one baronetcy, and names two new privy counsellors.

A philosopher, Professor George Edward Moore, 78, is admitted to the exclusive Order of Merit. He was formerly a professor of philosophy at Cambridge.

Lt.-Gen. Sir Bernard Cyril Freyberg, governor-general of New Zealand, is named among new barons. He led the allied stand against Hitler's paratroop invasion of Crete in 1941.

Godfrey Tearle, New York-born actor, becomes a knight at the age of 66. He retired from the stage in 1941.

Ballerina Honored

Margot Fonteyn, 32, the ballerina, is made a Commander of the Order of the British Empire. She is a star attraction in the Sadlers Wells Ballet.

Three women become Dames of the British Empire—Miss Florence Hancock, well-known trade union organizer; Professor Hilda Lloyd, College of Obstetricians and Gynaecologists, and Professor Lillian Penson, historian.

Kenneth Younger, 42-year-old minister of state, is appointed to the privy council.

Air Chief Marshal Sir William Elliot, British representative on the standing group of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Washington, is created a knight commander of the the Order of the Bath.

The knighthood for Chancellor precedes next month's centenary of Reuters. Chancellor, 47, joined Reuters in 1930, and from 1931 to 1939 was chief correspondent and general manager in the Far East based in Shanghai. He has travelled to nearly every country in the world and has been a frequent visitor to the United States and Canada.

Approved Idea

Barry, 55, campaigned in his London News Chronicle for a big national festival to commemorate the centenary of the great 1851 exhibition and also tell the world that Britain has faith in her future.

The Labor government took up the idea and appointed him director-general of the Festival.

The other two barons created with Freyberg are Ernest Valentine La Touche McEntee, a former Labor member of parliament, and Ernest Albert Whitfield, a doctor of philosophy.

Whitfield, 62, is a blind scholar and concert violinist.

A boronetcy is awarded to Alderman Denys Lowson, Lord Mayor of London.

Among the new knights are [illegible] Turner, secretary [illegible] president of the fifth International Civil Aviation Organization Assembly here. Brig. C. S. Booth, Canadian ICAO Council representative, was chosen chairman of the administration commission.

Lt.-Gen. John Evetts, minister of supply military adviser who is in charge of the rocket range and atomic research plant at Woomera, Central Australia.

Petes Climb To Tie For Top With 15-6 Win Over St. Kitts

Rising to the occasion in an exciting, scrappy OLA senior "A" fray here last night, the Petes downed St. Catharines Athletics before some 1,500 fans to go into a top-place tie with Brampton and St. Kitts. However, the Petes have played one game less and have one less defeat to date. They play Brampton here Friday and go to St. Catharines the next night. Hamilton, Toronto, Mimico and Fergus trail in that order. It was a rousing struggle between the bitter rivals, with the first half marked by stiff bodying and the last two quarters featured by plenty of slashing and no less than four fist fights, which drew eight major penalties. Of the 18 penalties handed out by Referees Piper Bain and Al Jeffries of Toronto, the Crowe crew drew 10.

Blow By Blow

Ike Hildebrand, in scrappy mood all evening, and Emil Uhrynuk, clashed in the third inning to sit it out for five minutes each. In the fourth, Don Ashbee and Don Frick mixed it furiously and it took both referees and several players to pull them apart. They tried to resume when leaving the field, but players broke it up again. A bit later, a double fight erupted with Russ Slater flooring Tony D'Amico, as Doug Smith and Curly Mason swung punches, too. A near fight threatened again at the final gong.

The Petes were full value for their win, demonstrating strong lacrosse in every quarter. They had a 4-1 lead in the first heat, but were held at 1-1 in a more even second stanza. They pounded back to take a 4-2 edge in the third to lead 9-4 going into the fourth, when they finished strong with a 6-2 margin in sniping. They gave check for check, everyone toiling hard in stiff going. Moon Wootton was in great form again in the nets to keep down the visitors' scoring.

Led The Parade

Best scorers on the night's play for Peterborough were Curly Mason with three goals and an assist, and Ike Hildebrand with a marker and three assists, despite a lot of time in the sin box. Don Ashbee and Harry Wipper were also stars on the attack with three counters apiece, and Jerry Fitzgerald and Arn Dugan were up there, too, aiding on three each. Dootch Vitarelli also looked good as he hit the hemp twice, single points going to Don Crowe, Russ Slater, Em Creighton and Moon Wootton.

Jimmy McMahon counted a pair for St. Kitts, with one each notched by Emil Uhrynuk, Harry Davies, Al Frick and Bob Melville. An assist apiece went to Ken Croft, Doug Smith and Don Moore. The Saints tried hard to get a lot of hard shots at Wootton, which might easily have turned into markers. They were short several regulars, but the home squad was minus Ross Powless and Bob Thorpe, both nursing leg injuries. Teams:

St. Catharines: Goal, W. Frick; defence, Smith and Urhynuk; centre, Howe; wings, McMahon and D. Frick; rover, Croft; alternates, A. Frick, Bradshaw, D'Amico, Oneschuk, Melville, Moore and Davies.

ARMAND SAVOIE (right), Montreal lightweight has started his ninth round rally that nearly brought him a knockout against Li'l Arthur King at Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens recently. In that torrid ninth round, King clinched to prevent being "chilled" after gaining a big lead on points. Savoie, the knockout puncher, was out-boxed and out-foxed by the more experienced and stronger Arthur King.

Westclox Takes Close One Over Marines

M. Hawthorne's two-bagger with three aboard in the last of the 9th gave Westclox a 12-11 verdict over Marines in a neat girls' softball game at the Bowl last night. Marines had come from behind in the late innings to push the Clockers right to the wire. The hitting was almost even in this tussle, but Marines had more miscues. M. Hodson and J. Hart went the route on the mound in fair style for the rival squads. Westclox played a heads-up game against good opposition.

M. Owen and J. Snape stood out defesively for the winners, with M. Behan and B. McMahon showing good form for the losers. M. Connolly led the latter team at bat with a triple and two singles in five appearances at the plate. Best for Westclox, M. Batley came through with three singles in six times up. Marines would have won ordinarily in this tilt but Westclox hustled a bit more.

The teams:

Marines—B. McMahon, 1b; V. Page, 3b; M. Behan, ss; M. Gillen, c; E. Mantle, rf; M. Carr, rf; M. Connolly, cf; M. Walling, lf; T. McQuade, lf; R. Leal, 2b; J. Hart, p.

Cobourg Edges Lindsay 10-9

COBOURG, June 7.—A seventh-inning two-run rally on a double, a walk and two bunt singles retained Cobourg Legionnaires' Lakeshore Intermediate Baseball League leadership here Wednesday night.

Jim Hart started for Cobourg and was lifted in the third for veteran Max Smith, who turned in a two-hit, two-run relief job.

Junior West, Bill Wickett and Doug Loucks in that order toiled for the losers.

Tommy Hogan, Legionnaires' shortstop, snapped out of his hitless streak and rapped out a triple, double and single in the Cobourg win. Jewel led the losers with the bat, getting two for four.

Woollens Gain Girls' Win Over Cobourg

Dominion Woollens defeated Cobourg Pavs 12-9 at the Bowl last night in a Girls' Softball League fixture before a slim, chilly crowd. They got their runs in bunches with an 18-hit attack, though having a few more errors than Cobourg. The latter got but one run for three frames, then began to count for the next three, and were blanked in the final third of the game S. Harris and J. Davis went the distance on the slabs, the latter being bingled freely at times.

C. Ferguson and O. Dunk were the pick of the woollens in the field, as G. Hebert and M. Hart looked good defensively for the Pavs. B. Fisher of Cobourg hit a homer and single, I. Reedy coming through with a single and three-bagger. C. Ferguson topped Woollens at bat with a homer and three singles in fiver, as J. Walling hit a homer, double and single in five, and R. McInroy three singles in five times up.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

By CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

While first place won't be at stake when Oshawa Merchants clash with the Petes at 8.30 tonight in Riverside, it's next thing to such a case. Petes now lead the Viaduct Loop with five wins and one loss while Kingsways have four and two, and Oshawa three and two. As the Kingsways come here Saturday (after beating the Petes in Toronto the other night) you can see how these three can be bunched like bananas by this week-end. Ed Whitehill may pitch either Doug Plunkett or Lefty Dadson, while Tony Delaurentis has arrived in Oshawa from the States and is likely to get the slab call. This ought to be the neatest diamond game seen here this season as the old rivals tangle.

* * * * * *

Though known as senior amateur baseball, some of the Viaduct League lineups carry chaps who have played in pro ranks or are about ready to step up. Oshawa advertises in the Sporting News for players of at least Class "B" calibre. So, they and the Petes can field a team of practically Class 'C' rating, though not all their players are quite that good. Denofrio, for example, and Huntley, played as high as "B" ball and others, local and imported, could hold on in "C" company if they made a full-time career of it. No fooling. It's not that much better than the senior amateur brand. In fact, the Intercounty League is generally rated as a Class "B" pro circuit, even by American players.

Those Husky Youngsters

Brampton Excelsiors, first team to give the Petes a setback this OLA semester, play the Crowe crew here at 8.45 tomorrow night in Miller Bowl. A bunch of husky youngsters, sprinkled with good veterans, make this club plenty potent. They have plenty of speed and fight, so the Petes will have to go all out every time they mix with the Excelsiors. Peterborough hasn't a monopoly on the top gutted-stickers in the business this year, though we do have a real strong squad. But any one of several clubs in the OLA senior "A" ranks must be regarded as top contenders. The Friday fray will be a right interesting one.

* * * * * *

In view of last night's game, these views in the St. Catharines' paper a few days ago might be of interest: "All hands will have to be rarin' to go in Peterborough tomorrow when it's a first time out for the two units picked to be factors for the final whirl. How well A's can keep tabs on their ex-buddies, Wipper and Fitzgerald, remains to be seen. If Harry Wipper keeps up that scoring clip, as a defenceman, they'll be moving him up front soon as a potential forward. He must be about high sniper for Petes now." The writer adds that Coach Joe Cheevers has worked up a fine team spirit in the Athletics to put them on top of the heap at the time of writing.

* * * * * *

Russ Can Handle Dukes

Wipper and Fitzgerald both did all right for themselves in that 15-6 win here last eve, and so did Mason, Hildebrand, Dugan and Vitarelli, among others. Also Wootton in goal, by all means. And Russ Slater in his one-rounder with Tony D'Amico. Scored the only knockdown. Just one of four fights in an exciting and scrappy struggle. St. Kitts are no longer alone in top spot, but now tied on points with Brampton and the Petes, the locals having a game in hand. Once again, the Crowe chaps drew most of the penalties and again the fans went after refs Bain and Jeffries. The Petes played solid lacrosse and deserved the win by a goodly margin, though Wootton certainly kept down the scoring of the Athletics.

* * * * * *

Marg Hawthorne smacked out a double in the ninth with the bases loaded to give Westclox lasses a 12-11 win o'er Marines last eve at the Bowl. A narrow squeak for the Armour Hill maidens, though they played sound ball, and a toughie to drop for the Outboards. But you can't make them much closer than that. In the other girls' joust, the Woollens came through in impressive fashion to gain a 12-9 victory against the Cobourg Pavs. Solid hitting did the trick and the Pavs couldn't bunch their blows with ducks on the pond. Westclox trek to the lakeshore town on the morrow.

Baltimore Team Crushes Pt. Hope

COBOURG, June 7.—Baltimore Millers are taking a leaf from their championship hockey book this summer in softball and have assumed the role of giant killers in the Cobourg and District Softball League, which embraces two Port Hope teams.

The club from the little village showed power here Tuesday night when they beat Port Hope Huff Motors, 12-1. A three-brother system was the clincher against Huffs. Don Ball, the district's number one hurler, took the mound for the Baltimore club, with brother Jack catching. When Don tired a little in the fifth, Lyle (Gunner) Ball came off third base and stopped the Ports cold.

Second straight win for the Baltimore crew, it puts them within half a game of first place behind the classy kid team, Legion Juniors. Tied with Baltimore are Mathews, the second Port Hope entry, the only team this year to defeat the village squad.

The villagers are proud of their ability to produce athletic teams like this one and the title winning hockey team this past winter. The club roster, however, does not entirely include unknown faces, since Pud Jamieson and Don Ball are football stars with the Galloping Ghosts, while Fred McMillan was the regular second sacker for the Cobourg Legionnaires last year when they won the Lake Shore baseball title and drove to the OBA semi-finals.

Queen Alex Victors

Queen Alex took a 16-5 School Softball League victory yesterday from King Edward on the north-end diamond. They started slowly with a run in the first frame, adding three next time up, and then breaking loose for six each in the third and fourth. The southenders got one over in the first, another in the third and three in a belated rally in the fifth, as Queen Alex played good ball. Teams:

King Edward: McMillan, Jones, Dorrington, Reynolds, Davis, Swan, Foster, Moffatt, Harvey, Hughey, Gibson, Blackwell, Scott.

Queen Alex: Montgomery, Edwardson, Buckton, Smith, Chambers, Moore, Hendren, Willshaw, Bebee, Hayward, Kingston.

P of W Girls Win

Prince of Wales girls jerked out a 16-15 school softball win over King George in a free-hitting but tight tussle. They banged home ... runs in the fifth ... in the fourth ... first and in the fifth. Teams:

Prince of Wales: E. ..., J. Welch, M. Panter, D. Jarvis, P. Byers, C. Berwick, C. Munroe, ... Johnson, B. Succee, G. Wakelin, S. Harvey, J. McCurrach.

King George: A. Preston, S. McMullen, G. Chalmers, M. Clapper, J. Dixon, L. Fullbrook, G. Mitchell, J. Hillis, M. Watts, G. Campbell, M. McGregor.

Welcome Club Whips Port Hope Pelicans

PORT HOPE, June 7.—Bunching three hits in the sixth inning, Welcome Club broke a 2-2 tie to down Port Hope Pelicans, 4-2, in a Durham County Baseball League game. The Port Hopers outhit the winners 10-7, but the Welcome hurler, Fred Lord, kept them well scattered. In addition, he registered 12 strikeouts and walked only two. At bat Lord also gave a good account of himself, hitting a pair of singles and scoring one run. Paul Currelly also collected two hits for the victors.

Bill Simpson was top hitter on the Port Hope team, having a perfect night at bat with three singles in three trips to the plate. Buz Foote hit a double and a single.

Mountaineers Crush Hamilton Tigers 18-9

By The Canadian Press

Mimico Mountaineers had a clean edge defeating Hamilton Tigers 18-9 in an Ontario Lacrosse Association senior game, Wednesday night. The win was revenge for an earlier Hamilton drubbing by a 15-4 margin.

The Dixon brothers were effective for Mimico, Ken firing five goals while Archie got three. Bill Horwood had four for the winners.

Jack Dorney was top Hamilton goalgetter with three. Blaine McDonald and George Masters had two each.

Chicago White Sox Still Click, Subdue Washington 4-2

By JACK HAND,
Associated Press Sports Writer.

Lou Kretlow, Harry Dorish, Randy Gumpert and Kenny Holcombe—Chicago's waiver waifs—are making faces red all around the American League.

Kretlow, who's he? That probably was the man-in-the-street reaction to Wednesday's story on the blazing White Sox. Still a club—the Detroit Tigers—once thought enough of Lou to pay him $35,000 bonus to sign off the Enid (Okla.) Army Air Force team.

Kretlow's 1950 record of 0-2 hardly stamped him as a man who would boost the White Sox' league lead to 4½ games. But manager Paul Richards seems to have a way with pitchers.

After Wednesday's neat four-hitter against Washington for a 4-2 win, both the Tigers and Brownies would be glad to welcome him back.

Dorish, efficient reliefer in nine games when Chicago pitchers needed help, made the rounds before he hit Comiskey Park. He's been bouncing up and down from minors to majors since 1947.

At Waiver Price

Then there's Gumpert — unbeaten at 4-0. The Athletics had him first—way back in 1936-37-38. They let him get away to the Yankee chain. New York found Randy useful in 1946 and 1947. But in July 1948 off he went to the White Sox—at the waiver price.

Holcombe didn't stick long enough for waivers with most of the clubs. But at various times, between trips to the minors, he belonged to the Yankees, Cincinnati and White Sox.

Richards got his fifth straight complete game Wednesday in Kretlow's effort against Washington. Howie Judson, Billy Pierce, Saul Rogovin, and Gumpert were the others to go all the way since the Sox last loss to Boston.

With a staggering 19-out-of-21 pace, the Sox are gradually pulling away from the pack while the Yanks and Red Sox fizzle.

Error Costly

A fumbled throw by usually dependable Phil Rizzuto cost the Yankees a 5-4 loss to the lowly St. Louis Brownies. Rizzuto dropped the ball when Delsing ran into him, Bero scoring.

Detroit lowered the boom on Boston, 6-4, for the Red Sox' fifth straight loss. George Kell's diving catch of a liner by Lou Boudreau with the bases full in the ninth stopped a Sox rally.

Alex Kellner handed Cleveland its second straight loss after nine straight wins, with a seven-hitter as Philadelphia ripped into Bob Chakales for a 4-3 margin.

Brooklyn opened up another length on the field in the National, edging St. Louis 3-2. The defeat left the Cards 5½ games back of the Dodgers.

Edge Giants

Cincinnati foiled the New York Giants' plans of taking over second place by scoring three in the ninth to win 5-4. Nine Reds went to bat in the ninth against loser Montia Kennedy and Sheldon Jones. Pinch hitter Grady Hatton slugged across the tying and winning scores with a single.

Warren Spahn snapped Boston's five-game losing streak with a five-hitter against Pittsburgh, 5-2. Ralph Kiner hit his 13th homer and scored the Pirates' other run.

Ray Mueller drove in four runs. The Phillies cut loose on Bob Schultz, Cal McLish and Johnny Schmitz with 18 hits to smother Chicago 9-1.

Anzacs Favoring Winter Contest In Empire Games

By J. C. GRAHAM

AUCKLAND, N.Z. — (CP) — Now that the 1954 Empire Games have been officially awarded to Vancouver and planning is under way, winter sports enthusiasts here and in Australia are again asking about the prospects of Canada organizing an Empire winter games tournament, on the lines of the Olympic Winter Games.

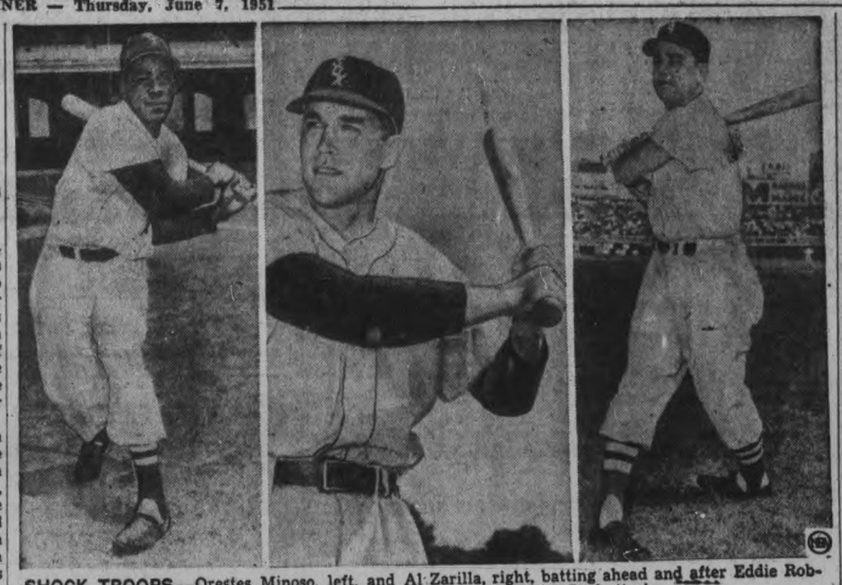
Enthusiasts in the southern dominions have long felt that the initiative in inaugurating such a meeting must come from Canada, as the sports included in the winter Olympics are stronger and more highly organized in Canada than in any other Commonwealth country. It is felt here that as Canada is to be host for the summer Empire Games in 1954, the preceding winter would be a propitious time to launch Empire winter games.

Skiing is the most strongly organized of the winter olympics sports in Australia and New Zealand and the ski organizations of the two countries have already established inter-dominion team contests on a firm basis. The controlling body in New Zealand even made a bid to have skiing included in the main Empire Games in 1950. On that occasion New Zealand as the host country had the right to nominate two additional sports outside the standard program. This effort failed and since then ski enthusiasts have turned increasingly to the idea of a separate Empire Winter Games, perhaps using the biennial inter-dominion skiing contests as a basis from which to work.

Quite Successful

These contests between Australia and New Zealand began before the war and have been uniformly successful. On one occasion a triangular meeting was arranged with United States representatives competing, but attempts to include a Canadian team have so far been fruitless.

The Anzac meetings were abandoned during the Second World War but have been re-established on a stronger basis than before. The last contest was in 1949 when an Australian team visited New Zealand. This year New Zealand is sending a team to Australia.



Pacific Ski Boom

Skiing has been booming in the southern dominions since the war. In New Zealand progress has been partcularly rapid and it now has considerably more ski tows than its larger neighbor. New Zealand has higher mountains and much varied terrain that Australia and the installation of tows by private companies, the government and many clubs has resulted in a rapid improvement in the standard.

There is no doubt, however, that the standard in Canada is still much higher and facilities infinitely better. No resort in the southern dominions, for instance, has anything more advanced than simple rope tows.

Ice skating, which figures on the Olympic program, is merely an outdoor sport practised on frozen lakes in the south in New Zealand, but ther are one or two indoor rinks in Australia. Chief competition in this and in ice hockey would have to come from Great Brtain, as the southern standard does not approach that of Canada. Curling, however, is extensively played on the southern lakes of New Zealand.

Introduction of an Empire Winter Games would undoubtedly give all these sports a great boost in Australia and New Zealand.

Will Compete For Chess Title

WINNIPEG, June 7 (CP)—At 26, Daniel Abraham Yanofsky is on the comeback trail.

Abe, as he is better known, says he will participate in the Canadian chess championships at Vancouver, Aug. 26-Sept. 1. The young Winnipeg chess master will attempt to regain the crown he lost in 1949 to Morris Fox, of Montreal, the same man Abe defeated in 1941 to win his first Dominion title.

With play held every two years, Yanofsky retained his title in 1943-45-47. But since his setback in 1949, Abe hasn't competed in a single tournament, having only the odd match with friends.

It is not only the love of the game that has prompted Yanofsky to return to the chess wars. He will have an opportunity this fall to compete on the Continent.

He has just completed a tough term at the University of Manitoba and there wasn't much time for chess. But it was successful venture, for law student Yanofsky topped the university's list with four honors.

SEEK CHESS CROWN — Abe Yanofsky, 26-year-old Winnipeg chess master, will try to regain the Canadian chess crown he lost to Morris Fox of Montreal in 1949. If successful at the Dominion championships at Vancouver, Aug. 26-Sept. 1, Yanofsky will compete in the inter-zonal matches at Helsinki in 1952. He leaves for England this fall to attend Oxford University.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Albert B. (Happy) Chandler said Wednesday night he had turned in his resignation as baseball commissioner contingent on the club owners' acceptance of a severance contract for his protection.

Chandler said no resignation date was specified.

"I left the space blank," he said. "However, if we come to terms, my resignation will be sometime not too far off. I will fill in the date if, and when they sign it."

He indicated strongly he had another position in mind and would be out of baseball within two or three weeks, or just before the all-star game July 10. He did not say what the new position was.

The commissioner was confident the severance pact, which would indemnify him against financial responsibility for any damages assessed against organized baseball during the remaining year of his contract has to run, will be approved.

Angry Scottish golf veterans want to stymie an official move to remove the stymie from the British game.

The Royal and Ancient Club — governing body for British golfers—will probably eliminate stymies at its September meeting. Stymies have been out of American golf for years.

But some Scottish club-swingers think the stymie—effected when your opponent's ball rolls between yours and the cup — should stay in the game.

It's all part of the fun, they argue.

At Broadstone, England, Beverly Hanson's bid to add the British women's amateur golf title to her American crown met failure on Wednesday when the Fargo, N. D., girl was knocked out in the quarterfinal round. An English girl and an Irish matron clash in today's 36-hole final over the gorse-infested Dorset Golf Club course.

At New Rochelle, N. Y., sixteen of the world's leading golf professionals, including the great Bobby Locke of South Africa, sharpened up their shots Wednesday in preparation for the annual 90-hole Palm Beach round robin tournament starting today at the Wykagyl Country Club.

A single round of stroke play is scheduled today with two rounds on Friday and one each on Saturday and Sunday. All proceeds of the unique event go to the New Rochelle hospital fund.

Locke, the British open champion, has won the Palm Beach twice and finished second in three tries.

Phil Marchildon, who dropped a close decision in his first inter-county baseball league start, will make his second bid for victory Friday night when the improved Guelph Maple Leafs meet the league-leading Waterloo Tigers.

Marchildon, a native of Penetanguishene, who starred for years in the big leagues with Philadelphia Athletics, dropped his first game to Brantford Red Sox by a 2-1 margin.

Marchildon signed with Guelph after being released earlier this season by Toronto Maple Leafs of the International League. Bothered in recent years by nerves, the former prisoner-of-war has been unable to return to pre-war form.

Central Triumphs

Central turned back Queen Mary 17-1 in their school softball meeting at Central on Tuesday, with 13 safe blows as Brooks held his opponents to two hits and five walks as he whiffed nine in six frames. Gardner finished it up, striking out two. Queen Mary used Deal and Brady, who between them gave up 10 walks and fanned eight. They had five errors to Central's four. Brown, Hillier and Dubay went best for the losers, while Brooks, Dunford and Gardner stood out for the winners. Teams:

Queen Mary: Dubay, Brown, Deck, Brady, Deal, Dafoe, Friar, Brier, Graham, McDonald, Hillier, Horton.

Central: Patterson, Dunford, Matthews, Harrington, Brooks, Martyn, Gardner, Craymer, Gray, Leonard, McIlmoyle, Williams.

Umpires: R. K. McKee and N. Gainer.

Rule Changes Hinted In NHL Parley

By W. R. WHEATLEY

MONTREAL, June 7—(CP)—National Hockey League owners came out of a long meeting Wednesday amid a flock of reports and rumors about rule changes and player deals.

The owners had no announcement. But it seemed a good bet that at least several rule changes will be made by the league's governors when they meet today.

What may be done about the length of the playing schedule remained conjectural. There was some talk that the 70-game schedule, in effect two seasons, will be retained. There was also talk that American clubs which have suffered falling off in attendance would be receptive to reversion to a 60-game schedule.

One rule change that appeared most likely of going through would replace the two face-off circles in the ice corners at each end of the ice surface with a larger circle in front of each goal.

Tried Out

It is likely this scheme would be tried out first in exhibition games and the All-Star game before next season officially opens.

Rumors of player deals, either actual or proposed, flitted about. The club owners blandly disclaimed any knowledge of such happenings.

There was a report that Tony Leswick, of New York Rangers, would go to the Detroit Red Wings for Gaye Stewart. Linked with this was conjecture that it would be a three-way deal with Harry Watson, of Toronto Maple Leafs, filling out the threesome and winding up with Rangers.

Busmen Victorious

Bus drivers edged out an 8-5 Civic Softball League verdict over Salvation Army last night in Armour Field. It was real close with each side poling out a dozen safe hits and each having two boots in the field. Busmen scored two runs each in the first two innings and singles in the next four. Deal and E. Simmons hit homers. The Army clicked for five in the big second but were held to one run each in the third and fourth. Teams:

Bus drivers: Brown p, Stock 2b, G. Simmons 1b, Moore 3b, Gordon cf, O'Dette lf, E. Simmons c, Deal ss, Post rf.

S. Army—C. Braund ss, Scott 2b, R. Braund c, Parsons cf, Slaughter 3b, Eade rf, J. Braund lf, Wilfong lf, Craig p, Bain 1b.

Umpires: Castle and Morgan.

Millbrook Girls Win

MILLBROOK, June 7 (ENS)—The girls' softball team played their first game of the season on Tuesday evening in Millbrook. The Millbrook girls defeated Bethany by a score of 11-7. It was an exhibitino game . Alex Gilbert is managing the team this season.

Must Expand League Or Dutchmen Quit

KITCHENER, June 7—(CP)—Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen said Wednesday they will not operate in the Ontario Hockey Association's major series under the present setup.

Bobby Bauer, president of the Dutchmen, said the four-team league, organized last year, was too small.

Unless the league is expanded Dutchmen will withdraw, he said. They probably would return to the Senior A loop.

The other three teams in the league are Hamilton Tigers, Toronto Marlboros and Toronto St. Michael's Monarchs.

To Forego OHA Spot

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont., June 7 Niagara Falls will not be represented in the Ontario Hockey Association major series next season.

Decision to forego the offer was passed on to the OHA Wednesday in a telegram from Jay MacDonald, who represented Niagara Falls at several meetings called by the OHA in attempts to enlarge series is faced with the possibility of being washed up altogether.

Bisons Trample Springfield In 11-3 Victory

By The Associated Press

Buffalo Bisons are making the big noise in the International League these days with their 10-run innings. For the second time in less than a week they did the trick when they rolled for 10 in the first Wednesday night against Springfield.

Fourteen Bisons came to bat against three Springfield pitchers with Al Stringer, Archie Wilson and Walter Post each collecting two hits. Bob Wellman contributed a three-run homer.

Tired by this muscle-flexing, Buffalo had only two more hits the rest of the night. One was a homer by Fred Hancock in the eighth. The final count was 11-3.

Scrape By Wings

Montreal scraped past Rochester 6-5 knocking out Curt Krieger in a five-run second inning. Joe Black helped Hal Mallette out of trouble with a 3 1-3 inning relief job. Charley Kress' ninth homer with a man on in the ninth were the only runs off Black.

SPINNING HINTS

Your fun has just begun when you have acquired a complete spinning outfit, as this fourth of the series of "Spinning Hints" will brief you on the infinite varieties of lures with which you have to land the types of fish you prefer.

There is only two main characteristics which lures must have to prove their suitability for spinning, and they are — they must have weight, but not too much, and a minimum of wind resistance. The most ideal weight is between ¼ and ½ ounce, and the more streamlined the better.

With what other tackle could you use this selection of types of lures?—weighted flies, spoons, wobblers, spinning baits, spinners used in connection with unweighted flies or live bait, plugs and preserved live and live bait.

The first of these will appeal to the fly fisherman—not only will he get the same effect, but will have the added advantages of reaching water which under normal circumstances would be out of reach of even the best cast flies; PLUS the fact that wind has less effect on the cast; PLUS the added depth to which the weighted flies will sink, thus attracting the larger fish, particularly if the current is strong. Just as the usual flies can be tied by the ardent fan, these flies are also tied, with addition weight by means of split shot or lead strips to the hook and bending securely before putting on the adornments.

With the spinners of light weight you might find it necessary to weight these also as there is considerable wind-resistance to these. Unfortunately, as most fishermen know, these have a tendency to twist the line, some times eliminated by the use of two spinners, one left and one right.

Your spoons and wobblers fall into another category and prove to be excellent lures for use in spinning. Unlike the spinners, they do not twist your line. The size found to be most satisfactory for use with spinning take is approximately 2⅛ inches long by ¾ of an inch wide, weighing about 2/5 of an ounce.

Probably the most suitable lure for use with spinning tackle is the artificial spinner used in connection with live bait. The set-ups vary in as much that in some cases the entire bait or lure revolves, and in other cases the spinner is attached and have a ... help to fill in a large gap in regard to plug casting, specifically the lighter plugs of ¼ to ½-ounce. You are able to cast out to much greater distances than could previously be done with casting equipment.

Also, in the use of live or preserved live bait, you might have to resort to the addition of split shot or other forms of weighting your lure for best results.

Special lures are now on the market for the use with spinning tackle, and as yet have to be experimented with locally to judge which will produce the best results.

Beaten With Gun Butts 8 Nanking Nuns Report

HONG KONG, June 7—(Reuters)—Two Catholic nuns described Wednesday how Chinese troops in Nanking beat them and held them prisoners with six others in a single room for nearly a month.

The nuns said they had often been struck with rifle butts or kicked. They had been allowed to wear only underwear and aprons and were forbidden to pray or speak to each other.

The two, Mother Marie-Achilla (Julianna Weber of Guzow, Poland) and Mother Du B. Robert Lebis (Marcelle Blancheries of St. Armand, France), are members of the Franciscan Missionaries of Mary.

They arrived here Tuesday, after expulsion by the Communists, who condemned them at a trial they were not allowed to attend. They were accompanied by three other Franciscan sisters. Two others were sentenced to 10 years' imprisonment.

The seven sisters, together with a Chinese member of the order, were held from April 19 to May 17 in the room of a former diplomatic residence in Nanking. They were charged with the maltreatment and neglect of children in their care.

Taken From Orphanage

The two sisters said they had all been removed from the Sacred Heart Orphanage on April 19. On April 23 they were shown a proclamation stating the public was dissatisfied with the decision already taken to deport them and had demanded a trial.

They were then stripped of practically all their possessions—their religious habits, spectacles, rosaries, crosses, rings and even their shoelaces. Food, cooking utensils, linen and other necessities they had been allowed to bring were also removed.

They were left in their underclothes and aprons and told "Now you owe complete obedience to the government."

Young male guards remained with them in the crowded room and watched them night and day. The guards shouted at them and each other on every occasion and lights were kept on day and night.

Two beds comprised the only furniture in the room. They were shared by four sisters and the others slept on the floor.

No water was provided, but they were allowed to buy it every two days with money their jailers had impounded from them.

Stringent Ban

OTTAWA, June 7 (CP).—External Affairs Minister Pearson said Wednesday Canada's ban on shipments of strategic materials to Red China is as stringent as that of the United States. He told Gordon Graydon (PC-Peel) in the Commons he could not say how the prohibitions of the two countries compared on other goods and materials.

Combat Casualties

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP).—Announced United States combat casualties in Korea reached 68,352 Wednesday, an increase of 925 since last week. The total, based on notifications to families up to June 1, included 10,198 killed, 46,541 wounded and 11,613 missing. Of the wounded, 1,202 since have died and 103 of the missing are known dead, raising total combat deaths to 11,503.

30,000 Reds Said Left Behind UN Lines

PUSAN, Korea, June 7—(AP)—Two unsuccessful Communist spring offensives into South Korea left a backwash of about 30,000 Red guerrillas deep behind UN lines, police sources said Wednesday.

Large numbers of armed and unarmed Red guerrillas were mopped up since last fall, but a new batch is foraging south for food and making trouble as they go.

Police in co-operation with the South Korean Army have killed or captured more than 110,000 guerrillas since last October, Defence Minister Lee Ki Poong told newspapermen.

A typical guerrilla attack was made last Sunday, 60 miles west of Pusan. About 40 armed Reds were driven off from a prison at Chinju by South Korean police who killed one raider and chased the others into near-by mountains.

On May 26, about 180 armed guerrillas attacked the provincial government building and police headquarters at Chungju. More than 10 buildings were destroyed.

The South Korean Legislature decided to question the home and defence ministries on the Chungju raid which caused damages estimated at $1,500,000.

Find 2 Pilots Safe, Unhurt After Crash

WINNIPEG, June 7. (CP)—Two fliers, missing four days in the wilds of Northern Saskatchewan, Wednesday were found unharmed beside their crashed plane by one of a squadron of search planes that homed on a feeble radio signal.

The fliers—Pilot George Denholme and mechanic Leon Sparks—vanished in the lake-studded muskeg country while on a 300-mile flight from Lac La Rouge to Stony Rapids last Saturday. On Monday night a search plane picked up a static-fogged radio signal 88 miles north of Lac La Ronge.

The RCAF and the Saskatchewan Government Airways, owners of the plane, concentrated their search in the area, and Wednesday spotters on an RCAF Dakota from Winnipeg picked out the lost craft on a muskeg islet 120 miles northeast of Lac La Ronge.

Minimum Damage

They reported that the plane came down wheels up and appeared to have suffered minimum damage. Emergency rations for 10 days were dropped along with the strips of cloth which the fliers used to spell out the words: "All is well."

A Saskatchewan Government Airways Norseman, equipped with pontoons, left for a lake two miles from the crash scene to pick up the men. Sqdn. Ldr. G. E. Nickerson, directing the search from The Pas, Man., flew over the scene to determine whether a helicopter would be needed for the rescue.

Members of the plane crew which found the missing craft were: FO J. F. Woodman, captain; FO J. W. Douglas, radio officer; FO C. L. Reid, navigator; Cpl. Ingram and LAC Giles, all of No. 111 Communications and Reserve Flight, Winnipeg.

Policeman Pays $24.50 Damages

KITCHENER, June 7. (CP)—N. J. Fischer was Wednesday awarded damages of $24.50 by a County Court jury in a case in which he sued Provincial Police Cpl. John Munro for malicious arrest.

The action arose out of an argument between Fischer and the police officer June 29, 1950, over Munro's parking of the police car at a bus stop, where Fischer was awaiting a bus.

Fischer found the police car parked at the stop and called the attention of the officer to it. Munro was in a men's store at the corner. The officer testified that Fischer used rough language and refused to give his name when asked. He said Fischer had his fist raised threateningly when he refused to give his name.

Munro said he grabbed Fischer by the wrist and brought his arm behind his back as he forced Fischer into the police car.

He subsequently laid charges against Fischer of resisting an officer and creating a disturbance. Both charges were dismissed.

Congressmen Finish Seaway Site Inspection

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP).—Members of the House of Representatives Public Works Committee returned Wednesday from a week-long inspection of the proposed St. Lawrenre seaway site. The touring Congressmen gave no clear-cut indication that their trip had influenced them one way or another on legislation to authorize the $818,000,000 project.

Prior to the trip that took them as far west as Duluth, Minn., and north-east to Montreal, the members of the committee had sat for weeks hearing arguments for and against numerous seaway bills.

Scots In Arms Over Census List

OTTAWA, June 7. (CP)—A couple of Macs in the Commons objected Wednesday to having Scottish racial origins listed under "et cetera" in the current census.

The complaints came from J. M. Macdonnell (PC, Toronto Greenwood) and Angus MacInnis (CCF, Vancouver South), both born in Canada but with Scottish backgrounds.

Mr. Macdonnell noted the census papers listed "English, French, Irish, Jewish and et cetera." He thought some action should be taken to get the Scots in the list.

Mr. MacInnis also observed that he objects to being classified as "et cetera."

Trade Minister Howe, born in the United States, agreed it was a strange situation. He promised the House he would dig up an explanation.

Won't Agree To Lower Newsprint

OTTAWA, June 7 — (CP). — Informed quarters said Wednesday, government is not likely to agree to a United States request that $10-a-ton boosts in the price of Canadian newsprint be suspended. The increase becomes effective July 1.

The appeal to suspend the increase, approved by the government, was made by US Price Administrator Michael Disalle in a letter to R. M. Fowler, Defence Production Department pulp and paper administrator and president of the Canadian Pulp and Paper Association.

UK Cobbler Baronet Hopes To Be Big Shot In Canada

LIVERPOOL, June 7. (AP) — Britain's cobbler baronet and his telephone-girl bride have decided to quit England—so they can live up to their social position.

Sir Garnet Wolseley, 35, who earns $17 a week repairing shoes, and his lady said for Canada June 12. They will live in Brantford.

Since ousting two American claimants and gaining the 200-year-old title last year, Sir Garnet—George to his friends—finds Britain has nothing to offer people who have a title and no money.

Lady Lilian Wolseley, his bride of nine months, has given up her $14-a-week job as a telephone operator to complete preparations for the voyage.

"We live in a five-room house in a very ordinary neighborhood," she explained. "No castle . . . no fabulous income.

"But in Canada I hope to live the life of a lady. I have been told that I have quite a figure and that I should do well modelling clothes."

The handle "Lady" she added, "should make all the difference."

At her wedding last August, Lady Wolseley said, however, "I shall insist on being just Mrs. Wolseley. I am not interested in titles."

Sir Garnet said he is looking forward to a new life—and new opportunities.

"I can look quite posh in my best suit. I will take any executive job," he said.

"But if need be, I will take on any job so long as my wife—after all she is Lady Wolseley—does not have to work."

Lady Lilian said her uncle, A. Ellison of Brantford, has paid their fare to Canada. They plan to stay with Ellison at first.

Wage Board Approves Four-Cent Increase

WASHINGTON, June 7 (AP)— The 18-man Wage Stabilization Board Wednesday night unanimously approved a four-cent hourly-wage increase for 35,000 General Motors workers. General Motors had announced in advance that the four-cent boost, called for annually in its five-year union contract, would be paid without advancing the price of passenger cars, trucks, tanks or other items which the corporation is producing.

It's such fun to experiment with the fruit-fresh flavors . . . to make delicious Jell-O desserts that add sparkle and color to meals. Any Man Could Cook — but so could Joan Brown of Ottawa — so they spent many a happy hour in the kitchen with their favourite recipes. And Ft. Lt. Hank Keane was just as dazzled by Joan's lovely complexion as by her cooking skill. It wasn't long before he asked Joan to be his beautiful bride. Yes, Joan knows a "beauty recipe", too! . . . daily facials with WOODBURY FACIAL SOAP — the soap with the beauty cream ingredient. The skin scientists who make Woodbury put a fabulous face-cream ingredient into every cake. It's a precious skin softener used in the very finest of face creams. So take a tip from a Woodbury-beautiful bride! Start Woodbury Facials today! (Woodbury is wonderful for beauty baths, too!)

He'll Love Leftovers when you "dress them up" with HEINZ CONDIMENTS! M-m-m-m! . . . whether you serve your meat hot or cold — remember the flavour-magic of Heinz Ketchup and Chili Sauce — Heinz 57 Sauce, Worcestershire Sauce and Mustard — cooked to taste-perfection by the Heinz chefs. You'll be thrilled, too, with the latest "masterpiece" of these popular chefs — HEINZ SWEET FRUIT SAUCE. A tantalising blend of sweet, plump raisins, apples, Heinz own "Aristocrat" tomatoes and other choice ingredients — all simmered together into a smooth, spicy sauce. Heinz Sweet Fruit Sauce has been taste-tested by 200 enthusiastic families and I know you'll agree it adds out-of-this-world flavour to meats and fish of all kinds!

Looks Like A Party . . . but it isn't extravagant — that's why I serve this deliciously cool dessert so often. Everybody loves a fresh lemon flavour — and there's nothing to compare with the full, juicy tang of SUNKIST CALIFORNIA LEMONS. The success of this recipe is due to Sunkist Lemons — it makes 1 quart for 6-8. Try it . . . you'll love it!

LEMON FROZEN CREAM

2 eggs, beaten until lemon-coloured.
1/2 c. sugar.
Add sugar gradually to egg until mixture becomes a thick custard-like consistency. Combine with:
1/2 c. light corn syrup
2 c. top milk (or 1 c. milk and 1 c. coffee cream)
1/4 c. Sunkist lemon juice
1 tsp. grated Sunkist lemon peel.
Freeze in refrigerator tray at lowest temperature until stiff. When frozen, remove to a bowl and whip until light and creamy. Return quickly to freezing tray. Finish freezing. This one stirring is all that is needed. Hold at middle control for serving.

William Dunford Celebrates 90th Birthday

LAKEFIELD, June 7 (ENS)—One of Lakefield's oldest residents, William John Dunford, is celebrating his 90th birthday today.

Mr. Dunford is still active, enjoys gardening, keeps his own lawn cut, and sprays and prunes his apple trees. He attributes his long life to the fact that he has always been temperate in all things.

Born on June 7, 1861, on a farm between Lakefield and Young's Point, he lived with his parents Richard Dunford and Mary Ann Harmlin until his marriage to Susan Margaret Ingram in 1886. Following the death of his first wife he married Margaret Maguire.

There are nine children of both marriages namely Oscar of Peterborough, Harry, Bruce, Wellie, Mrs. Wilbert Frankish (Celia) and Ora of Lakefield, Mrs. Oscar Reid (Susan) of Young's Point, and Russell of Long Branch. Another son Stanley died when young.

There are 29 grandchildren and 28 great-grandchildren. After his marriage Mr. Dunford farmed where the village of Wilberforce now is for 21 years. In these early years oxen were used by Mr. Dunford on the farm. The trip to Haliburton from Wilberforce a distance of 22 miles, necessitated rising at four o'clock in the morning and returning late at night. There was no doctor nearer.

Mr. Dunford helped to build the IB and O railroad when it was put through Wilberforce.

Later he movd to a farm two miles east of Lakefield, and retired to live in the village 23 years ago.

His beautifully kept lawns and gardens at his home on Chippewa St., where he lives with his wife and daughter Miss Ora Dunford, are an inspiration to his younger neighbors.

Directors Plan Fair Prize List

LAKEFIELD, June 7 (ENS).—The men directors of the Lakefield Agricultural Society held their organization meeting in Memorial Hall on June 5.

Secretary Howard Beavis was requested to procure "No Trespassing" signs to be erected at the fair grounds. This "no trespassing" is to be strictly enforced as considerable damage has been done, especially by school children.

It was decided to hold horse races at the fair.

A large exhibit of red and white cattle is expected to be at the fair on August 31 and September 1. The directors are trying to contact a midway.

WOMEN DIRECTORS

The women directors of the Lakefield Agricultural Society met at the home of Mrs. George Spence Wednesday evening to arrange the prize list in the ladies' section for the fair book.

Several new exhibits were added to the prize list, namely date and nut loaf, raisin bread, raspberry pie and pickles.

After some discussion it was decided that jewellery displayed must be made by the exhibitor.

The art for boys and girls was limited to age 16 and under.

School work was almost completely revised by the teachers and the new list was presented by Mrs. Alex Graham.

A brief report on the fair convention in Toronto in February which Mrs. C. Coons. Mrs. R. Doubt, Mr. R. Darling and Mr. J. Maloney attended, was given by Mrs. Doubt.

Committees were chosen as follows: Home Department, Mrs. C. Coons, Mrs. Roy Farrow; ladies' work and crafts, Mrs. George Spence, Mrs. George Carey, Mrs. Doubt; fine arts, Mrs. A. Graham and Mrs. W. Fife; plants and flowers, Mrs. S. A. Grylls, Mrs. Spence; children's work, Mrs. Fife, Mrs. Coons, Mrs. Grylls, Mrs. Graham.

Former Lakefield Girl Gets Top U.S. Nursing Post

LAKEFIELD, June 7 (ENS)—A Lakefield girl, Miss Elsie C. Ogilvie, left on Monday to accept the position as nursing consultant with the American Psychiatric Association, in Washington.

Miss Ogilvie is the first Canadian to hold this position. The appointment, just made known, is further recognition of the high place which Canadian nursing has attained in international nursing.

Miss Ogilvie, who is resigning as lecturer in psychiatric nursing in the McGill School for Graduate Nurses, has been on the staff at McGill since 1949.

A former school teacher, she took her nursing training in Toronto, where she graduated from Grace Hospital in 1919. She first did private duty nursing and then became a supervisor at Grace Hospital.

In 1927-28 she took the course in administration in schools of nursing at the McGill School for Graduate Nurses and then spent some months in the Rockefeller Institute, New York City.

She was assistant director of nursing at the Neurological Institute, Columbia Presbyterian Medical Centre, New York, for seven years and then served as director of nursing at the Institute of Living, Hartford County, until 1945.

She returned to Canada to serve with the Mental Health Division of the Department of National Health and Welfare, Ottawa, making a nursing survey of mental hospitals in the Dominion. Her next appointment was at McGill.

Miss Ogilvie spent the weekend at her home here with her sister Miss G. Ogilvie before leaving for Washington.

Mrs. M. Martin Leaves Staff Of Public School

LAKEFIELD, June 7 (ENS)—The Public School Board met Monday evening for the June meeting.

Chairman Albert Buchanan presided. Chief item of business was the receiving of the resignation of Mrs. Mary Martin from the public school staff. Mrs. Martin in her letter said she had been offered a position in Hamilton, which in her own interests she felt she should accept.

Secretary Miss Grace Yonge was asked to send a letter of appreciation to Mrs. Martin and to advertise for a teacher.

Principal E. G. Sloan, in his report, said the janitor had asked if something could be done about putting a standard lock on all the doors in school, so he would not have to remain to lock up after late teachers. After some discussion Stan Richardson was autorized to have four locks made.

Dr. Reg Campbell was asked to find the cost of split doors for the girls basement.

The advisability of clearing out the showers and putting them into use for the fall term was discussed. Principal E. G. Sloan thought the janitor might object to the children taking showers after school as it would hold him back in his work.

One of the lady trustees brought forth the argument that since the showers were available, and with the village water system being as it is, there would be no better way of teaching hygiene and personel cleanliness than by allowing the children to take time out of school for a weekly shower. Discussion on this was held over for a future date.

Inspector K. O. Birkin's report was presented.

Mrs. A. Nelson, district chairman of No. 10 Peterborough, explained Home and School work and introduced Mrs. Clarence Coons, vice-president of Peterborough Home and School Council.

Mrs. Coons spoke briefly, explaining what Home and School Council is and outlined work done by Home and School Associations in the community.

Mrs. H. Welson, teacher of the lower grades, moved a vote of thanks to Mrs. Nelson and Mrs. Coones.

Mrs. William Whetung, president of the club, presided for the business session. Mrs. C. Coons, editor of the cookbook being put out by the club, announced that the cookbook is ready to go to press and the first edition will be ready for the next meeting.

Several covers were picked for the book. Mrs. Edison Foster read the scripture, and Miss Zelma Darling led in prayer. Two new members joined, Mrs. A. Newson, Mrs. K. Poole, and Mrs. Jerry Staples re-joined.

Lunch was served by Mrs. J. R. Hull, Mrs. C. C. Chittick, and Mrs G. Graham.

Lakefield WMS Plan Annual July Picnic

Mrs. J. R. Hull and Mrs. Harry Hill sang a duet entitled "Tell Us Merry Birds."

Mrs. P. H. Darling, president, was in charge of the business. Two large bales and $41.50 were raised and sent for Korean relief by the church and the WMS.

The group was invited to Mrs. W. W. Yule's cottage at Young's Point for the annual picnic in July.

Mrs. Elmer Milburn read two papers, one on the meaning of Easter and the other the life story of Dr. Margaret McKellar. The meeting concluded with prayer by Mrs. E. J. Millage.

Producer 19 To Make Mexican Films

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, June 7 (AP)—Honors for the youngest film producer on this continent probably go to Miguel Aleman, Jr., son of the president of Mexico.

Aleman, 19, was here for three days this week to talk to Hollywood film moguls about his new production company, which is being set up to make films in Mexico.

"I am not here to finalize anything," he told me. (This was despite reports that he had signed up Ann Sheridan and Joseph Cotten for his first picture.)

"The purpose of my visit is to talk to certain people and find out what kind of deals we will be able to make."

Miguel said this is his first venture in film making. "But I have been a movie fan all my life," he added. "I know everybody in the film colony in Mexico and they often come to me with their troubles.

"I have also visited Hollywood four or five times, so I am familiar with all the lots here."

Armed with Mexican capital, he has set up a production company designed to make films at a low cost. At least one of them will be from a script written by himself.

Talk of the Town

The breakup of the Clark Gables, surprising no one despite the repeated denials . . . The Janet Leigh-Tony Curtis nuptials, her third, his first . . . The big business hauled in by "The Great Caruso" . . .

M-G-M's announcement that it won't be cutting salaries "at this time." . . . The Sinatra split, and the speculation about what her divorce grounds will be.

Capsule Review

"The Hollywood Story" is a surprisingly good picture. It is a "whodunit," but an unusually original one. It deals with an old Hollywood scandal and a film maker who decides to make a picture about it. He encounters lots of odd characters and a good deal of danger. All this adds up to intriguing fare. Richard Conte is the sleuth.

Father, Child 2 Drown In Well

SARNIA, June 7.—George Fuller, 33, and his 2-year-old daughter Grace, drowned in a well on their farm on the Telfer sideroad Tuesday night.

The bodies were taken from the well Wednesday morning by Sarnia Township police and firemen. They had been discovered by Chief Hugh Peden after he was called to the farm by Mrs. Fuller.

Mrs. Fuller told police she had gone to a church function Tuesday night, taking an older daughter, Winnie, 7, with her. She left her husband to baby sit.

When she returned, her husband and baby were missing. She did not report it to police until Wednesday morning.

Chief Peden said he found a concrete block moved from the top of the 14-foot well. Probing in it he found the bodies in 12 feet of water.

Fuller, who has been in a depressed mood lately, worked at Polymer.

4 Held In Theft

EDMONTON, June 7—(CP)—Four men were arrested Wednesday in connection with theft of $28,000 worth of imported cloth—enough for 800 suits. The stolen cloth, from La Fleche Bros. Ltd. tailor shop in Edmonton, was found hidden in brush beside a road four miles outside of Edmonton. The four arrested were Ronald King, Wilfred Redico, William Huculak and Steve Lotoski.

Not Greatly Affected

LONDON, June 7 (Reuters).—Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell told the House of Commons Wednesday it would be "most unwise" to assume that the Communist army in Korea was permanently crippled by recent defeats. "There is no evidence that the Chinese manpower potential has been to any great extent affected" he said, although the Communists had suffered heavily.

Divorcing Rooney

LOS ANGELES, June 7 (AP).—The third wife of Mickey Rooney, actress Martha Vickers, will file suit for divorce in less than a week, her lawyer said Wednesday. She will charge cruelty. The film couple was married June 3, 1949, and separated several months ago. Rooney's former wives are actress Ava Gardner and Betty Jane Rase, mother of Rooney's two sons.

Commons Passes Changes On Excise and Sales Taxes

OTTAWA, June 7—(CP)—The Commons, amid objections from the opposition, has approved all the excise and sales-tax changes announced in the 1951-52 federal budget.

A bill authorizing the changes was given third reading and adopted Wednesday after a last-ditch attempt was made to block passage of a 25-per-cent increase in the general sales tax.

Members voted 138 to 50 against a CCF proposal that the government reconsider the increase in the sales tax to 10 per cent from eight. The increase is expected to produce an additional $125,000,000 in revenue a year.

The measure, providing as well for increases in the excise tax on motor cars, electrical appliances and a list of luxury and semi-luxury goods, now goes to the predominantly Liberal Senate. All the taxes have been in effect since the budget was brought down April 10, but the legislation is needed to give them legal effect.

Lists Arguments

In moving his motion for reconsideration of the sales-tax increase, M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, reiterated some of the arguments advanced since the budget was introduced. He said the sales tax will boost an already high cost of living and will discriminate against those who can least bear the burden.

His motion was supported by the Progressive Conservative and Social Credit parties and by three independents — J. L. Gibson (Comox-Alberni); P. E. Gagnon (Chicoutimi); and Dr. Raoul Poulin. The Liberals voted solidly against it.

J. M. McDonnell (PC, Toronto Greenwood) said his party's arguments against the sales-tax increase have been strengthened with time.

George Hees (PC, Toronto Broadview) said Finance Minister Abbott preferred the sales-tax increase to a hoist in the income tax because the retailer will be blamed for any rise in prices resulting from the sales tax.

Need Revenue

John Sinnott (L, Springfield) and George Cruickshank (L, Fraser Valley) said there were things in the taxation proposals which they did not like. But they said they realized the government needs additional revenue to meet additional defence expenditures.

Argument on the taxation measure highlighted the brief mid-week sitting.

Members gave third reading to a bill overhauling Canada's weights nd measures legislation for the first time since 1873. A major provision tightens up regulations against short weight in pre-packaged goods. It also has regulations for ensuring greater accuracy in measuring devices.

Also adopted was a government measure giving the provinces leeway in establishnig the juvenile age in connection with court cases.

Eggs $24 Dozen

TORONTO, June 7 (CP).—Eggs at $24 a dozen? O. P. Johnston, suburban Toronto chicken farmer, sells them for that. People buy them too—in both the United States and Canada. The eggs are blue. They're laid by Araucana hens on Mr. Johnston's farm. He has 100 of the rare birds which are native to South America.

"WYLIE FOLD"—W. D. Wylie, RIGHT, Social Credit member of Parliament for Medicine Hat, Alta., developed this peek-proof method of folding election ballots. Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay, LEFT, liked it so much he decided to use it for future elections. The new fold, with the ballot folded in three instead of quarters, is aimed at beating the curiosity of polling-booth attendants. Members of the Commons Election Committee promptly dubbed it the "Wylie Fold."

Swimming Allowed Little Lake

Ban Removed After 17 Years By Medical Officer

Little Lake is no longer condemned for swimming for the first time in more than 17 years. Dr. R. A. Kelly, MOH, announced today that from a health standpoint swimming will be permitted in all parts of Little Lake except at the George St. wharf.

The lake has been condemned for swimming ever since a permanent MOH has been employed by the city—1934—and possibly before then.

The sanction for swimming this year has resulted from the transferring of sewage from East City into the main sewer which leads into the sewage treatment plant at the south end of Park St. Previously this sewage went into Little Lake, after passing through a septic tank.

The George St. wharf remains condemned because there is a backwash in this part of the lake and the current is slow.

All parts of the river and the canal above Little Lake have also been approved for swimming, but reports have not come back from the municipal laboratory regarding swimming below the lake.

Water from the lake will be taken periodically for tests during the summer to insure its safety, and the public notified if there is any change, Dr. Kelly explained.

PUC Gets $15,958

Utilities Commission has received a cheque for $15,958 from Hartford Insurance Co., covering the claim for damage by fire in the Aylmer St. substation last Nov. 29. Cause was believed to have been in a short circuit spreading to the south end of the switchboard through some of its big panels. Those were days of earlier twilight, and most of the city was in darkness until Utilities, Hydro and other workmen fixed up temporary replacement.

People Expect Too Much Judge Warns

Judge J. A. McGibbon of Lindsay, presiding at the Peterborough court of general sessions, today said he thought Canada was drifting unconsciously into a socialized state.

Judge McGibbon is presiding here because of the absence from the bench, due to illness, of Judge S. L. Smoke.

In his charge to the grand jury he took a dim view of pensions, pondered gloomily on the future of the world if this sort of thing continued, and said people today expect too much.

"Just three days ago there was an announcement in the press that a special session of parliament was being called in order to grant pensions: $40 a month to all persons over a certain age. . . I often think we are drifting into a socialized state."

Private Enterprise

When a youth, he recalled, there was no state paternalism. Private enterprise was the order of the day.

"One wonders just exactly what kind of people we are going to be raising in the world, 25-30 years hence," remarked the judge.

"These days people expect too much, in my opinion, and for the least possible effort. In the final analysis somebody has to pay all these costs. And that somebody is you and I."

His charge brought in a favorable reference to the Festival of Britain and an accolade to Sir Christopher Wren for his design of St. Paul's cathedral.

He also spoke of the rapid growth of Canada, and said that the expansion of Peterborough was typical of development all across the dominion.

Grand Jury

The grand jury then retired to bring in either a "true" or "no" bill against four men arraigned on criminal charges.

Jack Allen Cockerill, Holloway Drive, has been committed on a charge of stealing 120 bronze ingots from the DeLeval Co., valued at $750.

Francis Spring, 66, Prince St., is charged with dangerous driving as a result of an accident at Rink and Aylmer Sts. His car struck Marguerite Beatty, 19, Rink St., and Miss Beatty later died.

Hugh Imming, formerly of Peterborough, and Francis Sabotka, Oshawa, are both charged with forgery.

The court adjourned until 10 a.m. Friday. Meanwhile the grand jury is hearing the four cases.

Monday night there will be a public meeting in the Brock Street Summer Gardens at 8 p.m. Mr. Carey and Mr. Conroy will again be the principal speakers.

Nearly 200 CCL union members are expected to take advantage of the institute, sponsored jointly by the CCL and the Peterborough and District Labor Council. It is estimated there are 4,000 CCL union members working in Peterborough.

John D. Hooper To Be Organist In Perth Church

John D. Hooper, Frederick Ave., director of the Coventry Singers of Peterborough has accepted the position of organist and choirmaster of St. James Anglican Church, Perth, where he will take up his duties the first of July.

Hitherto Mr. Hooper has followed music as an avocation; his decision to devote his whole time to the study and profession of music entails his resignation from the management of the family firm of Hooper's Confectioners and Caterers, as well as his removal from the musical life of Peterborough in which he has taken a leading part since his return to his native city in 1946 after five years with the RCAF. As well as being conductor of the Coventry Singers he is a director of the Peterborough Community Concerts Association.

Musical Studies

Coming from a well-known and musical family—he is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Hooper—he has developed his musical capacities through local tuition and private study. He has studied organ in Halifax at the Maritime Academy, under Professor H. Dean. He is an Associate in Music of McGill University.

JOHN D. HOOPER

He organized the small acapella choir, the Coventry Singers, who in three years have won highest honors in musical festivals in Peterborough and Toronto, have been acclaimed for their annual series of broadcasts, and have given selected concert performances of English madrigals and other gems of secular and ecclesiastical choral work. The first known Canadian public performance of Purcell's "Masque in Dioclesian" was given by the Coventry Singers last December, under Mr. Hooper's direction. Numerous items of their repertoire are arrangements which the conductor himself has made.

Mr. Hooper expects to find Perth a convenient centre to continue, at an intensified rate and free of business and accountancy employment, advanced musical studies.

Overseas he served as a pilot with the rank of Flight Lieutenant and he was for a time instructor at the MacLeod (Alberta) base. His wife Bette is Regent of the Major Bennett Chapter IODE. They have two children: Shaaron, 8, and son Jay, 2½. A brother, Alan G. Hooper was ordained a deacon in the Church of England two weeks ago by the Bishop of Edmonton.

Second From Peterborough

Mr. Hooper will be the second Peterborough musician to preside at the console of St. James Perth. The late R. J. Devey, for many years organist of St. John's and Knox Churches of this city was at St. James for more than fifteen years before his retirement.

St. James is the only Anglican church in Perth and is considered to be one of the most beautiful appointed in the province.

Millbrook Fair Opens In Style

MILLBROOK, June 7. (ENS)—Young Millbrook with their elders close behind swarmed out in full force Wednesday for the annual Millbrook Agricultural Society Fair. The children had been given a full holiday—their second in a week—and they made the most of it. Some of them were on the grounds ear ly in the morning watching the animals being unloaded from trucks and seeing farm machinery and refreshment booths being set up. The promised free ride on the merry-go-round, offered by the men setting up, to keep children out of the way until it was ready to use, merely whetted their appetites for more.

They were back again as soon as the fair opened after lunch, expressing much sympathy for their older brothers and sisters in the high school who spent the morning in class, and who had to pay to get in in the afternoon.

Tried Everything

Penny banks had been raided to supplement the spending money given them by older members of the family and they were ready to revel in cracker jack, hot dogs, pop and ice cream sandwiches and to try their luck at the various games.

In the judging ring, horses stole the show, but there were more entries in the cattle classes than last year. The exhibits were about the same. Officials in charge were happy. They had an ideal day, sunny but not too hot.

Both the entry list and the crowds were bigger than ever, they judged.

Junior Farmers

Two new classes added this year to arouse the interest of the junior farmers were the beef calf club competition for which competitors must not be over 16 by fair dates, and a tractor rodeo.

For youthful exhibitors, there was also the junior Jersey club

Rev. H. J. Scuse Inducted At St. George's

Some 175 parishioners Wednesday night filled St. George's Anglican Church to overflowing as the Rev Harvey James Scuse, BA, LTh, was inducted as the new rector. He succeeds the Rev. E. C. Moore, who retired earlier this year.

The institution and induction were by the Rt. Rev. Alton Ray Beverley, DD, Bishop of the Toronto diocese. It was the second induction service by Bishop Beverley in as many days. Tuesday night the keys of All Saints' Church were handed to the Rev. M. P. Poole, new rector of All Saints".

Last records show that St. George's has 300 families on its parish roll, but there is believed to be many more families now living within the parish which is located in the fast-growing south end. In addition there is the St. Alban's Mission, regularly attended by 60 Anglican worshippers.

In an informal reception after the service, Bishop Beverley congratulated the parishioners for their repainting of the church and rectory. And he gave his blessing to their major project: the building of a new $100,000 church.

Blueprints for the new church have already been drawn up.

Turned Away

The church was filled long before the induction service began, and extra chairs had to be brought in to accommodate the congregation. Many people had to be turned away.

St. George's choir was swelled to 50 voices with the addition of choristers from St. Alban's.

The lengthy procession formed up on the lawn and was led by Wayne Ferguson, crucifer. The service was under the direction of Bishop Beverley, and opening prayers were read by the Rev. P. G. Powell, inter-regnum rector of the church.

The Very Rev. R. T. Briarly Browne, DD, Dean of the Ontario diocese, delivered the sermon. His theme was the continuity of the church.

"Present life is part of the life eternal," he said. Each church member is bound to the church through the sacraments of baptism, confirmation, holy matrimony.

Ceremony

The declarations and oaths, as set out in the Book of Common Prayer, were read by the new rector. And the reading of the Letters of Institution and Licence were by the Rev. Walter J. Gilling, rural dean.

Keys of the church were presented by the two wardens, Walter Bannon and Clarence Harloff.

The Ven. Archdeacon W. P. Robertson took the perambulations to the prayer desk, font, lectern and pulpit. At each station admonitions were read. Bishop Beverley delivered the admonition at the altar and the admonition to the people.

Among attending clergy were the Rev. Henry E. Peasgood, Norwood; the Rev. John Purser, St. John's; the Rev. L. J. Delaney, Lakefield; the Rev. George Nicholson, Blackstock; the Rev. M. P. Poole, All Saints'; and the Rev. P. G. Powell, inter-regnum rector.

Visitors

Among the visitors were a number of wardens and their wives from Mr. Scuse's previous parishes.

Mrs. Barloff and Mrs. Bannon, wives of the churchwardens, poured tea at the reception.

Mr. Skuce graduated from Trinity College in 1944. He has been six years in the active ministry: a year at St. John's Norway, Toronto; four years in Kingston, and two years in Cannington, Beaverton and Sunderland.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

GETTING WARM

One of the surer signs of the permanency of warm weather could be seen on city streets this week. City policemen have doffed their dark tunics in favor of lighter, cooler shirtsleeves.

ELECTED CHAIRMAN

The executive of Central Ontario Industrial Accident Association Wednesday evening elected H. M. Burley of Belleville, chairman of the district.

William Fitches, Oshawa, was elected vice-chairman.

STEEL TAKEN FROM LEG

Arthur Bauer, 53, Toronto, was treated at Civic Hospital Wednesday when he came in with a piece of steel embedded in his left leg between the knee and the ankle. The steel splinter was from a chisel that shattered when he was working with it. He left after treatment.

HIT POLE

Turning too wide at Park Hill Rd. and Fairburn Sts., a car driven by Marion Phillips, 509 Wolsley St., hit a telephone pole at the northeast corner of the intersection. The front of the car was damaged and the pole slightly damaged.

GUNS TO PICTON

Two of the three 3.7 inch anti-aircraft guns belonging to the 50th HAA Regiment, RCA, have been sent to Picton where they will be used at the summer camps. This is the fourth time in recent years the guns have been borrowed for the summer training there.

SWIM AT OWN RISK

Until the weather turns warmer, said Alex Sinclair, recreation director, today, no lifeguards will be on duty at the Inverlea park beach. There will be no supervision at Riverside.

PLAYGROUND EQUIPMENT OUT

Swings, teeters and slides are being placed in the various parks and city lots this week by the parks department under Armar Butcher. Most of the equipment has been made during the past few years by the department's men.

Outside Aid Boosts Mayor's Fund

Theatre Managers Turn In Cheque $1,010 On Concert

The scope of the appeal of the Mayor's Fire Fund, moving up to $45,000 this morning, was indicated by two items from the district, typical of many others already counted: Ladies Aid of Centreville Presbyterian Church $25, and the boys of Lakefield Preparatory School $25.

Apparently the momentum of sympathy behind the Fund was thrusting it onward to the $50,000. That is an estimate of W. R. Wallace, assistant treasurer.

Peterborough Theatre Managers Association turned in a cheque today for $1,010, gross proceeds of the program at the Odeon Theatre last Sunday night. All the services were given free, and it was reported that those who came from Toronto to participate and help even paid for costs of transportation and incidentals.

The amount of the fund announced by Mr. Wallace today was $44,254.33.

CALEDONIA, June 7 (CP). — Three men from Hamilton were drowned Wednesday night in the Grand River, three miles upstream from here, when the boat from which they were fishing overturned.

One other Hamilton man, Wilfred E. Harwood, survived by swimming several hundred feet to shore.

Harwood, who pulled himself out of the river exhausted about 9 p.m. and flagged a passing motorist, could definitely identify only one of the victims, Adam Peters. He said one of the other men was called Curly and the other was named Lafortune.

Welland Police Repay With Gift To Mayor's Fund

"The delegates of Welland County Police Association who attended the Ontario Police Association convention two years ago in your wonderful city haven't forgotten the hospitality Peterborough gave them."

This is quoted from a letter by Joseph Ross, secretary-treasurer of the Welland Association, enclosing $25 for the Mayor's Fire Fund.

"Please accept the heartful sympathy of all the members of Welland County Police Association in the loss of the three firemen and their volunteer helper who died in your disastrous fire."

Mrs. C. E. Armstrong of Lindsay, secretary of the Ladies Auxiliary of Lindsay branch of the Canadian Legion, sent five dollars "hoping this small contribution will help your campaign."

Crown Paints Co., Montreal, wrote: "The misfortune suffered by some of the citizens of Peterborough has just been drawn to our attention. We would like to be a little helpful by making a contribution for the benefit or relief of the families of the victims." The company sent $5.

The contribution of Weston Volunteer Fire Brigade was $50.15, announced today. H. J. Ackrow, secretary, wrote: "It is with deepest regret that we learned of the serious loss to the city of Peterborough. The loss of property is disastrous, but the loss of the firemen and their helper is something that cannot be replaced. I wish you to accept this cheque in token of our deepest sympathy to the bereaved."

Welland City Police Athletic Association enclosed a cheque for $25 as an expression of their sympathy. Walter Stevenson, secretary, added this note: "We also wish to extend our congratulations in organizing the Mayor's Fire Fund, and we hope it will surpass your expectations of donations."

Subscribers will also appreciate the sentiment of this letter.

"Falling Brook Pavilion, Toronto: Dear Sir: Please except my donation of $10 to help in a small way with your splendid work. My best wishes that your drive is a great success. Yours: R. W. Clements, Life Saver at Scarborough, Toronto."

That is quoted just as written for the reflection of a quality of heart and sympathy which the purpose of and the response to the Mayor's Fire Fund has been so gratefully indicative in the announcements of its progress.

Mrs. George Bullied of Coe Hill RR 1, mailed the letter and contribution of five dollars from the ladies of Lasswade Community Club in the northeast section of the county.

The ten dollars from the KEO Club of Lakehurst, Harvey township, was sent by the secretary, Donna Flynn.

Mountie Cheers Seriously Ill Indian Youth

EDMONTON —(CP)— Eleven-year-old Danny Gladeau of Grande Prairie Alta., had to travel to Montreal and become seriously ill before he saw an RCMP constable in full-dress uniform.

Danny had seen lots of RCMP constables in workaday dress on his Indian father's traplines before that.

The boy, deaf son of John Gladeau, was sent to the MacKay school for the deaf in Montreal three years ago by the Alberta education department. Last winter it was discovered he had a tumor behind one eye which forced removal of the diseased organ to give him partial sight.

While seriously ill the boy made his one request, to see a mountie in scarlet trappings. Constable James Archer, who instructs the MacKay school students in Boy Scout and Wolf Cub work, was only too pleased to comply, tunic and all.

President Ill

Due to the illness of the retiring president,, Mrs. L. R. Green, the chair was taken at morning and afternoon sessions by the retiring vice-president Mrs. S. R. Beatty. About 164 members were present from the 12 branches represented. Following their registration and opening excercises the hostess branch welcomed them on whose behalf Moira branch replied.

Community singing led by the Marmora branch followed.

Miss N. Creke, representative of the Department of Agriculture, led in a discussion of the standing committee's reports. Mrs. Beatty then made remarks relative to the welfare of the Institute followed by a report by Mrs. James Black of Campbellford, representative of the Federation Board.

The session adjourned for dinner served by three northern branches — Paudash, McArthur's Mills and Carlow.

Afternoon Session

The afternoon session opened with community singing led by Madoc branch and the taking of the roll call.

Following an address by the guest speaker, Miss Creyke, a discussion was held on the co-operative program. Next came a musical contribution by the hostess branch.

An address was heard on girls' work by Miss Irvin.

Wellman's Corners branch, through a member, contributed a reading. Mrs. Clifford Clancy, representative of the Federation of Agriculture for North Hastings district had some interesting points to bring out in her address.

The slate of officers submitted by Mrs. C. Blackburn of Eldorado received approval and were declared elected. The president-elect thanked the members for her election and said that she hoped that with the co-operation that could be expected, the work of the district would flourish in the year ahead.

Mrs. N. R. Broad reported for the courtesy committee extending thanks to all who had contributed in the success of this year's annual. It was decided to hold the next annual meeting in Marmora. As the session closed, an exchange of branch programs was effected.

Food Prices Drop

NEW YORK, June 7 (AP). — Wholesale food prices, as measured by the Dun and Bradstreet index, this week posted the sharpest decline in eight months. The index dropped to $7.08 from $7.16 last week, and was 18 per cent above the year-age level of $6. The index represents the total cost at wholesale of one pound each of 31 foods in general use.

HoboKingMakes Pithy Comments On Passing Show

VANCOUVER — (CP) — Hobo King Jeff Davis blew into town recently on the Great Northern Railway, but this time he travelled first class.

He made some comments on the passing parade.

Wearing $20 shoes and a magnificent hand-painted tie, the accredited leader of 1,00,000 hobos came to cast a professional eye on the state of Canadian hoboes.

He finds a sad situation—instead of hitting the rods, he learned they are hitch-hiking now.

It used to be that the hitch-hiker occasionally robbed the motorist, Davis said, but nowadays the motorist robs the hitch-hiker—which makes things tough for the highway tramps.

Bald on top, but sporting distinguished grey sideburns, Davis, now 68, reviewed the province's drinking situation.

"Nearly all the trouble in the world," he said, "is caused by women in bars. The saloon is a man's place. The atmosphere is lost when mother hangs around the spitoons."

Sells Razor Blades

In his home town of Cincinnati, Jeff Davis keeps up the $16-a-month rent on his house by selling razor blades. He also gets a small salary and an expense account from Hoboes of America, Inc., with 4,000 dues-paying members.

He gets, he said, $500-a-year salary and $500 a year expenses, and two weeks' vacation without pay.

He has made six trips around the world and has tallied up some 3,000,000 miles of travelling. He figures he's travelled—by rods, and later with his expense account, first class—more than just about anybody.

Among the wad of clippings and adventurers' club cards he carries with him is a gold-plated railroad spike presented to him by the Association of American Railroads.

"Casey Jones' widow was the only other person to get one," he said.

People keep asking him when he's going to settle down.

"God knows," he said. "when am I going to settle up?"

Name New Officers To ArmoredRegiments

OTTAWA, June 7 —(CP)— Appointment of new commanding officers to Canada's two famous active force armored regiments, the Royal Canadian Dragoons and Lord Strathcona's Horse, was announced today by the Defence Department.

Lt.-Col. John Ford Merner, 33, of Toronto will command the Royal Canadian Dragoons and Lt.-Col. Desmond N. D. Deane-Freeman, 35, of Calgary will command Lord Strathcona's Horse.

Lt.-Col. Merner recently was named commanding officer of Lord Strathcona's Horse but now is reposted to command his former regiment. Previously he had been at army headquarters.

During the Second World War he served with the 7th and 8th Reconnaissance Regiments in northwest Europe.

Lt.-Col. Deane-Freeman joined the Strathconas following graduation from Royal Military College in 1938. He served with the unit overseas, and also on the staff of headquarters 2nd Canadian Armored Brigade.

Owner Holds Out For $20,000 For Lot

Trinidad Leaseholds (Canada) Ltd. have the council's approval of their service station project at the northeast corner of George and Perry Streets.

Company informed the council that Cecil W. Stark, 56 George St., owner of the lot to the north of the corner property, "still requested previous purchase price", which mean that he was holding out for $20,000 as intimated to the council in its recent attention to the Stark objections to the company permit.

The action of the council is shown in this clause from the board of works report read Tuesday by the chairman, Ald. J. E. Gillespie: "That the recommendation of the city planning board that a service station be permitted at the northeast, corner of Perry and George Streets be accepted."

Seeking To Solve Glacier Mystery

NEW YORK, June 7 (CP)— A party of Canadian and United States scientists will seek this summer to solve the age-old mystery of glacier flow.

An expedition under auspices of the Arctic Institute of North America plans to make the studies on the Seward-Malaspina glacier system on the Alaskan-Yukon border. Dr. Alan Bruce-Robertson of the Toronto General Hospital will be a member of the expedition.

Walter A. Wood, director of the New York office of the institute, announced the plan today before leaving by plane for Yakutat, Alaska, where the expedition will assemble.

He said it is planned to sink a drill hole 2,000 feet into the Malaspina glacier to test the mechanism of the ice flowage within the ice sheet.

Uphold Expelling Of Two Communists

ASBURY PARK, NJ, June 7— (AP). — The International Executive Council of the Textile Workers Union (CIO) Wednesday upheld the action of a Cumberland, Md., local in expelling two admitted Communists from membership. But the council reversed the action of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, in the case of a third man who had been ousted for allegedly "associating and collaborating" with Communists.

MARY MOORE SAYS:

Find Downy Cocoanut Cake Makes Superlative Dessert

It melts in your mouth. It is snowy white. The cake part is easy. The cocoanut part is well worth the trouble. The whole thing adds up to and makes a superlative dessert with fresh strawberries.

Downy Cocoanut Cake

I am guessing that this one will be a recipe you will use, then lose, then write to me saying "Please Mary Moore would you mind repeating. . ."

After all that build-up have you begun to suspect that this is a honey?

Three eggs, yolks and whites separated into two bowls—the yolks in the larger bowl, 1½ cups cake flour sifted, 1 teaspoon baking powder, ¾ cup cold water, 1¼ cups granulated sugar—fine sugar is preferable, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla. Beat the egg whites until nearly stiff. Without washing or wiping off the beater transfer it to the bowl of yolks, add the cold water and beat until it will not expand any higher—it amounts to about 1 quart. This expansion of yolks and water when beaten is quite surprising. Begin to add the sugar to the yolk mixture in one-third portions. Sift together the sifted flour and baking powder and salt and sift about one-quarter of them at a time over the yolk-sugar mixture until all is added. Fold in the beaten whites. Pour into ungreased tube pan (or very large oblong cake pan) and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. It shrinks slightly from sides of pan when baked. Let hang over cake rack until cold then ease it out of the pan by loosening it from sides of pan with your finger tips.

Butter Icing (for cocoanut cake): 3 or 4 tablespoons butter or margarine, about 2 cups icing sugar, about 3 tablespoons whole milk or cream. Cream the butter very well then gradually add the sifted icing sugar and cream, small amounts of each at a time as you beat. This must be rather soft—for cake is soft and icing must spread easily. Secondly if it is soft it holds the shredded cocoanut in place and prevents the cocoanut from drying out.

To Shred the Cocoanut: First wash the whole cocoanut and then puncture the three depressions at top with ice pick and drain out cocoanut milk into a wide-mouthed glass. (Drink the juice—this gives you strength to grate the cocoanut). Lacking a place to give the cocoanut a crack with the back of an axe—drop it on the basement floor. It will shatter in a dozen pieces which you have to collect—but that's all in the fun. Now settle down to pare off the brown inner skin—every last scrap of it. Throw these away and carefully wash the pieces of white cocoanut and dry them thoroughly. The kind of a grater you use is the same type as you would grate nutmeg on, only the next size larger. I say this because you cannot use a shredder for this—it must be grated. Grate on a large piece of wax paper. It is a slow job so do not be impatient. Use a fork to clean out the grater occasionally for it will clog.

Frost the cake with the above icing, covering it completely then pat and sprinkle the cocoanut over it, using a fork and a very light touch. Be sure no dark parts of the cocoanut creep in. This does not hurt at all to stand for a few hours or overnight uncovered—for it firms up the cocoanut and the icing and the cake and facilitates cutting when that delicious time arrives.

Old-Fashioned Banana Cake

Three-quarters cup margarine or butter, 1½ cups sugar, 2 bananas—medium-sized mashed, 2 eggs, 2 cups unsifted cake flour—but flour should be stirred with spoon before measuring, 1 teaspoon baking soda, ¼ teaspoon salt, ½ cup chopped dates, ½ cup coarsely chopped walnuts, ½ cup sour milk or buttermilk. Cream margarine or butter very well then cream in the sugar, then the mashed bananas, then the beaten eggs. Sift together the flour, baking soda and salt, and sift them over the batter and fold in—adding the sour milk alternately. Stir in the dates and nuts. Bake in square cake pan lined with buttered paper at 325 deg. Fahr. about 55 minutes. Frost with butter icing (see above) and sprinkle with finely chopped walnuts. This cake has flavor-plus.

Blind Actors Stage Variety Show

TORONTO —(CP)— Twenty members of an amateur theatre group recently delighted a Toronto audience with a two-hour variety show ranging from Shakespearian soliloquies to hillbilly courting, feuding and hog calling.

But the players have more in common than their love of the stage. All are blind.

They are members of the Canadian National Institute for the Blind. Six months ago they approached Mr. and Mrs. Sterndale Bennett of the Canadian Theatre School and asked them to conduct a class in voice expression. The variety show was the result.

The players encountered many problems in their first contact with the stage. The main one was tenseness. Then they had to memorize the stage and fix the position of the audience in relation to it. They had to know which way to throw their voices and to know the movements of every actor on the stage so that they wouldn't fall over each other.

Overcome Difficulties

The quality of the variety show proved they had overcome their difficulties. Seldom was there a miss in timing to remind the audience that the actors were sightless. But certain selections on the program took on a deeper meaning because of that fact.

Doris Goodfellow, playing Juliet brought added pathos to her plea, "If love be blind, it best agrees with night. Come gentle night, and give me my Romeo."

Mr. Bennett in training the group was puzzled after actors recalled their lines when they had missed a sentence.

"A sighted person conjures up a mental picture of the printed speech but these players had never seen a copy of their lines," Mr. Bennett said. "They had learned them from the Braille."

The answer when Mr. Bennett got it was simple and logical. The blind players were able to remember the feel of the Braille characters.
